FIELD TRIPS taken by parts counterwork students included a tour of Total Auto where Orren Bendickson (left), owner-manager, explained the layout of the store and talked about the steps in the distribution of parts from manufacturer to user including mass merchandizing operations. As one of the guest instructors for the two-week pilot program in parts counterwork, Bendickson also presented information on the psychology of sales, outlining the various reasons consumers choose a certain product. Pictured with Bendickson are (left to right) Tom Budezewski, Strandquist; Roger Rivera, auto body instructor at the Northwest vocational center which sponsored the program; and Tim Storeby, Strandquist.

Legislators Day Set At Winter Shows

Legislative delegations from the House of Representatives and Senate, led by the Rep. Tony Stadum and the Sen. Roger Moe, both of Ada, will visit the winter shows February 22. They will arrive about 10:30 a.m.

Board members will tour the show with legislator guests. Entire group will gather at the King Agassiz coronation and hall of fame ceremonies where they will be introduced by the local legislators.

Legislators day shares the spotlight with the King Agassiz coronation ceremonies. Honorable Arlan Stangeland, congressman, will deliver the address. Two new names will be added to the hall of fame which honors citizen leaders who have given extended meritorious service to the near 70-year-old Red River Valley winter shows.

Craft Booths Available At Winter Shows

Red River Valley winter shows craft show, scheduled for February 16-19, has approximately 10 booths still available for rent. According to women's division chairman, Sandy Peterson, a large variety of interesting crafts have been selected for demonstration. Many items will be for sale.

Included in the group will be ceramics, willow baskets and beadwork, porcelain jewelry, macrame, rosemaling, tole painting, antiques and collectibles, wooden silhouettes, lapidary art, knitting, original wood creations, stuffed dolls and animals, refrigerator decorations, leather work, knitted work, redwood signs, handmade jewelry and many other items. Call Sandy Peterson, 281-2265, if you are interested in reserving a booth for your own creative ideas.

Daily general admission to winter shows events is $2 per ticket. A season pass for $8 can be obtained by calling the winter shows office, 281-2900.

Dinner To Be Held Honoring King Candidates

Newly formed King Agassiz association has scheduled a dinner for 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 21, at the Best Western motel at Crookston. Chuck Rongen, former King Agassiz candidate from west Polk county is in charge of arrangements.

The King Agassiz association is a new organization including all of the king candidates from the 14-county area in northwestern Minnesota. They have organized for the purpose of providing ideas and useful assistance to the cause of the Red River Valley winter shows and for the improvement of the agricultural industry in the Red River basin.

All county candidates and former kings and their wives are especially encouraged to be at the winter shows on February 21 and stay for the evening dinner.

ASCS Offers Measurement Of Crop Acres

To avoid unnecessary worry about the loss of 1979 farm program benefits, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS) advises farmers to use premeasurement and other producer services.

"At the request of the producer, we will stake and measure acreages prior to crop planting time," states Harold Kalsnes, chairman of the Pennington county ASC committee. Producer services provided by ASCS include measurement of set-aside land, field or subdivisions to be planted, total cropland and land areas for other purposes.

"Fees vary, based on the type of service rendered," Kalsnes said. "The services are guaranteed for the program year in which they are taken. A fee of $15 is charged for the first field measured and $5 for each additional field.

According to Kalsnes, producers who take advantage of premeasurement are guaranteed the acreage in the areas measured. "This is important in helping them to plan which fields to plant and which to set aside," he said.

The ASCS official encourages farmers to use producer services to assure that they are in compliance and eligible for full 1979 farm program benefits, and to eliminate costly destruction of crops. To request the service, call or visit the local ASCS office in Thief River Falls.

Good And Bad News In State Cattle Survey

Both good news and bad news is reflected in the annual January 1 survey of Minnesota's cattle farming enterprise that generates over one third of this state's gross farm income, reports commissioner Mark W. Seetin.

Good news is that Minnesota's dairy farms are rebuilding herds, this state's cattle and calf inventory is only one per cent lower than a year ago compared to a five per cent national reduction, and the asset value of cattle and calves held for 1979 meat and milk production is the highest on record.

On the negative side is the estimate that Minnesota lost 2,000 cattle farming operations last year, equally split between dairy and beef farms, dropping the state to a new all-time low of 69,000 cattle farms. This during a year, commissioner Seetin noted, that brought livestock farmers one of the highest levels of prosperity in history.

Minnesota's January 1 count of 3,650,000 cattle and calves is valued at a record $1,697,250,000 or an estimated average of $465 per head. This is higher by over $661 million or 64 per cent more than the one per cent larger inventory a year ago.

During the last half of 1978 Minnesota dairy farmers increased their milk cow numbers by 25,000 to a January 1 total on the production line of 850,000, the same as one year earlier. In addition, the new inventory showed a 4,000 increase to 333,000 dairy heifers for herd replacement. Beef cows total 530,000 or a drop of 20,000 but replacement heifers held at 93,000.

Minnesota's 1978 calf crop is reported at 1,280,000. Although that is a drop of 110,000 or eight per cent below the 1977 calf crop, Minnesota moved up one notch to the 11th ranked calf producing state.

In other national rankings Minnesota repeated as the second leading state in dairy farms with 28,000, tied with Oklahoma for seventh in total cattle farms, is fourth in milk cows, 16th in beef farms, and 26th in beef cows.

BLESSING A CRUCIFIX at the request of the young boy in the photo, Bishop Victor Balke of Crookston visited St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls Tuesday as part of Catholic schools week. In addition to the classroom visits, Bishop Balke presided at a morning mass at which the students participated.

Lundin, Panek Receive 4-H Scholarships

Winners of the Pennington county 4-H scholarships are Jeri Lundin of the Happy Acres 4-H club and Debra Panek of the Mavie 4-H club. Both are 4-H graduates and students at Northland community college. Jeri is planning on going into the home economics field and Deb into elementary education.

Heri was a 10-year 4-H member doing her main project work in foods, clothing, home environment, photography and junior leadership. She won eight state fair trips in clothing, dress revue and share-the-fun.

Deb was a nine-year 4-H member doing her main project work in foods, poultry, rabbits, gardening, child care and junior leadership. She has won state fair trips in rabbit, poultry, indoor gardening and share-the-fun competition.

"Wait Until Dark" Is UMC Winter Play

"Wait Until Dark" will be the winter quarter offering by the trojan players at the university of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC). The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 10 and 11, in Kiehle auditorium.

John T. Thompson, a senior from the university of North Dakota majoring in the theatre arts, will direct the production. The diverse cast of eight characters includes: Jerome Trapp Jr., Mahnomen; David St. Germain, Argyle; Mark Erickson, Clearbrook; Karleen Raihala, Floodwood; Allen Lund, Richville; Virginia Sullivan, Verndale; Pat Garry, Euclid; and Brenda Quanbeck, McVille.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Artist Display At Town And Country Event

In addition to an exhibit by local and area artists, the Red River Valley winter shows town and country art show, February 16-21 will feature a one-man watercolor show by Russell Norberg. His works will be on display Saturday and Sunday, February 17-18.

Norberg has had more than 35 one-man shows at universities, colleges and private institutions in the upper midwest and has exhibited and won prizes and awards in group shows on local, state and national levels.

A resident of Staples, he grew up in northwestern Minnesota and graduated from Oklee high school. He earned a B.S. degree from Bemidji state university, an M.A. degree in studio art from the university of Minnesota, Duluth and studied at the art center association school in Louisville, Ky.

Norberg has exhibited his works in a number of art fairs in Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin each year and has also had a number of paintings reproduced in various publications.

Local and area artists interested in exhibiting their work in the town and country art show can obtain an entry blank by calling Arleen Rude, chairman, at 281-6792 after 1 p.m.

Accept Works For Christmas Card Contest

Artists and photographers are invited to submit their work by March 15 for the 1979 Courage Christmas Cards competition. Paintings, drawings and photos, art by children, sculpture, stitchery, and other media will be considered for the project.

Income from the cards supports programs in recreation, education, rehabilitation and employment for people with physical handicaps and speech and hearing disabilities. These programs are operated by Courage Center, a United Way organization located in Golden Valley.

To enter the competition, artists should send or bring color slides or photos of their work, or the original work, to Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, MN. 55422, by March 15.

Artists lend the use of their work and benefit from the recognition that comes from wide distribution of the cards. Any theme will be considered, including traditional Christmas, religious, brotherhood, wildlife and nature, children, winter and rural scenes, Scandinavian and other cultural themes, Indian art, humorous or whimsical subjects or colorful designs with a holiday flair. Volunteer committee will choose the art and messages for the cards, which will be in full color.

BSU Brings Night Courses To TR Falls

Classes in English, criminal justice, psychology and more will be offered in northern Minnesota through Bemidji state university's office of area services.

In Thief River Falls, one course held will be Discipline and Humanism in the classroom, instructed by D. Walsh. The class will meet Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 10 p.m. beginning March 14 and run through April 2. It will be held in room 114 at the AVTI and equal a three credit class.

Philosophy of Vocational Education also will be introduced, meeting Friday evenings 6 to 10 p.m. and Saturday mornings 9-4 a.m. The class will run three consecutive weekends beginning March 9, under the instruction of O. Gunderson. It will meet at Lincoln high school room 123 and be the equivalent of three credits.

Registration may be completed at the first class session. For more information, contact area services, deputy hall, Bemidji state university, 755-2068 or 755-2851.

Holstein Ass'n. President Asks More Members

"Minnesota's Holstein dairy industry is really on the move these days," reports Minnesota Holstein association president Conrad Kvamme of Little Falls.

The state association is now in the midst of a vigorous membership campaign. Twenty-eight clubs in the state are striving to include all dairymen — owners of grade and registered herds — as members of the Holstein association. "Anyone who milks black and white cows should want to belong to the organization that serves their needs in so many capacities," stated Kvamme recently. "We have approximately 20 committees, comprised of dairymen throughout the state, that work hard to serve the dairy industry in such areas as milk marketing, livestock sales, youth activities, product promotion, program development, resolutions and more," explained Kvamme.

Staff of three state personnel now serves the membership in cattle sales, publications and advertising and other services.

"If we're to continue to be a vocal and organized force in the enhancement of the dairy industry and particularly Holstein cattle," Kvamme said, "we need 80 per cent of the Holstein breeders on our team, instead of the current 20 per cent."

MTA Research Director To Work For State

Minnesota Taxpayers association has lost a research director, but the state has gained a new revenue commissioner, according to Edwin C. Kraus, president of the MTA. Clyde E. Allen Jr. was recently appointed by Governor Al Quie to head the state's department of revenue.

Allen has already assumed his duties as the state's top ranking tax official. As commissioner, Allen heads up a department employing over 800, and monitors all facets of tax revenue collection in the state.

Stated principal objective of the department of revenue is the equitable administration of the state's tax laws. As research director for the Minnesota Taxpayers association, Allen promoted this same equity in taxation through his research and educational efforts. With 18 years of computer experience with Honeywell, Inc., Allen brought to the association the expertise needed to pioneer MTA's automatic data processing programs. "We now have a computerized check on revenue forecasting and tax impact analysis, which will be perpetuated," Kraus said. "Allen's appointment is actually a notable compliment to the MTA. Quie administration recognizes the association as a reliable and valuable source for tax and expenditure data," Kraus added.

Allen's predecessor, Ted Miller, was also swept up by the then DFL controlled administration. His agility with budget figures was, and still is, needed at the state level.

Allen is a 1957 graduate of Yale university with a degree in political science. A former Bloomington City councilman, Allen is active in civic affairs. He is a past president of the Association of Metropolitan Municipalities and a former board member of the League of Minnesota Municipalities. He also has served on advisory committees to the Metropolitan council and the Metro Transit commissions.

Railways Move Greater Grain Volumes In MN.

Railroads serving Minnesota's metropolitan and Duluth terminal grain elevators provided nearly 15 per cent more cars and moved over 11 per cent greater volume of grain and oilseeds in 1978 than in 1977, agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin reported today.

"This indicates that the railroads have made a positive response in an attempt to cope with the state and national export sales demand. However, the shortage of rail cars continues to be of national concern," commissioner Seetin commented.

According to preliminary annual summaries of grain and oilseed traffic reported by the Minneapolis grain exchange transportation department, Minnesota's terminal elevators last year received and dispatched a total of 149,301 rail cars loaded with wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, soybeans and flaxseed. That was higher by 19,273 cars than the 1977 total of 130,028 cars. Duluth accounted for 53 per cent of the 1978 rail grain cars. In 1977 the metro area had 57 per cent of the rail cars moving crops.

Rail shipments in and out of Minnesota's terminal elevators last year totaled over 437.7 million bushels, almost 44.5 million bushels above the 1977 rail volume totaling 393.2 million bushels.

Seventy-five per cent of the rail car service provided Minnesota was for delivery of out-state and regional grain and oilseeds to terminal elevators. Only 25 per cent of the overall rail car volume was used to export grain and oilseeds from Minnesota terminal elevators to domestic processors or to seacoast ports for export.

Total rail movement of grain and oilseeds in and out of metro area terminal elevators was down last year by six per cent in number of rail cars, down by nine per cent on total volume of crops. Duluth elevators showed a 43 per cent increase in overall rail car service and 40 per cent increase in volume of grain and oilseeds moved by rail in and out of the port city.

Courage Center Asks Nominees For Awards

Courage Center is now accepting nominations for the sixteenth annual Phillips awards, to be presented May 16 to five outstanding men and women with physical handicaps. Deadline for submitting nominations is February 15.

The $500 cash awards are made possible by a gift from Rose and Jay Phillips of Minneapolis. Their purpose is to stimulate interest in employment of people with handicaps and recognize individuals who have overcome severe disabilities to become independent.

To be eligible for the award, nominees must be from the Upper Midwest, and must be financially and vocationally independent. They must have been continuously employed (or self-employed) during the past three years. Such qualities as leadership, character and attitudes as well as participation in community activities will be considered by the selection committee, comprised of physicians and rehabilitation professionals.

Application forms for submitting nominations are available from the public affairs director at Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, MN, 55422 (612) 588-0811.

While today's urban dweller certainly lives in a noisier environment than most persons residing in rural atmospheres, farmers also can encounter excessive sound levels such as the noise generated by machinery and power tools.

VA Dividend Administered On GI Policies

A record $10.33 million in dividends will be paid during 1979 to 91,789 veterans in Minnesota holding GI life insurance policies, the Veterans Administration said recently.

Morris Nooner, Jr., director of the VA Center at Fort Snelling, emphasized that no application is needed. Individual policyholders who have kept their GI insurance in force from either World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict will receive their payments automatically on the anniversary dates of their policies, he said.

The VA official said 76,352 state veterans holding current World War II GI insurance policies will receive dividends totaling $9.24 million, an average payment of $128. A total $538,000 in dividends will go to 2,055 World War I policyholders, an average of $256. The 13,382 Korean conflict veterans in Minnesota who kept their GI insurance policies in force will receive dividends totaling $548,000, an average payment of 148.

The $10.33 million dividend payout in Minnesota is part of a national record $485 million in 1979 dividends to over four million veterans whose policies are still in force. Individual amounts will vary from the average, Nooner explained, depending on the ytpe of policy, amount of insurance, age at issue or renewal, and the time the policy has been in force.

He said the 1979 GI insurance dividends, like other insurance dividends, are higher in recent years because the funds on deposit have been earning higher interest. Dividends on VA insurance policies represent a return of funds not needed to pay the cost of the insurance.

Benefiting most from the higher interest rates are those veterans who converted their insurance plans to permanent type policies rather than continuing the original term policies, Nooner said.

Juried Show For Artists Set For June

The 1979 juried show for Minnesota artists will be presented in June by the Minnetonka center of arts and education. This second annual show is open to all artists residing in Minnesota during 1979. Paintings in oil, acrylic or watercolor may be entered.

Advanced registration for entries must be postmarked no later than May 14. Deadline for receiving works at the center is May 30. Show will open on June 12 with a special reception.

For further information and an entry form, please write the Minnetonka Center of Arts and Education, P.O. Box 158, Crystal Bay, MN 55323, or call (612) 473-7361.

Seminar For Women Set At Winter Shows

Palmquist has been referred to as one of the most unusual policemen in the country. Known as the "Cop who won't cop out", he founded the Midwest Challenge program in April, 1972, to guide criminals and addicts into a rehabilitative direction. Midwest Challenge has over a 93 per cent cure rate with those they have worked.

Palmquist is the author of many books including "Miracle at City Hall", "Holy Smokies" and "The Real Centurions". He is a humorous speaker who also introduces his audience to the graphic reality of street life.

Also featured will be Gwen Peterson, author of "The Ranch Manual", a personal account written in a humorous Erma Bombeck approach to ranch and farm life.

Teacher Group Asks Repeal Of AVTI Tuition

Dr. Edward C. Bolstad, executive director of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers, called for removal of the state law which mandates a tuition charge for students who attend a public vocational-technical school in the state. With a surplus in the state's treasury, the legislature and the governor should consider eliminating tuition for vocational school students, he said.

Veterans, especially, received a setback when the legislature repealed the statute that provided them with free vocational education. That statute, passed in 1967, gave free tuition to veterans who entered the service prior to age 21.

Along with the St. Paul urban league and the commission of vocational and higher education, the MFT and its many vo-tech teacher members strongly urge repeal of the tuition charges.

"Minnesota has long had an enviable record of support for education, especially its top-quality vocational schools. Tuition charge is assuredly going to adversely affect that quality," Dr. Bolstad stated. "Our opposition to charging tuition is based on the following reasons:

"Education's availability in Minnesota has been predicated on the cost to the individual. Vo-tech students come from families with lower income levels than the state's other educational systems. Sixty per cent of the vocational students come from families earning less than $8,000 annually. Another nine per cent of the students had diagnosed physical handicaps. Tuition charges serve as a serious handicap to the ones who need education the most, the disadvantaged and the handicapped.

"Area vocational-technical institutes have been serving many low-ability students in a variety of short-duration courses. Employment results have been excellent but tuition charges will deter these students from taking the necessary training to upgrade their employability," Dr. Bolstad said.

"Administration of tuition programs results in more administrative cost for both the institutes and the state. Decreasing enrollments will also make it more expensive to provide training on a per-pupil-cost basis.

"Tuition charges have a negative effect upon other state programs such as welfare, MDTA, WIN, OEO and others which support students in vocational-technical institutes. Tuition charges only increase state and federal expenditures, thus losing the savings by tuition charges," he added.

"We think that the tuition charge is a penny-wise, pound-foolish type of economy. It is correctable however. We urge the repeal of the statute which created tuition charges for vocational-technical students."

"We sincerely hope Governor Quie will re-examine his budgetary suggestion of an additional $25 tuition charge and move to eliminate vocational education tuition entirely".

Seminars On Soils, Water At RRV Shows

Citizens up and down the Red River basin are becoming sensitive to the outlook for major natural resources of water and soil. A series of three natural resource seminars will deal with water and land.

The series will kickoff with a land use seminar on February 16, with registration at 9 a.m. in the auditorium of the ag research center, northwest experiment station. Purpose of this seminar is to provide local elected officials and interested citizens with a basic understanding of land use options, legislative authority, program responsibilities, planning techniques and sources of help for local government in managing growth and development. Presiding will be Phil Buckley of the natural resource department of the university of Minnesota, Crookston.

A water resource workshop gets underway on February 19 at 9 a.m. at the auditorium of the ag research center, with Don Ogaard of Ada presiding. The purpose of this session is to exchange experiences on where we are at local government levels.

County commissioners, city officials, watershed managers and SCS board managers are especially invited. Theme of this workshop is, "Water Management Responsibilities in the Red River basin: Where Are We and Who is Doing What?".

On the program will be local citizens who are members of county boards or watershed boards who will tell what they are now doing in water management.

The third resource seminar is scheduled for February 23, 9 a.m., auditorium of the ag research center, northwest experiment station. This seminar is built around the water quality concerns. Citizens from the agricultural community, local elected officials, and others who wish to improve their basic understanding of the 208 water quality management effort that is now going on, are especially invited. Northwestern Minnesota has had a good water quality management advisory committee which has been meeting regularly for quite some time. This committee is chaired by Irving Beyer, Red Lake Falls.

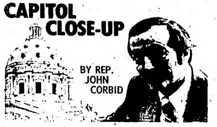
CAPITOL CLOSE-UP



BY REP. JOHN CORBID

Should public utilities be allowed to collect proposed rate increases before they are approved by the public service commission? That's one of the things we'll be looking at in the newly created House energy committee. I've been appointed the ranking member (the Democrat spokesman on this I-R chaired committee). I want to hear from all citizens concerned with solving our every problem.

This session, I will also serve on the appropriations committee, which determines expenditures of all state funds collected, and I'll hear a lot about banking and usury laws in my role on the financial institutions and insurance committee. We're finally getting down to legislative business, and I'd like to get those requests for local legislation in from my district as soon as possible. I'm in Room 261 of the State Office Building (St. Paul, MN 55155), phone 612-296-4329.

The biggest news from the legislature this week is of course the reactions to the governor's budget. Despite all Governor Quie's talk about a $500 million tax relief figure, he's allowed the budget to climb to a billion dollars over the last biennial budget from the Anderson-Perpich administration. That extra $500 million may be explained away by inflation, but Governor Quie as a candidate promised we could control, and even cut, the number of tax dollars the citizen would be required to pay.

Senator Roger Moe's suggestion of the $75 per dependent rebate has my support. This would return the projected state surplus to the people this spring, and would fulfill Governor Quie's campaign promise.

Also, Governor Quie's intention to add 139 new employees to the state payroll sounds like double-talk; candidate Quie told us during the campaign that government was already too large.

The House intends to put a tax plan together that will give more relief than the governor suggests. . . and we hope to simplify matters and make taxes more fair. And to help me vote, make suggestions, and introduce legislation, I would appreciate hearing from each of you.

MEA, MCCFA Win Lawsuit Against State

Minnesota legislature committed an unfair labor practice, states Judge Edward D. Mulally of Ramsey district court, when it failed to implement the final and binding arbitration in favor of more than 1,000 faculty in Minnesota's 18 public community colleges.

Judge Mulally's decision was in a case brought in the fall of 1977 by the Minnesota education association (MEA) and its affiliate, the Minnesota community college faculty association (MCCFA), to prohibit the legislature from amending binding arbitration and to secure back pay.

"I am elated. . . There were others in organized labor who questioned our judgment in bringing the suit against the Legislature — but that judgment is now vindicated.

If the decision is not overturned by the state Supreme Court (which could happen if the state appeals the Mulally decision), the faculty will receive back pay averageing about $1,400 — a total of approximately $1.4 million.

Suit followed actions by two Legislatures: In 1975, an arbitrated cost-of-living increase was denied; in 1977, an aribtrator's salary award was amended downward.

Points on which Mulally disagreed with the state and agreed with the MEA-MCCFA include:

+ The MCCFA did not waive its rights for further action by signing the May 3, 1977 aribtrated agreement;

+ The state of Minnesota, through the legislature, is in fact the employer of the faculty — and thereby liable for the unfair labor practice;

+ The arbitration award was a valid final and binding arbitration secision of an arbitration panel pursuant to PELRA (public employment labor relations act of 1971 as amended); and

+ There is a difference between agreements mutually reached and arbitration agreements.

"This decision," concludes MEA president Donald Hill, "makes the whole PELRA statute meaningful. No longer can the state of Minnesota deprive its employees of their statutory rights."

Among the 18 state community colleges is Northland community college in Thief River Falls.

Ice Chunks Are Hazardous To Snowmobilers

Chunks of ice removed from Minnesota lakes by winter fishermen can be a hazard to snowmobilers, the Department of Natural Resources noted.

DNR boat and water safety coordinator Kim Elverum said the blocks are cut and left on the ice surface by anglers and spearers. They are often difficult to see, especially if covered by snow, and can damage the machine and cause personal injury to the operator.

"The simplest thing to do is chop them up in small pieces," said Elverum, "or shove the chunk back up under the ice away from the fishing hole.

"There is plenty of room for both ice fishermen and snowmobilers on our frozen lakes, if each will understand the other's problems."

He said some anglers complain that snowmobilers zip by too close, scaring both fish and fisherman.

Attention Given Waste Problems Via EPA Program

The landfill at Austin, MN is almost full and the city needs to do something with its wastes. Northfield wants to convert its solid wastes into landscaping materials. Bemidji needs help in examining alternatives for its waste problems. These and other Minnesota communities can now receive special assistance in solving their waste problems, according to the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA).

The "Technical Assistance Panels Program" is now being offered nationwide by the U.S. evvironmental protection agency (EPA) to qualified cities, counties and other local governmental agencies who have solid and hazardous waste problems. The new program concentrates on communities with a defined, immediate need for help, such as an impending crisis or a specific action-oriented program.

The MPCA believes there are many Minnesota communities who could be assisted by this program. The agency will help prepare and review community requests for EPA assistance.

The EPA and its special environmental and consultants will assist communities who are experiencing difficulty in upgrading landfills, establishing recycling programs, determining the feasibility of resource recovery options, siting disposal facilities, or dealing with similar waste problems. Assistance may involve anything from a simple telephone call to an in-depth visit from EPA consultants. The EPA will not solve waste problems for a community. It will, however, help the community examine alternatives and provide the community with the guidance and resources to help it solve its own waste problems.

In addition to the expertise offered by theEPA staff and its consultants, assistance will also be available from a "peer matching program." This innovative program will match Minnesota communities with public officials from around the country who have encountered similar solid waste problems and who can provide experienced advice.

Communities who want to take advantage of this program must complete detailed applications, which include information about the specific problem and its background, the significance of the problem, the scope of the work, alternative sources of assistance, compatibility with the state's solid waste plan, etc. The MPCA and the EPA will simultaneously evaluate the applications, although the federal agency will make the final decisions.

Any city, county, or other local governmental unit may apply for assistance. For a free booklet and further information on the program, please contact: Don Kyser, MPCA Division of Solid Waste, 1935 West County Road B-2, Roseville, MN 55113; phone: (612) 296-7323.

TRF Seeded Fourth In Sub Region 4

Thief River Falls will enter the 1979 Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament as the number four seeded team and will face the number one seed in the tournament's opening game at 7 p.m. Tues., Feb. 20, at Crookston, site of the two-day, three-game tournament. The number two and three seeded squads will meet at 8:45 that first night. Winners will advance to the Sub Region 4 championship game Fri., Feb. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

As one of the few sub regions to base post-season tournament draws on regular season results instead of using a rotating system of match-ups, Sub Region 4 must wait until at least the end of this week and possibly until Feb. 16 to decide its seeding positions.

Thief River Falls, with a 1-4 record against Sub Region 4 opposition, is relegated to the tournament's number four seed.

East Grand plays at Thief River Falls and Bemidji is at Crookston Friday. If the Green Wave and Pirates repeat earlier victories over the Prowlers and Lumberjacks, they'll set the stage for a Fri., Feb. 16, first-place deciding Crookston-East Grand Forks confrontation at East Grand Forks. Bemidji would then be put into the number three seeded slot for that 8:45 p.m. first round game against the second seed.

With the exception of a single East Grand Forks - Bemidji contest, all Sub Region 4 teams play each other twice during the regular season. At this time, Crookston is 3-1 against Sub Region 4 foes, East Grand Forks 2-1, Bemidji 2-2 and Thief River Falls 1-4.

The Sub Region 4 tournament looms as a complete toss-up. Bemidji coach Jack Lumoa says, "It's going to be wild."

Lumoa picked no favorite when he talked about the tournament following his Lumberjacks' 54-38 Friday night win over the Prowlers.

"Crookston is playing well," he said. "East Grand Forks is a darkhorse; everybody is overlooking them. If Thief River can ever get everybody healthy, they'll be tough."

Lumoa didn't mention Bemidji as a contender. "I think they're all better than we are. Just look at the (Northwest) conference statistics," he said. Indeed, the Lumberjacks rank at or near the bottom in every NWAC category — field goal percentage, free throw percentage, rebounds and assists.

The Sub Region 4 champion will meet the Sub Region 1 winner in a first round Region 8AA tournament game Thurs., March 1, at Bemidji State University. That same night, the Sub Region 2 titlist faces the Sub Region 3 representative at Concordia college in Moorhead. The winners will play in the Region 8AA championship game Sat., March 3, at Concordia. All Region 8AA tournament games start at 7:30 p.m.

Miscellaneous

+Brainerd is a Region 8AA basketball contender because of the play of 6-10 senior Ron Falenschek who has attracted the attention of 47 college recruiters to date, including the likes of New Mexico and New Mexico State. Among the admirers is Dave Gunther of the University of North Dakota who told Brainerd coach Dick Juillerate, "We'd be unbeaten in the North Central Conference if we had him this year." The Sioux are 3-5 and in fourth place in the NCC, 15-7 overall.

"Bagley, impressive in an 80-64 victory over Thief River Falls last month, is the top-seeded team in the District 29 basketball tournament, followed by Blackduck, Laporte and Clearbrook.

Prowlers Get By Pirates 5-4

Headed for an apparently easy victory with an uncontested 3-0 lead early in the second period, the Lincoln high school hockey team was stung by four Crookston goals in a 4:29 span and had to scramble to get by the upset-minded Pirates 5-4 Tuesday in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Unimpressive as it was, the win lifted the Prowlers' record to 11-4 heading into a challenging Saturday night test in Roseau against the unbeaten Section 8 leading Rams.

Experiencing a frustrating goaltending problem, the Pirates gave sophomore Dan Crane his first varsity assignment. The first shot he faced, a backhand off the stick of Bob Fitzgerald, put the Prowlers on the scoreboard at 1:18 of the first period.

Wade Hoppe intercepted a Crookston pass in front of Crane and unloaded quickly at 6:26 for a 2-0 lead.

A nifty move on a breakaway by Hoppe made it 3-0 as he waited for Crane's second period replacement, senior Craig Hoglund, to go down on the ice and then put the puck past the netminder at 2:01.

But that's when the roof caved in on the Prowlers. High-scoring Mark Perreault beat Thief River Falls goalie Bill Jury for a pair of unassisted goals in a quick 73-second spell to open the floodgates. Perreault out-reached a sprawling Jury for the puck at 5:42 and then did a bit of stickhandling in front for a power play goal at 6:55.

Elliot Solheim skated around a defender and beat Jury from close range at 8:02 and Tom Johannson continued the assault with a long shot from the slot at 10:11 for a stunning 4-3 Crookston lead.

It could have been 5-3, but Jury stopped a clean breakaway that was immediately followed by a game-tying Paul Drees goal on a rebound at 12:38.

A glaring error on the part of Hoglund allowed Jeff Ulrich to net the game-winning goal less than a minute later. Hoglund was going to simply steer a long shot from center ice aside, but his half-hearted effort only put the puck on the stick of a fast-charging Ulrich who made the most of the opportunity at 13:30.

Crookston coach Mike Lundby took frustrating pride in the Pirates' play. "You try to tell me we're a 4-12 team," he mused. Solid goaltending would make the Pirates contenders, but Lundby said, "We're having trouble in both ends of the ice. We're having trouble finishing, and we're having trouble keeping the puck out."

Roseau exploded for 33 first quarter points Tuesday and drilled Grygla 87-48 in a North Border Conference high school basketball game played at Grygla.

The conference-leading Rams led 33-6 at the end of the first quarter, entered halftime with a 51-14 cushion and took a 65-28 advantage into the fourth quarter.

"They're a good outfit," acknowledged Grygla coach Van Swanson.

Four Roseau scorers reached double figures, led by Clay Larson who scored 21 of the Rams' 22 fourth quarter points and finished with 25. Bob Kramer added 18 points, Brad Fevold 12 and Tim Lindgren 12. Richard Nordby scored 19 points and Terry Ruud 10 for the Eagles who were playing without leading scorers Jim Morrissey and Randy Larson, both sidelined because of illness.

Roseau shot 55 per cent from the field on a 39-for-71 showing. Grygla shot only 21 per cent on a 13-for-62 effort.

Fisher broke open a close ball game by out-scoring Plummer 20-6 in the fourth quarter Tuesday en route to a 66-47 Polar Conference high school basketball victory at Plummer.

The Flyers led only 46-41 entering the final quarter before the Cardinals lost ground and fell to 1-15 for the year. Fisher went in front 15-12 in the first quarter and led 28-23 at halftime.

"We just had a few too many turnovers," explained Plummer coach Dean Miller. "They took advantage of them and away they went. Then it was too late to catch up."

Phil Wentzel paced the winners with 28 points. Ron Wentzel added 16. Jon Swanson and Dale Carlson both scored 12 points and Marv Tvedt had 10 for the Cardinals who did nearly all their scoring from the field as they made one of only six free throw attempts. Fisher was 10-for-20 at the line.

Plummer hosts Goodridge Friday and then closes out its 1978-79 regular season schedule Tuesday at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

NWAC Basketball . . .

Pirates, Jacks Play For Title

First place in the Northwest Athletic Conference basketball race will be the prize Friday when Bemidji plays at Crookston. The Pirates are 4-1 in the NWAC and the Lumberjacks are 3-2, but the teams are currently deadlocked in the title-deciding points column with five apiece. The 7:30 p.m. game will be Bemidji's final conference outing. Crookston will face East Grand Forks the following week.

East Grand Forks is also very much in the title picture. The Green Wave, 3-1 in conference play — good for four points — will be at Thief River Falls Friday for a 7:30 p.m. contest. With a win over the Prowlers, the Green Wave would be in position to share the NWAC crown with the Crookston-Bemidji winner when East Grand Forks hosts Crookston Feb. 16.

Steve Enderlein of Thief River Falls continues to rank as the NWAC scoring leader with an 18.6 scoring average. Tim Knotek of Crookston is second in the scoring race at 15.6, followed by John Roche of East Grand Forks 15.5, Todd Selk of East Grand Forks 15.0 and John Noga of Bemidji 14.6 in the top five.

Enderlein is also the scoring leader in all games with an 18.7 average, followed by Knotek 14.5, Noga and Bemidji teammate Rob Egersdorf 12.9 and Selk 12.6.

Rest of the averages for the Thief River Falls starters include Jeff Oseid 11.6, Kyle Hams 10.6, Jim Nyland 7.3 and Todd Young 7.0.

Young is the leading rebounder among NWAC players, pulling down an average of 10 rebounds per game. Enderlein and Hams are the leaders in the assist department, both averaging 6.1 assists per game. Nyland is the most accurate field goal shooter, shooting 56.1 per cent from the field (46-for-82).

In the only category not led by a Thief River Falls player, Garry Kotts of Crookston is shooting 79.6 per cent from the free throw line (39-for-49).

Games involving NWAC teams Tuesday found Crookston beating Devils Lake 66-48, Fergus Falls broke into the win column for the first time at the expense of Pelican Rapids 61-40 and East Grand Forks lost to Warren 53-39.

Rest of this week's schedule will find Fergus Falls at Moorhead Friday and Bemidji at Little Falls Saturday.

Broten Leads Section Eight Hockey Scorers

Aaron Broten of Roseau has taken over the scoring lead in Section 8 high school hockey, according to statistics compiled by Frank Fee of KROX radio in Crookston.

Broten has 18 goals and 15 assists for 33 points and a two-point edge over previous leader Dennis LaCoursiere of Red Lake Falls.

Wendell Grand Will Address Sports Boosters

Wendell Grand, Lincoln high school hockey coach, will be the guest speaker Thursday at the weekly 12 noon luncheon meeting of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club in the basement of the Rex cafe.

The meeting is open to the general public.

Northland Eyes Titles In Hockey, Basketball

Regular season league titles are at stake this week for the Northland community college hockey and basketball teams. Both squads are already assured berths in MJCAA state tournament competition later this month.

Northland women's basketball team will also be involved in a pennant race this week, but in the role of a spoiler, not a contender.

Hockey

Currently second in the five-team hockey conference, Northland will be on the road for three games this week as the Northmen play at Crookston tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. and visit league-leading Hibbing for a weekend series that will feature a 7:30 game Saturday night and a 1:30 contest Sunday afternoon.

A win tonight would put the 10-5 Northmen in position to challenge the 11-3 Cardinals for the MJCAA crown this weekend. However, after winning the first of four scheduled games against Crookston 11-7, Northland has lost back-to-back 6-1, 12-4 Wednesday decisions to the Trojans.

Crookston split a series against Rainy River in International Falls last weekend, losing 9-7 Saturday but winning 12-8 Sunday. The 9-5 Voyageurs and the 7-6 Trojans will tangle again this weekend in Crookston.

Basketball

A first place tie in the Northwest Division basketball race will be broken tonight (Wednesday) when Northland plays an 8 p.m. game at Fergus Falls. Both teams sport 6-1 MJCAA records. The Northmen beat the Spartans 97-75 earlier this year.

Northland will then close out its 1978-79 home schedule Saturday by hosting Brainerd at 2 p.m. The Red Raiders, beaten by Northland 90-82 two weeks ago, needed four free throws in the final 21 seconds by Bob Gessell to beat cellar-dwelling Crookston 88-84 Saturday.

Northwomen

Defending Northwest Division champion Northland has been supplanted this winter by Fergus Falls and Brainerd in the women's basketball. The Northwomen will face both teams this week, playing a 6 p.m. game at Fergus Falls tonight (Wednesday) and hosting Brainerd at 12 noon Saturday.

Fergus Falls is 4-1 in Northwest Division play and Brainerd is 5-2. The Raiderettes snapped an eight-game Fergus Falls winning streak Wednesday with a 73-66 win over the Spartans that avenged an earlier 53-60 loss. Brainerd then crushed last-place Crookston 99-28.

Northland is 2-4 in the Northwest Division.

Opening Dates Selected For '79 Hunting Seasons

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced the opening dates for most of the 1979 hunting and trapping seasons.

Joe Alexander, acting DNR commissioner, said that many hunters must make vacation plans early and like to know when the seasons will open.

However, Alexander said a series of public meetings on hunting and trapping seasons will be held in April in each of the six DNR regions to discuss the various aspects of the seasons and to obtain the views of all interested persons. As a result of these meetings and depending on the development of unusual circumstances, the opening dates, particularly the waterfowl, deer and trapping seasons could be changed.

For example, he said, efforts are being made to get the federal waterfowl framework changed to allow the water fowl season to open on the Saturday nearest October 1.

On trapping, Alexander said the DNR is seeking legislation for an earlier opening date for mink and muskrat so trapping could begin in late October in the far north. Without the necessary legislation it will have to open statewide on November 3.

Bag limits and closing dates will be announced in July after the population status of various species has been evaluated.

Small Game

Woodcock, rail, snipe — Sat., Sept. 1.
Rabbits, squirrel, grouse, Hungarian partridge — Sat., Sept. 15.
Ducks and geese — Mon., Oct. 1.
Pheasant — Sat., Oct. 27.
Fox, and raccoon (hunting and trapping — Sat., Oct. 20.
Mink and muskrat — Sat., Nov. 3.
Lynz, and bobcat (hunting and trapping) — Sat., Dec. 1.
Fisher (trapping only) — Sat., Dec. 1.

Big Game

Bear — Tues., Sept. 4.
Deer (bow and arrow) — Sat., Sept. 29.
Deer (firearms) — Sat., Nov. 3.

District 29 To Start Region 8A Tournament

Post-season Region 8A basketball playoffs begin already Saturday when Kelliher and Redlake meet at Blackduck for a berth in the District 29 tournament.

All District 29 games will be played at Bemidji State University. On Monday, Nevis plays Walker at 7 p.m. and the Kelliher-Redlake winner faces Northome at 8:45. On Tuesday, Littlefork-Big Falls goes against Cass Lake at 7 p.m. and Akeley challenges Gonvick at 8:45.

In the quarterfinals, the Nevis-Walker winner plays Bagley and the Kelliher-Redlake-Northome winner faces Clearbrook Sat., Feb. 17, while the Littlefork-Big Falls and Cass Lake winner tackles Blackduck and the Akeley-Gonvick winner squares off with Laporte Mon., Feb. 19.

Laporte is the defending District 29 champion.

Prowlers Play Fergus Falls, Bemidji Girls

Girls basketball teams from Fergus falls and Bemidji will visit the Lincoln high school gym this week. Thief River Falls hosts the Otters Thursday and entertains the Lumberjills Saturday in 7:30 p.m. games.

Fergus Falls improved its record to 6-5 with a 48-47 win over Wheaton last week behind a 23-point performance by Kathi Johnson and a 43-per cent shooting night from the field.

Bemidji, 8-3, will be at Crookston Thursday before visiting Thief River Falls. The Lumberjills, a 57-32 winner over Thief River Falls earlier this year, lost to Detroit Lakes 68-50 Saturday when the Lakers shot 62 per cent from the field en route to a 36-16 halftime lead. The 10-2 Lakers host the Prowlers Feb. 20.

CROOKSTON GOALIE Craig Hoglund reacted after surrendering the game-winning goal by Thief River Falls' Jeff Ulrich in Tuesday's high school hockey game played here. Hoglund mishandled the puck dumped into the offensive zone by the Prowlers. Instead of steering the puck aside, Hoglund directed it to Ulrich who broke a 4-4 tie at 13:30 of the second period.

Goodridge Girls Upset Plummer 63-48 Monday

Plummer girls high school basketball team was upset at Goodridge Monday, both figuratively and literally. The 6-6 Huskies surprised the 8-3 Cardinals 63-48 in a game played in the antiquated "old gym" at Goodridge because of furnace problems at the school.

"It was a nightmare," stated Plummer coach Rick Koivisto who obviously wasn't happy about playing on the smaller court, minus scoreboard and clock.

"Both teams were used to a little bigger gym," admitted Goodridge coach Ken Ewertz. Maybe we were a little more used to it, but we both had to play under the same conditions."

Plummer led 16-15 at the end of the first quarter, but Goodridge went into halftime with a 27-22 edge and then out-scored the visitors 12-2 in the third quarter to take a 39-24 cushion into the final eight minutes.

Mary Kiesow paced the Huskies with 27 points while Vanassa Sand scored 15. Melanie Skjerven collected 21 points for the Cardinals while foul-plagued Diane Fisher was held to 11. Fisher, one of the top scorers in northwestern Minnesota, picked up three fouls in the first quarter and had four before the first half ended.

Both teams will be in action Thursday when Goodridge visits Argyle and Plummer plays a key District 31 game at Warren. On Monday, Goodridge will be at Erskine and Plummer hosts Oklee.

Grygla — Lancaster

Grygla limited Lancaster to just a single point in the second quarter en route to a 46-30 victory Monday at Lancaster.

The Eagles, boasting an enviable 13-1 record, led at the quarter stops 10-6, 22-7 and 30-15.

Jill Saurdiff scored 16 points and Debbie Warne had 12 for the winners. Long-range shooting by Donna Stewart late in the third quarter and early in the fourth period produced 14 points.

Grygla hosts Marshall County Central Thursday.

Strandquist — MCC

A poor free throw shooting night cost Marshall County Central a 34-31 loss at Strandquist Monday.

The Nordics made just nine of 20 free throw opportunities to slip below .500 for the year at 6-7. "We lost it at the free throw line," confirmed Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We had chances right down to the last minute, but we missed the front end of one-and-ones. If we would have made those I think we would have won."

Strandquist led 15-11 at the end of the first quarter, Marshall County Central went ahead 22-21 at halftime and the game was tied at 24-24 after three quarters.

Vanette Lefrooth of Strandquist was the game's only double figure scorer, finishing with 12 points. Rosalyn Knutson led the Nordics with nine points.

Marshall County Central will be at Grygla Thursday and will play at Warroad Saturday.

Oslo Beats Goodridge 63-54 With Fast Start

Oslo raced to an 18-4 first quarter lead and beat Goodridge 63-54 Tuesday in Polar Conference basketball action at Oslo.

The Bobcats, who scored 11 points before the Huskies even threatened, hit nine of 13 first quarter field goals. Goodridge made just two of nine shots during that game-deciding span.

"The first quarter killed us," confirmed Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "We out-scored them the rest of the way, but it was just a case of getting too far behind."

Four of the five Bobcats who scored reached double figures as Tom Gowan collected 18 points, Gerald Wisk 16, Gary Osowski 14 and Don Bushaw 13. Randy Henrickson led Goodridge with 18 points, scoring 14 in the first half. Gerry Sunsdahl contributed 16 points and Jeff Bakken finished with 13, and grabbed 18 rebounds from his guard position.

Oslo maintained its accurate shooting eye for the full 32 minutes, finishing with a 30-for-60 50 per cent night from the field. Goodridge was 26-for-57 for 45 per cent. The Bobcats sank three of six free throws while the Huskies made two of four gift tosses. Goodridge finished with a 47-43 rebound advantage as Bakken and Henrickson combined for 31 caroms. The Huskies also topped the turnover figures 24-21.

Goodridge, 6-10 for the year, visits Plummer Friday. The Huskies close out their regular season schedule Tuesday by hosting Red Lake Falls.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

Saturday's Thief River Falls youth hockey schedule will find the Squirt A and Pee-Wee A teams hosting Bemidji at 1 and 3 p.m., respectively, in the sports arena.

Also on Saturday, the Bantam A team will be at Grafton at 10 a.m., Bantam B at Crookston at 1:30 p.m. and Squirt B at Roseau at 1:30.

Sunday games in the sports arena will feature Bantam B and Bantam A games against Detroit Lakes at 2 and 3:30 p.m., respectively. Sunday in the old arena, the Pee-Wee B team faces Hallock at 12:30 p.m., Pee-Wee A plays Detroit Lakes at 2 and Squirt B meets Crookston at 4.

Rick Engelstad scored 10 goals to lead the unbeaten Bantam B team to wins over East Grand Forks 9-6 and Moorhead 8-3. Engelstad scored five times in both games as Thief River Falls pushed its record to 14-0. Shorthanded because of sickness, Thief River Falls used goalie Kerry Wollin as a wing against East Grand Forks Saturday and he scored a game-tying second period goal. Returning to the nets Sunday against Moorhead, Wollin came up with several key saves before his teammates broke the game open with three third period goals.

Bantam A team moved into a first place tie in the VFW league with a 4-2 win at East Grand Forks.

Eagles Pee-Wee A squad claimed consolation honors in the Fergus Falls tournament, losing to Edina West 4-0 but beating Bemidji 9-3 and Roseau 7-4.

Squirt B team lost for only the second time, dropping a 5-2 contest to Robin Park of Winnipeg Saturday before gaining a series split with a 4-2 victory Sunday.

A 6-2 loss to East Grand Forks dropped the Squirt A record to 12-4.

Reminder

Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA) coaches and players are reminded to turn in their ticket money and remaining tickets from the Warroad Lakers-St. Paul Parkers game to Tom Goddard at TG Sports. Prizes for the leading ticket sellers will not be given out until all money and tickets are turned in.

TRF, Winnipeg Old-Timers Play Saturday

Described by their public relations advance representative as "a semi-legitimate collection of mostly over-30 hockey talent", the Wennberg's Old-Timers hockey club will play host to the Tuxedo Colts Old-Timers hockey team from Winnipeg Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The Wennberg's team features a number of former Thief River Falls hockey stalwarts and a new face or two as well. Names tossed carelessly about in connection with the team are the likes of Gus Holmes, Dale Wennberg, Bill McGann, Wayne Smith, Curt Ness, Dr. Bill Ramsey and John Olson.

"Although the legs and wind have long since departed in many cases," the advance agent says, "the will to hustle and the propensity to cleverness remain. The spirit is definitely willing. . . and all that sort of thing!"

The Winnipeg outfit boasts a varied collection of former junior, college and even professional players and gained the finals of the Old-Timers league in Winnipeg last year. Old-Timers rules will be followed with no body checking nor slap shots allowed.

No admission is being charged for the game but a silver collection will be taken with proceeds to the Thief River Falls amateur hockey association. Hockey fans are invited to the sports arena Saturday to lend their voices to the rallying call, "Go OLD blue!"

Letters to the Editor

To Thief River Hockey Association and hockey fans:

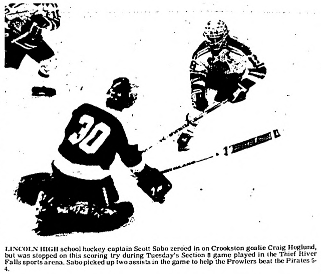
On behalf of our Parkers hockey team we want to thank you for promoting our game with Warroad.

Personally, thank you for the hockey plaque but more important for the excellent hockey beginning and experience I received when growing up in this area.

Next year we will invite Warroad to St. Paul for a series. However, if we cannot arrange that match, we are already looking forward to playing them back here.

Keep up your good work. . . I am sure that TRF will soon be a state power in high school hockey again.

Sincerely,
Marv Jorde



LINCOLN HIGH school hockey captain Scott Sabo zeroed in on Crookston goalie Craig Hoglund, but was stopped on this scoring try during Tuesday's Section 8 game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Sabo picked up two assists in the game to help the Prowlers beat the Pirates 5-4.

Badger Pulls Away In Fourth Quarter At MCC

Limited to just six points in the fourth quarter, Marshall County Central watched Badger pull away to a 43-34 North Border Conference high school basketball victory Tuesday at Newfolden.

Badger led only 29-28 at the end of the third quarter but produced the highest offensive output of the low-scoring game with a 14-point fourth quarter.

Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland termed the game, "Terrible." The loss dropped the Nordics to 9-8 for the year.

"They didn't make the mistakes we made," mentioned Ueland. "We shot poorly and played poorly. We could never get anything going."

It was a 7-7 stalemate after one quarter. Badger led 20-18 at halftime.

Bryan Modahl and Bob Dostal led the Rockets with 18 and 16 points, respectively. Ray Kvalvog scored 12 points for the Nordics.

Badger shot 42 per cent from the field, hitting 16 of only 38 shots. Marshall County Central shot 40 per cent, making 14 of just 35 attempts.

The Rockets were 11-for-26 at the free throw line where the Nordics were 6-for-16.

Marshall County Central will wait until Tuesday to close out its 1978-79 regular season schedule at home against Strandquist.

Damage From Snow On Roof Is Widespread

If ice dams on the roof are causing water leakage in your home, you must find a way to remove the roof snow and ice in the safest, most effective way possible, University of Minnesota housing specialists say.

Specialists estimate that 60 per cent of Minnesota homes will be damaged to some degree by ice dam-caused water problems this winter. Total bill to homeowners could be over $100 million.

When the bottom layers of snow melt near the peak of a roof, the water runs down the roof and freezes near the eaves. These dams prevent later snow melts from escaping the roof. Instead, the water pools and runs under the shingles.

Dripping water or water flowing between storm and interior windows, or stains showing up on walls near ceilings indicate a serious problem. Most of the snow can be removed with a "roof rake," and what's left can be brushed off with a push broom.

Extreme caution must be taken to insure personal safety, and to cause damage as possible. Do not chop through the ice down to the shingles, and do not use a blow torch.

Ice and snow can be commercially removed by a roofing contractor. This could cost $150 and $250 for the average home. Another possible warm day alternative may be to run hot water over the ice from a hose attached to the water heater. This could damage shrubbery, however. Electric cables may be installed along eaves and roof valleys at 90 degree angles to the dams.

Homeowners should try to keep the roof and attic temperature down to prevent melting. This is done through proper ventilation and insulation. Make sure insluation is not covering soffit vents.

Other temporary measures are to drill 1½ inch vents between rafters in the overhang area, and to insulate all attic heat sources such as plumbing vents, fan vents and clothes dryer vents. Chimneys and furnace flues should not be insulated without contacting local building inspectors.

Serious sidewall saturation may be caused by winter water leakage. This insulation will be ineffective, and may have to be replaced next spring. Other results may be stained or cracked plaster or sheetrock, especially in the area where inside ceilings intersect exterior walls. Exterior paint may be stained or blistered this spring.

The only permanent way to prevent ice dams is through adequate ventilation of the roof deck. While it is nearly impossible to over-ventilate a roof deck, care must be taken to insure air-flow under the overhang and at the peak. These measures minimize snow melting on the roof.

MN GROWTH EXCHANGE representative, Sam Miller of the Minnesota Prevention Resource service, was in attendance at a recent meeting of the Pennington county council on drug and alcohol abuse. Also invited to attend the meeting were representatives from various local organizations and businesses. Miller was present to help the county council plan a program emphasizing healthy living and chemical dependency prevention for the Thief River Falls area. The alcohol and drug council will work through local businesses and organizations to reach an audience for the program. Key idea in the program Miller outlined was the development of living patterns directly opposite those contributing to chemical dependency problems, development of healthy living patterns, as a means of chemical dependency prevention.

Dairy day activities at the Red River Valley winter shows, Crookston, will include the open class dairy cattle judging, district Holstein show and finish with an honored dairymen's banquet in the evening, according to George Marx, chairman of the Dairy Day committee.

This year dairy day will be Friday, February 16, and will be a special day for dairymen in the Red River valley. Judging will begin at 8:30 a.m. and will continue throughout the day. Loren Olson, dairy cattle breeder from Hutchinson, will be the official judge.

Blake Peterson, extension agent from Roseau county, will serve as superintendent of the show and Dave Kabes, extension agent, Red Lake county, will clerk the show. The Northwest Dairy princess, Mary Jane Hanson, Trail, will award the ribbons and trophies during the show.

The honored dairymen's banquet will be held at 7 p.m. at the Upper Deck, Crookston. Each county in the Red River valley will be represented by an outstanding dairy couple who will be honored at the banquet. The banquet is sponsored by the Red River Valley Dairymen's association.

Past recipients of the honored dairymen's award are especially invited to attend, according to Marlan Augustine, president of the organization. Awards, plaques and trophies will be presented to the dairy show winners at this banquet. Tickets for the banquet will be available all day in the main winter shows arena or at the Upper Deck, Crookston on February 16 until the time of the banquet that evening.

Outstanding Young Career Women Sought

Candidates are being sought in the Thief River Falls area for the Young Career Women (YCW) program which is sponsored annually by the Business and Professional Women's club of Thief River Falls. Employers and community organizations are encouraged to recommend outstanding young women they feel would be viable candidates and would be willing to participate in the YCW contest.

The young women must meet the following qualifications:

1) Be between the ages of 21 and 30 inclusive.

2) Be in business or have been employed in business or the professions with at least one year of full time work in her career area.

Community service and scholastic achievements are stressed and nominees should be working, training or continuing their education in their career area.

Young Career Women candidates will compete on a local level March 20 with judging based on an oral presentation, personal interview, past accomplishments and a group interaction session with the other contestants. Local winner will advance to the district contest in April with the finalist on the district level to be entered in state competition May 17-20.

The woman who is chosen state Young Career Woman will be honored at the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's convention to be held in Boston, Mass. Expenses for the trip will be paid by the BPW.

Individuals or organizations who would like to submit nominations for the competition may contact Rosemary Voecks at 681-1064. Nominations should be received by February 19.

Army Offers Special Two Year Program

Department of army announced recently that it has expanded a new enlistment program to include the area covered by the Omaha district recruiting command, headquartered in Omaha. In this special program, the army will test a two-year enlistment option for a limited number of enlistees who meet specific criteria. Shortest term of enlistment is currently three years.

Option is designed to make enlistment for the basic combat skills more attractive to those young men and women who in prior years enlisted to take advantage of the G.I. bill, discontinued December 31, 1976. An enhanced veterans educational assistance program (VEAP) will be offered to some of the soldiers who enter the army under this program.

To be eligible for two year enlistment, with the duty assignment being in Europe for the Omaha area enlistees, the applicant must:

+ Have no prior military service.

+ Be a high school graduate.

+ Score in the upper mental categories (I-IIIA) on the Army's enlistment examination.

+ Enlist in a combat related military occupational specialty as determined by army needs.

+ Serve four years in the individual ready reserve after release from two years of active duty.

Two-year enlistment offer wil only be made available in the Omaha district's coverage area for a limited time. Enlistees must enter active duty on or before March 31, 1979. Omaha district covers all of Nebraska with the exception of the Panhandle, the western counties in Iowa and Minnesota, and all of North and South Dakota.

Under the basic VEAP, the government contributes $2 to the soldier's educational fund for every dollar the individual contributes. To be eligible for the basic program, a soldier must contribute between $50 and $75 per month for 12 consecutive months. In addition to those amounts, the army will place another $2,000 in the education fund of an eligible two-year enlistee. This allows a soldier in a two-year option with the VEAP and the enhancement to accumlate up to $7,400 for educational expenses. Individual has 10 years from the time of separation from active duty to use the fund.

Bowlathon Set For Special Olympics Fund

To raise funds to be donated to the special olympics program for the mentally retarded, the office education association of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute is sponsoring a bowlathon February 14. Members of the association are accepting pledges for each line of bowling during the marathon with all proceeds going to the special olympics.

The special olympics program provides competition for the retarded in summer and winter games, swimming, basketball, volleyball, floor hockey, bowling, gymnastic contests, wheelchair events, iceskating and other sports as well as providing clinics.

Almost 200,000 volunteers across the nation provide the people power to make the program go. Promoters of the program note that "No special person is too handicapped to take part, no time is too slow, no distance to small to earn a ribbon, a hug, a cheer or a sincere 'well done'."

Brass Quintet Not Military Organization

1972 to 1974. Trombonist Martin Hughes, who calls the state of Virginia his home territory, was in the U.S. air force band from 1970 to 1974.

Cran said that having military band experience is not a requisite for earning a spot with the quintet, but that among the present membership it "just worked out that way".

Rapport among the musicians is important for groups traveling long distances in close quarters and performing in rigidly disciplined unison. Members of the quintet seemed to have such rapport, sharing in the interview and generally agreeing with one another on statements made.

Their rehearsal — or more properly their practice time — at Thief River Falls was restricted to individual work. While Posten found a spot at the back of the stage to work with his tuba, Cran was testing his trumpet among the seats in the main auditorium and Hughes was wandering about the band room below the stage with his trombone. LaBar was directing the lighting arrangement and Suggs was in another corner of the stage with his trumpet.

"When we're not on tour," Hughes explained, "we rehearse five days a week for several hours at least each day. On tour we pretty much work with our instruments individually."

Saturday's concert in Thief River Falls was the second appearance for the quintet here, having first performed on the Lancoln stage in 1973. It is the group's third tour for Allied Concert services, which arranges the local concert series, and the 39-day tour will conclude on February 18.

Upon completion of the current tour the quintet will head south for three concerts along the southeast coast, then return to Annapolis for a two-month residency in Maryland. Increasing demand is being placed on the group and this year, Cran said, the quintet has turned down more work than it has accepted to fill its schedule.

In eight years of making the concert circuits in the United States and other countries, the quintet has missed only one performance. That happened further west when the group had a long distance to travel and heavy snow finally halted them about 150 miles from their destination. On the present tour they ran into a blizzard in Iowa which resulted in cancellation of a performance. "We made it," Cran said, "but the audience didn't."

While in Thief River Falls the quintet presented a workshop at Northland community college on Friday. This type of activity is not common for the group, the members said, although they enjoy it and were pleased with the way things went here. The clinics are provided through an arrangement with Allied Concert services when there is time available and a facility in the community willing to cooperate.

Posten said he believed the quality of musicians is constantly improving as young people receive better instruction. "I think there are more good players coming out of the conservatories now," he said. "Perhaps there are more bad ones, too, because of the increasing numbers, but I believe in general the caliber of musicianship has improved."

The quintet uses 15 instruments in its presentation on the concert tour, including a number of replicas of Renaissance instruments. In using these instruments in concert, quintet members explain them for the audiences as background for the numbers they play.

Members of the group agree that Midwest audiences are friendly and responsive — a sentiment expressed by other concert performers who have also appeared in this community.

Final concert of the Thief River Falls concert association series will be presented Monday, March 5, when a contemporary dance theatre group will perform for the concert association membership.

Pilot Program At NWVC Is Successful

instruction and committee work was on a strictly volunteer basis.

Course itinerary included a general introduction to the parts field, and an examination of the various businesses that use counterpersons. Qualifications of the career field were outlined and students were given instruction in basic economics relevant to an understanding of the parts industry.

Benidckson explained the distribution of parts and the mass merchandising operations and provided instruction in the psychology of selling and the reasons the public buys. Students were familiarized with parts catalogs, index systems, price sheets and invoices and gained an understanding of the math procedures used in the counterman job.

The need for inventory control was stressed and Rodney Knutson explained the types of control most often used. Knutson also obtained a film from Northwestern Bell explaining proper use of the telephone and gave instruction on customer relations. Basic job skills such as use of a cash register, making change, using an adding machine and computing sales tax were all covered.

During class field trips the students viewed counter functions, machine shop operations, computer work and, under the direction of Gary Heaton, set up displays for impulse sale items at Total Auto. Heaton, who gave instruction on both display and advertising, also helped the students develop a radio ad. Through the course the career opportunities of the field were stressed.

Unusual aspect of the parts counterman program is that it was all planned on a local level. Although there are post-secondary programs offered in the field, Roger Rivera, auto body instructor at the center, says, "As far as I know there is nothing like it in the state for secondary students. We are not following any rigid pattern."

"Acceptance has been just great so far," Wayne Johaneson, auto mechanics instructor at the vocational center commented. "I've interviewed all of the students I could and I didn't hear anything negative about the course from any student — it was all positive. In fact some of them are now considering becoming partsmen." With the experience from even the two-week program, Wilson says, the students would be qualified to start out as apprentice countermen.

Some type of follow-up is being planned by the Northwest vocational center and organizational committee members. Rivera states, "Our long range plans are to develop a course in secondary and post-secondary with the help of industry."

Key to the success of the local effort is the cooperation between the school district and local businessmen. Wilson, who has helped write curriculum for 10 AVTI parts counterman programs in the state of Minnesota, said, "One of the biggest objections (of the AVTI's) is that they don't get any cooperation from industry. They run programs pretty much independent of industry. This one's a fairly unique situation in the fact that industry and the school are cooperating very well."

Wilson, Rivera and Johaneson explained that to them it made sense for the school and businesses to work together since, if a program were developed with input from the businesses that use counterpersons, a more effective course could be outlined, yielding better trained individuals to assume positions in industry.

Fred Ballou, assistant director of the Thief River Falls AVTI, visited the vocational center to observe the operation of the pilot program and voiced interest on behalf of the AVTI. On a secondary level, a program outline and evaluation will be submitted to the vocational division of the state department of education for consideration with hopes that an expanded program might be developed on the high school level.

Unfair Labor Practice Ruled In School Case

refusing to bargain in good faith, of violating the existing collective bargaining contract, of coercion and interferences with employees and of failing to comply with the grievance and arbitration procedures in the collective bargaining contract.

"They claim the defendants did so by the employment and selection of Mr. Wendall Grand as an administrative assistant to the principal at Northrop elementary school, by the manner that the salary for his services were set, by negotiating directly with Mr. Grand as an employee, and by failing to arbitrate the claims of the plaintiffs arising out of Grand's appointment and salary. They also allege unfair labor practices in the refusal to bargain in good faith over the salary for teachers with administrative duties and in the coercion and interference with Mr. Tri."

The "refusal to bargain in good faith over the salary for teachers with administrative duties" involved a complaint by Howard Thorson, assistant to the principal at St. Hilaire elementary school, that his compensation for extra duties was considerably below that awarded to Mr. Grand.

Among points in the judge's findings of fact were:

"The appointment of Wendall Grand was an unfair labor practice by failing to negotiate in good faith contrary to the provisions of 179.68, Subd. 2(5) M.S.;

"The defendant school district unilaterally and without negotiations established and carried out a schedule of salaries for part-time administrators employed by the school district.

"The establishment and payment of part-time administrators in accordance with the schedule of salaries established was an unfair labor practice of failing to negotiate in good faith contrary to the provisions of 179.68, Subd. 2(5), M.S.

"By refusing to arbitrate the issues of the grievance through arbitration, the defendant school district, through its members, committed an unfair labor practice by refusing to comply with grievance procedures contained in an agreement in violation of 179.68, Subd. 2(6).

"Defendant school district, through its members, by committing the unfair labor practices of refusing to negotiate in good faith with the representatives of TR-FEA, and by failing to comply with grievance procedures contained in the collective bargaining agreement, restrained and coerced employees in the exercise of their rights as contained in PELRA (public employees labor relations act).

"Defendant school district through its board of education committed an unfair labor practice by the interference, restraining and coercing of employees in the exercise of their rights guaranteed by PELRA, in violation of 169.68, Subd. 2(1), M.S."

In his conclusions of law, Judge Peterson noted:

"The defendant school district, its officers, agents, representatives, employees, attorneys and all persons in active concert and participation with them, be and they hereby are permanently enjoined and restrained from paying part-time administrative personnel in accordance with a unilaterally established salary schedule, pending negotiation of appropriate salaries by the parties under the provisions of PELRA.

"The defendant school district through its board of education is enjoined to meet and negotiate in good faith with the exclusive representative of its employees on the issue of salaries of teachers who perform some administrative duties.

"The defendant school district, its officers, agents, representatives and employees are hereby permanently enjoined from the hiring of Mr. Wendall Grand or any personnel in violation of the administrative procedure of the transfer policy pursuant to Article XIII of the existing collective bargaining contract, or any successor contract, in violation of the provisions of the collective bargaining contract.

"A dispute as to whether a job or position is within the administrative procedure provisions of the transfer policy shall be subject to the grievance and arbitration provisions of the collective bargaining contract, and defendant school district shall submit to arbitration any grievance arising from such disputes.

"Plaintiffs shall recover the costs and disbursements herein to be taxed."

Commenting on the judge's decision, A. H. Sollom, director of the Kramer-Brown Uniserv unit, said it is about what the MEA expected. He also said that the association is "greatly concerned that during a time of staff reductions and other problems, such as an adequate kindergarten program, the school board has seen fit to expend what some estimate to be in excess of $30,000 to defend themselves in what has now been ruled an illegal act.

"The board has also been ordered to pay court costs," Sollom said. "If these estimated amounts of expenditure are true, with a starting salary of $10,040 three more teachers could have been employed in the district."

They traveled with Mandts in their Cherokee Victor airplane, enjoying the scenic views from the air. They spent several days with Dean and Carol Schneider and Otelia Mandt at Madison, Wis. Dean and Carol have a beautiful new home and a large egg operation that keeps them very busy. They landed at Orlando, Fla., and rented a car and did some sightseeing: Disney World, Sea World, Circusworld and the Wax Museum. They drove out to Poinsana, Petersburg, Tampa and Clearwater, and Winterhaven to see Cyprus Gardens and Busch Gardens at Tampa. They drove back to Orlando, Fla., and went by plane to Cape Coral and Fort Meyers, visiting the largest seashell factory in the world and looked at land lots at Cape Coral and the large building boom going on at Fort Meyers. They stopped over to visit with Dean Myhres at Port Charolet, their vacation home. They live at Moorhead and own a large egg operation and also a ranch at Detroit Lakes. From there, they went by plane to Palm Beach and attended the dog raising event and took part guessing at the winners and won a few games. From there, they took a plane to the Bahama Islands and relaxed in the 80 degree climate and did some sightseeing and played at the black jack tables at the casino and had some good luck and also not so good. But anyway, it was fun.

But you never know.

For all the facts on how your organization can support a Scout troop, call Boy Scouts of America. The Ebenezer A.M.E. Zion Church of Toulminville, Alabama did, and look what they've got to show for it.

  Proverbs 22:1-29

When the going gets rough, sometimes we wish we could be magicians and simply pull a rabbit out of a hat at the right moment.

But, it doesn't work that way. We have to face up to things like rising prices, the energy crisis, the kids' education and getting braces for Susie's teeth.

Sometimes there seems to be no end to it. And we're not magicians. Yet, even on the gloomy days, we have something that keeps us going. Guess you'd call it faith. It's not easy to come by, either — but once you have it, it is yours for keeps!

Where do you start looking? How about in the church of your choice?

SUREST POLICY IS . . . DON'T DRIVE AFTER DRINKING!

DETERMINE YOUR PROBABLE LIMITS from this chart, which relates body weight to tolerance of alcohol.

The safest policy is not to drive after drinking, but if you do drink and then drive, you should know and stay safely within your own personal limits.

When the percent of alcohol in the blood of a driver is above the .10 level, the law usually presumes his driving is impaired. To find out how your driving ability may be affected, refer to the chart above.

It shows the relationship between the number of drinks taken by normal adults and the legal limits. If your weight is between two of the weights shown, you should use the lower weight.

Remember that the legal limit is not the same as your own safe limit, and people who are alcoholics and problem drinkers should not attempt to drive after drinking. In fact, they should not drink at all.

No chart can be a guarantee of drinking in relation to driving. Several variables, such as your mood, fatigue, the time when you last ate, and whether you've just had a snack, can affect your driving capabilities.

Furthermore, no two adults are exactly alike, the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States points out. Just as one individual's safe limits vary from time to time, two different persons' individual limits can vary quite a bit.

You should know and stay within your own safe legal limits.

Debate Continues On School Foods

When children walk out the door with schoolbooks in hand and pockets that jingle with change to buy lunch, will that change buy a meal in the school lunch line or will the jingle be exchanged for other foods instead?

That is one of the issues to be aired in a series of three public meetings to be sponsored by the department of agriculture in Detroit, Mich. February 6, at the Henry Ford hospital.

In 1977, Congress authorized the secretary of agriculture to regulate the sale in schools of foods which compete with federally-subsidized food programs covered by either the national school lunch act or the child nutrition act. Department subsequently proposed to restrict the sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum until after the last lunch period.

Assistant secretary of agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced the withdrawal of that proposal and has scheduled three public meetings nationwide, including the Detroit meeting, to allow additional public scrutiny of and comment on the issue surrounding the competitive foods questions.

"Seeking public opinion before drafting new regulations underscores our commitment to broader public participation in the decision making process of government," Foreman said.

Specifically, the meetings will focus on standards on which to base a regulation, related to the following four topics: Nutrition education, health, eating habits and local administration and impact.

Public will be asked to comment on questions such as: By what standards should competitive foods be evaluated? Will the food a child eats affect his health later in life? What is the impact of competitive foods on nutrition education programs?

Naseeb Shory, dental director of the Alabama department of public health and chairman of the American Dental association's task force for the prevention of confection sales in schools, supports a restrictive regulation. He feels the department's earlier proposal did not go far enough and should be extended to include other sweet snacks such as pastries, cookies and granola bars.

"The enamel of children's teeth is especially susceptible to the bacteria causing tooth decay," he ways. "And frequent small amounts of sugar which children get from constant snacking contributes to tooth decay. Is the great suffering and expense of dental treatment worth the few dollars profit?"

Another issue surfaced in schools where profits from the sale of competitive foods are used to buy band uniforms and-or support school social activities. For example, revenue from such sales pays for scholarships as well as extra-curricular activities in the Clark county school district in Las Vegas, Nevada.

"Restriction would mean we wouldn't have enough money for any activities," said Lilly Fulton, student council advisor for the schools. "We have to look at the positive aspect of well-financed and well-attended activities for the students."

Impact of competitive foods on nutrition education is still another issue. Department wants to find out whether children get nutritional "messages" from the availability of competitive foods.

Another aspect of the controversy is highlighted by nutritionist Joan Gussow of Columbia state teachers college in New York. She feels that taxpayer-supported lunches should not be undercut by competitive foods. "To try to make a nutritious school lunch that is attractive to kids while at the same time having attractive alternative foods available is simply unfair to the food in the lunch," she said.

Department will seek public comment on how this affects children's eating habits. Do habits developed in childhood carry over into adult life? What makes a "good" snack? Do children get hungry in the middle of the morning, and do they need snacks?

"Children do get hungry," says Sally Williams, a mother of four who is active in community nutrition groups in San Francisco, "but I would support a ban on sales until after the lunch hour. And whereever such foods are sold, the selection should include nutritious foods such as apples, nuts, raisins or yogurt."

Parents are not necessarily unanimous on the issue. Ernest Clifton, a concerned parent in Garland, Tx., opposes regulation because he feels it is not the government's business. "The right to sell competitive foods in schools is not a federal issue," he says. "It is a local right and a local responsibility."

In the course of the public meetings, the department hopes to explore what schools can and have done in this area. Opinions also will be sought as to how plate waste is affected by the sale of competitive foods.

School food service professionals take differing, but not necessarily contradictory, views of competitive foods regulation. Josephine Martin, who has been state director of the school food and nutrition program, in Georgia for more than 15 years, favors an outright ban on all competitive foods. "The problem is not specific foods, but any food that competes for a child's appetite or his money."

Diane Schwindt, the director of food service for the Marion community schools in Marion, Ind., where the school board has for years imposed a local ban on competitive foods, would welcome either the "all out" approach favored by Martin or a less stringent proposal.

"Restriction of competitive foods would make it easier to encourage the consumption of nutritious foods," she says. "It would relieve the pressure we are feeling from outside sources to serve competitive foods which are popular with the students."

"I haven't completely made up my mind on the issue," says Johanna Dwyer, coauthor of a syndicated nutrition column and director of the Francis Stern nutrition institute in Boston, "but I'm grateful the agriculture department is airing these problems before the public. After all, it is taxpayer's money which supports the school food programs."

In addition to testimony at the meetings, the department welcomes other comments on the competitive foods issue. Written comments should be sent to Margaret O'K. Glavin, Director, School Programs Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, no later than February 15, 1979.

Hints For Homeowners

HOME IMPROVEMENT, SAFETY AND ECONOMY

KEEP WARM...EFFICIENTLY!

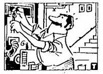
It is late, but never too late to "think warm." With the approach of steadily lowering temperatures, there's still time to take steps to minimize their effect on indoor comfort and heating bills...to "insulate" as best possible against the expected frigid winter ahead.

First and foremost, any heating system must be in top condition to operate at peak efficiency. Whichever the type of system, filters must be clean, blower belts not slipping, burners adjusted, trapped air bled from radiators...as a start.

Take advantage of the free heat from the sun, adjusting blinds as the warming rays move from east through south to the west... a natural solar heating system! On dull days and at night, closed blinds will reduce heat loss.

A home will be more comfortable at a lower thermostat setting with a humidity level of 30 to 35 percent. With a forced-air furnace, a plate type, turbine drum or power humidifier can supply the necessary air moisture content. Easily installed in the main duct, the only special tool required is metal snips. Made by Wiss, the compound lever-action type cuts with half the effort of common snips.

An automatic clock thermostat is also easily installed to regulate day and night furnace operation. Avoid night setbacks of more than 10 percent of the day setting for maximum fuel economy.



Operate exhaust fans only as necessary. They rapidly remove warm air and cause a furnace to work overtime. And fireplace dampers must be closed to prevent room heat loss up the chimney when no fire is burning. Keep in mind that standard fireplaces are only about 15 percent efficient in producing heat from wood. High wood costs generally offset fuel savings, but modern heat-gathering and circulation accessories can significantly improve fireplace efficiency.

Weatherstrip, windows, doors and storm frames to prevent infiltration of cold air and the escape of warm air. The formation of condensation is a good clue to the need for better sealing.

These "hints" are not the total answer, but who needs a long list of chores when time is short?

Unlovely Power Line

Columnist Paul Harvey, writing in the Minnkota Messenger, publication of Minnkota power cooperative, gave his viewpoint on electrical power lines and the results of energy that flows through them. His column is as follows:

Some years ago Union Electric company wanted to run a high power line across a corner of our family farm in the Ozarks.

Some of the neighbors didn't like the idea. I didn't like the idea, either.

Surely the power company could string its wire elsewhere or do without so's not to clear beautiful timber and clutter the horizon.

Yet after we property owners of the area had met with power company officials we learned a lesson I will never forget — that the power line was "ours," not "theirs."

And that the spirit of independence in our country has now necessarily evolved into a new spirit of interdependence.

You go to college, drive a car, enjoy a warm, lighted classroom. You buy radios, TV sets, stereos, hair dryers and you bring them home and plug them in — without realizing that somewhere at the other end of that electric line is a power plant and a coal mine.

You graduate and get married; you need a refrigerator and a stove, a TV set, a washer-dryer, a mixer, a frypan and a clock. Babies are born and they start to demand warm milk, clean diapers and a baby buggy which was mass produced at a price you can afford — all because of electricity.

So the wires across the horizon we put there, with our insistence on electric coffee pots and electric razors and electric heaters and porch lights and doorbells. We want planes over us and wheels under us and air conditioning all around us and toilets that flush.

Now any American who wants to live as Daniel Boone did still can. There are primitive areas of our western mountains where you can isolate yourself, chopping wood and living by candlelight and carrying ashes and carrying water and scrubbing clothes in the creek.

And, your energy requirements will be reduced to nil.

But hardly anybody lives there because most of us now want more, including instant light and instant heat and frozen food and functional hospitals. We want our soda cold and our meals hot.

Life is always a tradeoff between what we want and what it costs, says Andy Freeman, who manages Minnkota Power Cooperative, based in Grand Forks, N.D.

None of us will do without the comforts and conveniences and luxuries that energy provides. We just don't want to be billed for it.

We want lights without generators, and there's no way.

A season or so ago some landowners in North Dakota objected to the construction of a higher power line across farmland while at the same time some of those same landowners were asking for more power for agricultural irrigation.

So now I look sometimes from our farmhouse to the silhouetted high lines across the sunset horizon and they have a kind of "beauty" of their own.

Anyway, I know now who to blame for them.

Fire The Baby Sitter

Following editorial comment was written by Gene Amole, columnist for the Rocky Mountain News in Denver, Colo.:

Reality.

Sen. William Proxmire has given his December "Golden Fleece" award to the Office of Education. He thinks it was wasteful of the government agency to spend $219,592 on a program to teach college students how to watch television.

Proxmire figures they already know how since most of them have spent more time in front of the tube than they have in the classroom.

Maybe the government is just trying to deal with reality. Since the educational system hasn't been too successful in teaching students how to read, it might as well go ahead and give them another shot at "Gilligan's Island."

The Boston University School of Public Communication is using the federal handout to develop a college-level program of critical viewing skills.

Acting Dean Donis Dondis (that's his name) doesn't think the grant is wasteful government spending. He believes a course is needed "that enables consumers to distinguish television exaggeration from reason, facts from assumptions and objective information from that which is biased, often deliberately."

Dondis probably doesn't believe all cops look like Starsky and Hutch or that most men prefer a stuffing mix to mashed potatoes. That may be. There is some question that a university is the proper place to sort out the differences between fact and fiction on TV.

Actually, the government is responsible for much of the deception on TV. It leans hard on broadcasters to racially mix the actors on commercials.

Society is pictured in television commercials as being happily integrated. It isn't. The government doesn't want television to portray society the way it really is. It wants advertisers to depict it the way it ought to be.

The government sees television as an instrument for social change. It encourages lying because it feels the end justifies the means.

This leaves us with a situation where the government promotes dishonest television on the one hand and truthful TV on the other.

We are used to that kind of bureaucratic contradiction. The Agriculture Department subsidizes the tobacco industry at the same time the Department of Health, Education and Welfare discourages smoking.

Boston University won't give back the money. It will keep on trying to deal with the consequences of television after it is too late.

The time to worry about the influence of TV on the young should come much earlier. It is when we plop down our children in front of the tube and expect it to be an electronic baby sitter.

That's reality.

Behave Or Be Deported

Following editorial is from the New Prague Times:

As an aftermath of the shameful rioting, violence and vandalism of a large group of Iranian students protesting against the Shah of Iran, the U.S. Department of Justice has announced that it will take steps to deport the mob leaders and any other future violent demonstrators.

Holding no brief for the Shah of Iran or any other foreign ruler, this country cannot tolerate rebellious outbursts by students, here on the goodwill and generosity of the American people, to gain an education. It is decidedly not a part of the American educational program.

The same situation holds true on the part of non-students from any and all parts of the world who flagrantly impose on the hospitality of the United States. The opportunity for education and the privilege of sanctuary for non-students are granted with the expectation that the recipients will behave themselves and will conduct themselves strictly in accordance with the law and order rightfully expected of them. If they don't, the alternative is clearly apparent. Send them back where they came from, to vent their violence.

Picture if you can what would happen to a group of Americans, students or others, who engaged in acts of violence, destruction of property and resistance to law enforcement officers, in Asia, Africa or in much of Europe. Uncle Sammy is a kind, generous and indulgent old gentleman, but too much is too much.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Wife to husband behind newspaper: "Could I have $10 to tide me over until you're in a better mood?"

Groups of animals were being discussed in the third grade class where the teacher had explained that a group of sheep make up a flock and a group of quail is called a bevy. Going on to other animals, she came to camels. One boy timidly raised his hand and suggestion, "A carton?"

A man called the telephone company and asked for a 50-foot cord to be put on his telephones. "Now that the weather is nice," he explained, "I'd like for my wife and daughter to get outside more."

A housewife was having difficulty paying her monthly gas bills. Every month the company notified her that she had paid too much or not enough. Finally an accountant at the gas company solved the problem and notified the lady: "Please pay the amount at the right of the statement; you have been paying the date."

A parent we know claimed that his son brought home a Watergate report card after the first nine-week marking period. He said the youngster first denied he had one, then said he got one but couldn't find it. When the card was located, three of the grades had been erased.

Legislative Report
Marv Hanson
District 1 State Senator

State Senate DFL this past week unveiled a $670 million tax cut proposal in response to that proposed by Governor Quie.

The tax plan proposed by the Senate DFL includes an immediate tax rebate of the state surplus. The state surplus is estimated to be in the amount of $225 million and is a result of inflation, a healthy economy and low unemployment in the State of Minnesota. Because the revenues for this biennium of state government exceed the needs of state programs, it is proposed that the excess funds be returned to the taxpayers. The return filed by taxpayers in 1978 will be the basis for this rebate.

In addition to this immediate refund, the proposal also calls for a permanent income tax rate cut and inflation indexing which will lower presonal income tax by 1270 million beginning in January, 1980. Inflation has pushed taxpayers into new brackets and by cutting the rate, and indexing, protection against further tax increases caused by inflation will be provided.

Property tax relief measures include in the Senate DFL budget are $30 million in aid to local governments, $20 million in aid to counties, $20 million in relief to agricultural school districts with increasing valuation, a $10 million expansion of the circuit breaker to protect home owners against rising property taxes and $7 million for payments in lieu of taxes to counties with large tracts of tax exempt lands.

Also included in the package was $7.5 million in relief to senior citizens from paying capital gains taxes on the sale of their homes when they retire. This would place state law in conformance with the federal revisions.

An important part of this proposal is to reduce sales tax on farm machinery and replacement parts from four per cent to two per cent this year rather than in a phase-in as the governor proposed. In addition, the DFL position increases the amount of inheritance tax relief proposed by the governor by helping dependents and other heirs as well as surviving spouses. These measures will help Minnesota farm families and better reflect the contribution they make to our state.

The resources for these proposals come from the state surplus as well as expected revenues. But an important part of making money available for these proposals is a cut in state government expenditures. There is no doubt that government expenditures have outpaced all the other sectors of our economy. These increases have to be pulled back; and the DFL proposal would cut the cost of state government by as much as $45 million. The stewardship of government of public revenues is a major focus in government today. It is most important that we pull back government expenditure increases.

If you have questions or comments on these issues or other matters, wirte me at Room 23J State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, 55155, or call (612) 296-4835. I would appreciate hearing from you.

INGENUITY IN HOME DECOR
Helpful Tips On Low-Cost Decorating Ideas

Liven Up Your Living Room

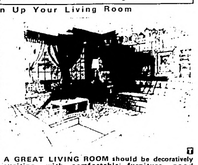
You don't have to destroy your budget to bring new life to your living room. Often all it takes is one dramatic focal point to highlight all the room's fine qualities. That fascinating feature can be a view, a wall of books, an arrangement of pictures or a fireplace. Where no architectural or visual feature exists, an effective accent can be created with paneling.

For example, a wall paneled in an antique-finished hardwood veneered paneling, such as Georgia-Pacific's Renaissance Tuscany, can be combined with a plate railing, beamed ceiling and window seat to reproduce the warmth typical of Early American homes. Colorful fabrics, period accessories and the texture of wood paneling all blend to make a living room that's cozy, distinctive, and very inviting.

Paneling is equally appropriate with the most modern or traditional styles. Installed vertically, it can make the ceiling seem higher. Turned horizontally, it can make a room seem larger. A light-toned paneling can make a room appear brighter; darker panelings add warmth. Paneling serves as a fine frame for pictures and other artful groupings and works well around windows, too.

If you're putting up your own paneling, follow the manufacturer's directions or get a good do-it-yourself project manual. You can order the illustrated booklet "How to Make Beautiful Things Happen With Walls," for 25¢ from "Beautiful Walls," Dept. NAPS, Georgia-Pacific Corp., 900 S. W. Fifth Avenue, Portland, Oregon 97204.

It can help make your living room the heart of your home, without making your savings take a beating.



A GREAT LIVING ROOM should be decoratively exciting, with comfortable furniture, good lighting and an attractive mix of colors and textures: soft fabrics and gleaming wood paneling.

IRS Reminds Elderly To Use Tax Breaks

Everybody likes to get a tax break and at age 65 that's exactly what you get.

Actually, there are several tax breaks for persons 65 and over. First concerns the requirement to file a tax return: single people 65 and over are not required to file at all unless their income for 1978 was $3,700 or more. For married couples filing joint returns the limit is $6,200 if both are at least 65.

Bear in mind, though, that the only way to get a refund is by filing. So if you had any tax withheld from money you received in 1978 you should file to claim your refund.

For older Americans who are required to file, there is still some good news. One is the extra $750 exemption, over and above the regular $750 personal exemption to which each taxpayer is entitled. Married couple filing a joint return where both spouses are 65 or over can claim four exemptions for a total of $3,000.

Note: For federal income tax purposes, a taxpayer is 65 on the day before his or her 65th birthday. Since a person's filing status is determined by their situation on the last day of the tax year, a taxpayer whose 65th birthday falls on January 1, 1979, can file as if he or she were 65 during 1978. (Obviously this does not apply to many people, but if you are one of them, it's a nice piece of information to have.)

At retirement, which often begins at 65, many people sell their house and move to something a little smaller and easier to maintain.

To ease the bite on the profit which almost always results from the sale of a home, any gain from this type of sale is tax exempt if the adjusted selling price is not more than $35,000. When the selling price exceeds $35,000, at least part of the gain will still be nontaxable. Only conditions are that the home must have been your principal residence for at least five of the previous eight years, and you can only exclude the gain once in your life.

However, there are new rules if the sale was made after July 26, 1978. Gain of $100,000 may be excluded if the home was a principal residence 3 out of the 5 years ending on the date of sale. (This new rule applies to those 55 and over.)

Tax credit for the elderly is one way to reduce your taxes. While many persons over 65 may not consider themselves "elderly," the fact remains that the credit can reduce their income taxes by as much as $375 for singles and $562.50 for married couples. Because it is a credit and not a deduction, this amount is subtracted directly from the taxes owed.

To qualify for the credit for the elderly you need to be a U.S. Citizen, and if you are 65 or over you must have taxable income. Persons under 65 can qualify if they are retired and receiving taxable retirement income, such as from the federal government or from a school system.

IRS will lend a hand in computing the credit if you give them the information they need by filing a completed schedule R or RP with your form 1040. You cannot use the form 1040A to receive the credit.

Much of the income received in retirement years, including social security payments, is free of federal income tax. Railroad retirement benefits are nontaxable, as are payments from a general welfare fund, such as payments for blindness.

For retirees receiving taxable pensions, form W-4P provides for withholding at the source of the payments. This can help the retiree avoid having to pay estimated tax payments during the year.

IRS has a number of free publications of interest to older Americans: publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax"; publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Purchasing Your Home"; publication 524, "Tax Credit for the Elderly"; and publication 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans".

These are available by mail using the order form that comes in the tax instructions. In addition to the booklets and IRS help, older Americans are offered free tax help by many community organizations and national retirement organizations. Local senior citizen's center can probably direct you to several such services.

Peace Gardens Living Legacy To Good Will

Among the words of George Washington when he left office in 1796, was the admonition to "cultivate peace and harmony with all." The International Peace Garden, located in North Dakota and Manitoba along the United States - Canadian border, is living proof of that philosophy. Here peace is literally "cultivated" among the thousands of flowers, bushes and trees that are part of the natural beauty of the area along the longest unfortified border in the world.

Dedicated July 14, 1932, the International Peace Garden is located along Highways 3 and 281 north of Dunseith, North Dakota. This area encompasses 2,300 acres of the wooded Turtle Mountains.

Activities and attractions at the International Peace Garden are as diverse as the many types of flowers that grow in the formal garden area. The sunken garden area, part of the formal garden, contains a clover shaped pool surrounded by more than 2,000 rose bushes.

Scenic drives and hiking trails on both sides of the border allow access to the varied beauty of the garden. Several types of trees, two man made lakes and the natural terrain add to the feeling of tranquility of the International Peace Garden.

International music camp, located in the International Peace Garden, is recognized as one of the outstanding fine arts summer schools in the United States and Canada. Outstanding instructors of international prominence teach classes in band, orchestra, choir, drama, ballet and art.

Among the performances scheduled for 1979 are band concerts June 15, 18, 22, 25, 29 and July 2, 6, 8, 9, 13 and 20. Choir concerts are scheduled for July 22 and 23, a ballet performance July 15, a drama production July 22 and 23 and music camp highland dance and piping and drumming exhibition on July 30. Art exhibits will be held July 1-4 and July 29.

Another activity of interest is the old time fiddler's contest scheduled for June 9-10. This contest attracts fiddle players from the United States and Canada for the two day event.

The Peace Chapel, dedicated in 1970, symbolizes the spirit of the International Peace Garden. Quotations, written and spoken by men of peace, are engraved on three stone walls of the chapel which attracts visitors from around the world and is occasionally used for church services and weddings.

A Peace Tower, to be built by the United States and Canada will be the dominant structure of the western formal garden area. A reflecting pool to mirror the Peace Tower will be constructed nearby.

Other points of interest in the International Peace Garden are the Royal Canadian Legion athletic camp, an arboretum, a 12-foot floral clock, centennial pavilion and Carillon bell tower.

A campground and several picnic areas are located within the Peace Garden. In the Turtle Mountain area are several other attractive campgrounds, most notably the Lake Metigoshe state park.

Rosewood

Newfolden, 523-3573

Kevin Swenson and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gauthier of Red Lake Falls were Sunday dinner guests at the Art Swenson's last week and the group celebrated the birthday of Kevin.

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Engvald Dahl snowmobiled to the John Thompson home where a social time and lunch was greatly enjoyed.

On January 11 Mark Johnson celebrated his 5th birthday at his parental home, the Dale Johnson's. Those coming over to wish him happy birthday and eat his beautifully deocrated clown cake made by his mother were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Barbara Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Erickson of Red Lake Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall and Karen and Mrs. Jerry Sorenson and Dana.

Last Sunday Gordon Hall was 7 years old. Early birthday greetings were brought to him Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Erickson, John and Becky of Plummer. On Sunday dinner guests at Harold Halls were Cecily Erickson of Plummer, Milo Oppegaard of Erskine, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Erickson of Red Lake Falls. Mrs. Dale Johnson and Mark also came that afternoon with a birthday cake decorated like a clown that Mark wanted his cousin to have.

Harlan Voxland of McIntosh and Mrs. Ardelle Ostgarden of Thief River Falls visited on Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lambert.

Last Wednesday morning Mrs. Bert Kron accompanied Mrs. Elmer Rooker to Newfolden where they were guests of Mrs. Medard Yutrzenka and Anita Robertson of Argyle for the trip to Roseau to attend the executive meeting of the 13th district Horticultural Society. The Viking Town and Country Garden Club, the Argyle Garden Club and the Sow and Hoe Garden Club of Thief River Falls will host the district flower show at the Viking school next summer on Wednesday, Aug. 8.

New Solum 4-H MEETS In Homes

The New Solum 4-H club was called to order for their regular meeting by vice president, Jim Johnson at the Ray Holmstrom residence. Secretary Natalie Johnson gave the minutes. She also gave a project talk on Child Care. Jim Johnson gave a project talk on the correct way of pounding nails. Ron Soiney gave a foods demonstration on "Why Measure Flour Properly". Lunch was served by Mrs. Holmstrom.

Special Meeting Called For Viking Town and Country Garden Club

Mrs. Elmer Rooker, president of the Viking Town and Country Garden club called a special meeting of the organization for last Tuesday afternoon at the Viking Community center. The special business was making long range plans for the District Flower show to be held at Viking next August. The next day Mrs. Rooker was to attend the executive meeting of the district officers at Roseau to make final plans for this flower show. Other members would consider accompanying for this planning session. The next garden club meeting will be held on the regular meeting date, Feb. 7 at the Community Center. Mrs. Rooker served lunch after the meeting.

Rosewood Homeamkers Start Year

The first meeting of the New Year for the Rosewood Homemakers was held last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Swenson with Mrs. Walter Lambert as assistant hostess. Most of the members were present and special guests included Mrs. Martin Swenson, Mrs. Helmer Kalbakdalen and Lenna Ortloff. A lesson on Sausage making was presented by Mrs. Mike Johnson after she had attended an open county meeting on the topic. She is going to run off recipes for the group and a great deal of interest was shown. Mrs. Roger Van Horn announced the plans the county council made concerning a noon luncheon and fashion show to be held on Saturday Feb. 10 for Pennington County Homemaker Club members at the American Legion. On Feb. 23 there will be an open meeting at the courthouse on "Understanding Drug Prescriptions". The next regular meeting will be on Feb. 28 at the public library meeting room in Thief River Falls where we have been invited to view the special art display "People of the Plain". Any neighbor interested is invited to join the homemakers for this special afternoon or the art display can be seen anytime from Feb. 8 through March 15 at the library. The homemakers have a busy and exciting schedule of meetings for the winter months. After the long cold month, the homemakers enjoyed the social visiting following the meeting until lunch was served by the hostesses.

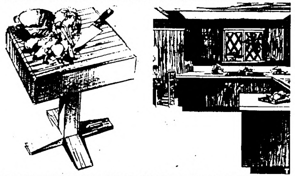
Mrs. Clifford Johnson brought belated birthday greetings to Mrs. Emil Hellquist last week. On Wednesday Mrs. Emil Hellquist was picked up by Mrs. Edwin Quam and they spent a pleasant afternoon visiting with former neighbors and friends. They visited with Mrs. Randine Bakke and Mrs. Hilda Meelem at Northwestern hospital and grandma Sabo at the CNC unit. Also with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stolaas at Oakland Park and at Valley Home with Mrs. Albert Hellquist, Mrs. Ralph Ness, Mrs. Ole Paulson and Mrs. Ruth Flann Arras. Supper was enjoyed together before ending the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall visited last week at Northwestern hospital with Harold's grandmother, Mrs. Randine Bakke of Newfolden.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ray Holmstrom visited with the Wesley Bring family of Strandquist Karen Holmstrom had been a Saturday overnight guest of a classmate, Charmaine Brodeson. The Jim Brodeson family had moved here last fall from South Dakota to the house on the Holterman Olson farm.

Great Possibilities For Your Home

SPICE UP YOUR KITCHEN WITH A NEW DECORATING SCHEME



YOU CAN CHANGE YOUR KITCHEN FROM SERVICEABLE TO SENSATIONAL with a little planning and paneling. Do-it-yourself butcher-block table adds extra workspace for the gourmet cook.

Tired of those old kitchen cabinets? Need more workspace? Here are some ideas for making big changes with only a modicum of time and money.

To give your kitchen a warm new look, simply surface walls and cabinets with a prefinished paneling that combines beauty with practicality. Choose one with a durable, easy-care finish, like those from Georgia-Pacific.

If the walls are sound and even, you can attach the paneling directly with a panel adhesive. On uneven walls, the paneling should be secured to furring strips. These should be placed horizontally 12 to 16 inches apart and nailed to studs with 8d (2 1/2-inch) nails.

Finish the joists at the ceiling and floor, and reframe around windows with wood moulding. Work with contact cement to apply paneling to cabinets. You can even make new cabinet doors simply by laminating 1/4-inch paneling pieces to 1/2-inch plywood. If you need a lip, cut the paneling 3/4-inch larger in length and width than the base plywood.

A butcher-block table is as functional a piece as you can put in any kitchen. Make sure you build it with a work surface tough enough to take use and abuse, and thick enough to be resurfaced occasionally. Maple is a popular material, but pine will work and is more economical. Choose 2x4 or 2x6 clear, kiln-dried stock, and make the slab by gluing boards surface-to-surface. Clamps help, but to improvise, glue and nail two boards together, then glue and nail a third board and so on until you have the width you want. Use casing nails on the last board so you can set the heads and conceal them with wood dough. Attach the slab to a ready-made pedestal, or make an understructure using ready-made turnings. Smooth and sand the slab, and finish it with salad oil. Let the oil soak in, then wipe off the excess. Do this twice a week for a month and once a month thereafter.

Pretty utensils all in a row not only create a great atmosphere, but they're considered super-practical by many noted chefs. Main supports can be 2x4 lumber attached to the ceiling with lag screws driven into joists. Locate one joist. The others will be 16 inches apart on centers. Drop a frame, also with 2x4's, and form the supports by using 1x2 or 1x3 lumber. Another way is to use 3/8- or 1/2-inch hand threaded rods to float the supports at a convenient height. You'll have to install thread inserts in the joist, but that job merely calls for drilling correct-sized holes. The inserts provide steel threads in the wood. Drill holes for the threaded rod through the supports, and use a nut and washer at that end. Install brass screw hooks as hangers for the utensils.

For additional exciting remodeling ideas, write for Georgia-Pacific's new book, "Great Possibilities for Your Home" by sending 75¢ to cover postage and handling to Great Possibilities, Dept. NAPS, Georgia-Pacific Corp., 900 S. W. Fifth Ave., Portland, Oregon 97204.

Use Indirect Image To See Solar Eclipse

One of nature's dramatic events, a solar eclipse, will occur on Monday, February 26. It will be a total eclipse in a path from the Pacific Ocean crossing the northwestern United States, and partial in virtually all the rest of the continental U.S.

National society to prevent blindness (NSPB) warns that watching the eclipse can be dangerous, and advises precautionary measures.

Following the last total eclipse seen in the U.S. (March 7, 1970), 145 cases of eye injury were reported to an NSPB survey, 121 of them eclipse burns. Sixty per cent of the casualties had looked at the sun directly with the naked eye. The remainder had tried to protect their eyes with various devices — sunglasses, totally exposed photographic negatives, smoked glass and welder's goggles.

NSPB's executive director Virginia S. Boyce emphasizes that there is no recommended safe way to look at an eclipse directly — partial or total. Infra-red rays emitted by the sun can burn the retina, causing scarring and resulting in blind spots in the victim's vision. The retina is the light-sensitive layer of nerve cells at the back of the eye that transmits visual images to the brain.

"Usually the sun's dazzling light naturally prevents people from looking directly at it," Mrs. Boyce said, "but in a total eclipse, the moon slowly darkens that light, for brief minutes completely obscuring it. While the light dims, the sun is still emmitting its invisible but burning infra-red rays, and since the retina is not pain-sensitive, a burn will not be noticed until the damage is done."

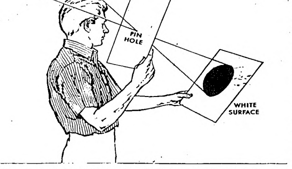
The society recommends indirect watching as the only safe way. The simplest indirect way is the "pinhole" method. Take two pieces of white cardboard, make a small hole in one, and with the sun at your back, focus the eclipse through the pinhole onto the second board. The size of the image can be changed by altering the distance between the cardboards.

Older children and adults might use binoculars or a telescope as the projector, replacing the pinhole cardboard. With the sunlight at your back, position the instrument over your shoulder with eyepiece down so that the light passing through it focuses on the white cardboard.

Using either method, the circle of light on the cardboard will show the sun being slowly obscured by the moon, as it passes between the earth and the sun. Never look at the eclipse through the pinhole or through the binoculars or telescope! Photographers should also remember not to look at the sun through their camera viewfinder.

The path of the total eclipse — which will be the last visible in the continental 48 states during this century — comes ashore over Oregon and Washington, moves through Idaho, Montana and a small part of North Dakota and then on up into Canada and over Greenland, where sunset will terminate it.

In Walla Walla, Wash. the sun will be totally obscured by the moon for two minutes and 26 seconds beginning at 8:17 a.m.(PST). In Los Angeles 81.5 per cent of the sun's disc will be covered at 7:59 a.m. (PST); in Dallas 72.7 per cent at 10:25 a.m. (CST); in Chicago 82.8 per cent at 10:52 a.m. (CST); in Miami 42.5 per cent at 11:47 a.m. (EST); and in New York City 68 per cent at 12:16 p.m. (EST). The duration of the entire eclipse will be about two and a half hours.



ONLY SAFE WAY to view the February 26 solar eclipse is indirectly. A simple way this can be done is to take two pieces of white cardboard, make a pinhole in one, and with the sun at your back, focus the eclipse through the pinhole onto the second board. The size of the image can be changed by altering the distance between cardboards. Never look directly at the sun through the pinhole.

JOURNALISM

How long has PLAYBOY been published? Ten years? Fifteen? Twenty? Twenty-Five?

The magazine that helped change American views on sex, morality and individual freedom is now 25 years old.

It was in December 1953—the year that a woman first flew faster than the speed of sound and the year that Josef Stalin died—that Playboy circulation began to take off. Within a few years it reached unprecedented heights, and the repression of publishers by puritanical laws began to ebb.

The magazine that began with a circulation of 51,000 went on to reach a peak circulation of 7,000,000.

Today the Playboy publishing company has grown into a diversified $250,000,000 multinational corporation, with Playboy Clubs in eight American cities, plus London, Tokyo, Osaka and Manila, plus Resort Hotels in Wisconsin and New Jersey and Casinos in England and the Bahamas. Another Hotel/Casino is planned for Atlantic City and new Clubs are scheduled to open this year in Honolulu and Costa Rica.

Hugh M. Hefner, Playboy Publisher and Chairman of the Board of Playboy Enterprises, Inc., has also launched seven licensed foreign editions of PLAYBOY magazine (in Germany, France, Italy, Brazil, Japan, Mexico and Spain), which now have a combined circulation of nearly 2,000,000; and an Australian edition will begin publication early in 1979. Playboy Enterprises, Inc., also includes OUI magazine, Playboy Models, the Playboy Book Club, Playboy Press, Playboy Limousines, Playboy Productions—a feature motion picture and television development division—and the Playboy Foundation, the activist arm of the magazine's philosophy.

The London Sunday Times selected Hefner as one of the 1000 most influential people in the 20th Century. It was Hefner, explained the Times, who "struck an answering chord in the young urban American male. His fantasies became their fantasies."

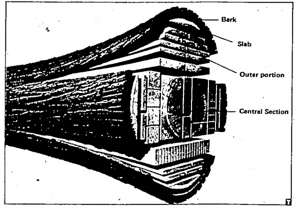
The Secret Life Of The Forest

Forests Meet The Challenge



ONE REASON AMERICA WON'T RUN OUT OF FORESTS is that we are making every log work harder.

America's demand for lumber and paper will double by the year 2020. Helping the forests meet this challenge is good forest management. We grow a continuous supply of the forest crop and get more than in the past from the logs we use.

At one time, up to 50 percent of some logs went unused. Today, these "waste" pieces are routinely converted into chips for pulp and paper mills. With millions of tons of chips so used each year, hundreds of thousands of acres of forest land need not be prematurely harvested.

How Logs Are Used

Debarking is essential to the log's full utilization, because the bark cannot be used either as lumber or for paper making. But it can be used for fuel and soil mulch.

The rounded sides of the log, the "slabs," are the first pieces sent to the chipper as the log goes through the sawmill. The idealized picture above shows the entire log being used for lumber, except for the slabs. Actually, as cutting continues, other pieces go to the chipper, including edgings, trim ends and other parts of the log not usable as lumber.

The outer portions of the log have the fewest knots. This "clear" lumber is usually made into boards or planks varying in thickness from one to three inches.

Towards the center of the log, knots increase, and the wood is less suitable for boards. Heavier planks and square or rectangular beams are normally sawed from this section. The center of the log is used primarily for structural beams strong enough so that they are not weakened by knots. Knots are most frequent here because this is the oldest section of the tree. Branches that were removed during the early years of the tree's life left knots that were covered over as the tree grew outward.

Plywood is, in effect, a sandwich of thin wooden veneers. Veneer is made by "peeling"—that is, holding a long blade against a rotating log. The wood is continuously peeled off, down to an eighth-inch core. The core can then be made into lumber, while the rounded portions go into the chipper.

This article was prepared by the St. Regis Paper Company, which — together with the other members of the forest products industry—is vitally concerned with maintaining the beauty and usefulness of America's forests for the generations to come.

CAR TELEPHONE

The Wikstrom Telephone Company, Inc. is planning to install mobile telephone service that will cover the area of Kittson, central and eastern Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, and Pennington counties. This system will be UHF. The service that we install will cover the area as stated above, plus any other area offering UHF. Before a system can be installed, we have to obtain an FCC license and approval of rates from the Minnesota Public Service Commission. Before these can be obtained, it is required that we have signed up enough users to support the system. Anyone interested in mobile telephone service, contact the Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc., at Karlstad, Minnesota, 436-2121.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK is being observed throughout Minnesota this week and preparations for the event provided Mayor Bob Carlson with an opportunity to visit the site of new building additions to the Thief River Falls AVTI. Mayor Carlson (center) is shown with Arnt Aune, director of the school, and Dan Jerzak, audio communications student from Morris who is serving as student chairman of vocational education week here. In the background is the construction project which will provide joint food service facilities for the AVTI and Northland community college. When the new additions to the school are put into use next fall, the AVTI will have more than two acres of land under roof and have all vocational programs with the exception of aviation mechanics consolidated in the site on highway one east. Plans are underway for dedication of the building next fall on the 30th anniversary of the founding of the AVTI here.

Winter Retail Promotion Set

Wintertime Bargain Blitz, featuring Presidents' Crazy Days, will be held in Thief River Falls February 15-19 under sponsorship of the retail business association members of the chamber of commerce. More than $1,000 in merchandise prizes will be awarded and special price reductions will be in effect in participating stores during the event.

Special part of the promotion will be a cherry baking contest to be held Saturday at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Area cooks are invited to compete for three $25 savings bonds in each of the categories of pie, cake, cookies or bars made with cherries. Additional $25 bonds will be given to the youngest and oldest entrant and the competitor coming from the greatest distance.

Entries must be brought to the Thief River Falls city auditorium between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday and judging will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. From 3 to 5 p.m. the retail business association will provide coffee and the contest entries will be served as samples to the public.

Free registration is being held for a 13-inch color television set, microwave oven, skil saw, chain saw, electric grass trimmer, 10-speed bicycle and $50 in groceries from the winner's choice of stores that are members of the retail business association. Entry blanks may be clipped from an ad in the Wednesday edition of the Times or the free Northern Minnesota Shoppers Guide which will be delivered to area households today or Tuesday.

All participating stores will have boxes where the entry blanks may be deposited. Entries are to be made on Saturday only and the drawing will be held on Monday, February 19.

Real Estate I Class To Be Given At AVTI

—Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute and the University of Minnesota-Crookston are co-sponsoring a 30-hour real estate I course in Thief River Falls from 7 to 10 p.m. on March 14, 15, 16, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29 and 30 in Room 111 at the AVTI. Tuition for this three-credit class is $75.

This course would be of special interest to salespeople, investors and homeowners. It covers marketing, appraising, legal aspects, testing, investment property, construction, advertising, public relations, closing and other fundamentals. This course has been approved by the commissioner of securities pursuant to Minnesota statutes, section 82.22.

This course is needed for taking the real estate license exam and also meets the Minnesota state educational requirements for license renewal.

Pre-register by February 23 by contacting Terry Lerner, adult education director, Thief River Falls AVTI, 681-5424, ext. 30.

Workshop Set For Persons Who Fear Math

Persons who have always had a "phobia" about mathematics will now have an opportunity to learn more about their "hang-ups" by attending a math anxiety workshop at Northland community college on Saturday, February 24 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the student commons.

For many people the idea of doing math triggers feelings of panic, anxiety and embarrassment. This introductory workshop will deal with the reasons for math anxiety, and provide some alternatives to aid in overcoming the avoidance of numbers. Workshop is expected to be very beneficial to any area resident such as homemakers, students, those on the job and others.

Will participants do any math? "Yes," said James Dalager, mathematics instructor at Northland community college; "We may do some math together, not to focus on learning a new piece of mathematics, but rather to help examine past approaches and frustrations and begin learning new techniques in a comfortable supportive atmosphere, among people who share concerns and difficulties."

Events Slated For Vocational Education Week

Vocational education week in Thief River Falls will be observed this week with several events scheduled at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute.

Tours are being conducted by the students today and a scholarship team will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. when $7,350 worth of scholarships will be awarded to vocational students. Tours will also be held that day.

Tours conducted by students will continue on Wednesday while Thursday will be student visitation day and several student interviews will be held on radio station KTRF at 9:30 a.m. Tours will be concluded on Friday.

The AVTI is in the process of constructing a new addition which is expected to be ready for use at the beginning of the 1979-80 school term this fall.

Four From Area New On Region Commission

Pennington and Marshall counties each had two new representatives on the Northwest Regional commission at the last full commission meeting held late in January.

Donald Grabanski, county commissioner, replaces Roger Hoffman and Richard Kruse, township official, replaces Albert Koop as Pennington county members. Stan Holmaas, mayor of Newfolden, replaces Lawrence Sunsdahl of Stephen and Kenneth Price of Stephen, county commissioner, replaces Dale Zutz of Warren.

Koop, Sunsdahl and Zutz have served on the commission since it started in 1973.

Receive Nurse Scholarship Applications

Applications will be received until June 1 for three $300 nursing scholarships to be awarded by Voiture 737 of the 40 et 8 organization in Thief River Falls, according to L. W. Larson of Red Lake Falls, director of the scholarship program.

Eligible for the scholarships are persons who intend to become registered nurses and who have been accepted for admission to an accredited school of nursing. Application forms are available from guidance offices at Lincoln high school, the area vocational-technical institute and Northland community college in Thief River Falls and high schools at Goodridge, Oklee, Plummer and Red Lake Falls.

Early Morning Fire Destroys Noreen Shop

Thief River Falls fire department was called to the scene of an early morning fire at the Noreen Development shop buildings Monday. The fire was discovered by the daughter of owner Kenny Noreen about 2:15 a.m. when she woke up and saw the fire from a window in the Noreen residence which is located near the shop. By the time fire fighters arrived, the shop was engulfed in flames and only a portion of one of the two garage buildings that made up the shop area could be saved. Various machinery and work tools stored in the buildings were heavily damaged or destroyed. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Return Farm Census Forms By Feb. 15

Farmers and ranchers are reminded that the deadline for return of the 1978 census of agriculture report forms is February 15.

Large proportion of those who received forms nationwide already has mailed them back in postage paid envelopes, according to the bureau of the census, U.S. department of commerce, which is conducting the census. Those who have not done so are urged to return the forms by the deadline. Bureau officials say they cannot extend the due dates for filing the forms except in individual cases where undue burden is involved, but they note that best estimates will be acceptable from operators lacking records.

Assistance also may be obtained from county officials who are prepared to answer questions which may arise regarding the form. These include agricultural agents, executive directors of the U.S. department of agriculture's agricultural stabilization and conservation service, supervisors in USDA's soil conservation service, and vocational agriculture instructors.

Census bureau is mailing follow-up letters asking prompt return of the forms, noting that cooperation is required by law, delay sharply increases the costs, but, more important, a true picture of the nation's agricultural industry cannot be achieved until the forms are in...

Tabulation of results for a state cannot start until virtually all the forms have been returned. Data for each of more than 3,000 counties will be published on a schedule calling for early release of county statistics beginning in October and continuing through March 1980, followed by publication of state and national data within the next two years.

A "Were You Counted," publicity campaign has been launched by the bureau in an effort to locate any farmer or rancher who may have been inadvertently missed in the census. Those who failed to receive a form may call (812) 335-1271 or write WYC, Bureau of the Census, Agriculture Division, 1201 East 10th Street, Jeffersonville, Indiana 47132.

No School On Presidents Day

Because of the Presidents' Day holiday on Monday, February 19, state and federal offices in Thief River Falls will be closed and there will be no school for students or teachers in the local school system.

Stolaas Named Co. Valley Farmer And Homemaker

NEVER IDLE although semi-retirement provides time for idleness, Olaf Stolaas has put his creative abilities to work at a new interest—macrame. The hands that harnessed horses, milked cows and repaired machinery are now kept busy on craft projects such as this handbag.

CROCHETING AFGHANS is a favorite way for Mrs. Olaf Stolaas to spend her winter hours. Knitting and crocheting were skills learned in her youth. Now she uses the skills to create attractive and useful items, many of which are given as gifts to family and friends.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

One of the first children born after the formation of Deer Park township in what was then Red Lake county, Olaf Stolaas has been a resident of that community for 73 years. On February 20 he and his wife Beatrice will be honored at the Red River Valley winter shows in Crookston as Pennington county's valley farmer and homemaker.

Olaf's father and mother, Sjur and Bergit Stolaas, were both native Norwegians and they homesteaded the farm which consisted of 110 acres. The somewhat odd acreage resulted from surveying done from two directions, leaving a strip of uneven size at the north edge of the township.

At that time the land was priced at $4 per acre to homesteaders unless another interested party increased the bid. While some neighbors paid up to $10 an acre for their land, the Stolaas family was able to purchase its farm for the $4 per acre price.

For a number of years, it might not have appeared to be much of a bargain. The farm lies just west and south of the River Valley bridge and the Red Lake River was prone to flooding just about every year. Much of the land was in heavy timber with only occasional open meadows. Farm work included trying to clear enough land to plant a crop and beating the odds against weather and weeds to harvest it.

"I remember one spring when we had a flood and then it froze again," Olaf recalls. "We could skate across country for two miles to the Ernest Gisselquist farm and the kids there would skate over to our place."

The heavy timber was a deterrent to farming, but it offered offsetting values. Not only did it provide fuel for winter warmth and year around cooking, it provided an alternate source of income. One winter Olaf cut and delivered over 100 cords of wood to the Highlanding creamery which used the wood to provide steam for its operation.

It wasn't a get rich quick scheme, to be sure; not at the going price of $3.60 per cord delivered by team of horses and sleigh to the creamery. Olaf had labor costs to deduct (he hired a man to help him for a dollar a day) and, although the wood was free for the taking, there was the cost of feed and shelter for the horses.

Land clearing wasn't a rapidly accomplished task in those days. With the large trees cut by hand and removed from the area, the acreage was generally turned to pasture for livestock, keeping the regrowth in check. After several years the rotted aspen stumps could be pulled and many of the oak stumps were subjected to a charge of dynamite.

It was in 1926 when Olaf started farming on his own with three horses and a sulky plow. He bought 110 acres west of the home farm in the late 1920's and set about clearing the land. "We got more horses pretty soon," he says, "but you couldn't cover very many acres in those days. You had to do a lot of stopping to let the horses rest.

Farming soon became mechanized, however. Olaf bought his first tractor — a Fordson capable of pulling a two-bottom plow — from a neighbor. Shortly thereafter — in 1934 — he sold the Fordson and joined the movement to bigger equipment with the purchase of a Model D John Deere. That three-plow model is given credit for opening up much of the farm land in northwestern Minnesota.

Clearing the land wasn't the only problem to be faced, however, and shortly after substantial acreage in the area was opened the farmers were plagued with sow thistles. These tall weeds choked out much of the grain crop for a number of years. During threshing time the bundle pitchers at the threshing rigs were enveloped in a cloud of fluffy white as the seeds from the thistles were knocked loose and carried on their tiny airborne parachutes.

In a good year, which seemed to be more of a rarity than an expected occurrence, wheat would yield up to 20 bushels per acre. Oats was

Name Olson AVTI Teacher Of The Year

AVTI TEACHER OF THE YEAR, auto mechanics instructor Ray Olson, is pictured giving first-year student Kevin Champagne instructions in the repair of a carburetor. Olson, who has been with the Thief River Falls technical school since 1958, was chosen teacher of the year by a faculty committee. His name and supporting information will now be forwarded to a state selection committee for consideration for Minnesota teacher of the year.

by Kim Blaeser
Times Reporter

"Ray is one of the rare individuals that does his assigned job in a dependable and professional manner with very little fanfare." This statement from Arnt Aune, Thief River Falls AVTI director, was included in a letter recommending Ray Olson as a candidate for Minnesota teacher of the year and is perhaps the most concise, pertinent statement that could be made regarding the 20-year employee of the AVTI auto mechanics department.

Olson, who was selected by the AVTI faculty committee as teacher of the year for the Thief River Falls vocational school, began his teaching career in 1958 after having already worked in the field of mechanics for 23 years. When he accepted a position as auto mechanics instructor at the Thief River Falls AVTI, the program consisted mainly of shop work with students learning basically on an apprenticeship basis. During his years as instructor and later as department head, Ray developed the classroom teaching and theory that are now part of the auto mechanics course.

In his written philosophy of teaching, prepared for submission along with other personal data and recommendations to the teacher of the year selection committee, Olson states, "The automobile has been of interest to me since I became big enough to climb on the running board of my father's Mitchell auto." Olson's career centered in mechanics from the time he graduated from high school to the present.

Receiving his diploma from Lincoln high school in 1935, Ray began work that same year as an auto mechanic at the O.K. One Stop Service owned by his father in Thief River Falls. It was from his father that he gained his basic knowledge in auto mechanics on which he was to build throughout his career. He later was employed in Baudette as an auto mechanic, by L.B. Hartz as a truck mechanic and, while in the U.S. Army Air Corp from 1942 to 1946, studied and worked in aircraft mechanics.

Then in 1958 Ray had a choice to make. He could continue working as a truck mechanic at L.B. Hartz or go into teaching. Looking back, Olson recalls the difficulty of the decision. He also recalls the generosity of his employer, L.B. Hartz, who offered to give Ray a one-year leave of absence to try teaching. During this time, Mr. Hartz said he would continue to pay Ray's medical insurance and if he chose to return to his mechanic job, Ray would keep his seniority. After 20 years Ray still expresses intense gratitude for the opportunity this gave him. "And," Olson says, "There are no regrets on my decision to become a teacher."

Since he bagan his employment at the vocational school, Olson has completed nearly 50 workshops and classes in auto mechanics and education methods. Ray explains that when he began his teaching career, although he knew the workings of automobiles, he didn't have the best method of materials presentation. Consequently, the first three courses he enrolled in after assuming the AVTI position dealt with vocational teaching, analysis grading and testing.

One of the most difficult things for Olson to do when he began teaching was to allow the students to do their own work. When they were having difficulty Ray had to supress his "impatience with the lack of progress and refrain from getting in there and doing it for them." He knew that failure and forebearance were important parts of learning and he has trained himself to "demonstrate and advise, but keep my hands off."

Olson's teaching philosophy also states, "I must analyze

C of C Annual Meeting Set For Wednesday

Sixty-fifth annual meeting of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce will be held in the form of a candlelight dinner dance on Wednesday at the Best Western banquet rooms in Thief River Falls.

Social time will start at 6 p.m. with dinner to be served at 7:30 p.m., according to Norm Cruse, executive vice president of the organization.

Woodburning Workshop Set For March 3

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute is sponsoring a one-day woodburning workshop on Saturday, March 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Best Western Inn, Thief River Falls. A $10 registration fee includes tuition, coffee, rolls and lunch.

Leland Hayes, the workshop leader, will discuss the economics of wood heating, design and function of woodburners, types of wood available, planning and estimating your project, proper installation, operation and maintenance, proper flue systems and safety.

Pre-register by February 28 by contacting the adult education office at the area vocational-technical institute, highway one east.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Ole Farstads, Newfolden Mark 63rd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Farstad of Newfolden were honored on Thursday, January 18, when a number of relatives and friends gathered at their home to help them celebrate their 63rd wedding anniversary.

It was also Farstad's 85th birthday. He was born Jan. 18, 1984 at Newfolden and was married on Jan. 18, 1916 at Minneapolis to Anna Offerdahl of Ringbo.

Following their marriage, the couple farmed in New Solum township, Marshall county, as well as other places, until they settled on a farm five miles north of Newfolden. There they lived and farmed for 44 years. For the past five years, they have made their home in Newfolden.

The couple had seven children. Living are Orville Farstad, Newfolden; Mrs. Clifford (Adeline) Dahl, St. Paul; Mrs. Maynard (Eunice) Nelson, Mrs. Doran (Edith) Knoke and Mrs. Albert (Delores or Dolly) Berg, all of Minneapolis. A daughter, Opal, died at the age of 11 years. One son, Norman, is also deceased. The Farstads also have nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Serving as hostess at the joint celebration was Mrs. Jim Olson, Thief River Falls, Mrs. Farstad's niece. Mrs. Olson had also baked and decorated the two-tiered cake that centered the luncheon table. The cake was iced in white and decorated with pink ribbon icing. Topping the cake was an artificial floral arrangement, featuring pink flowers, babies' breath and greenery, centered by a pink 63 emblem.

Relatives and friends present were Laverne and Ardella Boman of Warren, Hazel Christenson and Mr. and Mrs. James Olson of Thief River Falls; Sally Holmlund, Argyle; and Lucille Skadsem, Mrs. Bertha Tunheim, Clara Sundberg, Elida Moen and son, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoberg, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Harstad, Mrs. Christ Hjelle, Florence Anderson, Otto Anderson and Edward and Helga Nelson, all of Newfolden.

The couple also received greetings from Mr. and Mrs. Christ Sostad of Middle River, and telephone calls from their daughters: Dolores and Adeline, and from a sister, Ida Bossman, all of the Cities.

Valley Home Events Reported By Ella Overum

Highlighting the past month's activities at Valley Home was the joint birthday party for the residents who observed their birthdays during January. The event was held on Friday afternoon, January 12.

Those honored, and the date of their birthdays, were Chester Keefe, January 8; Albert Bergeron, January 12; Thea Urdahl, January 12; Earl Yonke, January 20; Gina Belland, January 21; Ida Johnson, January 23; Edgar Olson, January 24; and Maynard Morrissey and Annie Lindblom, January 30.

For the occasion, the birthday cake and ice cream for all the residents and staff at Valley Home were provided by Mrs. Thea Urdahls' son, Inar Mikkelson. Those noting birthdays were presented with a birthday card and cash gift, as well as a birthday card from the Catholic Daughters.

The party included a brief program with Maynard Morrisey reading, "Birthdays are a gift from God." Tammy Rude read a biography written by Annie Lindbloom; and Gunhild Ose and Ella Overum provided a vocal selection. The program concluded with everyone joining in singing the "Happy Birthday" song.

Other events during the month at Valley Home have been Bible studies every Tuesday at 9 a.m., with Mrs. Knute Jore leading the discussion; movies and popcorn every Thursday evening and visits every other Tuesday from the AVTI cosmetology students, who shampoo and do the residents' hair;

During the month, residents and staff at Valley Home were saddened by the death of Myrtle Troland, an active resident at the home. Mrs. Troland was a member of the residents council, a choir member, and an experienced seamstress, who assisted many of the residents in altering their clothes. Approximately 20 residents and several staff members attended the funeral services at Trinity church with administrators Mr. and Mrs. L. Brekke. Transportation was provided by the Trinity church bus.

Worship services during the month were held by Rev. Gene Broughton of Goodridge with Mrs. Alice Skreland as accompanist; Rev. Jonathan Law of the Unived Methodist church, Rev. Richard Larson of Zion Lutheran church; and Rev. Berton Hushagen of Trinity, who was in charge of the communion services. Services were held every Sunday at 3 p.m., with Rev. George DeWall and family of the Bible Baptist church in charge. Sunday morning services were conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Emery Flaten, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dyrud and Mrs. Merle Knutson of Newfolden, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brekke.

Special visitors at the home in January were Mrs. Gary Ellingson, who is currently residing at Omaha, Neb., where her husband is attending Bible school; and Charles and Joyce Knapp of Minneapolis, who together with a seminary out-reach team were in this city to present a program at Our Saviour's Lutheran church.

Special ice cream treats were served during the month by Ethel Nelson, Earl Yonke, Gina Belland, Chester Keefe, Ida Johnson and Maynard Morrissey. Lunch was also served one Saturday afternoon by a circle from Trinity Lutheran church.

Residents also enjoyed the two magazine racks with monthly magazines provided by Ekeren Drug.

It was also noted that Martin Karlstad, a resident at the Home, was the oldest fisherman at a recent fishing derby.

Newcomers Club To Meet at 1221 Greenhill

Thief River Falls Newcomers club will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the Eleanor Kuchowicz home at 1221 Greenhill Drive.

The event, which will include a moneymaking project for the club, is open to all women new to the area. Members are encouraged to bring friends.

Winslow Chapter to Plan Grand Family's Visit

Winslow chapter, 182, Order of Eastern Star, will meet Wednesday, February 14, at 8 p.m., at the local Masonic hall.

Important business, regarding the visit of the Grand Family, will be discussed. All members are urged to attend.

Local Credit Women Will Meet Wednesday

Regular monthly meeting of Credit Women International will be held Wednesday, February 14, at 6:30 p.m., at Lon's.

Guest speaker will be Marilyn Gustafson of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. Her topic will be "Communicating Effectively."

All members are encouraged to attend.

Jaycee Women Meet Agenda Is Announced

"Personal Dynamics" workshop and "People of the Plains" art exhibit are on the agenda for the Jaycee Women monthly meeting tonight, February 12. The first two segments of a seminar on personal dynamics will be presented beginning at 7 p.m. in the law enforcement center with Myrnell Brusegaard leading the discussion.

At 8 p.m. members will go to Northwest regional library for the opening reception of an American Indian art exhibit entitled "People of the Plains — 1820-1850." The show includes 31 watercolors and prints and nine Indian artifacts.

Following the viewing of the exhibit, a business meeting will be held back at the law enforcement center. Hostesses for the evening will be Carolyn Hamness and Diane Paulson.

There are three types of noise most often found in plumbing systems — water hammer, whistling and chattering. February is a good month for potato lovers. Mother Nature smiled on U.S. potato fields this year to help growers produce the biggest, highest quality potato crop ever. Right now this abundant supply of superb potatoes is in supermarkets and at real inflation-fighting prices.

The potato harbors more than economy under its tasty skin. It is a good nutrition buy, providing substantial amounts of vitamin C and iron, some B vitamins and many trace minerals for just pennies per serving. And because everyone loves potatoes, you can be sure your family is getting a good serving of the vegetable nutrition they need when you include potatoes on the menu.

Garden Patch Meatball Soup combines all the virtues of potatoes: great economy, good nutrition, few calories and unbeatable taste. It's an easy and hearty soup, chock full of vegetables and good homemade flavor.

At today's food prices, you need potatoes in your daily menus to get the most value out of your food dollar.

GARDEN PATCH MEATBALL SOUP

- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
- 2 medium carrots, peeled and sliced
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 4 medium celery stalks and tops, coarsely chopped
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup chopped parsley

In large kettle or Dutch oven, combine potatoes, carrots, onion, celery, tomatoes, salt and 3 cups water. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, combine ground beef, egg and parsley. Shape into 1-inch balls. Add to soup. Simmer, covered, 15 minutes or until meatballs are tender. Season to taste. Skim soup, if necessary, to remove any fat. Makes 4 servings, about 300 calories each.

Future Events Set By Nordland Rosemalers

Nordland Rosemaling association board of directors met Saturday to plan the upcoming activities of the organization. Group will have an exhibit and demonstration at the winter shows in Crookston February 18 and 19 and members are asked to bring articles to sell and exhibit. Demonstrations will be given on Sunday at 1 p.m. by Diane Edwards and on Monday at 1 p.m. by Lucille Langheid.

There will be a spring exhibition and banquet in April in Grand Forks. The first exhibition was well attended by the public and plans are underway for another public exhibition. Association has close to 200 members from North Dakota, several surrounding states and Canada.

Rosemaling, the Norwegian floral folk art, has had a great resurgence in the United States in the past 10 years and has become very popular locally. The association will sponsor a workshop in October with Addie Pittlekow, a well-known Minneapolis rosemaler.

Nordland Rosemaling association has been compiling a record of antique rosemaling in this area and would appreciate hearing from anyone who has antique rosemaling or woodcarving from Norway so that it can be added to the records.

Anyone interested in rosemaling may join the organization by writing Nordland Rosemaling Association, Box 662, Grand Forks, N.D., 58201.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Gordon Beck
102 Cottonwood
Thief River Falls

Cream Puffs

½ cup butter
1 cup flour
1 cup water
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 eggs

Method: In a sauce pan, combine salt, butter and water. Bring to a boil. When boiling, add flour all at once, stirring constantly until mixture leaves side of pan. Remove from heat and add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating constantly. Drop by spoonsful on a slightly dusted cookie pan, about two inches apart. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Turn off oven, open door and leave cream puffs in oven to cool for approximately one hour.

Cream Filling

1½ cups scalded milk
two-thirds cup sugar
½ cup flour
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt

Method: Beat sugar, flour, eggs and salt together. Stir into scalded milk. Cook until thick, about 5 to 10 minutes, stirring often. When cool, add vanilla to taste. (Mrs. Beck uses about one teaspoon.) Cut slits into cream puffs and fill. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Mrs. Beck stated that this family recipe came from one of her grandmother's cookbooks. The Becks came to this city over three years ago from Bemidji. They reside at 102 Cottonwood with their four children, Kris, a 10th grader; Angie, seventh grade; Shana, third grade, and Kiki, a first grader. Beck is a welder for Lakehead Pipelines. The family attends services at the Evangelical Free church.

MSU Report Shows Many Job Opportunities

More jobs are available, more recruiters are after graduates and more students are finding jobs. That's the conclusion of a report issued this week by the Moorhead state university career planning and placement office concerning the employment status of its 1977-78 graduates.

Ninety-three per cent of the 269 new education graduates registered with that office last year were placed in jobs — 75 per cent in the classroom. And 80 per cent of the 309 registered graduates seeking jobs in business, industry and government found work.

According to the report, that was an improvement over the previous year when 86 per cent of the education grads and 88 per cent of the non-education grads were placed.

Teaching vacancies listed with the university placement office numbered 7,012 last year, up about 1,700 positions, or 30 per cent. Job vacancies in non-teaching career fields totaled 1,346, up 500 or nearly 60 per cent. Recruiters from 53 companies and government offices held interviews on campus.

"Considering certain negative predictions about the possibility of college graduates finding jobs, we're pleased with these figures," said Mel Schmitz, director of the university's career planning and placement office. "Our placement record is well above the average for other four-year public and private institutions in Minnesota. This is partly due to the strong economy in this region, but also reflects on the quality of programs at Moorhead state."

One Moorhead state accounting grad with a 3.8 grade point average took a job with a starting salary of $14,400 a year; a computer science major started out at $14,500. Those were the highest salaries reported to the placement office last year, Schmitz said. Other non-teaching graduates received salaries averaging from $9,000 for some liberal arts fields to an average of $11,200 for accounting majors.

"But already this year, after last year's placement books were closed, a computer science graduate was picked for an $18,500 a year starting job," said Forster Davis, associate director of placement. "According to what we see, jobs in computer science, management and accounting lead the field in employment opportunities outside of education."

Because of apparent shortages, positions in math, science and special education are the best prospects in teaching. Demand was also high for teachers of industrial and distributive education, English, and speech pathology.

As in previous years, Schmitz said, combinations of majors, or majors and minors, or the ability to direct extra curricular activities, were top advantages for job-hunting teachers.

Average beginning salary for teachers in Minnesota with a bachelor's degree and no experience was $9,800 in the 1978-79 school year. In North Dakota, the average starting salary was about $8,800-$9,000.

Most significant factors preventing graduates from finding jobs are the geographic restrictions they impose on themselves. Openings are still available in almost all teaching fields, Schmitz said, although they are usually in smaller rural communities. "Some smaller schools are simply unable to fill vacancies," he said.

Moorhead state graduates found jobs in 19 states. Most, however, were placed in Minnesota (60 per cent) and North Dakota (30 per cent). For the first time, though, more than half of the elementary education graduates found jobs outside of Minnesota.

About 80 per cent of the non-education graduates and 87 per cent of the education graduates registered with the Moorhead state placement office last year. At the same time, alumni looking for non-teaching jobs through the placement office more than doubled, up from 150 to 360 last year. That included a 73-year-old alumnus who was looking for a job change.

Copies of the report are available free by writing the Office of Career Planning and Placement, 210 Owens Hall, Moorhead State University, Moorhead, MN 56560.

INITIATION of new members was held Tuesday at the American Legion auxiliary meeting in Thief River Falls. Badger Dairy Herd Has High Two-Year-Old

A two-year-old dairy cow from the Sheldon Erickson herd of Badger has received distinction in Minnesota. "Ericksonlane Combination Sissy" has been named second high producing two-year-old individual in the state.

As a junior two-year-old in her first lactation, this cow produced 23,290 pounds of milk and 745 pounds of butterfat. She competed with all other registered Holstein two-year-olds in Minnesota.

Sire of the animal is Paclamar Combination and her dam is Ericksonlane Pioneer I Betty. Her name will be added to the all-time leaders list of the Holstein-Friesian association of America.

Jaycee Strike For M.S. Week Is Postponed

Gov. Al Quie has proclaimed February 11-17 as "Jaycees Strike for M.S. Week" in Minnesota, but the Thief River Falls Jaycees are postponing the local observance to February 25-March 3.

Postponement of the event, which is a cooperative venture between the Jaycees and bowling establishments to raise funds for the fight against multiple sclerosis, is due to the city tournament being held at Family Bowl in Thief River Falls.

Details on the event will be announced in later issues of the Times.

Okay Project In Marshall Co.

Contracts totaling $5,619,783 for federal-aid improvements in Hennepin, Marshall and Waseca counties and in Ely have been awarded, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) announced, acting for the counties and city.

In Marshall county, Voytilla construction, Warren, was awarded a $46,502 contract for grading, aggregate surfacing and concrete box culvert installation on CSAH 53 at ditch, 8.6 miles northwest of Grygla.

To begin June 4, work is to be completed within 30 working days.

Offer Meet To Aid Farmers In Crop Planning

"What to Grow in 1979" will be the topic of a meeting scheduled for Thursday in the basement meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude by 3 p.m.

Offered by the Pennington county extension service, the meeting is designed to assist farmers in planning their 1979 cropping program. Topics to be discussed include the supply, demand and price prospects for 1979 crops; budgeting costs and returns for the 1979 crops; 1979 government farm program — making the participation decision; marketing management, storage costs and pricing decisions.

Speakers for the program will be Phil Bergland, ASCS county executive director; Bill Penning, area extension agent in farm management; and Terry Courneya, county extension director.

BRANCHES OF THE VINE Christian outreach team from Concordia college in Moorhead will appear at Holt American Lutheran parish Sunday, presenting a program of music at 9:30 a.m. at Silver Creek church and 11 a.m. at Nazareth church. This is one of 20 such groups touring on weekends as part of the college's student ministry program. There is no admission charge but a free will offering will be taken. Music presented will range from hymns to contemporary selections.

Common Tax Filing Errors Lose Money

Various tax deductions, adjustments, exclusions, exemptions and credits available are so numerous that a short article such as this couldn't list them all, notes the Minnesota society of certified public accountants.

Rather than try to cover all possibilities for reducing your tax bill, let's zero in on the common errors that cause people to pay more (or less) taxes than they owe.

One widely ignored source of deductions is business expenses. People who work for others tend to assume that such deductions are just for those who own companies, but there are a lot of small tradesmen, and even employees, who incur deductible job-related expenses such as union dues or the cost of tools, work clothes, etc.

Even the investment credit available to businesses for investing in productive capacity can be available to self employed individuals, such as the photographer who bought a new camera or the plumber who bought a new truck. It's good for up to 10 per cent of the purchase price.

Also frequently overlooked are the costs of trying to find a new job, especially when those efforts fail to materialize in a new position.

Easy to let slip by are the deductions for unreimbursed moving expenses when a change of residences, although made primarily for reasons of personal preference, also qualifies as a move prompted by a change of job locations. Anytime a change of living quarters coincides with a change of job sites, look into the possibility of deducting moving expenses.

On the other hand a business expense deduction that is frequently claimed but shouldn't be is the office in the home. For an employee with an office elsewhere, such a claim is almost certain to be denied.

Similarly, job training or professional education costs cannot be deducted if the courses prepare you for a new or better position; they're deductible only if they improve your skills for your present job.

Other common tax-preparation errors include:

—Failing to deduct small interest charges paid on charge accounts, credit cards, etc., which can add up to a substantial amount.

—Failing to deduct interest previously reported as income, which you later forfeited because of a premature withdrawal from your account.

—Declaring as income so-called "dividends" on insurance policies, which are, in effect, refunds of premiums.

—Failing to deduct state and local taxes applicable to prior years which were paid during the current tax year. Conversely, failing to declare as income state and local tax refunds from previous years.

—Including drivers or auto license fees or taxes paid on alcohol or tobacco among deductible state and local taxes.

—Neglecting to claim an exemption for a child over 19 in the year the youngster finishes school, even though he was in school for five months of the year and the taxpayer parent provided more than half his support.

—For persons who held two or more jobs during the year, failing to claim the refund of excess social security taxes withheld.

You can avoid problems if you remember that when filing your return it isn't necessary, as a rule, to include receipts to verify your deductions. If you do wish to attach receipts or other supporting documentation, send a photocopy and keep the originals with your permanent records.

Should you send such documentation at all? Although it is not asked for, it could be a good idea sometimes. In the case of claims that are out of the ordinary — contributions way in excess of the average for your income bracket, for example — sending along proof could answer IRS's questions in advance and head off an audit; but no originals.

Regarding "average" deductions, there is a common tendency not to claim a full deduction, although it's valid, because it is higher than usual. There is no magic to the published "averages". They cannot be claimed in lieu of actual expenses. Nor does the fact that your deductions coincide with the "average" mean that an audit is averted.

The saddest common error — saddest because it cheats people who can least afford it — has been the failure of parents with incomes under $8,000 to take the earned income credit which can put up to $400 in their pockets. IRS is attempting to overcome this "error" by so rewriting the tax forms that if a taxpayer qualifies he will receive the credit without having to apply for it.

Finally, there are the petty mistakes caused by carelessness that can cause your return to be bounced back, thus delaying any refund you may have coming. Under this heading are failing to sign the return (both names on a joint return), making mistakes in arithmetic, using the wrong tables and mailing the return at the last minute without getting proof that you beat the deadline.

From a tax advisor's point of view, a regretable error is the failure by some taxpayers to dig through their records for the year to learn exactly how much they received and spent and for what, on the assumption that whoever prepares their returns can do the best job for them without this essential information. They can't.

The person who has difficulty hearing when his back is turned to a speaker may be exhibiting one of the signs of a possible hearing loss. Such individuals should have a hearing test.

Programs For Homemakers Set At RRVWS

Variety of programs of special interest to homemakers will be presented from February 16 to February 19 at the National Guard armory, Crookston.

Sponsored by the women's division of the Red River Valley winter shows, the various demonstrations will deal with a wide range of subjects from sewing with sheets to crafts for the uncrafty.

Friday's schedule will begin at 10:30 a.m. with Carol Malm's topic, sewing with sheets. Malm has presented fashion and fabric programs in the Grand Forks public schools, the AVTI, and the University of North Dakota. At 1:30 p.m., macrame with lights will be demonstrated by Jan Broeckel, a member of several artist-craftsman groups in North Dakota and Minnesota. Involved in East Grand Forks' continuing education program, she has presented many workshops featuring various aspects of macrame for home and office decor as well as in fashion accessories. Sausage making will be the topic at 2:30 p.m. demonstrated by Jean Castle, a home economist from the Bemidji area.

Saturday's schedule will begin with an informative program on the nutritional importance of pork and misconceptions of nitrates in pork, by the Minnesota Pork Producers. At 1:30 p.m., Vangie Cookson, author of four books on pine cone crafts, will present a demonstration. She has held several programs at the Concordia language school, Bemidji, in addition to a workshop at Brower Inn at Itasca state park. Donna Leake will demonstrate Rag Rugs on a Wheel at 2:30. This was chosen as a mini-course in her fourth grade class for a Bicentennial project.

Demonstrations on Sunday will feature silk screening and folk art with Kay Rosengren, who has exhibited and sold work at many area art shows. Linda Bowhall's topic, clothes for kids, will begin the Monday schedule at 10:30 a.m. Barb Klixbull's demonstration of crafts for the uncrafty will be of special interest to many in the area at 1:30 p.m., followed by a Minnesota Cowbelles program on buying beef by cost per serving, by Irene Wishard.

Daily admission to the armory will be $2 per person.

Olson Named AVTI Teacher Of The Year

my trade and the many yearly changes in automobiles to update the teachable content." Attendance at various workshops on new methods and products consumes much of Rays summer vacation time and in 1961 and 1963 he took summer jobs in the auto mechanics trade to stay in touch with the latest techniques.

Maintaining good relationships with the automotive corporations is also helpful in keeping up-to-date on innovations. Through cooperation with General Motors, Ford Motor Company, Chrysler and American Motors, Ray has been supplied with various training aids and working models for his classroom, and received many hours of instruction in new techniques.

A member of the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellance, the AVTI employee was one of the first two persons in Thief River Falls to become certified as a general mechanic in all eight testing areas. Olson is also a member of the National Education Association, Minnesota Education Association, Minnesota Trade and Industrial Association, American Vocational Association, and Minnesota Vocational Association. He is secretary of the auto mechanics section of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA).

Regarding his relationship with his students who have ranged in age from 16 to 45, Ray says he likes to keep it relaxed and informal. A letter of recommendation from a former student of Olson's, Duane Brown, states, "When I went to work in the auto mechanics field, I called on him many times for help." This seems to indicate that Ray, is indeed, successful in keeping the lines of communication open between himself and his students.

The fact that two of his former students, including Duane Brown, met certification requirements and are now fellow instructors at the AVTI in auto mechanics is something Ray is proud of. Norman Halsa, who was a student of Olson's from 1973-75, began teaching at the AVTI in 1978 and states, "Mr. Olson's teaching of theory and repair of components has been a great help for me to achieve my goals in life. I am honored to follow in Mr. Olson's footsteps and to also teach in the auto mechanics program. I would not be in this position if it were not for Mr. Olson's teachings and professional attitude."

Others, in the commercial auto mechanics industry, also exhibit confidence in Ray Olson's abilities as an instructor. Former student of Olson and present service manager at Jackson Ford-Mercury in Roseau, Dennis Johnson, comments, "I do not hesitate to call on Ray when we have a position open for a mechanic. We have had four of his students through the years and at the present time have two employed along with myself."

Tom Kenville of Thomas Motors in Thief River Falls states, "I have under my employment nine graduates of the AVTI system. They are all excellent employees, and Mr. Olson is continually checking on his graduates to insure their well-being along with complete enployee satisfaction of their efforts."

Community activities of the AVTI candidate for teacher of the year include membership in the Elks, American Legion, Trinity Lutheran church, Lake Agassiz Health Council, 40 et 8, Thief River Falls Curling club, Hockey Booster club, American Diabetic Association, and the Minnesota Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. Ray is married and the father of two children, Paul and Brent. He was one of the three organizers of the local Curling club, was the first city arena manager and served as an on-the-ice grade school hockey coach from 1960 to 1968.

While serving as hockey coach, Ray put in approximately 15 skating hours a week. This and his other community and career activities take on a new light when we consider the fact that Ray suffers from severe arthritis which has necessitated two total knee replacements and one total hip replacement. Olson has also been a diabetic for 29 years. Despite these handicaps he has maintained an excellent work record. The AVTI offices report he has 148 unused sick leave days.

Ray's philosophy of teaching states that a vocational teacher must "instill pride of craftsmanship in his students. . .and must also upgrade students in such things as punctuality, enthusiasm, cleanliness, safety, loyalty, friendliness, and courtesy." If example can do it, Ray's function is accomplished. Patterned after their instructor, Ray Olson's students will become "rare individuals that do their assigned jobs in a dependable and professional manner with very little fanfare."

A SENSE OF HUMOR has stood Olaf and Beatrice Stolaas in good stead through 46 years of married life. The Deer Park township farm couple havs been selected as Valley Farmer and Homemaker of 1979 in Pennington county and will be honored at a banquet February 20 at the Red River Valley winter shows in Crookston. The Norwegian crossing sign is displayed conspicuously by the driveway in their farm yard.

more of a principal crop, however, and was used both as a cash crop and for livestock feed.

Beatrice Bammerud of the Deer Park area became Olaf's bride in 1932 when they were married at the Oklee parsonage. "We didn't advertise it like they do now ahead of time," Olaf said. "It was a very small wedding and we told very few people about it." The marriage followed a courtship which started with the two young people being given a ride in someone else's car ("We sat in each corner of the seat and didn't look at each other!") and included such common social events as house parties, dances at the Highlanding pavilion and barn dances at Singer's barn and the Frank Race farm.

As the couple farmed together they raised turkeys, chickens and hogs and milked up to 20 cows. There were no hatcheries or processing plants so they kept their own turkey hens each year and produced their own flock in the spring. In the fall they were killed and dry-picked at the farm for sale to individuals or to a number of buyers in the area who shipped turkeys to far-off markets.

"They never used to take the insides out, would you believe that?" Olaf recalls. "The buyers used to pack the turkeys in barrels and ship them by train to Chicago or Neew York. I know one creamery manager who lost a lot of money because the turkeys he bought spoiled in shipment. It's funny any of them were fit to eat by the time they got to eastern markets."

In the 1950's Olaf and Beatrice bought another 80 acres of land to the south of their property. With the 110 acres of the homestead, 40 additional acres purchased by Olaf's parents and the 110 acres Olaf bought to start farming in the late 1920's, the Stolaas farm grew to 340 acres.

The farm is now operated by Olaf's son Orlan who lives with his family in a separate house on the same farm yard. The houses are separated by a circular driveway complete with a conspicuous orange and black sign which brazenly warns, "Caution: Norwegian Crossing". The Stolaas' daughter Beulah, now Mrs. Lester Vad, also lives in the Oklee community.

In earlier years Olaf helped form a cooperative store and creamery at River Valley and served on the board of directors, chairing the co-op store board. River Valley community had a blacksmith shop and hall as well as the store and creamery at that time. Improvement of roads and vehicles spelled the end to the need for the River Valley community businesses and they closed.

Olaf also served on the school board for Pleasant View District 34 and was a member of the township board for a number of years. In his semi-retirement (he still does a lot of tractor driving during the spring, summer and fall) he has taken up a little wood carving and recently has been caught up in the macrame craft.

Beatrice likes to raise flowers in the summer and helps care for the family vegetable garden. She is a member of the ALCW group at Ebenezer church located about seven miles from the farm. Winter pastimes are knitting and crocheting, including the creation of a number of crocheted afghans.

Walls in the Stolaas home are hung with family photos, Olaf's macrame items, craft objects and plaques with various messages and slogans. "Do you have a place to hang the Valley Farmer and Homemaker plaque you'll get next Tuesday?" Olaf and Beatrice were asked.

"We'll find a place," they smiled.

N. Brown Is On Deployment In Mediterranean

Navy fire control technician second class Norman L. Brown, son of Arthur R. and Alma G. Brown of Thief River Falls, is currently on a deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany, operating from Gaeta, Italy, as a unit of the U.S. sixth fleet.

Thus far in the cruise, the Albany has participated in various training exercises with other sixth fleet units and those of allied nations. He and his shipmates have visited Athens, Greece and Alexandria, Egypt.

The Albany is 672 feet long, displaces 17,500 tons and carries a crew of 1,000 officers and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns, missile launchers and an antisubmarine rocket launcher.

A 1971 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1973 graduate of Northland community college, Thief River Falls, with an associate in arts degree, Brown joined the Navy in October 1974.

Clarence Larson Services Held Today At Holt

Clarence O. Larson, 93, of Holt, a resident of Excel Township, Marshall county for many years, died Thursday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Clarence O. Larson were held today (Monday) at 11 a.m., at the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt. Rev. Jay Borchert officiated. Soloists were Mrs. Karen Dalager and Rev. Clifford Randall. Mrs. John Anderson served as organist. Interment will be in the Holt cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Robert Nyvall, Walter Steinhauer, Adolph Steinhauer, Donald Steinhauer, Edgar Horien and Fredrick Voth.

Clarence Odvin Larson, a son of the late Carl and Eline Larson, was born May 7, 1885 at Eau Claire, Wis. At the age of one year, he moved with the family to Minnesota, settling in Excel township, Marshall county. There he attended school and grew to manhood. In 1912, he moved to Mud Lake township, where he opened the Golden Valley store and post office.

He was married June 25, 1913 to Bertha Moe at the Moe farm in Agdar township. After their marriage, they homesteaded and farmed in Golden Valley. In 1929 he returned with his family to the original Larson farm, where he had since resided.

He is survived by his wife, six daughters: Mrs. Eleanor Olson, Albert Lea; Mrs. Louis (Vivian) Sagstuen, Newfolden; Miss Marian Larson, St. Paul; Mrs. Norman (Eileen) Johnson, Bellevue, Wash.; Mrs. Duane (Iris) Berggren, Strandquist and Mrs. Richard (Ardelle) Daly, Minnetonka; two sons: Clayton Larson, Plummer; and Glen, Chicago, Ill.; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters: Mrs. Clara Tharaldson and Mrs. Ragna Tollefsrud, both of Dallas, Ore., and one brother, Arthur Larson, Troutdale, Ore.

He was preceded in death by three sons, two brothers, a sister and his parents.

Florence Hince Dies Saturday In Wisconsin

Mrs. Florence Hince, 79, of Oklee, the former Florence Lambert, died Saturday in the Memorial hospital at Medford, Wis., where she had resided for the past four years.

Liturgy of the funeral for Mrs. Florence Hince will be offered Wednesday at 11 a.m., at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee with Rev. Keough Patnode officiating.

Recitation of the prayers will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., at the Patterson Funeral home, Oklee, where the body will repose after 3 p.m., Tuesday.

A complete obituary will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Services Held For Mrs. Peter Montry, 77

Mrs. Peter (Margaret) Montry, 77, of this city died Thursday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Peter Montry were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church with Rev. James Bernauer officiating. Mary Amundson was the organist. Vocal selections were by the Ladies choir. Interment will be in the Blessed Sacrament cemetery in Greenbush with the Belmont Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Montry, the former Margaret Saice, was born June 11, 1901 in Mahnomen to Gabriel and Elizabeth Saice, Sr. She attended school at White Earth and Mahnomen, graduating from high school there. On July 6, 1926, she was married at Badger to Peter Montry. The couple lived in Greenbush until 1965, when they moved to Viking. In 1970, they came to this city, where they have since resided.

She is survived by her husband, four sons: Paul Montry, Minneapolis; Peter, Jr., Dallas, Tex.; Francis, Fargo, N.D.; and Fred, Thief River Falls; two daughters: Mrs. Leonard (Rose) Budig, Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. David (Doris Jean) Erickson, Fargo, N.D.; 20 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren; two brothers, Gabe Saice, Jr., and Al Saice, both of Minneapolis; and one sister, Mrs. Earl (Alvina) Villburn, also of Minneapolis.

She was preceded in death by two sons, two daughters, four brothers and one sister.

Rhonda Ford, 3 Dies Jan. 23 In Nashville

Rhonda Kary Ford, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ford, died unexpectedly January 23 at her home in Nashville, Tenn.

Funeral services for Rhonda Ford were held Tuesday, January 30, at Broadmoor Church of Christ in Nashville with Brother Colly Caldwell officiating. Interment was in Leoni Cemetery at Woodbury, Tenn.

Rhonda Karry Ford was born Dec. 11, 1975 at Nashville, Tenn., to Bruce and Alayne Berg Ford.

Surviving are her parents, a brother, Shane Robert; and her grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berg, rural Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford, Woodbury, Tenn.

Ole Dahle, 97, Of Deer Park Dies Saturday

Ole Dahle, 97, a resident of Deer Park township, Pennington county, died Saturday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Ole Dahle will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m., at the Ebenezer Lutheran church, north of Oklee. Rev. Clifford Randall will officiate. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until 11 a.m., Tuesday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

CORRECTION

In the obituary notice for Jeffrey M. Kleinwachter, 12, of Stephen, that appeared in the Feburary 5 edition of The Times, several lines of type were omitted, leaving the reader with the impression that the services were held in Moorhead. Services were held at St. Stephens Catholic church at Stephen with Rev. John Kleinwachter of St. Joseph's parish, Moorhead, officiating. Assisting were Msgr. John R. McAleer of St. Stephen's parish, and Rev. Frank Kulhawik of the Assumption Caktholic church of Florian.

The Times regrets the omission.

Our clergymen inconspicuously minister to our spiritual needs, seven days each week. They are always available for sick calls, weddings, personal problems and death. We seldom give enough thought to the burdens that our clergymen so cheerfully bear.

Although their work is spiritually rewarding, they both deserve and appreciate our expression of gratitude.

Respectfully,

Fournier Is RLF Sno-Fest Queen Winner

Chosen 1979-80 Sno-Fest queen during annual Red Lake Falls sno-fest activities was Suzanne Fournier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fournier of Red Lake Falls. Suzanne, a senior at Lafayette high school, was the winner of the talent and evening gown competition during the competition for Miss Red Lake Falls and was also chosen Miss Congenialty. Her talent number was a vocal solo for which she accompanied herself on piano. Fournier will compete this summer in the Thief River Falls aquacade pageant.

It Pays To Shop At Home

SOPHOMORE BARBARA PFEIFER of Lincoln high school recently returned from St. Paul where she participated in the Minnesota youth leadership seminar January 26-28. Barbara, who received sponsorship from the Thief River Falls Jaycees, was one of 105 sophomores from throughout the state selected for participation on the basis of their emerging abilities to lead. Purpose of the seminar was to give the students a chance to utilize their abilities by providing interaction with various successful business, political and community leaders. Hosting the seminar, which was held at the St. Paul Radisson hotel, were the St. Paul Jaycees.

Pettersen Is New Health Commissioner

Dr. George Richard Pettersen has assumed his duties as Minnesota's new commissioner of health. He succeeds Dr. Warren R. Lawson, who will remain with the state department of health as director of the division of personal health services.

The 55-year-old Dr. Pettersen was previously with the Olmsted county health department, where he had served as director since 1974. His appointment to head the state health department was announced earlier by Gov. Albert Quie.

A native of St. Paul, Dr. Pettersen attended St. Paul central high school and the University of Minnesota. He holds a medical degree from the university, and a master's degree in public health from the University of California at Los Angeles.

Before entering the public health field, Dr. Pettersen spent 18 years in private practice, first in Mabel and later in Aitkin. He was with Project Hope in Jamaica and Brazil during 1971-72.

Dr. Pettersen is certified by the American board of preventive medicine with a specialty in public health, and he has served as an instructor in public health at the Mayo graduate school of medicine since 1974. He is a member of the American medical association, Minnesota medical association, Zumbro Valley medical association, the American Public Health Association, Minnesota public health association, American academy of family physicians, American college of preventive medicine and the International health society.

Dr. Pettersen is married to the former Eleanor Hagen of New London. Their son Charles teaches high school physics and chemistry in Aitkin.

Stangeland Seeks Better Farm Prices

Congressman Arlan Stangeland, Seventh district Representative from Minnesota, met with farmers representing the American Agriculture movement Monday, and said "I support the desire of the farmers to attain higher prices for their crops."

"Agriculture, in my view, is the foundation for the American economy," said Stangeland, "and without a stronger price structure the farmers will not be able to continue working, and producing food for our nation."

"I have co-sponsored a joint resolution calling for 90 per cent of parity, and I hope this measure will help return to the farmer the purchasing power needed to run their farms. I understand the costs that are incurred in running a farm, because I have been a farmer all my life," said Stangeland.

Parity is a gauge for purchasing power, and, in effect, it means the amount of goods and services a product will purchase after all expenses for production are paid. Currently a large number of farmers are having to sell their crops well below the cost of production.

Congressman Stangeland said that a poor agricultural economy also hurts the local community. "Without purchasing power, the farmers are not able to buy trucks, cars, farm equipment, feed, livestock, or even fertilizer from the small businesses, and this upsets the whole economy of a community." He added that a healthy farm economy is also important on the local level because it adds jobs to the labor market due to the increased demands for goods and services.

"Inflation, or the threat of inflation, is one of the reasons many people are against higher farm prices, but I don't agree with this philosophy. How could parity increase inflation more than the yearly cost of living increases granted to other segments of the economy? Farmers don't have this option, and they are being priced right out of the free market. Farmers have been the shock absorber for inflation far too long. Without a stronger agricultural economy a great many of our dedicated and hard working farmers will be forced to seek other work, and this country can't afford to lose these people," said Stangeland.

"Women in Action" workshop will be offered by Northland community college at the high school in Roseau Saturday, March 24 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Participants will be able to earn one college credit with the cost of the workshop set at $12 — including coffee, handout materials and speakers.

Subject areas of interest that will be covered are: "Women and the Law," "Starting and Operating a Small Business," "Values for Everyday Living," "Skills for the Developing Manager," "Career Development," and "Coping with Stress".

Resource people who will make presentations at the workshop are: Don Jonson, Thief River Falls AVTI; Judith Rosetta, librarian, Northland community college; Sherryll Irvine, administrator, Oakland Park nursing home; Arlyne Forsberg, Northland community college and Bobbi Kramlich, Northwestern hospital, Thief River Falls.

Who is the workshop for? "It is for all women — those working, those considering taking a job in the future and those who plan to remain homemakers," said Barbara Hauger, business instructor at Northland community college and coordinator of the "Women in Action" workshop.

US Ambassador To Address LO'L Annual Meet

U.S. Ambassador Alonzo L. McDonald will address the 58th annual meeting of Land O'Lakes, Inc. at the downtown Radisson hotel in Minneapolis March 1. News conference is scheduled immediately following the ambassador's address.

McDonald is President Carter's deputy special trade representative and head of the U.S. delegation to the Toyko round of the multilateral trade talks in Geneva, Switzerland. He will report to Land O'Lakes membership on the status and accomplishments of the general agreement on tariffs and trade (GATT) negotiations presently being completed in Geneva.

An expected 3,000 members of the farm supply and food marketing cooperative are expected to attend the annual meeting February 28-March 2.

Opening day agenda includes the chairman's address, the president's message, and the financial report for 1978. Report will reveal an increase in both sales and savings for members over the preceding year when they totaled $1.4 billion and $17.7 million respectively.

Operations reports from Land O'Lakes divisions are scheduled the second day of the meeting in addition to Ambassador McDonald's address.

The annual meeting concludes March 2 when Land O'Lakes voting delegates decide policies for the coming year and elect members to the cooperative's board of directors.

A young farmers program, women's luncheon and program, and product exhibit are among the other events scheduled as part of the 58th Land O'Lakes annual meeting.

Senior Citizen Council Will Meet Tuesday

Senior citizens coordinating council will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, February 13, at 2 p.m. in the library meeting room. Phyllis Schmidt from Pennington county social services will be present to provide information regarding the social services programs in Thief River Falls as they pertain to senior citizens. Tuesday's meeting will also include the planning of the next step to initiate the meals-on-wheels program with-in the city of Thief River Falls.

The council was developed to coordinate existing programs among agencies and organizations in Thief River Falls and to provide an opportunity for those involved with senior citizens programs to share information about their services. All senior citizens and related organizations and agencies are invited to attend the monthly meetings.

Durenberger Assigned To Subcommittees

Senator Dave Durenberger was named last week to three major subcommittees of the finance committee — health, energy and revenue sharing.

"These subcommittees were my first choices and I'm very pleased with the assignments," Durenberger said. "Each of the three subcommittees will have a major impact on the people of Minnesota and they will deal in areas in which I will be able to draw on the resources of Minnesotans.

"The health subcommittee will address hospital cost containment, national health insurance and needed reforms in medicare and medicaid. The energy subcommittee will develop tax credits and other incentives for energy conservation and alternative energy systems.

"Also, I will be the ranking minority member on the revenue sharing subcommittee. I helped develop revenue sharing in 1967 while I was on Governor Harold LeVander's staff and now will have the chance to revitalize the program and strengthen the role of local and state governments."

Child Abuse Workshop To Be Held Tues.

"Child Abuse and Neglect — Detecting and Reporting" is the title of a workshop to be presented Tuesday, February 13, from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. at the University of Minnesota, Crookston in the ag research conference room. Workshop topics will include: child abuse identification, legal mandates, chemical dependency and child abuse, parents anonymous and the dynamics of child protection teams.

Sponsored by the Northwestern mental health center, Polk county social service center, regional correction center and the Crookston regional interdistrict council, the workshop is free and open to the public.

Abraham Quits MN. Extension Director Post

Roland Abraham, director of the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota, will retire Sept. 30, 1979.

Dr. Abraham has been director since 1968, but started his career in 1938 as an assistant county agent in Marshall county. He has been district supervisor of the northwest extension district and served as assistant and associate state director before becoming director.

During the 41 years of Abraham's extension involvement many changes have occurred — many through his effort in working with counties, legislators and university colleagues, said William F. Hueg Jr., deputy vice president and dean of the institute of agriculture, forestry and home economics, in accepting Abraham's decision to retire.

"In addition to his accomplishments for the University of Minnesota, Abraham has been a powerful force in the North Central region and in the United States to further extension service opportunities to serve all citizens. He is a forceful spokesman for providing education where people live," Hueg said.

"His contributions are significant and his leadership will be missed. I have had the privilege of working with Roland for 23 years in several capacities, and our relationships have always been solid and cordial. Many others would say the same."

Abraham has served on many national and regional extension committees. He has been chairman of the North Central regional extension directors; president of the board of directors of "The Extension Journal", the professional extension publication; chairman of the extension committee on organization and policy (ECOP), and chairman of the extension section of the national association of state universities and land grant colleges.

He is past president of the Minnesota adult education association and Epsilon Sigma Phi, national agricultural extension professional fraternity, which awarded him its distinguished service ruby. In collaboration with Robert C. Clark, he is the co-editor of the book "Extension Administration"

Changing Rules In The Middle Of The Game

Alfred Jaffe, an associate professor at the college of insurance in New Tork, wrote recently in "The National Underwriter" about proposed changes in "equalizing" insurance rates. The article makes some interesting points.

He tells about reading in the New York Times after paying a 50-cent toll to cross the George Washington bridge that a change was being made six days later whereby west-bound traffic over the bridge would be free and east-bound traffic would pay double. On the return trip he paid the double fare, although he had paid the 50-cent fare while west-bound a few days earlier.

"There's a parallel to this episode in the current brouhaha over changing the automobile classification rating plans to eliminate age, sex and marital status and perhaps, to a lesser degree, territorial differences," he writes.

"Millions of over-25s, including myself, have already paid our west-bound toll and now they want us to pay it again. . . I don't remember the premium I paid on that second-hand '38 Plymouth with the rumble seat, but it was a great deal more than the then 1-A rate in Brooklyn of $50.05 for 5-10 bodily and injury and $12 for property damage! (A friend of mine — over 25 — wrote to me from Colorado Springs back then that his insurance cost him $24!) And now they're talking of making me pay the double toll and subsidize today's young drivers, ignoring the fact that no one subsidized my relatively high rate back then."

He also talks about paying high city rates all his life before moving to a "hick burg" where auto rates are 42 per cent of what they are where he used to live in the city. And he calls attention to a condensation of an NAII report which brings out the following:

(1) If age were eliminated as a rating criterion, the 83 per cent of the drivers 25 years and older would have to pay 18 per cent more so that the 17 per cent younger drivers could save 42 per cent of their premium.

(2) If sex were eliminated as a rating criterion, the 27 per cent of the under-25 drivers who are female would see their premiums jump by 29 per cent so that the males could get an 8 per cent reduction.

(3) If marital status were eliminated as a rating criterion, married males under 25 would see a 68 per cent jump in rates so their unmarried friends can get a 9 per cent drop in rates.

(4) And if territory were to be eliminated in three states used as a study: (a) 71 per cent of insureds in New Jersey would pay 12 per cent more so that 29 per cent could save 21 per cent of their premiums; (b) 64 per cent of Michigan policyholders would be clipped for 14 per cent in order to save 18 per cent for the remaining 36 per cent; (c) and 75 per cent of the motorists in Louisiana would cough up an additional 20 per cent for the benefit of the other 25 per cent, who would save 33 per cent.

"We can extend this absurd argument to other lines," he states. "Why should I and millions of other frame house dwellers pay more for a home owners policy than those in brick houses? Why should the owner of a restaurant pay more for fire insurance than one who sells metal office furniture. And how about the liquor store owner and the jeweler? Why not even out the cost of their crime insurance with that same dealer in metal office furniture.

"Pity the poor structural steel contractor paying all those comp premiums. C'mon, give him a break. Let the advertising agency subsidize him. And so on, ad nauseum."

He encourages those who are in classes with statistically demonstrated lower accident rates and those who have "paid your west-bound toll" to let it be known loud and clear in the legislative halls and commissioners' offices that they're not going to take this leveling off idea. It is a case of changing the rules in the middle of the game.

Facts of Inflation

Following editorial is from the Morris Tribune:

In fiscal year 1900, the national debt was $1 billion and did not even merit capital letters. That figure did not change until 1917, when it rose to $3 billion, then quadrupled the next year (the end of World War I) to $12 billion. The national debt, still not really worthy of capital letters in 1919, more than doubled again, to $25 billion, then decreased steadily, to $16 billion in 1930.

Rebuilding a depressed economy and fighting a war lifted the national debt over the $100 billion mark (to $143 billion) in 1942, and since then, like almost every other governmental function, the National Debt burden has not only grown, but ballooned virtually ever year since.

In only a handful of years since World War II (1947, 1948, 1951, 1955-57, and 1969) has the National Debt decreased, and in just 62 years, starting in 1917, (according to figures from the Office of Management and Budget) the burden of debt has increased 854 times, using the 1979 estimate of $854 billion. Even more horrifying is the fact that the NATIONAL DEBT, which now deserves strictly capital letters, has grown from $383 billion at the start of this decade.

For all its preaching and promises to the contrary, government has been the chief culprit of inflation while spending the taxpayers' money at rates much faster than it is earned. Through borrowing large sums of money to finance budget deficits, interest rates are driven up, and money sources are dried up, mainly at the expense of business looking for capital funds to invest in new jobs, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Shearon Harris, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, summed up several of the problems of the government's role in deficit spending and inflation in remarks to the national membership.

Harris noted that little can be done to stem the tide of inflation if government continues to move "in the opposite direction," by running repeated deficits, even in good times.

"There is no question," he says, "but that government is the main inflationary force. . . through excessive spending that breeds huge budget deficits. . . through tax policies that discourage saving and investing, and stifle the productivity improvements necessary to restrain inflation. . . and through runaway regulations that impose ever-increasing costs on business."

"To illustrate the size of the problem, the federal government's tax receipts in 1950 averaged $269 per capita. By 1977, the average rose to $1,634. That tells you something about the rapidly growing government scale in our society.

"It's not surprising, therefore," says Harris, "that inflation has become such a plague."

The future, indeed, looks bleak.

If Only We Had Listened

Following editorial is from the Hermantown Star:

This history of humankind is sprinkled with countless opportunities for us to learn essential lessons from perceptive people . . . people who are way ahead of their time. Reflect, if you will, on these remarks given to a small high school graduating class.

"There is no obstacle to further advance" (of society) the increasing price of fuels necessary to work machinery.

"Coal and oil are going up and strictly limited in quanitity. We can take coal out of the mine, but we can never put it back. We can draw oil from subterranean reservoirs but we can never refill them again. We are spend-thrifts in the matter of fuel and are using our capital for our running expenses.

"In relation to coal and oil, the world's annual consumption has become so enormous that we are now actually within measurable distance of the end of the supply. What shall we do when we have no more coal or oil?"

The speaker went on to suggest one alternative.

Alcohol makes a beautiful clean and efficient fuel . . . We can make alcohol from sawdust, the waste products of our mills . . . from cornstalks, and in fact from almost any vegetable matter capable of fermentation. Our growing crops and even weeds can be used. The waste products of our farms are available for this purpose, and even the garbage from our cities."

Scholars at the American Telephone and Telegraph Company came across this address. It was given by Alexander Graham Bell in 1917. A prophecy which becomes clearer as it ages.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Nicked and cut half a dozen times while being shaved, the one-armed man was asked by the barber if he had shaved the customer before. "I don't think so," the injured one replied. "I lost my arm in the war."

OPENING RECEPTION for an art exhibit entitled "People of the Plains: 1820-1850" will be held tonight at the Northwest regional library from 7 to 9 p.m. The exhibit, which runs from Tuesday, February 13, through Monday, March 12, contains 31 watercolors and prints and nine artifacts of the Plains Indians. Shown here is a work entitled "Mah-to-toh-pa" done by George Catlin who is one of three artists whose handiwork will be displayed. Organized by the University of Minnesota Gallery, Twin Cities, the exhibition will be open to the public in Thief River Falls during regular library hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

"Has America been brainwashed by the communists?"

About one year ago, I visited the American Opinion book store in the K-Mart building in Grand Forks, North Dakota. I purchased a booklet written by Robert Welch of the John Birch Society telling how communism got into religion. I am not a member of the John Birch society, but over the years I have purchased much information from this communist fighting organization.

I read this interesting booklet about religion and communism, thinking it may be of interest to our local pastors and priests to read. I looked up all the addresses of the pastors and priests in Kittson county and mailed each a paid subscription for one year to this anti-communist booklet. To my surprise, two pastors in our county refused to accept this anti-communist booklet.

I wish to quote a letter sent by one of the pastors to the publisher: "Please remove my name from your mailing list for the John Birch society Bulletin. I did not request the bulletin, and I do not read it, so please remove it so that I do not need to throw it away." When the free subscription was sent, it was stated it was paid for by Grant Bothum.

Over the last few years I have read what the John Birch society has stated about America's most dangerous threat — atheist Godless communism. I want to offer a reward of $500 to any pastor or priest in our county who can show me any major issue, such as the Vietnam War, where the John Birch society has been wrong in its warnings. This will also apply to anything that is anti-God or anti-American about the organization.

I don't believe there is a pastor or priest within one hundred miles of Kennedy who likes communism any more than I do; but understanding communism is a great deal more difficult than understanding Christianity. The only thing in common between the two philosophies of life is that they both begin with "C". Otherwise, they are 100 per cent apart in the basic fundamentals.

Mistakenly, many Christians believe there is much similarity between Christianity and communism. Amazingly, many Christians would like to have more people believe that this is so. It behooves Americans, if we want to hold onto our basic freedoms, to learn what communism is all about and how the communists operate. We have been fortunate in the USA in recent years because we have had less terrorism of all kinds by the communists than most European countries, but remember, our day may still come unless we wake up.

Many years ago the Lutheran pastors spent much time criticizing our good Christian friends, the Catholics. I think it was a shame. But today, in most church services, it is very uncommon to hear anything said about Godless communism, atheism, the anti-Christ, the Ten Commandments, hell and sin.

The missionaries come back to our churches and talk about how the door is closing in this country and how the door has closed in that country but they never tell who is closing the doors. Red China has about one-fourth of the total population of the world. Ask your pastor how many missionaries his church has in Red China. I'm sure his answer would be none. Do you know why? Because it is a communist Godless government in power. We should pray for the Bible burning communists, but not join them.

I would appreciate hearing some friendly comments and suggestions of how to wake up America from interested anti-communist and pro-American citizens. May God save America.

Grant Bothum
Kennedy, Mn. 56733

To The Editor:

Have just finished reading an article in outdoor section of the "Minnesota Motorist" wherein Dr. David Mech, U.S. Fish and Wildlife research biologist, states that the wolves in a thousand square mile area that he is watching in Northeastern Minnesota are dying of starvation.

First, I would daresay that farmers and ranchers living on the outskirts of this area, who have suffered the depredations of these animals on their livestock for so many years, aren't going to be shedding too many tears over that statement, and justly so.

But secondly, it brings up the question — can an area that contains a high wolf population also support a good deer herd: We are told that without human interference, nature will balance out these things and that predator and prey alike play an equally important role in the sometimes savage drama that is life in the wild.

But in the case of the wolf and the deer it seems that we can't have both at the same time — not in an ideal balance anyway. The deer in an area that contains a large wolf population has to be very vulnerable, particularly during periods of high stress due to deep snow and a shortage of food.

Dr. Mech states that wolves adjust to declining food supplies by expanding their territories, often at the expense of other pack leaders who are killed to gain dominance of the territory. This would lead us to believe that there are some hunting packs that contain a large number of animals. It seems that any deer in an area being hunted by a pack of this size would have a hard time to survive.

How did nature handle these situations before man inhabited this area? Did natural things such as lightning start fires that burned over the mature stands of timber, that have little food value for the deer. Surely, we have always had our share of severe winters in succession. Or hasn't nature done such a good job after all — when it came to a fair shake for the deer? A lot of old homesteaders and veteran hunters claim that when they first came to this area deer were not plentiful.

It seems that all things in nature run in cycles. Not everything can be plentiful at the same time. The deer population is way down in this area — so now the wolves are dying off. When the mature forest has gone through its cycle, conditions should be more favorable for the deer and their numbers should increase again. Or will they?

Meanwhile, Dr. Mech states, and I quote, "Deer hunters have a big stake in this, too. Anything they can do to increase the deer herd would ultimately help the wolves and hunters as well."

There is a claim of priorities but one has to wonder where they are, or what the answer really is.

While the wolf, no doubt, deserves his place in the wild and is only doing what God put him here for, I doubt very much that many hunters would be willing to subsidize any program with their license dollars or whatever, that would have as it's primary objective the propagation of the deer herd to feed the wolves.

Sincerely,
Eldon Larson

Ethnic Program In St. Paul Civic Center

Festival of nations, Minnesota's largest and oldest continuing ethnic celebration, will be in the spotlight in Saint Paul May 4-6 at the Saint Paul civic center arena.

More than 50,000 people are expected to attend from all over Minnesota and surrounding states during the three day event which is sponsored by the International Institute of Minnesota.

Hours are 4 p.m. to midnight Friday, 11 a.m. to midnight Saturday and 12 noon to 9 p.m. Sunday.

The festival, last held in May of 1976, features more than 6,000 people, dressed in colorful, hand-made folk costumes, who represent 50 ethnic groups. All will present their traditional foods, folk dances, folk crafts and exhibitions.

Festival of nations 1979 also will highlight a troupe of 25 dancers and singers from the Faroe Islands (the Faroese are an ancient Scandinavian people who live in the North Atlantic between Scotland and Iceland). Other special out-of-state attractions include an Italian coopersmith (barrelmaker) and a Dutch wooden shoemaker.

Included in the cosmopolitan rendezvous for ethnic groups will be the enticing choices of ethnic food specialties, among them meat pies from the Mediterranean, sausage and sauerkraut from Europe, egg rolls from the Orient and dessert pastries from Scandinavia.

Old and new ethnic artifacts, glassware, hand-made embroidery, ceramics, paper and straw crafts and demonstrations of folk painting await the visitor in the exhibit area of the festival.

The Energy Crisis: Let's Produce a Solution

The unexpected collapse of Iran, until recently the world's second largest oil exporting nation, has flashed a very clear warning to the United States. Our prosperity is precariously linked to the survival and continued friendship of Saudi Arabia — an outpost of stability in an area undergoing change — in some cases, violent change. We have allowed America to become dangerously dependent on unreliable foreign energy supplies.

We now import nearly one-half of all the oil we consume. We must take immediate steps to reduce this vulnerability by promoting greater domestic exploration and production, or risk losing the jobs, abundance and freedoms that so many Americans now take for granted. No country which must rely on the goodwill of others for so basic a commodity as energy can expect to remain master of its own destiny.

Unfortunately, the Administration seems both unprepared and unwilling to fact this tremendous challenge. In his televised State of the Union address, the President devoted just 13 words to energy and failed to suggest even one proposal to expand production.

His passive attitude reflects the Administration's belief in the inevitability of an energy shortage and, thus, in the need for government to impose new taxes or to call for other sacrifices in order to allocate the diminishing supplies among competing interests. But who will make these sacrifices? Clearly it will not be the government regulators who will continue to draw handsome salaries, and each year, make more of the decisions about what we drive, where we live and how we live. Tragically, the real losers will be the poor and those of modest means who will be trapped near the bottom of the ladder, deprived of a real opportunity for personal advancement.

Defeatism is not what America is all about. I believe we can and must do better. The United States Geological Survey indicates that domestic oil and gas reserves remaining to be discovered amount to approximately three times the presently proven oil and gas reserves. The only way we will ever locate and get those reserves out of the ground is by returning to market pricing without government controls.

A recent Harris poll indicates 65 per cent of the public favors such action. More and more Americans now realize that our growing dependence on foreign coununtries from our own government's policy of holding down prices — a policy which, however good the intentions, has had precisely the opposite effect by reducing competition and incentives, raising costs, hindering production and forcing consumers to purchase more expensive substitutes from abroad.

I recommend that, beginning on June 1, 1979, the President eliminate the current system of maintaining a national average price for domestic crude oil, a price known as the composite price. In its place would be gradual phase-out of price controls of lower tier domestic oil (so-called old oil) by October 19, 1981 Upper tier oil (newly discovered), would be decontrolled immediately. In addition, there would be no new legislation imposing taxes or extending regulation.

This is the best approach to reach what should be a shared goal: to minimize our energy imports from abroad, and maximize the production of energy and the creation of jobs at home at the cheapest possible cost to consumers.

In effect, this policy would provide all producers with the needed incentives to cover rising expenditures and produce more oil from present properties. And it would provide confidence in future market pricing, thereby encouraging companies to invest more of their own and borrowed capital to search for new oil. Market pricing would also encouarge more efficient use of fuel, helping to curb consumption. And as domestic production begins picking up, imports would decrease.

The Chamber estimates this approach would add, at most, 0.2 per cent to our annual rate of inflation during the three year phase-up period. And contrary to many reports, there would be no "windfall profits," as government at all levels would retain the lion's share of each extra revenue dollar, leaving only 28 cents available to companies for new investment.

But these incentives will not help if companies cannot explore. The administration is carrying environmentalism to the extreme in its bid to lock out vast areas — more than 300 million acres — of land from any exploration or development.

The Administration's energy policy has forced working Americans to stimulate foreign economies while actually subsidizing their own dwindling supplies, rising inflation and passible eventual unemployment here at home. That's carrying sacrifice a bit too far; in fact, it's tantamount to giving everyone in America a gun during wartime, but then asking them to stand in a circle then open fire.

A little more wisdom and common sense would go a long way. We must start to invest more of our own money in our own economy, produce our own energy and create our own jobs. America has produced its way out of crises before, and we can certainly do it again. But we must stop bickering, and begin.

Research conducted by Office of Research and Development in the Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration is designed to increase the effectiveness of CETA programs, the Work Incentive (WIN) program, State unemployment insurance and employment service operations, and activities of the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training.

FFA Foundation To Kick Off '79 Fund Drive

FFA foundation will kick-off its 1979 fund drive during national FFA week, February 17-24.

The foundation is a non-profit organization which is financed through voluntary tax exempt contributions. These contributions support scholarships, awards, national travel, leadership conferences and achievement certificates for the FFA members in Minnesota.

The FFA is a voluntary organization of young people studying vocational agricultural education in the public secondary schools of the United States. In 1978, the Minnesota FFA association had more than 16,286 members in 281 chapters. FFA is an integral part of the total program in agricultural education. It is a method of making instruction meaningful and relevant as well as to develop skills in communications, citizenship, leadership, decision-making, attitude to learn and personal and occupational responsibility and resourcefulness, according to Jerry Speir, executive secretary.

Founders of the Minnesota FFA foundation adopted the following as their primary objective: To provide an opportunity for individuals, business, industrial, farm, civic, and service organizations to contribute financial resources for recognizing outstanding accomplishments by students of vocational agriculture. This recognition has been instrumental in motivating students to establish personal goals which have earned region, state and national recognition.

Durenberger Sponsors Tax Deduction Bill

Senator Dave Durenberger says he will co-sponsor the Moynihan-Packwood bill, a bipartisan effort to allow all people a tax deduction for their charitable gifts.

Durenberger made his announcement at the United Way annual dinner in St. Paul. Speaking to more than 300 United Way volunteers, the Senator said the Moynihan-Packwood bill would result in an increase of more than $4 billion in public giving.

The legislation would change the tax code to allow all taxpayers a deduction for charitable gifts whether or not they itemize their deductions. Taxpayers who elect the standard deduction would no longer be penalized by having to pay taxes on money given to benefit the needy.

This year about 92 million people will file individual tax returns. The bill will benefit the 60 million people who take the standard deduction.

"In addition to increasing charitable giving, this legislation will have the two-fold impact of giving tax relief to those who need it most — moderate- and low-income Americans — and will curtail the takeover by big government of public services which have traditionally been, and should continue to be, the domain of voluntary non-profit organizations," Durenberger said.

According to the Congressional joint committee on taxation, the loss in revenue to the treasury will be about $2 billion, but public giving will increase by about $4 billion.

"While the government will lose a dollar, that same dollar in the hands of the volunteers of America will purchase up to $3.50 of services. Most of our charities and our fund-raising organizations are incredibly efficient. Overall, close to 90 cents of each United Way dollar goes to the service agency for which it was raised," he said.

"The Moynihan-Packwood bill is important to our commitment to help the guy next door. This piece of legislation is vital to controlling government's takeover of human services and making our public services more responsive to individual need. Because of organizations like United Way, a dollar given to charity is a better investment than a dollar given to the government in taxes."

Council Issues Guidebook On Women's Rights

"My employer has a requirement that pregnant employees quit when they're five months pregnant and not return until two months after delivery. Is there some way I can keep working?"

"What schools are covered by Title IX?"

"I have a friend whose husband beats her. Is there some way to get him out of the house when he beats her up, and some way to get him help?"

"I heard there was a bill making some changes in the divorce law. What are the changes?"

These and other questions are asnwered in "A Woman's Place: A Guide to Women's Legal and Economic Rights in Minnesota." The booklet has been issued by the council on the economic status of women, a legislative advisory group, in response to frequently asked questions. From consumer protection laws to opportunities for displaced homemakers, Minnesota women can find information on their rights and resources available to them.

Topics covered in the guidebook include discrimination in housing; welfare appeals; employment issues such as the minimum wage law, opportunities for CETA jobs and apprenticeships, discrimination against older workers and handicapped workers; child abuse, child support, rape, battered women, divorce; financial systems such as social security, insurance, inheritance laws; and government agencies responsible for enforcement of various laws.

The booklet is a compilation of newspaper columns written over the past year by council staff member Cheryl Holum, formerly of Thief River Falls. It is available free of charge from the Council on the Economic Status of Women, Room 400 Southwest, State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Mothers Of Multiples To Hold Meeting

"Which one of you ate the daisies?" is the theme for the fifth annual Minnesota mothers of twins workshop to be held April 21 at the Howard Johnson motel in Burnsville.

Keynote speaker will be Lois Milner, an expert on cleaning techniques and household management. Other speakers include Vicki Lansky, author of "Feed Me, I'm Yours" and "The Taming of the C.A.N.D.Y. Monster"; Helen Dotson on "Is That All There Is?", and Harriet Pratt from the Washburn child guidance center on "Child Development and Self Esteem".

Afternoon workshops will include a panel of five sets of twins of all ages sharing their views on "Life as a Twin". Dr. Patricia Parker will speak on "New Trends and Selections of Children's Literature" and Y'vonne Lehnen, a psychotherapist, will talk on "Children's Questions on Birth, Death and Sex".

Special room rates are available for out of towners and there will be a hospitality suite Friday evening. The Guthrie Theater will present an original costume fashion show during the luncheon.

All mothers of multiples are welcome to attend this workshop and may obtain a registration form by writing to Nancy Watrud, 20555 Idalia Ave. W., Lakeville, Minnesota 55044.

Marshall county farmers can sign up for the 1979 wheat and feed grain programs beginning February 15.

The wheat and barley program contains a 20 per cent set aside requirement. Producers planting corn will be required to set aside 10 per cent and may set aside an additional 10 per cent for payment, says Alton Nybladh, chairman of Marshall county ASCS committee.

Participation in the program is voluntary. Producers must file their intentions to participate during the sign-up period to be eligible for benefits.

All farmers planting feed grain or wheat are eligible to participate.

Program participants will be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and disaster payments for barley and wheat on the participating farm and on other normal crop acreage grown on the farm. They will also be eligible for the grain reserve.

Producers who sign up agree to take out of production two acres for every 10 planted to wheat or barley for grain and reduce the acreage of other crops by this set aside amount.

Nybladh said sign up will continue through April 16.

This year's program is basically the same as last year's — with a few exceptions. Barley and wheat will both require 20 per cent set aside. Last year barley was 10 per cent with wheat at 20 per cent.

There will be no additional diversion on barley in 1979 as there was in 1978. The target price has been increased from $2.25 to $2.40 for barley. Loan rates will remain the same. The 1979 target price on wheat will remain at $3.40 per bushel.

Nybladh said that offsetting compliance will again be in effect.

If you have an interest in one farm and are complying on it, any other farm you have must be in compliance to some degree.

Last year more than 87 per cent of the eligible acres in Marshall county were enrolled in the program. This was the highest percentage of any county in Minnesota.

Farms that sign in the program will also have to certify their acreage when planting is complete. The final date to certify has not been established but should be around June 30, Nybladh concluded.

Anoka CC To Offer Special RN Program

Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids, in cooperation with the Anoka Hennepin AVTI (Anoka TEC) in Anoka announced this week that they have developed a special program which will admit licensed practical nurses only. This program will enable the LPN to become eligible to write the registered nurse (RN) state board examination after four quarters of education at Anoka-Ramsey.

The two schools have worked together in planning the program and the students admitted to the first pilot program will be graduates of Anoka TEC's LPN program. The Anoka-Ramsey program has been built totally on Anoka TEC's curriculum and will enable students to complete their nursing content in the shortest possible time, without repeating material that they have already learned.

Students will be required to meet the same distribution requirements as all other students in the Anoka-Ramsey generic nursing program. First pilot group of students will be admitted for summer session 1979 and will graduate at the end of spring quarter 1980 and will thus be eligible to take the RN state boards in July of 1980.

Anyone interested in the program may contact either Anoka TEC, 612-427-1880, extension 240, or the Anoka-Ramsey community college. Applications should be sent directly to Anoka-Ramsey community college, 3300 Coon Rapids Boulevard, Coon Rapids, MN, 55433.

DFL Chairman Attacks Quie For Cronyism

State DFL chairman Rick Scott has criticized Governor Al Quie for "hypocritically breaking a campaign promise. Al Quie made a promise to pick the most qualified people in making his appointments. He has broken that promise — he has refused to appoint the most qualified person as public safety commissioner because he was not a crony," Scott said.

"As a candidate, Al Quie promised that he would make appointments 'on merit, and merit only.' Now that he is governor, he apparently believes that he can break the promises that he made as a candidate," Scott said.

"Quie's own screening committee selected Paul Tschida as the best qualified person for public safety commissioner, but Governor Quie has decided not to appoint him because Tschida is not a Republican crony. Paul Tschida is a highly competent and well respected law enforcement official, and Governor Quie's staff has admitted that the only reason for not appointing Tschida was purely political.

"This blatant cronyism belies Governor Quie's campaign promise that he would work for excellence in government. He is willing to settle for a second-rate government — just so it's Republican."

"Al Quie should spend some time looking over his campaign literature," Scott suggested. "Some of his promises were worthwhile. It's too bad he has decided not to keep them."

Two Members Needed For Crime Board

Governor's appointments committee is searching for two persons to serve on the state's crime victims reparation board.

The three-member board is responsible for making payments to innocent victims of crime involving personal injury. Board must comprise an attorney, a medical doctor and a citizen at large.

According to Mary Jo Richardson, special assistant on appointments, the positions held by a medical doctor and a citizen at large are now open.

Resumes should be sent no later than February 15, 1979 to: the Governor's Appointments committee, Room 130, State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Meetings are held at least once per month, eight hours per meeting, at the American Center Building in St. Paul. Members receive $35.00 per diem plus mileage and one member from outstate receives lunch.

Skjerven, Lee Enroll At NCC

Peggy Skjerven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Skjerven of Plummer and Karen Lee, daughter of Thorvald Lee of Newfolden have been accepted for admission at Northland community college in Thief River Falls for the 1979 fall quarter classes. Peggy will be graduating from Pershing high school this spring and plans to continue her education in the field of business, while Karen, a prospective graduate of Marshall County Central high school, will pursue the liberal arts field.

Vanessa Sand Will Ride In RRV Horse Show

Vanessa Sand, daughter of Marlin and Joyce Sand of Goodridge will be one of the visiting royalty at the 69th Red River Valley winter shows indoor horse show. The horse show will be held February 23, 24 and 25 at the Red River Valley winter shows building in Crookston. Friday evening's performance will be an open show and Saturday and Sunday will feature the Arabian and Quarter horse breeds.

Vanessa is the Red River Valley International Appaloosa queen. She is a senior at Goodridge high school, active in the girl's basketball and volleyball teams, co-editor of the newspaper, co-editor of the annual staff, and treasurer of student council.

Sand has also proven her capabilities in the horse show world. At the year end awards for the North Country Appaloosa club, Vanessa won the high point division for the girl's competition ages 14-18, and the over all high point youth award.

Vanessa and the other queens will ride at the beginning of each evening's performance during the horse show weekend.

Minnesota Teen Pageant Set April 7 and 8

Applications for participation in the 1979 Miss Teen-Miss Little Minnesota pageant to be held April 7 and 8 in Minneapolis are now available from pageant headquarters.

Candidates will compete in one of four age divisions including Petites for ages 3 to 6; Little Lady for ages 7 to 10; Young Lady for ages 11 to 13; or Miss Teen for ages 14 to 17. Contestants will be judged on personality in an interview situation and on poise and appearance in sportswear and party dress.

The winners in all four divisions will advance to the national pageant event which will be held in Nashville, Tenn., in July, and will represent their respective communities and state at various functions throughout the year. In addition, the photogenic winners in each division will also qualify to participate in a national pageant event.

Entry forms are available by writing to: State Pageant Productions, 4500 Stevens Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55409.

The Veterans Administration's hospital and medical care system — the nation's largest — provides inpatient and ambulatory care to 185,000 beneficiaries each day, the greatest number in the federal agency's history.

Hospital And AVTI Sponsor Nurse Course

Thief River Falls AVTI and Northwestern hospital will sponsor a course series concerning cancer nursing for area RN's, LPN's, clinic staff members and home health aides. This will be held Wednesday, March 7; and Mondays, March 12, 19 and 26 at 7 p.m. in the CNC chapel at Northwestern hospital.

Topics will include living with cancer as an chronic disease, anatomy, nutrition, unproven and accepted methods of treatment and nursing support. There will be a $15 fee and at the completion of the course a certificate for 10 contact hours will be given.

The Minnesota board of nursing does not grant prior approval to a program of continuing education for RN's, however, this program is structured to meet the requirements for re-licensure. Any interested persons should contact Sharon Russell, in-service director, at Northwestern hospital by March 1. Enrollment will be limited and pre-registration is requested to have adequate materials available.

FB President Says Farmers Begin Recovery

A reported 40 per cent increase in net farm income for 1978 may leave the impression that farmers have made "a killing" and, says the president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federaion, "that's really not so."

Merlyn Lokensgard, St. Peter area cash grain and livestock farmer, says that while government statistics indicate net income went from $20.1 billion in 1977 to $28.1 billion in 1978, these figures aren't the overall picture.

"A lot of farmers are just beginning to recover somewhat from a serious slump" Lokensgard explains. "Even with last year's reported increase, farm income is still below 1973 levels when it reached $29.9 billion. Net farm income steadily decreased between 1974 and 1978 and farmers during that period paid the same inflated prices even though their income was less."

The past year, Lokensgard acknowledges, was a good year on balance. However, he says, "our income increase in 1978 wasn't a bumper income, as one news commentator described it, but just a recovery from a dangerous law point."

The 40 per cent figure, Lokensgard emphasizes, shouldn't be taken to mean that farmers are "making undue profits and causing high food prices at the expense of the consumer."

Mondale To Address HHH Dinner Apr. 7

DFL state chairman Rick Scott has announced that Vice President Walter Mondale will be the keynote speaker at the second annual Hubert H. Humphrey day dinner on April 7 in St. Paul. Some 4,000 people are expected to attend.

"We are honored that Vice President Mondale has agreed to be our speaker," Scott said. "His appearance is expected to draw a record crowd to the Humphrey dinner."

The dinner will be held at the St. Paul civic center arena with a reception beginning at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Further details will be announced later.

The Hubert Humphrey dinner is the final event of the state DFL's annual sustaining member drive. While the standard ticket price for the HHH dinner is $100, DFL sustaining members making an annual contribution of $36 receive a complimentary ticket, and those contributing $60 receive two.

Vice President Mondale, a graduate of the University of Minnesota law school, served as Minnesota's attorney general from 1960-64. He served as U.S. Senator from 1964 until his election as Vice President in 1976.

Social Worker, Legal System Workshop Set

Workshop on "The Social Worker and the Legal System" for students and professionals in the field is scheduled at Moorhead state university on February 23 and 24.

Speakers will include Lisa Knazan, attorney for Southern Minnesota migrant legal services; Cynthia Phillips, an attorney with the legal assistance for North Dakota elderly program; Homer Saetre, Clay county family court judge; and Cynthia Rothe, Cass county state's attorney.

Workshop will meet on the Moorhead state campus in Comstock Memorial Union, room 251-252, from 6 to 10 p.m. February 23 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. February 24.

Discussions will cover testifying, evidence, licensure and malpractice, the rights of clients and perspectives on what judges and government attorney's expect from social workers in the legal system.

To register for the weekend workshop, endorsed by the Minnesota conference on social work education, contact the Moorhead state division of continuing education at 236-2181. One graduate or undergraduate credit is available.

Six Members Needed For MN OSHA Council

Governor's appointments committee is searching for six persons to serve on the state's occupational safety and health advisory council. Twelve-member council is appointed by the governor and is evenly divided among management, labor, OSHA professionals and the general public.

According to Mary Jo Richardson, special assistant on appointments, there are positions open now in each category. Council serves as advisor to the department of labor and industry on policies and other matters concerning the administration of the state's occupational safety and health act.

Resumes should be sent no later than February 15, 1979 to: the Governor's Appointments committee, Room 130 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Council meets at the call of the chairperson, usually the third Thursday of the month. Pay is $35.00 per diem.

LPN Refresher Course Slated

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute is offering a 15-hour refresher course for LPN's to begin on Tuesday, March 20 and meet for six weeks from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Instructor Sylvia Jensen will cover ostomy care, tracheotomy, gastric suction and oro-pharynx suctioning plus other new concepts and procedures.

Contact adult education, Thief River Falls AVTI, 681-5424 ext. 30 for more information.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Because of the questionable decisions our leaders have been making in this country in regard to foreign relations and even domestically, I'm one American citizen who's getting very worried.

Recently I received a letter from a congressman who shared my views on the Taiwan issue and I'd like to quote part of it:

"This is one of the most difficult letters that I have ever had to write in my entire life. I say that because words can't fully express the anger and frustration that I feel over President Carter's shameless betrayal of our allies in Taiwan.

"The man who would 'never lie to us' has now announced his intention to break the word of the American people by voiding our mutual defense treaty with our free China allies.

"According to President Carter's secretly negotiated deal with the communist dictators on the mainland, the U.S. will hereinafter only recognize one government to represent both the mainland and Taiwan — and that government will be the communist regime in Peking — the orders have already been given to prepare for the withdrawal of all American troops from Taiwanese soil.

"Unless you and I act immediately, here is what we can expect:

"(1) Having won the diplomatic battle, Red China will begin intensive economic war against Taiwan, with full-scale military assault not out of the question.

"(2) The non-aligned nations of Africa and Asia will immediately begin moving into the Soviet camp, since the U.S. will no longer be considered a dependable ally.

"(3) Our other allies will feel relieved of any responsibility to defend American interests, since we have proven that we will not keep our word.

"(4) American troop withdrawals from Taiwan will encourage the advance of communism, placing the Philippines and Australia on the front lines."

Why was our recognition of Red China done during the time when Congress was in recess? Why were our ties with Taiwan broken during the same recess? Obviously, Mr. Carter wouldn't have gotten the concurrence of the Senate for this sell out of Taiwan.

This is not only wrong in my opinion, but it's criminal in nature. Will Alaska be next?

I urge all Americans to write Mr. Carter and their respective Senators to re-affirm the treaty with Taiwan. With leadership like this, it's only a matter of time for America and a few other free countries left.

Sub Region 4 Jumbled Again

As scrambled as it was, Friday's results made the upcoming Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament title picture even more unclear as Bemidji edged Crookston 55-53 and Thief River Falls knocked off East Grand Forks 76-66. In each case the loser had won the earlier meeting.

It looked for a while like Crookston might begin asserting itself as the Sub Region 4 favorite. After all, the February 20 and 23 tournament will be played at Crookston and the Pirates have been playing very good basketball. In fact, coach Marshall Olson lauded the play of his team last week following a 66-48 rout of a tough Devils Lake, N.D. ball club.

"The kids are playing just the way I want them to play right now," Olson told Lori Mateer of the Crookston Times. "I can't say enough about their play. They just work and work, right down to the end of the game.

That win improved Crookston's record to 9-6 (best among Northwest Athletic Conference and Sub Region 4 teams) and set the stage for a NWAC title showdown with Bemidji Friday in the Central gymnasium. "This game is the big one," said Olson before the Pirates-Lumberjacks clash. "The kids know how important it is and they want it so bad. Bemidji better come ready to play some super ball."

Well, the Lumberjacks jumped out to a 19-10 first quarter lead, John Noga and Rob Egersdorf scored 27 and 21 points, respectively, and Crookston suffered its second home court loss to a Sub Region 4 opponent after earlier losing at home to East Grand Forks 57-51.

And East Grand Forks, despite owning the poorest record among Sub Region 4 combatants, had been drawing some support as a very real tournament threat. But the Green Wave also lost some lustre with its Friday night loss.

That puts the Sub Region 4 standings into a real mess. Right now Crookston and Bemidji are both 3-2 in Sub Region 4 play, East Grand Forks 2-2 and Thief River Falls 2-4.

First round Sub Region 4 tournament pairings, based upon regular season results among the four rivals, will have Thief River Falls, the number four seed, playing the number one seed Tues., Feb. 20, at 7 p.m. The number two and three seeds will meet at 8:45 that night. Championship game will be played Fri., Feb. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

"It's going to be a real dogfight," predicted East Grand Forks coach Ray Stinar who stills says the home court advantage will be a factor.

A final regular season Sub Region 4 match-up will take place Friday when East Grand Forks hosts Crookston. A win by the Pirates would make them 4-2 in Sub Region 4 play, Bemidji 3-2, East Grand Forks 2-3 and Thief River Falls 2-4. A Green Wave victory puts East Grand Forks and Bemidji in a tie for the top seed that would go to the Lumberjacks based upon their 52-48 win over Green Wave in their only regular season meeting.

Miscellaneous

+Bemidji will be the top seed in the girls Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament, scheduled to be played at East Grand Forks Mon., March 5, and Wed., March 7. But the Lumberjills, an easy 62-27 winner over Crookston earlier, struggled past the Pirates 54-45.

+Roseau's bid for a District 32 high school basketball tournament title suffered a blow when the Rams lost the services of junior center Loren Thacker due to torn cartilate and ligaments.

+Persons interested in responding to the proposed rules of the Minnesota department of human rights governing sex discrimination in high school athletic programs should write to Natalie Gaull, Office of Hearing Examiners, Room 300, 1745 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55104.

+Ginny Liden of Thief River Falls, a senior guard on the Bemidji State University women's basketball team, will be in the line-up when the Beaverettes host the MAIAW northern district tournament Friday and Saturday. Liden missed much of the 1978-79 regular season because of an ankle injury, but still ranked second on the squad with 22 assists and scored an average of 3.9 points per game. The tournament field includes Bemidji, Bethel, Concordia-St. Paul, St. Thomas, St. Scholastica, Macalester, Duluth, Concordia-Moorhead, Moorhead, St. Catherine's and Morris. Four of the 11 teams will advance to the MAIAW state tournament later this month.

A combination of things always decides a winner in high school basketball. Friday that combination was a strong 52 per cent Thief River Falls shooting night from the field and a poor 10-for-25 East Grand Forks effort at the free throw line that produced a 76-66 Northwest Athletic Conference win for the host Prowlers.

It was a fan-pleasing contest that featured plenty of offense from a pair of evenly matched, fast-paced rivals. The win evened Thief River Falls' record at 8-8 heading into the final week of the 1978-79 regular season that will find the Prowlers hosting Region 8A power Warren Tuesday before finishing at Park Rapids Thursday in a pair of 7:30 p.m. games. East Grand Forks dropped to 5-11 and fell out of NWAC title contention.

"Offensively, we're really happy," said Thief River Falls coach Glen Peters whose balanced attack included Steve Enderlein with 21 points, Kyle Hams 20, Jeff Oseid 17 and Jim Nyland 10. "We moved the ball well. We're pleased with the kids," he added.

Four East Grand Forks scorers also reached double figures as John Roche collected 22 points, Todd Selk 15, Steve Troyer 14 and Gordy Olson 11. However, Green Wave coach Ray Stinar was not at all happy with the way things went on the court. "Not much finesse played at all," he noted. "Too much up and down and shoot."

Ironically, neither coach was happy with their rebounding. "If we could have rebounded and made our free throws, we could have won it," offered Stinar. When informed that his club held a slight 35-31 rebound edge, he shrugged it off by saying, "We gave up too many second and third shots."

And that's exactly what Peters said. "About the only thing we're not satisfied with was our rebounding," reported Peters. "We gave East Side second and third shots."

Thief River Falls opened with a 14-4 lead 4:40 into the game before settling for a 16-10 margin at the first quarter stop.

East Grand Forks could do no better than a pair of ties in the final 72 seconds of the first half. But a fancy move on a turnaround jumper by Enderlein made it 36-34 with 38 seconds left and the Prowlers completed a try for a last shot that covered the final 22 seconds when Nyland took a fine feed from center Todd Young and drove the lane with two seconds on the clock for a 38-34 edge at intermission.

Selk and Troyer each scored four points in the first 2½ minutes of the second half as East Grand Forks out-scored Thief River Falls 8-2 for its first lead of the game, 42-40.

But a three-point play by Oseid on a nice base line drive rebuilt a Thief River Falls lead the Prowlers never relinquished.

Thief River Falls was clinging to a 54-52 lead when Hams and Enderlein began the fourth quarter with three consecutive 10-foot jump shots that ballooned the margin to 60-52 in a quick 63 seconds.

Selk, Roche and Olson scored for a 64-62 game with 3:43 remaining, but Thief River Falls finally decided the issue by out-scoring East Grand Forks 9-2 over the next three minutes for a 73-64 cushion with just 28 seconds to go.

Ricky Peterson's long toss at the buzzer supplied the Prowlers with their biggest lead and completed a 33-for-64 night from the field for the winners. East Grand Forks was 28-for-68 for 41 per cent. The Prowlers fared little better than the Green Wave with a 10-for-19 free throw performance. The 27 turnovers were evenly divided, with 14 charged to the Green Wave.

Roseau Scores Early In 8-1 Rout Of Prowlers

Roseau scored twice in the first 85 seconds of the game Saturday and went on to humble Thief River Falls 8-1 in a Section 8 hockey mismatch at Roseau.

Despite the Rams' unbeaten status, it was supposed to be a close hockey game in light of an 11-4 Thief River Falls record that included a closely-fought 5-3 loss to Roseau earlier this year. But those two quick goals decided the issue in a hurry. "You can't do that (fall behind quickly) with them anywhere, especially at their place," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "It was fuel for the fire."

First two shots on net went in for the Rams as Glen daMota notched an 18-second quickie and Andy Odegaard followed at 1:25.

Thief River Falls tried to make a game out of it when Jim Thompson scored on an assist from Wade Hoppe at 3:44, but daMota, the only Roseau player to score twice, made it 3-1 at 11:36.

"I thought we were going to salvage something when we scored," mentioned Grand, "but it didn't help. Roseau played very well and we didn't. They played a real good game. They beat us to the puck."

Stu Weston and Joe Magnusson made it 5-1 in the second period and goals by Aaron Broten, Mark Huglen and Carson Erickson made it a rout in the third period.

Grand had special praise for the Rams' first line that now features sophomore Bill Yon skating with standouts Broten and daMota. "They really played well," he said.

The Prowlers, meanwhile, were again without the services of defenseman Mark Huot who missed his second game after being hit on the ankle with a puck at Moorhead a week ago. In addition, Bob Fitzgerald, moved from a wing to the blue line as a replacement for Huot, missed much of the game after suffering a finger injury.

Roseau out-shot Thief River Falls 44-17.

Thief River Falls will close out its 1978-79 road schedule Tuesday at Hallock. The Prowlers, who play their final three games at home, will host Detroit Lakes Friday.

All District 29 tournament games are being played at Bemidji State University.

Lincoln Follows MSHSL State Meet Policy

At the request of all St. Paul hotel-motel managers, the board of directors of the Minnesota State High School League recommends that all high schools adopt a uniform policy for all students attending the 1978-79 state tournaments.

Lincoln high school will cooperate, reports LHS athletic director Russ Smith, and the following rules will be enforced:

+All students of Lincoln high school will be required "to possess tickets" for the tournament before they are excused from school.

+Each student that registers in a St. Paul hotel-motel will be required to voluntarily sign a statement of responsibility, listing school, principal, name of parent and home telephone number, and to carry an identification card from the hotel-motel in which the student is being housed for the tournament.

Brad Hulings Wins Twice At Montreal

Dulings then took both the 340 and 440-X events. Ski-Doo drivers Mike and Steve Decker were 2-3 in the 340 race. Thorsen was second in the 440-X feature and Alan Decker was third on a Ski-Doo.

Next stop on the 1978-79 Sno Pro circuit will be Sunday at Waldheim, Sask.

Bemidji guaranteed itself at least a share of the 1978-79 Northwest Athletic Conference basketball pennant Friday with a 55-53 win at Crookston. At the same time, East Grand Forks took itself out of title contention by losing 76-66 at Thief River Falls.

Bemidji finished its NWAC schedule with a 4-2 record, good for six points in the title-deciding points column. Crookston is also 4-2 in conference play, but for five points. However, the Pirates can still gain a co-championship with a win Friday at East Grand Forks in the final NWAC match-up of the year.

Roseau Beats LHS JV 11-2

Trojans Edge Northmen On Controversial Finish

A controversial ending highlighted the fourth and final regular season MJCAA hockey meeting between Crookston and Northland Wednesday when an apparent game-tying Northland goal was ruled a fraction of a second late, preserving a 7-6 Crookston win.

The final minute controversy began when Northland pulled goalie Joe Klosterman in favor of an extra attacker with 45 seconds left. Northland put pressure on the Trojans who finally iced the puck. However, a slow-reacting timekeeper allowed six precious seconds to elapse before stopping the clock with a mere six seconds left.

Northland won that argument when officials ruled there were 12 seconds remaining. Unlikely as it sounds, though, those six lost seconds were merely counted off by the timekeeper, not restored to the clock. When he reached six, he switched on the six seconds showing on the clock.

Northland's Scott Bergland put the puck in the net at the end. The Northmen claimed there was one second remaining. The timekeeper said no time was left. The youthful goal judge could not turn on the red light to indicate a goal because the green light, signaling time had expired, was already on. The officials, after listening to debate from both sides, ruled the host Trojans winners.

"We don't mind losing, but it was a bad way to lose it," commented Northland coach Bob Lundbohm.

It was the third straight Crookston win over Northland after the Northmen took the series opener. "We played pretty well," mentioned Lundbohm. "We had problems early when we weren't playing defense at all."

Crookston broke loose on four breakaways in the first period, scoring on two of them en route to a 4-2 lead. Northland came back to tie it at 5-5 in the second period, but Crookston's Tom Noah completed a hat trick performance just 1:07 into the third period and teammate Kevin Malloy made it 7-5 at 6:55.

A power play goal by Northland's Mark Koehn at 13:35 set the stage for the wild finish.

Lincoln Girls Defeat Otters

Lincoln high school girls basketball team beat one foe, but lost to the weatherman in another contest last week. Thief River Falls posted a come-from-behind 46-42 victory over Fergus Falls Thursday, but a scheduled Saturday game here against Bemidji was postponed when Bemidji officials refused to face the snowy weather.

No make-up date has been set on the Thief River Falls-Bemidji contest.

The win over the Otters, the Prowlers' fifth victory in their last six games, improved Thief River Falls' record to 6-7. The Prowlers will host Crookston Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and play at Fosston Saturday at 8 p.m.

Thief River Falls gave Fergus Falls a 10-0 head start but caught the Otters 46-42.

Fergus Falls used its early edge for a 12-4 first quarter lead but then fell behind 22-18 at halftime and trailed 34-32 after three quarters.

"It just took us a while to get going," explained Thief River Falls coach Sylvia Sjoberg. "But then we started playing pretty good. We started hustling on defense, and we shot well. Our transition from offense to defense was a lot better; it's been a problem for us."

Pam Kotschevar paced the Prowlers with a 16-point, seven-rebound night. Julie Easton scored 10 points while Roberta Engel had a 10-point, eight-rebound game. Naomi Larson and Kathy Johnson scored 16 and 14 points, respectively, for the Otters.

Thief River Falls connected on 20 of 50 field goal attempts for a 40 per cent shooting night. Fergus Falls made 19 of 61 shots for only 31 per cent. The Prowlers were 6-for-14 at the free throw line where the Otters were 4-for-12. Fergus Falls finished with a 36-32 rebound edge.

Ahead 12-10 at halftime but behind 18-17 at the end of the third quarter, Fergus Falls came back to win the junior varsity contest 24-22.

Northmen Split Pair Of One-Sided Ball Games

Northwest Division

	w	l
Fergus Falls	8	1
Northland	7	2
Brainerd	3	7
Crookston	1	8

Saddled with a 103-79 loss at Fergus Falls Wednesday, the Northland community college basketball team turned around and administered the same type of punishment to Brainerd Saturday, 119-89, to keep its hopes alive for a Northwest Division title.

The Northmen, 7-2 in MJCAA play and 14-6 overall, trail Fergus Falls by one game in the Northwest Division standings heading into the final week of the 1978-79 regular season schedule. Northland and Fergus Falls both face weekend road trips to the Iron Range where games against Northeast Division foes will count in their Northwest Division standings.

Northland will play Itasca at Grand Rapids Friday at 8 p.m. and will visit Hibbing Saturday at 2. Fergus Falls faces Vermilion at Ely and meets Mesabi at Virginia.

Both the Northmen and Spartans are headed to the 1979 MJCAA state tournament Feb. 22-24 at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids.

Northland 79

Apparently the home court advantage is a significant factor in MJCAA basketball. An easy 97-75 winner over Fergus Falls Jan. 23 in Thief River Falls, Northland returned the visit Wednesday and got clobbered 103-79. That's a 46-point turnaround.

"They played extremely well," remarked Northland coach Chet Engelman. "They just blitzed us. They shot exceptionally well, and it wasn't a matter of us breaking down defensively, either."

Northland held its only lead at 2-0. It was a 6-4 game when Fergus Falls turned six consecutive Northland turnovers into a 14-4 score and maintained complete control the rest of the way. "It was tough going from there on in," admitted Entelman whose club trailed 52-39 at halftime.

The Spartans' Marty Boulanger, Tim Aker and Gary Douglas all scored 18 points to delight a full house, reportedly the largest crowd ever to watch a community college basketball game in Fergus Falls. Mike Carriere led Northland with 16 points.

Fergus Falls shot an eye-opening 58 per cent from the field, hitting 37 of 64 attempts. Northland shot just 35 per cent, making 31 of 89 tries. Fergus Falls held a 57-45 rebound advantage and also topped the turnover numbers, 34-27.

What had been a hotly contested game turned into a rout when Northland out-scored Brainerd 41-14 over the final 8:44 of the second half for a 119-89 triumph.

It was an offensive game from the outset as Northland raced to a 14-6 headstart with a mere 2:37 gone. But Brainerd had plenty of offensive guns of its own and caught Northland at 18-18 with 13:39 remaining before a three-point play off a volley of offensive rebounds by 6-6 freshman Jeff Oliphant put the Red Raiders ahead 21-20 moments later.

It went back and forth like that as a 107-point first half found Brainerd on top 54-53 at intermission.

There were six lead changes in the first 3:23 of the second half. And it stayed tight through the first 12 minutes. But with Northland clinging to a 78-75 lead, the Northmen suddenly took charge, scoring eight unanswered points and dominating play thereafter.

With a variety of dunks, fast breaks, drives and long jumpers, Northland shot an impressive 61 per cent from the field on a 51-for-84 showing. Brainerd shot 43 per cent on a 35-for-82 effort. The Northmen also held the hot hand at the free throw line where they were 17-for-20. The Red Raiders sank 19 of 30 free throws.

High-powered Northland offense featured Scotty Gilbert with 24 points, Vince Parker 22, Jerry Hooten 15 and Mike Carriere 10. Brainerd's top-notch twosome of 5-9 guard Bernard Clayton and 6-9 center John Olsen collected 23 and 21 points, respectively.

It was a tough weekend for the Red Raiders who lost at Crookston 97-87 Friday.

Jill Saurdiff Carries Grygla Past MCC 45-35

Sophomore Jill Saurdiff scored 12 points, grabbed 12 rebounds, handed out eight assists and came up with eight steals Thursday to lead Grygla past Marshall County Central 45-35 in a girls high school basketball game played at Grygla.

Grygla led only 10-8 at the end of the first quarter but ran up a 24-13 halftime lead. An impressive third quarter produced a 38-18 margin as the Eagles improved their record to 14-1.

"We just kind of fell apart in the second and third quarters," admitted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde.

Debbie Warne joined Saurdiff in double figures with 10 points. Dorene Larson led the Nordics with seven points.

Grygla will play at Middle River Thursday.

Argyle — Goodridge

After trailing by as many as 17 points, Goodridge went ahead of Argyle late in the fourth quarter only to have a pair of crucial turnovers snuff out the game comeback in the final minute as the host Eagles won the Thursday night contest 43-39.

"That what killed us — turnovers," explained Goodridge coach Ken Ewertz.

Argyle led at the quarter breaks 10-4, 26-17 and 36-25 as Goodridge shot just 24 per cent from the field and made only 11 of 26 free throws that included a bunch of bonus opportunities.

Kathy Kathman scored 14 points for the winners and Gayle Riopelle had 12. Mary Kiesow led Goodridge with 13 points and Vanassa Sand scored 10.

Goodridge, 6-7, will play at Erskine tonight (Monday) and will be at Fisher Friday.

Warren — Plummer

Plummer effectively shut down Warren's highly publicized front line, but in the process opened things up for guard Dee Dee Evavold who scored eight of her 14 points in the first quarter as the Ponies jumped out to a 17-5 lead that stood up for a 54-44 Thursday win.

Warren led 35-20 at halftime and enjoyed a 50-38 third quarter cushion.

Jill Carlson and Jodi Carlson added 13 and 11 points, respectively to the Warren attack. Diane Fisher scored 19 points and Melanie Skjerven had 18 for the visiting Cardinals.

Saddled with back-to-back losses for the first time all year, the 8-4 Cardinals face an extremely busy week which will find them hosting Oklee tonight (Monday), playing Mount St. Benedict at Crookston Thursday, traveling to Argyle Friday and entertaining Strandquist Saturday.

MCC — Warroad

Denise Stokke scored 14 points and Lisa Busch added 10 to lead Marshall County Central to a 36-25 win at Warroad Saturday.

The Nordics led at the quarter stops 8-4, 19-14 and 31-17.

Marshall County Central, 7-8, hosts Lake of the Woods Saturday.

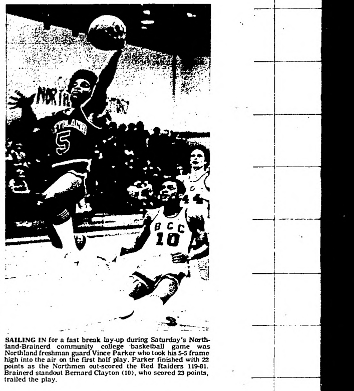
Grafton 60-56 Winner Over LHS Freshmen

Grafton jumped out to a 16-6 first quarter lead and held on to beat Thief River Falls 60-56 Thursday in a freshman high school basketball game played at Grafton.

The winners led 30-21 at halftime and remained on top 42-31 through three quarters.

Tim Swanson scored 24 points and Kevin Sanders had 14 for Thief River Falls, 6-6 heading into a 3:15 p.m. game Thursday against South junior high of Grand Forks.

May has perennially been the Twins' best month, Minnesota averaging a .560 clip in that calendar span. September is next-best, the Twins playing .552 ball in that month.



SAILING IN for a fast break lay-up during Saturday's Northland-Brainerd community college basketball game was Northland freshman guard Vince Parker who took his 5-5 frame high into the air on the first half play. Parker finished with 22 points as the Northmen out-scored the Red Raiders 119-81. Brainerd standout Bernard Clayton (10), who scored 23 points, trailed the play.

Brainerd Beats LHS Swimmers

Brainerd won eight of 11 events Saturday to defeat Thief River Falls 100½-70½ in a high school swimming meet at Brainerd.

It was the first outing in two weeks for the Prowlers whose dual meet record dropped to 4-2. "We could have made it a lot closer," pointed out Thief River Falls coach John Kopari. "It's hard to ride on a bus for four hours then get off and swim. Everybody swam poorly."

Thief River Falls winners included Bruce Storhaug with a 1:00.4 in the 100-yard butterfly; Jon Pinkerton with a 54.3 in the 100-yard freestyle; and Dennis Booth, Mark Isaacson, Storhaug and Dave Beito with a 3:41.1 in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Lone outing this week for the Prowlers is a 7 p.m. dual meet at Fosston Friday.

Randy Larson poured in 30 points Friday to lead Grygla to a season-ending 72-67 high school basketball win over Strandquist.

The high-scoring game featured a 47-point first quarter, headed by Grygla 25-22. Strandquist led 42-38 at halftime, but the host Eagles went back on top 52-50 in the third quarter.

Richard Nordby and Paul Nordby joined Larson in double figures with 15 and 10 points, respectively. Four Strandquist scorers reached double figures as Brad Nelson finished with 19 points, Tim Storeby 16, Darwin Larson 14 and Loyal Lefrooth 10.

Strandquist out-scored Grygla 62-56 from the field, but the Eagles made 16 of 27 free throw opportunities while the Warriors made five of only nine chances at the line.

Grygla finished the 1978-79 regular season with a 6-12 record.

Cardinals Top Huskies 53-41

Plummer won only its second basketball game of the 1978-79 season Friday when the Cardinals limited Goodridge to 14 second half points in a 53-41 Polar Conference game played at Plummer.

Goodridge led 10-8 at the end of the first quarter and carried a 27-24 advantage into intermission. However, the Huskies scored just three points in the third quarter and fell behind 32-30.

Three of five Plummer scorers reached double figures as Dale Carlson collected 16 points, Kevin Malwitz 13 and John Zimpel 10. Randy Henrickson scored 12 points for Goodridge and Gerry Sunsdahl had 10.

Both teams will close out their regular season schedules Tuesday when Goodridge, 6-11, hosts Red Lake Falls and Plummer, 2-15, plays at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

A District 31 tournament seeding meeting will be held Wednesday.

TRF YOUTH BASKETBALL

Post-season playoff activity begins today (Monday) in the elementary school fourth and fifth grade basketball program. Finals in both the A and B playoffs will be played Thursday at Franklin middle school.

A Team

Final regular season A Team scores found Washington beating Northrop 24-23, Mark Twain defeated Knox 27-19, Washington handled Mark Twain 48-14 and Knox knocked off St. Bernard's 24-12.

Washington won the regular season title with an 8-0 record, followed by Northrop and Knox at 4-4, Mark Twain 3-5 and St. Bernard's 1-7.

With the exception of the championship game, all A Team playoff games will be played at Washington. Today's match-up features Mark Twain and St. Bernard's. On Tuesday, the Mark Twain-St. Bernard's winner plays Washington and Northrop meets Knox. The consolation game matching Tuesday's losers will be played Thursday at 4:15 p.m. at Washington. The championship game will be played at 8 o'clock that night at Franklin.

B Team

Final regular season B Team games saw Knox get by Mark Twain 13-10, Northrop topped Washington 17-11, St. Hilaire crushed St. Bernard's 26-6, Washington upended Mark Twain 20-8, St. Bernard's dropped Knox 18-3 and St. Hilaire downed Northrop 24-18.

St. Bernard's won the regular season crown with a 9-1 record, followed by St. Hilaire 8-2, Northrop 6-4, Washington 4-6, Knox 3-7 and Mark Twain 0-10.

Like the A Team playoffs, all B Team playoff games, with the exception of the championship game, will be played at Washington.

First round playoff games today match Washington against Mark Twain and Northrop against Knox. On Wednesday, the Washington-Mark Twain winner plays St. Bernard's and the Northrop-Knox winner faces St. Hilaire. Wednesday's losers will play in Thursday's consolation game at 3:30 p.m. at Washington. The championship game will be played at 7 p.m. Thursday at Franklin.

EGF JV Beats Lincoln 49-46 Friday Night

East Grand Forks held off a Thief River Falls rally for a 49-46 junior varsity high school basketball win Friday.

Thief River Falls led 8-7 at the end of the first quarter but fell behind 27-20 at halftime and trailed 38-34 after three quarters.

Greg Peterson and Mark Lundin scored 14 points apiece for Thief River Falls, now 6-10 for the year.

Hibbing Sweeps Northland For MJCAA Hockey Title

Hibbing iced the 1978-79 MJCAA regular season hockey crown with an 8-6, 8-7 weekend sweep over Northland community college.

Northland began the week as a pennant contender, but lost all three road games, beginning with a 7-6 decision at Crookston Wednesday, by the narrowest of margins. It could have been three one-goal losses except for an open net goal at Hibbing in Saturday's series opener.

"We played well," said Northland coach Bob Lundbohm after the trip to Hibbing. "Hibbing has a real good hockey team. They played really well."

Northland opened the season with a 6-5, 5-3 sweep over Hibbing in early December, but Lundbohm said the Cardinals' defensive play has improved dramatically.

Despite the 16 goals, Lundbohm gave special praise to Northland goalie Joe Klosterman. "Joe played well. He kept up in the games," he said.

Northland completed its MJCAA schedule with an 8-8 record. The Northmen, 8-10 overall, will host Rochester in a pair of nonconference games this weekend in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Games are scheduled Saturday night at 7:30 and Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

Northwomen Beaten By Two Division Leaders

Facing Northwest Division co-leaders Fergus Falls and Brainerd, the Northland community college women's basketball team came out a double loser, dropping a one-sided 70-43 decision to the Spartans Wednesday and losing 64-51 to the Raiderettes Saturday.

The game against Brainerd was a marked improvement, especially considering the Northwomen lost the first meeting of the year between the two, 81-41.

"We moved the ball better," noted Northland coach Deb Jacobson after the Brainerd contest. "We executed better. Our shots went in instead of coming out."

Northland, 2-6 in division play and 4-13 overall, will host the University of North Dakota junior varsity Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Fergus Falls 70
Northland 43

Fergus Falls, with four scorers in double figures, collected 34 field goals in beating Northland 70-43.

The Spartans shot 47 per cent from the field by hitting 34 of 73 shots. Nearly all of the Fergus Falls offense came from the floor, with the Spartans making just two of eight free throw attempts. Jodi Christianson led the way with 22 points.

Northland, doubled 38-19 at halftime, shot only 34 per cent, hitting 19 of 55 shots. The Northwomen were 5-for-13 at the free throw line.

With Fergus Falls' man-to-man box defense effectively holding high-scoring Georgine Troska to just five points, Joan Engel was the only Northland scorer in double figures, finishing with 10 points.

Northland 51

Northland battled back from a 15-point, 39-24 halftime deficit, to within seven points several times late in the second half but was never able to get over the "hump," in a home court 64-51 loss.

A Julie Anderson free throw with 4:56 remaining made it a 50-43 ball game. But Brainerd out-scored Northland 12-4 over the next four minutes to take a 62-47 lead into the final minute of play.

"In girls basketball it's a lot tougher to come back than in boys," acknowledged Jacobson.

Robin Haggberg, a 5-8 sophomore, scored 15 points for the winners while Julann Casper and Jean Macheledt finished with 12 apiece. Georgine Troska led Northland with 17 points and Coco Stokke hit 14.

Brainerd was 25-for-69 from the field for 36 per cent while Northland was 21-for-68 for 31 per cent. The Raiderettes were 14-for-21 at the free throw line where the Northwomen were 9-for-16.

Reorganization Announced For FWS Programs

Environmental considerations and fishery resources will receive greater emphasis and stronger leadership in a reorganization of the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the agency reported.

The two programs have been elevated to the associate director level, bringing the number of such policymaking positions to five. Other associate directors are those for federal assistance, wildlife resources and research.

The reorganization is designed to streamline management of the service's diverse responsibilities and to improve effectiveness in meeting its increasingly complex challenges, said Director Lynn A. Greenwalt.

Other new actions included designation of a deputy associate director — national wildlife refuge system to strengthen national coordination and direction of the refuge system, the world's largest network of lands managed solely for the benefit of wildlife.

Michael J. Spear, formerly assistant director — planning and budget, has been named the first associate director — environment. He will direct the service's efforts to ensure that the needs of fish and wildlife and their habitats are adequately considered in planning of projects for water resources, energy, transportation and other forms of development. The division of ecological services and the offices of biological services and environmental coordination are realigned under Spear, along with a new program development staff. Spear, a native of San Francisco, is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and holds a master's degree in business administration from Stanford University. He has been with the Fish and Wildlife Service since 1973.

Galen L. Buterbaugh is the new associate director — fishery resources. Formerly a deputy associate director, he oversaw aspects of this program when it was combined with wildlife resources. Buterbaugh will now be responsible for administering 78 federal fish hatcheries that produce more than 200 million fish annually, 35 fishery assistance field stations, five development centers, two training schools devoted to improving technology and practices in fish culture and the service's engineering, construction, and energy conservation programs. More than 1,000 people now work under the associate director — fishery resources, in the divisions of national fish hatcheries and engineering, the office of fisheries assistance and the program development staff. Buterbaugh, who has held progressively responsible fishery positions with the fish and wildlife service since 1960, is a native of Walnut Grove, Minn. He received a B.S. degree in fishery and wildlife management from the University of Minnesota.

James W. Pulliam, Jr. becomes the first deputy associate director — national wildlife refuge system. Pulliam has spent most of his 20-year professional career associated with the refuge system. The 390-unit refuge system encompasses over 34 million acres in 49 states. He will also be responsible for directing two activities that are closely aligned with refuges — the division of realty, which is responsible for service land acquisition activities, and youth activities, which annually employs 7,000 youths in its Job Corps, Youth Conservation Corps and Young Adult Conservation Corps. Pulliam is from Henderson, North Carolina, and received a B.S. degree in wildlife management from North Carolina State University.

The deputy associate director — national wildlife refuge system is under associate director Harvey K. Nelson, wildlife resources, who was also responsible for fishery matters before the reorganization. Nelson will be assisted by a second deputy for wildlife management. This position has not been filled but will encompass supervision of the division of law enforcement, division of animal damage control, office of migratory bird management, office of wildlife services and a new office of aircraft management. The entire wildlife resources activity will continue to be supported by a program development staff.

Boat Show

In spite of rough weather the attendance at the seventh annual boat show at the Minneapolis auditorium was better than 16 per cent ahead of the 1978 attendance.

Largest sailboat on display was a 40 footer selling at $105,000. The largest power boat was priced at $87,000.

One of the items on display which aroused the interest of many fishermen was "remote-troll". It is a trolling motor mounting bracket with electric remote control. It lets you stear trolling motor from anywhere in the boat. Herb Kane of Burnsville who is the manufacturer's representative explains: "The bracket itself is connected to the boat battery through a powerful little electric motor which turns the bracket and steers the boat. The steering switch is at the end of a 21 foot cord so that you can sit comfortably anywhere in the boat and still control the steering."

Wildlife Week

Each year the national wildlife federation sponsors national wildlife week. This year the dates are March 18 through March 24.

Liars Contest

The 1979 Minnesota Outdoors liars contest is in progress. If you wish to enter a story sent it to Stu and Dee Mann, Minnesota Outdoors, 104 South Meadow Circle, Burnsville, Minnesota 55337.

Your story does not have to be original and you may enter more than once. The winner of the 1978 contest will be announced in about a month.

Expect 500 Horses At RRV Winter Shows

Plan Tonight To Work Less Tomorrow

No matter what the size of the tree. . .Husqvarna chain saws can lessen your work load. Here's how: Vibration is less with a Husqvarna saw. . .a whole lot less. A low, low noise level that welcomes comparison with any saw. Safety features not yet developed any place else but in Sweden. And then there's weight. . .Husqvarna saws probably have the best weight-to-power ratio of any saw on the market today. . . barring none. Quick starting? The special ignition system practically guarantees fewer pulls on the starter cord. Husqvarna chain saws are designed for rugged use with a minimum of maintenance. Try a Husqvarna saw, then. . . plan tonight to work less tomorrow.

Quality Of Life Has Declined, Reports Environmental Study

Despite many victories for conservationists in legislative and courtroom battles since 1969, the "quality of life" in the United States — as measured by seven environmental indicators — has declined over the past decade.

That is the finding of the tenth annual environmental quality index (EQI) study of the National Wildlife Federation, the country's largest nongovernment conservation organization.

Of the seven components that go into the EQI, only one — air quality — has shown an improvement over the past 10 years, according to the report, published in the February issue of National Wildlife magazine.

The country has "held its own" on one other natural resource — forests — while the indicators for five other resources — water, wildlife, soil, minerals and living space — have gone down, according to EQI's 10th anniversary report.

Thus, although the nation has undergone an "environmental revolution" during the past decade, it is not as well off now, environmentally speaking, as it was when the first EQI was compiled in 1969, the magazine says.

In compiling the index, each of the seven resources studied is scored on a scale of 0 to 100, based on a combination of objective measurements and the subjective judgments of experts in the various fields. Of the resources studied, the nation's forests got the highest mark (75), while its water quality got the lowest (33). A total score of 700 would represent the "best possible" environment. Over the 10 years the NWF has measured the environment, the score for the country has dropped from 395 (out of a possible 700) to 340. The 1979 score is down three points from last year's EQI.

When the first EQI was published in 1969, National Wildlife notes, few people were environmentally aware and no effort had been made to compile an overall assessment of the country's environmental quality. Now, as a result of an agreement last July, four federal agencies — the Bureau of Land Management, the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Forest Service and the Soil Conservation Service — cooperate in the collection of similar resource data, and a bill has been prepared in the house committee on science and technology to provide a "quantitative description of the state of the environment" for the federal government.

Although many environmental problems remain unsolved, the increased public awareness provides some basis for optimism, the magazine notes. "It does not seem Pollyannaish to look back and be heartened by the overall contrast between the situation a decade ago and conditions now," says Gladwin Hill, national environmental correspondent of the New York Times, in a foreword to the EQI report.

Air

Up slightly. In its first EQI, National Wildlife warned, "Air pollution is probably the most serious threat to our environment." Today, nearly 7,000 monitoring stations have been set up to keep tabs on pollution levels, and nearly 90 per cent of all major U.S. factories comply with pollution laws. However, "most Americans live in areas where it is still unsafe to breathe." And with many power plants and factories now converting from oil to coal, holding the line on clear air standards is becoming more difficult.

Forests

No change. The stage was set in 1969 for a dramatic redefinition of the role of the nation's forests. Pressure was on to increase harvests on 90 million acres of national forests, but timber was recognized as being vital to water conservation, recreation and wildlife. Now a battery of tough new laws ensures that a better balance will be struck between logging and recreation. Millions of acres of remote forestland, now open to lumbering, may be protected in the future as "wilderness."

Wildlife

Down. Since earth day in 1970, mounting public concern has helped move some important wildlife laws through congress — laws that touch on everything from strip mining and rangeland, to forest habitat, coastal wetlands and endangered species. In 1978, a classic confrontation pitted the endangered snail darter against the nearly completed Tellico dam. Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruled for the tiny fish, the endangered species act was weakened in the wake of the controversy. In the same year, however, congress sustained president Carter's landmark veto of the public works appropriations bill, thus saving thousands of acres of wildlife habitat.

While many animals have made strong "comebacks" in the past ten years, other creatures are not faring so well. The endangered species list has grown to 192 (it was 89 in 1969).

Soil

Down. Worldwide, there are 900 million more mouths to feed than there were ten years ago, and the pressure on our soil — often called "America's number one resource" — is mounting. Soil erosion has accelerated as more protective grassland has been plowed up. In addition, 17 million rural acres were lost to development during the past decade. Now, states and counties are trying to buy up "development rights" to curb loss of cropland.

Minerals

Down. The "throwaway" era was in full force ten years ago. "A national policy for the acquisition and use of our minerals is urgently needed," said National Wildlife in its first EQI. "The energy crunch is almost here." The Arab oil embargo in 1973 was an eye-opener. Yet it took four years before a U.S. energy department was established, and not until the end of 1978 did we have a national energy plan.

Some fundamental and welcome shifts in the American life-style have occurred. The tremendous turnout for 1978's sun day underscores our seriousness about becoming a "solar society." Conceivably, "more than half of all our energy needs could come from solar sources by 2020."

Today's most promising idea for conserving raw materials is an old one — recycling. About two-thirds of all things we use could be recycled.

Living Space

Down. The public was aware of living space problems ten years ago — the decay of center cities, suburban sprawl, traffic congestion, noise pollution and garbage disposal. However, Americans were only dimly aware that the root causes of these problems were the population explosion and poor land-use planning. Today, six states have developed plans for zoning and managing their fragile coastal areas, and another two dozen are working on similar plans. But national land-use planning legislation has been twice defeated in congress.

Water

Down. "Virtually every stream, river, lake and estuary in the country is polluted," said the 1969 EQI report. Despite strong federal control, only limited progress has been made. And while there is some evidence that the nation's water is getting cleaner, experts think these recent gains may be deceptive. We've only recently realized that rain runoff is responsible for more than half of all the polluting compounds entering the nation's waterways. "It's a gigantic problem we've only begun to attack," concedes one EPA official. With over 1,000 new substances being introduced each year, and more than 70,000 chemicals currently being used for commercial purposes in the U.S., identification and control of toxic substances is a must.

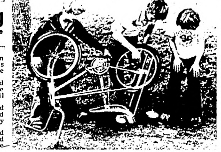
4-H'ers Preparing For A Lifetime Of Leadership



From bicycle repairs to bread baking, 4-H junior and teen leaders share their skills with younger members in a variety of projects and activities. Reader's Digest recognizes outstanding leadership ability with awards ranging from county medals to $1,000 scholarships.

CHICAGO — A Louisiana high school student initiated a community anti-pollution campaign that attracted so much support the county commissioners were able to secure federal funding for the project.

A college freshman, unable to close her eyes to the plight of handicapped children in her community, organized the youngsters into a group that became the first 4-H club for the handicapped in North Carolina.

These two young people are among nine national winners in the national 4-H leadership program, supported by Reader's Digest and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The program offers young people 9-19 a variety of learn-by-doing opportunities to become effective leaders through their involvement in 4-H activities.

4-H members are encouraged to share their special skills with others as junior and teen leaders in their local clubs. These 4-H'ers work with adult leaders and actively participate in planning and carrying out programs in their clubs, schools and communities.

To recognize outstanding leadership ability, Reader's Digest provides medals of honor to four 4-H members in each county and an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago to one member per state.

Nine national winners receive $1,000 scholarships. The high ranking boy and girl, along with their counterparts in the 4-H achievement and citizenship programs, receive the coveted Presidential Award, the highest honor in 4-H.

Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service on the basis of their overall 4-H records, and awards are arranged by National 4-H Council.

More information on the 4-H leadership program is available from county extension agents.

THANKS!

FOR BANKING WITH US!

FIRST NORTHWESTERN STATE BANK of Thief River Falls is proud to have had the opportunity to continue serving the people of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area, as we have done for the past 48 years.

All of us at FIRST NORTHWESTERN thank you for doing business with us in 1978. It is our commitment in 1979 to continue to serve you in the best way possible. Remember, we're on your side.

George W Schwartz

President, First Northwestern State Bank
Thief River Falls, Minn.

OUR STATEMENT

Every year banks publish a statement of condition. We recently published ours, but since many people find these reports confusing and difficult to understand, we'd like to explain it. For our bank to function properly, we need your deposits. We thank you for your confidence in First Northwestern Bank, and last year's 15% increase in deposits.

Contrary to what some people think or say, we are putting these deposits back to work in our community. In 1978 we increased our loans by over $6,000,000.00, or 21% over the previous year. These were loans for construction and purchase of new homes, to farmers, business, and industry and to individuals for personal needs. With your continued support we look forward to serving our community even better in 1979. "We're really on your side".

Bob Purdy, Saxophone

Marlo Erickson, Clarinet

Student Recital Set At Lincoln School

Instrumental music will be presented to the public in a manner previously untried at Lincoln high school Monday when three outstanding student musicians appear in recital. Marlo Erickson, Bob Purdy and Bill Hustad have been selected to perform three numbers each with Steve Anderson and Pam Rohloff participating in duet performances with Hustad and Erickson, respectively. The novel program, planned under the direction of music instructor Doug Engstrom, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday, February 19, in the high school auditorium.

Lincoln high school senior Marlo Erickson is principal clarinetist in the high school wind ensemble and orchestra, is active in the Northland community band and has played in various ensembles. She received superior ratings in regional ensemble and solo contest division's the past three years and attended International Music Camp the past two years. In 1978, while in attendance at the music camp, Marlo was awarded the "Outstanding Music Campus Award." She has taken private instruction from Mr. Schelenle, Dakota Wesleyan University; and from Mr. Sublette, Edinboro state college; and has applied for admission to the University of Wisconsin, Eau-Claire, to pursue a career in the field of music therapy.

Solo clarinet numbers to be performed by Erickson in Monday's contest are "Scene And Air" by Michael Bergson, taken from "Luisa di Montfort"; and "Minuet from Divertimento in D, K.334 by W. A. Mozart. Marlo will also play "Duet No. 3" by Beethoven with Pam Rohloff as the second clarinetest. Pam is a sophomore at Lincoln and is also exploring the possibility of making music a career.

Bill Hustad, Tuba

Bob Purdy is first chair alto saxophone player in the Lincoln wind ensemble and also a member of the jazz ensemble. He too participates in community band and has performed both solo and ensemble contest numbers. He received superior rating in both categories in 1978 contests. "Bob, being a sophomore," Engstrom comments, "has great potential as a solo performer in years to come."

75 Receive AVTI Scholarships

Seventy-five scholarships totaling $7,300 were awarded to students of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute Tuesday afternoon at an awards presentation held at the AVTI in conjunction with national vocational education week.

Student winners were selected by the AVTI faculty scholarship committee from a large number of applicants with selection based on school performance as well as financial need.

Members of the scholarship committee are Mrs. Julie Thorson, Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer, Dennis Wilkens, Dean Paskewitz, Donald Hermanson and Robert Reeve with Reeve serving as chairman. The annual scholarship awards are part of the AVTI's on-going program of financial assistance to students, Reeve said.

Students receiving the awards and their parents were special guests for the ceremonies as well as several representatives of sponsoring organizations who presented scholarships on behalf of their groups.

Also in attendance and speaking briefly were Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of Thief River Falls public schools, and Arnt M. Aune, director of the AVTI.

$100 SCHOLARSHIPS from various sponsors were presented to these students Tuesday at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. They were among 75 scholarship recipients of awards ranging from $50 to $100 and were selected by the AVTI faculty scholarship committee on the basis of school performance and financial need. Awards presentation Tuesday was held in conjunction with national vocational education week. Scholarship winners above include, left to right, seated, Theresa Vreeland, legal secretarial, Greenbush, First Federal saving and loan association; Cindy Restad, medical secretarial, Thief River Falls, TRF Lions club; and Claudia Simenson, accounting, Thief River Falls, TRF Lions club; standing, Barbara Lawrence, secretarial, Hallock, TRF Rotary club; Mike Madison, aviation mechanics, Shoreview, TRF Rotary club; Carmen Bisson, accounting, Trail, Thief River Falls Times; and Robert Stotts, auto mechanics, Roseau, Wilson Brothers. Other scholarship recipients are pictured elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

Oklee's Water Tank Buckles; Pressure Drops

Oklee residents are faced with low water pressure to their homes and businesses and several have experienced frozen service lines following collapse of part of the stand-up tank which holds the city's water supply. The tank buckled about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Mayor Earl Swenson told the Times that the collapse of the stand-up tank — a tube of quarter-inch thick steel six feet in diameter and 100 feet high — was apparently caused by a vacuum created when water froze in the top of the pipe and the remaining supply was used rapidly from the bottom part. He said the buckling caused the tank to crack about 30 feet above the ground.

Workmen had gone into the tank following the incident and worked their way through about six feet of ice until they hit a grating, Swenson said. The grating had been installed as a protection for workmen when they clean and paint the interior of the 30,000-gallon storage tank atop the 100-foot stand-up tank. Plans were being made to use electrical units in an attempt to melt the ice.

Swenson said that Oklee's water supply comes from an excellent well that can be pumped at a rate of 250 to 300 gallons per minute and he expected no unusual fire danger because of a reduced water supply. He also said that reduction of water pressure in city mains to 24 to 26 pounds compares with normal pressure of 45 to 62 pounds. As a result of the lowered pressure, service lines to four residences in the outlying parts of the city froze, he said. They were being thawed out Tuesday.

Ice build-up in the tank apparently resulted from the prolonged period of extremely cold weather in the area, coupled with low water use in the city at night. Attempts had been made to fill and drain the tank to avoid freezing, he said, and the ice build-up in the tank was unknown. The tank collapse happened when the city was draining the tank from a hydrant in preparation for re-filling it from the well.

Assistance is being given to the city by crew members of Northwest Elevator repair company who were working in the community. Plans are to remove the ice and weld the crack in the tank to restore temporary service until warm weather when the damaged area of the tank can be replaced or given more permanent repairs. Swenson said the tank is buckled from a point about 20 feet off the ground for about 36 feet beyond that point. Water can be maintained up to about the 30-foot level.

Valley Epilepsy League To Meet

School Board Prepares For More Cost-Cutting

With an expected reduction of another 100 pupil units in the Thief River Falls public schools for the 1979-80 school term, the board of education on Monday night began taking steps toward cost containment for the coming school year.

Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools, noted that a loss of 100 pupil units would mean a loss or more than $100,000 to the district in state school aids. He said the general plan for balancing that reduction in funding would be curtailment of $70,000 in certified personnel and 30 per cent in a combination of buildings and grounds, transportation and food service.

A resolution adopted by the board Monday evening noted that there is the anticipated reduction in enrollment and that a determination must be made as to which teachers' contracts must be terminated and not renewed and which teachers must be placed on unrequested leave of absence without pay or fringe benefits in affecting discontinuance of positions.

The board directed the superintendent of schools and the administration to consider the discontinuance of programs or positions and, to effectuate economics in the school district' and reduce expenditures, to make recommendations to the school board for discontinuance or curtailment of programs and discontinuance of positions.

Following adoption of that resolution, the board approved a list of positions to be discontinued upon administrative recommendation. Persons in the positions are for the most part first year (probationary) teachers, partime or long term subsitute teachers. Personnel listed (in order of priority for retention should circumstances permit) in the recommendation for discontinuance of positions include the following:

MYLO CARLSON HERD of rural Warren received two awards at the annual meeting of the Pennington county DHIA Monday at the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls. Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the association, presents a trophy to Mrs. Carlson for high herd average for 1978 of 16,797 pounds of milk and 647 pounds of butterfat. Mylo Carlson (second from right) is being presented with a Farm Bureau award for having the highest herd average in the association over the past three years. He received his award from Marshall county Farm Bureau president.

DHIA Elects Two Directors Monday

Producer members of the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association (DHIA) braved cold and snowy weather Monday evening to gather at the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls for their annual dinner and meeting. The association has 32 members in Pennington, Marshall and Polk counties.

Roger Walter of Plummer was elected to the board of directors to succeed Orlan Stolaas of Oklee who was ineligible for reelection after serving two consecutive three-year terms. Roy Nelson of Goodridge was reelected to a three-year term on the board.

At a reorganization of the board, Lowell Hamrick of Warren was reelected president and Roger Mickelson of Goodridge was reelected vice president. Walter was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Stolaas in that position. Other directors are Gene Nelson of Viking and Roy Nelson.

Awards were presented to several members of the association for having cattle ranking at the top of the association in production during the past year. Mylo Carlson of Angus won the award for the top herd average with an average of 16,797 pounds of milk and 647 pounds of butterfat for a 59-cow herd.

Top individual cow was owned by Orlan Stolaas and produced 21,250 pounds of milk and 930 pounds of butterfat in a 305-day lactation. Top two-year-old came from the Marlan Augustine herd of rural Thief River Falls and produced 18,222 pounds of milk and 717 pounds of butterfat in her first production year.

James Muzzy of rural Thief River Falls herd had the top increase in butterfat of 48 pounds over a three-year average. New award, presented by the Marshall county Farm Bureau for the highest average herd production over the past three years, was also awarded to the Mylo Carlson herd.

Annual report prepared by Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the association, showed that three herds had left the association and three others joined in 1978. Leaving were LeRoy Gustafson, Marlan

Contract With North Central Changed By City

A gain of about $3,000 to $3,500 in revenues to the city from the airport operation is expected as a result of re-negotiations with North Central airlines, airport manager George Singer informed Thief River Falls city council members at a regular council meeting held Tuesday, February 14. A new three-year contract is being drawn up and the council gave its approval to the changes suggested in rates and policies.

Savings of $1,600 to $2,000 are expected to result from a change of the airport electrical meter which will now bill electricity directly to North Central. An adjustment in square foot rental charges from $6.30 to $8 per square foot for office space is expected to net just under $1,400 in additional revenue. Square foot rental charges of $6.30 for freight and $4 for security area will remain unchanged.

A new policy of charging landing fees for charters was also given preliminary approval by the council. The fees were set at $100 per landing for DC-9 aircrafts and $50 for Convair 580's. Publicly owned aircraft and aircraft based at Thief River Falls would be exempt. Council asked the airport committee to determine reasonable charges for twin engine and single engine

Oakland Park Residents Host Sunday Dinners

Four residents at Oakland Park Nursing home hosted private Sunday dinners during the month of January. During the year, residents rotate in hosting dinners with family members or friends as guests.

Hosting the dinners, together with the dates and the guests, were: Odin Peterson, January 7, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Trontvet; Deloris Branson, January 14, Mrs. Harold Haugen and her mother, Mrs. Helga Brandon; Emma Christianson, January 21, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Arveson of Oklee; and Clara Erickson, January 28, Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Legvold and Regina Legvold.

Also highlighting the month's activities was the joint birthday party given on January 16 for all the residents observing their birthdays during January. Hosting the party were members of the Evangelical Free church with Mrs. Lindquist as chairman.

Honored residents and dates of their birthdays were: Carl Alberg, January 1; Ragna Efteland, January 7; Olava Sollom, January 8; Isabella Prezekwas, January 12; Mae Hanson, January 14; Teckla Toren, January 20; Emil Wright, January 25; Lilly Lappi, January 28; and Tillie Michalsky and Bergit Thomalla, both on January 31.

Private birthday parties were hosted for Teckla Toren by the Toren family, for Ray Ruud by his mother, Constance Ruud, and for Mrs. Bergit Thomalla on her 97th birthday, hosted by her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Habadank, who served ice cream and cup cakes to all the residents and staff.

Other events at Oakland Park included musical programs presented by the Kings Men; Tippi Benson and a group of friends, who played the accordion and sang; and Terri Cuppett, who sang at a program presented by the Ruth Circle of Trinity Lutheran church with Nicky Almquist chairman. The women of Trinity also served lunch to the residents.

Regular monthly events included Communion services the fourth Friday of the month with Rev. J Hovland of Trinity Lutheran church in charge; shampoo, clip and set days on Tuesday with the AVTI cosmetology students in charge, and bingo with members of the American Legion auxiliary assisting.

Women's Aglow Fellowship To Hear J. Hafstedt

Judy Hafstedt of Fargo, N.D., will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of Women's Aglow Fellowship (WAF) set for Friday evening at the basement meeting room in the Thief River Falls city auditorium. The meeting is scheduled to begin at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Hafstedt and her husband, Parker, are members of the staff at Daystar Gardner Ministry center, Fargo, N.D. In her presentation Friday evening, she will be giving some basic steps in learning "How to Love One Another."

Women Aglow Fellowship is an international women's organization of all faiths. Singing, sharing, worshiping and teaching are integral parts of the meeting.

All women of the area are welcome to attend. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Leadership Meet Scheduled By Nat'l BPW Club

National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, Inc., (NFBPWC) leadership conference will be held Saturday, March 31, at the Normandy Inn in Minneapolis. This is one of the three leadership conferences scheduled in United States. Other seminars will be held simultaneously in Washington and Indiana.

Under the direction of Phyllis Harrison, National second vice president, and Jeri Libner, third vice president, BPW members will have the opportunity of sharpening leadership skills, and learning new techniques in organizing activities.

Issues to be discussed will be: leaders, born or made; knowing the product, analyzing members' needs, setting club goals, communicating well, motivating members, packaging the product, making the sale, building the image, participating actively, and evaluating goals.

Attendance is open to the public with advance registration fee set at $15 and on-site registration $17.50. Advance registrations must be received by March 15. A completed registration form and check to the National Federation are to be mailed to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., 2012 Massachusetts Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Receipt from National will serve as ticket to the conference and entitles holder to a packet of materials. Request for hotel information should be mailed to Normandy Inn, 405 South Eighth street, Minneapolis. Reservation for the luncheon should be mailed to Irene Theif, 4366 43rd avenue north, Minneapolis, 55422. Cost of the luncheon will be $6.50.

Legion Auxiliary Hosts Dinner For New Members

Traditional joint dinner with members of the American Legion post preceded the monthly meeting of the auxiliary held Tuesday, February 6, at the club rooms. Providing the dinner music was Jerry Joringdal. His mother, Mrs. Myrtle Joringdal was a guest at the dinner.

Other special guests at the dinner were the new members: Marcella Dunrud, Magdalina Pribyl, Mildred Nelson, Leona Hanson, Rebecca Ptacek, Lois Hook, Lorraine Morben, Ella Larson, Flora Hagglund and Ann Irvin. They were initiated at the meeting of the unit that followed. Serving as initiating officer was Mrs. Agnes Bakken. President Constance Driscoll presided.

A social hour and lunch followed the meeting. The door prize was won by Ella Larson.

Valentine Party Hosted For Over-Fifty Group

Approximately 60 people attended the Over-Fifty Valentine party held Sunday afternoon at St. Bernard's Catholic church basement.

Upon arriving, the guests were presented with Valentine name tags and were escorted to tables decorated in the Valentine motif. Punch was served during the program led by Guild President Audrey Donarski.

During the program, special music was provided by the Valentinos, a group that changes its name to correspond with the occasion. Several selections were played by Don Larson of Oklee, Art Heinze, Ray Hedlund and Terry Courneya. Audrey Donarski read, "The Living Tree," and was joined by Judy Dupree in singing "Pass It On." They were accompanied by Don Larson, who played the guitar.

Brief meditations, appropriate for the occasion, were given by Rev. James Bernauer, Rev. Leon Rausch and Rev. Edward McMenamin. The program concluded with Judy Dupree reading the poem, "At Day's End."

Children-Youth Conference Set By Argyle Legion

American Legion post and auxiliary unit of Argyle will be hosting a Children and Youth conference on Sunday, March 11, beginning at 1:30 p.m., with registration and coffee.

Ninth District officers will open the session. Included in the conference will be a presentation on the new special olympics support plan; and a panel featuring three professionals in immunization, child abuse and neglect, and disruptive youth. Also present will be two members of the newly formed Child Abuse and Neglect team in Marshall county. A question and answer period will follow the panel presentation.

Invited to attend are National chairman Gene Lindquist and Department auxiliary chairman Blanche Coppa.

Coordinating the conference are Ninth district Children and Youth Chairmen Phil Kjalgien, Fergus Falls, and Mrs. Ray (Leona) Rapacz, Argyle.

The conference is open to all area post and unit members. Especially encouraged to attend are post and unit Children and Youth chairmen.

Spring Fashions Seen By County Homemakers

Pennington County homemakers had a sneak preview of spring fashions which were shown at a recent noon luncheon held at the American Legion club in this city. The event began with a look at swimwear from the Mercantile company.

Commentator for the fashion show was Carole Johnson. Fashion show coordinators were Pauline Aubol of the Chat and Chew homemakers and Ruth Oen of the Potpourri club.

Modeling the fashions were Beth Nichols, Nancy Tofte, Jess McCabe and Bonnie Poissant from the Mercantile Company; Bonnie Nelson of Jean Junction; Lillian Klockman, Joanne Wefald and Konnie Christensen of the Klothes Kloset; and Cherilyn Sorum and Debbie and Carol Bjorgaard of Sassee Lassee.

The Sugar and Spice homemakers provided the centerpieces, name tags and nutcups for the luncheon. Holly Haugen of the Ten-Four club was in charge of meal arrangements.

Winning the door prizes, donated by Ekeren Drug store, were Sharon Wagner of the Silverton club, and Renae Timm of the Ten-Four homemakers group.

Ryan M. Hendrickson Baptized at St. Bernard's

Ryan Michael Hendrickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hendrickson of 1121 Greenhill Drive, received the sacrament of holy baptism on Sunday, February 11, at the 11:30 a.m., services at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the ceremony. Sponsors were the child's uncle and aunt, Dean Hendrickson of Audubon and Miss Cynthia Anderson of Stephen.

A buffet-style dinner at the Hendrickson home followed. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson, Cynthia and Greg of Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. Arlan Anderson and Shawn of Argyle; Mr. and Mrs. Brad David of Brooklyn Park, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hendrickson and Dean of Audubon, Paul Hendrickson of Frazee and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Seibel, Rev. James Bernauer, Rev. Leon Rausch and Rev. Edward McMenamin, all of Thief River Falls.

Ryan Michael was born January 9.

aircraft and report back at a later meeting.

The necessity of extending the lease on temporary fire department headquarters while the new firehall is being completed was discussed and the council instructed the fire department committee to extend the lease for one month, through March. It is expected that the interior of the new facilities will be substantially finished at that time and able to be occupied.

A change order for door openers at the new fire hall was also approved by the council. Motor on the overhead door openers will be ½ horsepower rather than one-third and the method of installation will be altered to provide for easier manual operation in the case of a power failure.

Annual reports were received from the Thief River Falls police department, animal control officer and the Greenwood cemetery commission and ordered filed; approval was given for the issuance of a building permit for a skyway from First Northwestern State bank across the alley to the mini-mall; and the council approved the acquisition of a sub-standard parcel of property for demolition under the housing and redevelopment block grant program.

Granted were a 3.2 on-sale beer license to the Thief River Falls curling club; auctioneer's license to Curt Johnson of Lakota, N.D.; plumbing license to Gary Ford and Tim Dusbabek of Newfolden; cigarette license to the Big T Restaurant; and dance permit to the Flying Scot Disco band for February 23. Permission was also given to Randall Noper to use the city auditorium for square dancing Saturday and Sunday, August 4 and 5 and a progression raise was granted to Vern Cleven, patrolman.

Mayor Bob Carlson was placed in nomination for a position on the League of Minnesota Cities board of directors; resignation of Dottie Hiebing as director of Northwest regional library was acknowledged; and a resolution was passed supporting the designation by Governor Albert Quie of February 26-March 2 as Minnesota Cities Week.

Final plat for the Sunflower Square First subdivision was approved; preliminary plat for Anda first addition was approved; and a request from Arctic Enterprises to purchase a 12-acre tract of land along highway 32 was rejected because of possible future use of the land for a bypass.

Alderman Don Goodrich informed the council that Brad Steinman, real estate manager for Holiday Stationstores, has indicated that Holiday would like to purchase the property on the corner of highway 59 and First St. should the zoning remain as is. Suit pending against the city as a result of the corporation's previous efforts to relocate would then be dropped. Hearing on a request for rezoning of the parcel of land in question will be held Monday, March 19.

As a result of a hearing held prior to the commencement of the regular council meeting, a piece of property west of Tessum's addition was vacated with the city reserving the right to have utility easements and access.

Everett Marshall; Patti Mattern, long-term substitute for Carol Ihle; Carol Brodin, long-term substitute for Glen Chiodo; Jackie Knute, part-time science; Ruth Klosterman Title I reading; and Glenna Weflad, grade four.

Job description policies were approved for 10 business and clerical positions and one position was eliminated and the employee in that position given 20-day notice of termination. Posting and advertising was authorized for an accounts receivable-CRT-reconciliation clerk, and for an AVTI accounting clerk.

Authorization was given by the board to the school administration to place orders through the educational cooperative service unit (ECSU) for the 1979-80 school year.

Resignation was received from Joanne Fletcher, management aide at Knox elementary school, and Tamicia McCann was hired as a regular route bus driver. Leave of absneces without pay or benefits were approved for Merle Rolland, bus driver, one year; and Bonita Kluver, Lincoln home economics teacher, 1979-80 school year; and Marilyn Bannerman, bus driver, February 23 through March 2. Military leave for Jerel Melhouse, audio-visual repairman, was approved for national guard training February 10-24.

Lane changes on the salary schedule were approved for Marilyn Gustafson at the AVTI from B.S. to B.S. plus 15 credits and for Pam Carlson at Franklin school from M.S. to M.S. plus 15 credits.

Policy statement on uniform procedure for the use of subsitute teachers was approved by the board and sets forth qualifications for substitutes, rate of pay and duties. Posting of the certified personnel seniority list for the school year for a period of 10 days was authorized.

Tentative school calendars for the 1979-80 school year of the area vocational-technical institute and K-12 in the public schools were approved. Both show 175 teaching days, eight in-service or workshop days and two paid holidays. The workshop days and paid holidays are subject to negotiation.

DHIA Elects Two Directors Here Monday

Augustine and Albert Koop herds. Added were Robert Rausch of Thief River Falls and Pearson Bros. of Warren as full DHIA members and Don Fulton of Warren as an owner-sampler member.

Figures prepared by Hamre showed that the Pennington association members were slightly below the state average in pounds of butterfat and milk produced per cow but ranked slightly higher than average in per cent test. The county association members averaged 13,764 pounds of milk and 518 pounds of butterfat per cow with 3.8 test. State average was 13,957 pounds of milk and 522 pounds of butterfat with 3.7 test.

Quality of herds keeps improving, however, as only six years ago the county association average was nearly 1,000 pounds less of milk (12,783) and 37 pounds less fat (485). The year is the closest the association members have come to matching the state average.

During the past testing year there were 208 cows in the association which produced more than 600 pounds of butterfat, led by the Stolaas cow with a 930-pound production figure. Mylo Carlson herd had a 915-pound producer and Knute Nesland had three which produced from 825 to 852 pounds. Duane Vatsaas had an 893-pound production animal, Earl Erickson an 819, Mylo Carlson an 817, and Clarence Swanson an 812. Forty-eight cows produced between 700 and 800 pounds of butterfat during the year.

Following Carlson's 647 average as of the last processing in 1978 were Nesland with 620, Vatsaas with 613 and Gary Boughton with 610. Thirteen other dairymen had herd averages from 500 to 600 pounds, including eight over 550 pounds.

Building And Remodeling To Be Taught Here

Co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, University of Minnesota-Crookston and the Pennington county extension service, a short course in building, buying and remodeling will cover the basics of plan and design, foundations, structural components, plumbing, wiring, heating, insulation, kitchen planning, financing, important legal considerations and working with contractors.

A variety of resource people will conduct the 7:30-10 p.m. sessions beginning on Tuesday, March 6. The class will meet for five consecutive Tuesdays at the AVTI, room 103. The fee is $21; for an additional $4 the participant's spouse or guest may attend.

Pre-register by February 28 by contacting adult education, Thief River Falls AVTI, 681-5425, ext. 30.

Plan Meet On Horticulture Here Next Wed.

Glenn Ray, executive secretary of the Minnesota horticultural society, will be in Thief River Falls Wednesday, February 21, to conduct a meeting at 10:30 a.m. in the public meeting room of the Northwest regional library.

Ray's visit is sponsored by the 13th District horticultural society and is intended to promote membership in the state society as well as the formation of new garden clubs and membership in existing garden clubs in the area.

Mrs. Ernest Swanson of Goodridge, president of the 13th District society, encourages all persons interested in horticulture to meet with Ray at the library Wednesday morning.

Through daily computer printouts in the Job Banks, jobseekers at state employment service offices in major cities and other locations receive current information about job vacancies in their areas.

Committee To Work On AVTI Dedication

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute recently formed a committee to plan the open house dedication ceremonies for the new nearly 50,000 square foot addition to the AVTI. Dedication date adopted by the board of education is to be Thursday, October 11, 1979 and coincides with the 30th anniversary of the school.

Purpose of the AVTI addition is to combine all programs with the exception of aircraft mechanics at one site, and one new program in farm agriculture mechanics and build a joint commons area with Northland community college along with a food service area to serve both the AVTI and NCC.

'First Love' At Our Saviour's

"First Love", a group of local high school and college students, will present a program of contemporary and traditional Gospel music Sunday at 8 p.m. at Our Saviour's Lutheran church, 401 St. Paul av. S., Thief River Falls.

Coffee and refreshments will be served

Recital By Students Set At Lincoln

performed by Purdy include "Concertante" by E. Paladiche; "Aria" by Eugene Bossa; and "Adagio And Allegro" by G. F. Handel, arranged by Harry Gee and taken from "Violin Sonata No. 6."

Third soloist to perform at the February 19 recital is sophomore Bill Hustad. Bill is section leader and first chair tuba player in the high school wind ensemble, a member of the jazz ensemble and a solo and ensemble participant in music contests. Rating received for his performance in the 1978 solo contests was superior and he advanced to the sub-region. Hustad, like Erickson has aspirations to pursue a musical career.

Monday evening he will play two solo numbers: "Billy Blowhard" by Celian Kottavn; and "Air And Bouree" by Johann Sebastian Bach, arranged by William Bell. He will also perform "Duet" by Saint-Jacome with Steve Anderson, local entertainer, as the other member of the duet.

The public is invited to attend the recital and enjoy the students' talented presentation of instrumental music.

CORRECTION

In a recent obituary of Yngve A. Berggren, the name of the officiating pastor was in error. Rev. Earl Eveland, pastor of the Evangelical Free church, officiated at the services and not Rev. Merle Knutson. Rev. Knutson gave the Scripture reading and prayer.

Florence Hince Services Held Today At Oklee

Liturgy of the funeral for Mrs. Florence Hince, 79, formerly of Oklee, was held today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m., at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee. Mrs. Hince died Saturday at the Memorial hospital in Medford, Wis., where she had resided for the past four years.

Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the services. Interment will be in the church cemetery with the Petterson Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Allan and Joseph Bohlke, Michael and Scott Hince, James Lambert and Mark Lindquist.

Mrs. Hince, the former Florence Lambert, was born Aug. 16, 1899 at old Lambert Town, rural Oklee, to Joseph and Marie Louise Lambert. She was married in 1930 at Oklee to Zepherine Hince. Following the death of her husband, in 1965, Mrs. Hince continued to live in the Oklee area until four years ago when she moved to Medford, Wis., to live with her son, James. For the past three years, she had been a resident of the Longterm Nursing home in Medford.

Surviving are four sons: Ambrose Hince, Milwaukee, Wis.; James, Medford, Wis.; and Dean and Mark, both of Oak Creek, Wis.; one daughter, Mrs. Ronald (Marie) Bohlke, Minneapolis; 15 grandchildren, a great-grandchild; one brother, Walter Lambert, Thief River Falls; and two sisters: Mrs. Leo (Eva) Bruneau, Crookston, and Mrs. George (Rebecca) Sharest, Oklee.

Carl Stromgren Rites Held At Lake Bronson

Carl A. Stromgren, 77, rural Strandquist, died unexpectedly Monday evening, February 5, at his home in Lincoln township, Marshall county.

Funeral services for Carl Stromgren were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Zion Lutheran church, Lake Bronson, with Rev. Martti Wilkman officiating. Mrs. Alex Johnson was the soloist and Mrs. Martti Wilkman, the organist. Interment will be in the Riverside cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, in charge of arrangements.

Carl Adolph Stromgren, a son of the late Albin and Mathilda Stromgren, was born March 20, 1901 in Jupiter township, Kittson county, near Lake Bronson. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community. On Dec. 5, 1928, he was married at Hallock to Ruby Souder. The couple farmed in Tegner and Jupiter townships for several years. For the past 18 years, they have resided on their present farm in Lincoln township.

He was a member of the Zion Lutheran church of Lake Bronson.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters: Mrs. Joe E. (Arlene) Clark, Stephen; and Mrs. Rodney (Clarice) Hanson, Hallock; four sons: Reuben and Wayne Stromgren, both of Strandquist; Ronald, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; and Roger, Mandan, N.D.; 24 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers: Leonard and Marvin Stromgren, both of Lake Bronson, and two sisters: Mrs. Elphie Bogestad, Donaldson, and Miss Signe Stromgren, Lake Bronson.

One brother and three sisters preceded him in death.

Services Held At Oklee For Ole Dahle, 97

Funeral services for Ole Dahle, 97, of Oklee, were held Tuesday at 2 p.m., at the Ebenezer Lutheran church, north of Oklee. Dahle died Saturday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Clifford Randall officiated at the services. Mrs. Myra Nesland was the organist and sololist. Interment will be in the church cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Milan Rustan, Elmer Rustan, Omer Nesland, Ray Linvik, Roy Gordon and Arthur Olson.

Ole Dahle was born June 24, 1881 in Satesdal, Norway to Mr. and Mrs. J. Dahle. He was baptized and confirmed in Norway and attended school there. In 1902, he immigrated to the United States, settling in Deer Park township, Pennington County.

He was married in 1908 at Fairdale, N.D., to Bertina Grande. Following their marriage, they homesteaded in Deer Park township, where they continued to live and farm.

Dahle was a member of the Ebenezer Lutheran church and for over 20 years, served on the school board.

His is survived by two sons: John and George Dahle, both of Oklee; three daughters: Mrs. Alma Malvig, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Leonard (Bergina) Schultz, Eveleth; and Olga Dahle, at home. Also surviving are two granddaughters and two great-grandsons.

He was preceded in death by his wife, who died Dec. 14, 1970; a son, one granddaughter, two brothers and three sisters.

Marshall Co. Photo Contest Rules Listed

Rules and prizes for the Marshall county historical society photo contest have been announced by Nancy Solum, director. The contest is announced this far in advance of the county fair in order to give photographers a chance to take winter pictures of Marshall county scenes if they desire.

Working in cooperation with the Marshall county fair, the society will offer premium prizes of $25, $15 and $10 in categories of both black and white and color. Should the county historical society decide to use any of the photographs submitted on a postcard, the photographer will receive credit on the postcard as well as a lifetime supply of cards.

Contest Rules

(1) The Centennial photography contest is for amateur photographers only. Professional photographers (individuals who earn income from taking or selling photographs) are not eligible, nor are members of the Marshall county historical society.

(2) Contest entries must be taken recently on a locale within Marshall county.

(3) Black and white prints, color transparancies and color prints are acceptable; prizes will be awarded in both black and white and color.

(4) Each entrant is limited to two entries in each category — two black and white prints and two color prints or one color print and one color transparency.

(5) Black and white category: (a) Prints must be unmounted glossies 8x10 inches in size; (b) On the back of the print must appear the entrant's name and address, make of camera and film used, date and place entry was taken; (c) Developing and printing may be done by the entrant or by a commercial firm. No artwork or retouching of print or negative is permitted; (d) No black and white entries will be returned.

(6) Color category: (a) Color prints must be 8x10 inches in size; (b) On the back of each print must appear the same data specified for black and white entries; (c) Color prints will not be returned; (d) Color transparencies must be originals and in cardboard slide-mounts. Duplicates and glass mounts are not acceptable. Transparencies will be returned only if accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope and protective cardboard.

(7) Entries will be judged on photographic quality, originality of subject treatment and sense of place (locale, local color, etc.) they convey. The judges will be a panel of professional photographers and their decision will be final.

(8) Winners will be notified by August 1, but the list of winners will appear the final day of the Marshall county fair, July 22, 1979.

(9) The Marshall county historical society will not be responsible for condition of entries upon receipt; the sender assumes all risks.

(10) The Marshall county historical society reserves the right to use such photographs for promotional purposes (including exhibition at the county fair and with exclusive rights to be reproduced on postcards.

(11) Before receiving a prize, the entrant must sign a statement that the entry is the work of an amateur photographer and that the entry has not been entered in any other photography contest.

Electric Co-op Directors Are Re-Nominated

If you thought rock 'n' roll was for teenagers only, there are quite a few senior citizens in Minnesota who have news for you!

Second Annual Rock 'N Roll jamboree, an event to raise money for the American Heart association to fight cardiovascular disease, will prove that the "young at heart" can be any age when it comes to helping others and having fun at the same time.

Residents from nursing homes throughout Minnesota will be seeking sponsorship from community young people and adults who will solicit pledges and donations for as long as the participants rock in rocking chairs, roll in wheel chairs or walk in nursing home corridors.

"Residents in nursing homes often are afflicted with heart disease and many of them have lost loved ones to this killer," said Robert Lamp, state chairman of the 1979 jamboree. "Therefore, they can be direct beneficiaries of their own efforts."

Part of a nationwide effort, the jamboree is sponsored by the American health care association and the Minnesota association of health care facilities in cooperation with the American Heart association, Minnesota affiliate.

In Minnesota, the weeks of February through March 31, 1979, are being set aside for the jamboree. February is also national heart month and the peak of the Heart association's heart fund campaign. Minnesota's goal for the jamboree is $35,000, which is $20,000 over last year's total.

National celebrity co-chairmen of the jamboree are Kristy McNichol, star of the ABC-TV series "Family," and her brother Jimmy, RCA recording artist. Nationwide goal this year is $1.25 million, compared with $700,000 raised during last year's jamboree.

"This year we have a lot of time to prepare our program and notify nursing-homes of the jamboree," said Lance Crombie, Ph.d., 1979 state heart fund chairman. "As a result, both facility residents and solicitors will be better prepared to raise the needed funds."

"We had excellent support from various individuals and businesses in our community," said one nursing home administrator about last year's program. "Residents truly derived a deep sense of accomplishment and pride from it."

"We feel fortunate to do our part in helping the Heart association fight heart disease — the nation's number one killer," one resident said.

Monies raised during the jamboree are used for heart research, community programs and public and professional education by the American Heart association.

Seek Heart Attack Victims For 'U'M Study

"Can heart attacks be prevented by lowering cholesterol?" That is the question posed by a team of University of Minnesota doctors conducting a study of the relationship between cholesterol and heart disease.

"Heart disease is the leading cause of death and disability in the United States," said Dr. Henry Buchwald, the head of the Twin Cities based study. Nearly all heart disease results from atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries — the tubes which must continually supply blood containing life-giving oxygen and nourishment to the heart and other organs. Atherosclerosis gradually thickens and narrows arteries until blood can no longer flow through them; the result of this narrowing is usually acute illness, the most prevalent of which is a heart attack.

According to Dr. Buchwald, cholesterol, a fatty substance, is found in diseased arteries and may represent a clue to the cause of atherosclerosis. Also, the amount of cholesterol found in our blood can predict, somewhat, how likely we are to have heart attacks. Facts such as these have led many doctors to use various means to lower blood cholesterol in their patients; it is still uncertain, however, whether such lowering can actually prevent heart attacks.

The University of Minnesota research team is now seeking individuals from 25 through 59 years of age who have had only one heart attack in the past five years. Such individuals may obtain more information about the study by calling the University of Minnesota hyperlipidemia study collect at 612-376-4494.

Only Moderate Flood Threat Seen In Valley

Spring snow melt outlook for the Red river valley by the national weather service assumes normal precipitation and temperatures during the next six to eight weeks. Effect of ice jams has not been taken into account in preparing this outlook.

Most of the Red river valley had a drier than normal fall. However, a heavy snow fall through northwestern Minnesota and portions of eastern North Dakota with smaller amounts through the southern portions of the Red river valley will have a varied effect on rivers and streams this spring.

Because of the varied snow cover at the present time, shallow to moderate overflows along the Red river from the Bois de Sioux river northward to Grand Forks and moderate to heavy overflows in the vicinity of Grand Forks northward to Canadian border are expected.

Occurrence and degree of overflows or flooding will depend upon future precipitation, temperatures and river ice conditions. Above normal precipitation over the next several weeks followed by strong warming and heavy rains would increase the flood potential while below normal precipitation, intermittent freezing and thawing or gradual warming conditions would decrease the threat, according to Herbert L. Monson, meteorologist in charge.

34 Companies Receive SBA Loans In Jan.

Paul W. Jansen, district director of the Minneapolis district small business administration, announced this week that $5,150,600 in SBA loans had been approved for 34 Minnesota companies in the month of January. This included four loans, amounting to $254,000, which were direct minority loans, making the minority component of the January loan profile 11.8 per cent of total loans and 4.9 per cent of total loan dollars.

Direct management assistance counseling was provided to 480 Minnesota firms through the small business administration in house management counselors and through support groups; the service corps of retired executives and the ten colleges participating in the small business institute program. In January, SBA sponsored training programs drew 753 business persons or potential business persons.

Back Southern, North Central Airlines Merger

Civil aeronautics board law judge issued an initial decision recently recommending the proposed merger of North Central airlines and Southern airways. Hal N. Carr, North Central chairman of the board, stated, "We are pleased to learn that another step in the merger proceedings has been successfully concluded."

CAB law judge Joseph J. Saunders, who issued the initial decision, said: "The merged company should be a stronger competitive force than either of the applicants alone is now on routes where they compete with other carriers. Three out of every five new passengers that the merged company expects to carry is projected for competitive markets, from 73 individual city pairs all told. This will have the result of creating new competition, primarily for Delta, Northwest and United in midwest-southeast city pairs. . . . As a result of the merger, 1,604 city pairs will receive single-plane or single-carrier connecting service for the first time."

Next step in the merger process is ratification by the stockholders of both airlines. Special meetings are set for February 22.

Judge Saunders held hearings in November of 1978. U.S. department of justice and the department of transportation did not oppose the merger. Judge Saunders' recommendation will be reviewed by the CAB. Board's final decision must be affirmed by the President of the United States because international routes are involved.

Under the merger plan, Southern airways will be merged into North Central forming a new company called Republic airlines. Each share of North Central airlines common stock will be converted into one share of Republic airlines common stock and each Southern Airways common share will be converted on a sliding scale between 1.8 and 2.2 shares of Republic airlines common stock.

Cost Of Airport Development Is $33 Million

Two hundred sixty-seven projects were underway during 1978 at Minnesota's 141 public airports, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) announced.

Those projects represented $17.7 million in federal money and $9.1 million in state aid from aviation user taxes. Local communities contributed $6.1 million toward their projects.

"Minnesota continues to be a leader in improving air facilities for all its residents," said Lawrence E. McCabe, assistant commissioner, aeronautics, Mn-DOT. "System of good airports designed for today's aircraft is vital to a good business climate."

Larger projects — including runway extensions, new runways and complementary construction — are often eligible for federal assistance. Federal funds supply an average of 63 per cent of the total project cost, according to McCabe. State and local communities supply the rest of the funds. Four federal-state-local funded construction projects were completed in 1978 and 30 projects are still in progress.

McCabe said there is a shortage of federal funds. Construction projects that do not qualify for federal funding may be eligible for two-thirds state funding. Local community provides the remaining third, he said. These projects include arrival-departure buildings, visual navigation aids, security fencing and utilities. Twenty-seven (state-local) projects were completed in 1978, with 46 still in progress.

Other airport development and maintenance projects that Mn-DOT assisted with in 1978 include land acquisition for protection of approach areas, maintenance equipment acquisition (mainly snowplows and tractor-mowers), hangar construction loans, paint striping for runways and taxiways, and crack-filling and overlays of runways and taxiways.

OSHA Warns Employers Of Snow Hazards

Occupational safety and health administration (OSHA) alerted employers recently that snow covered roofs may pose a serious safety hazard to employees.

Ronald McCann, OSHA acting regional administrator said that with this year's near record snow fall, an extreme amount of stress is being placed on factory and other work place roofs.

"We have received a great number of complaints from workers in a variety of work places," McCann said. "Stores and shopping centers are in just as much danger from roof collapse as factories."

McCann said that it is imperative for employers to clear their roofs of snow immediately. "It is not a problem that can be ignored," he added.

OSHA regional administrator also noted that separating walls within a building may collapse and knock out sprinkler systems and create an explosion or fire hazard.

McCann also said that roof leaks which have developed as a result of the snow may cause employees working with power equipment to receive serious shocks.

"In either case," McCann stated, "OSHA may cite employers for placing workers in situations of possible imminent danger."

McCann said that employers whose roofs have been inspected by a qualified engineer or other expert and found to be safe should notify employees that a danger does not exist. "We're not advising employers to say the roof is safe without an expert opinion, however," McCann said.

Minn. Ranks Tenth In Egg Production

Egg production on Minnesota poultry farms during 1978 totaled an estimated 181.75 million dozen, again tenth highest among all states, reports agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin.

That was higher by nearly 4.2 million dozen, or 2.4 per cent above 1977 egg production, and represented over three per cent of national egg production.

At mid-month, average prices that Minnesota poultry farmers received for their egg production in 1978, last year's total output had an estimated gross farm value of nearly $76.6 million.

Commissioner Seetin said that according to officially estimated prices, Minnesota egg producers last year received an average of slightly over 42 cents a dozen, or about two cents more per dozen than in 1977.

Minnesota's inventory of all chickens on farms last December 1, 1978, the annual poultry survey date, totaled 11.92 million, down four per cent from that date in 1977, and 12th highest among all states. On January 1 Minnesota had 9.3 million chickens producing eggs.

Value of Minnesota's year-end supply of chickens, if sold for slaughter and processing into poultry meat products, was estimated at nearly $17.9 million. That was the lowest in several years due both to the reduced inventory and the $1.50 average value per chicken, also the lowest in several years. Minnesota's four per cent higher chicken population a year earlier was worth $1.75 per bird.

Minnesota also claimed eighth rank nationally in 1978 hatchery production of egg-type chicks with a total of 25,168,000. That was over five per cent of national output of egg-type baby chicks hatched commercially.

Broiler chicks hatched in Minnesota last year totaled 16,765,000. Although that was a 7.5 per cent increase over 1977, it was good only for 18th rank in the nation's south and east dominated "frying chicken" production.

Credits Given For Energy Improvements

The recently passed national energy act allows individual income tax credits for energy-saving improvements to the taxpayer's principal residence, regardless of whether it is rented or owned.

A total credit of 15 per cent of the cost up to $300 is available for energy conservation measures taken during the time period from April 20, 1977 to December 31, 1985. Energy conservation measures include insulation, efficient furnace replacement burners, devices for modifying flue openings, electronic ignition systems for furnaces, storm and thermal doors and windows, automatic setback and clock thermostats, caulking, weatherstripping, and meters which display the cost of energy usage. This credit can only be received for an item which is installed in a house that was built before April 20, 1977.

For example, a homeowner making improvements with a total cost of $930 could file for a tax credit of $139.50. The tax credit is figured by multiplying the total cost by 15 per cent, or $930 x .15 equals $139.50 tax credit.

Special Ed. Group To Meet

Monthly meeting of the regional administrative board of the Northwest Regional Inter-District council's special education council will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the special education offices in the Newfolden school. Meetings of the council are open to the public.

COSMETOLOGY student Sharon Kazeck of Twin Valley received the $50 scholarship awarded at the Thief River Falls AVTI by the Red River Valley affiliate of the Minnesota Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association. Making the award at right was Mrs. Dennis Wilkens of St. Hilaire.

B.P.O. DOES scholarships in the amount of $50 each were presented by Does scholarship chairman Elba Collins Tuesday at the Thief River Falls AVTI to Carolyn Jesch, left, nursing student, and Cindy Helgeland, cosmetology student. Both are from Thief River Falls.

Data On Crops In Storage Is Reported

Farmers in Minnesota maintained ownership control of nearly 88 per cent of all grain and oilseeds in the farm and commercial storage on January 1. Almost one-third of the farmer-held inventories were under federal price support mortgage, agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin reported recently.

At officially estimated season average prices, Minnesota's 963.42 million bushels of farmer-held crops carryover had a market value of over $2.26 billion.

But the nearly 315.6 million bushels reported under federal price support loans outstanding and in the national grain reserve at year-end in Minnesota represented an estimated $617.8 million mortgage. Minnesota farmers have committed 20 per cent of the national feed grains reserve and 14 per cent of the national wheat reserve.

Commissioner Seetin said that comparison of the U.S. department of agriculture report on farmer-owned grain stocks with the Minnesota agricultural conservation and stabilization service report on quantities outstanding under price support loans and in the reserve indicates significant shrinkage in commodities in a free position for farmers to sell or to feed to livestock and poultry.

Only 30 per cent of Minnesota's more than 102.3 million bushels of farmer-held wheat, valued at over $291.6 million, is in a free position. Farmers have mortgaged nearly 71.8 million bushels under federal price support loans totaling over $168.6 million. Almost 55-million bushels of that total is in the national grain reserve for up to three years, representing 14 per cent of the total wheat in the national reserve on December 31.

Minnesota farmers control over 620.5 million bushels of the state's record corn carryover, but almost 188.5 million bushels, or over 30 per cent, is under federal mortgages totaling $356.2 million. Farm value of the farmer-controlled corn carryover is nearly $1.2 billion. Minnesota corn in the U.S. reserve totals over 130-million bushels, 21 per cent of the national total.

Highest Minnesota share of any individual commodity in the national grain reserve is almost 14 million bushels of oats, 35 per cent of the U.S. oats reserve. Additional outstanding price support loans boost the state's total under federal mortgage to 21.8 million bushels. But that was less than 23 per cent of the 95.3 million bushels this state's farmers held in all storage positions on January 1. Federal mortgages accounted for $21.1 million of the nearly $104.9 million value of the farmer controlled oats carryover.

Soybeans are Minnesota's second most valuable farm crop carryover, 95.4 million bushels worth $591.5 million. Federal price support loans outstanding were reported for over 6.6 million bushels, representing a mortgage of nearly $29 million.

Minnesota's other farmer-controlled January 1, 1979, grain and oilseed inventories and related federal price support encumberances were:

Barley, 47.7 million bushels, with a farm value of $88.2 million; 26.4 million bushels mortgaged for $42 million, including 11.1 million bushels in the national reserve, 30 per cent of the U.S. barley reserve total.

Rye, 1.05 million bushels, with a farm value of $2.1 million; less than 312,000 bushels mortgaged for under $524,000.

Flaxseed, 1.13 million bushels, with a farm value of $5.9 million; federal price support loans not available on this crop.

Grain sorghum, production and inventories not estimated for Minnesota; 144,500 bushels under federal price support loans, totaling nearly $275,000, including 86,300 bushels in the national feed grains reserve.

Shares of total Minnesota grain and oilseed carryover inventories held by farmers on January 1 were: corn 91 per cent, wheat 86 per cent, soybeans 87 per cent, oats 83 per cent, barley 76 per cent, flaxseed 36 per cent, and rye 34 per cent.

Centennial Of Marshall Co. Being Planned

by Nancy Solum
Marshall County
Historical Society

Marshall county's historical society and fair board are teaming up for a massive Centennial celebration at fairtime -- ranging from dedication of two new buildings to a pageant to be staged in front of the grandstand on the fairgrounds.

Dozens of Marshall county residents will take part in the four days of planned fair festivities. Among the July 19-22 projects planned are the following:

Dedication of two buildings being built on the county fairgrounds near Warren; one in the historical area where three old buildings have recently been restored along original lines; the second in the central concourse of the grounds just south of the grandstand.

The big 100th birthday pageant commemorating the incorporation of Marshall county which dates from February of 1879. The pageant will start with Sunday morning church services and will be climaxed with a salute to the county involving each community.

An array of cultural events including an old time melodrama performed by the settlers fair players (a group affiliated with the old time settlers fair — the mini-fair within the big county fair) based on the experiences of early county homesteaders.

Centennial exhibits in virtually all of the fairgrounds buildings including the 4-H quonset, grandstand, new Centennial building and the visitor center. The focus will be not only on area history, but also on the county's fiture -- and how to make it better.

Crafts — both modern and old time — such as quilting, weaving and macrame.

"Our basic goal is to make a home for the Marshall county historical society and for facilities to enable it to receive historical artifacts which can be held for safekeeping," explained Neil Mattson, president of the society.

HIGHEST INDIVIDUAL producing cow in the Pennington DHIA for 1978 was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Orlan Stolaas of rural Oklee. That cow produced 21,250 pounds of milk with a 4.4 per cent test and 930 pounds of butterfat in 305-day lactation. Mr. and Mrs. Stolaas are shown at left with Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the county DHIA.

TOP TWO-YEAR-OLD production record in the Pennington county DHIA for 1978 belonged to a cow in the Marlan Augustine herd of rural Thief River Falls. In her first lactation the cow produced 18,222 pounds of milk and 717 pounds of butterfat. Supervisor Jerry Hamre of the DHIA is presenting the award plaque in recognition of the top producer to Augustine's son Eldon.

Typical of the work undertaken on the county fairgrounds is the restoration of the four-acre area known as the "Street of Yesteryear." It includes a turn-of-the-century church, school and log cabin in addition to the new visitor center. Another construction operation is the Centennial building, a wooden structure being built to house commercial exhibits, two fast-food restaurants, a mini-theatre and a senior citizens activities room.

The mini-theatre will serve as a site where stage plays, films and melodramas can be presented. And the 72x120 Centennial building will be an attraction for fair visitors with attendance at the fairgrounds reaching more than 25,000 last year.

A birthday pageant is being prepared by the Marshall county fair board and will show how, decade by decade, the county was settled. Harveydale Maruska, fair board secretary, is helping organize various groups from each community to take part. Focus of the pageant will be on the role agriculture plays.

Drama will also be highlighted during the fair by the settlers fair players, an acting troupe to be directed by Mary Ann Bodell of Warren and Stan Beck of Grand Forks. Presentation of an original play involving them was produced and directed by Marilyn Knutson (a Bemidji speech and drama major living near Warren) two years ago. The troupe will be enlarging to form a community theatre group to present the melodrama.

Other groups from the county are planning contributions for the Centennial celebration. Fairgrounds buildings will house photo displays and the historical society's visitor center will have valuable antique collections on view including a 100-year-old coin and currency display.

"The spirit of cooperation exists among all county communities, the fair board and historical society, and they have banded together to celebrate 100 years of progress," fair board secretary Maruska said.

Directory Of Women's Clubs Is Compiled

Thief River Falls women's coalition is compiling a directory of women's organizations in Thief River Falls. Information to be included in the directory will be a brief description of the organization's purpose or goals at the national level as well as local activities.

Membership requirements, dues, names and telephone numbers of the president and membership chairperson, and meeting dates and places will also appear in the directory.

Coordinators of the project, Jodi Williamson and Deborah Matero, have mailed questionnaires to a number of women's organizations in the community. Any women's organization that has not been contacted and whose members would like it to apprear in the directory should be reported to Deborah Matero at the county extension office, 681-2116 by February 28.

4H CLUB

Holt

Holt 4-H club met February 9 at the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt with the meeting called to order by President Dana Peterson. Flag pledges were said and roll call was answered by guessing how many beans were in a jar.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The radio speaking contest was held at the January federation meeting and Karen Kjensrud was the member from the Holt club who participated in that event. We were reminded that the Red River valley winter shows are coming up February 16-23 at Crookston.

We filled out a survey about the 4-H County picnic. The next federation meeting is March 26 at Argyle. We also were reminded that we should start thinking about share-the-fun acts. Karen Kjensrud and James Moe are Ambassadors from our club. Eric Kjensrud made a motion for the meeting to be adjourned and Dean Reierson seconded.

Games were played and lunch was served by the Elroy Benitt and Richard Kjensrud families.

Minnesotans To Have Good View Of Feb. Eclipse

by Mark E. Canney
University News

Minnesotans should get a good look at the February 26 solar eclipse, according to University of Minnesota astronomers. Though not in the path of totality — that area where the moon will completely block out the sun — Minnesotans will be seeing a 90 to 98 per cent blockage of the sun's rays.

Area of total eclipse swings northward from the northwest corner of North Dakota, missing Minnesota. Those Minnesota towns and cities closest to the northwest corner of the state will view a greater percentage of coverage.

First contact of the moon with the sun's path will occur in Minnesota at approximately 9:30 a.m. CST, with the maximum coverage occurring at about 10:45 a.m. According to Thijs van der Hulst, a University of Minnesota stronomer, the moon should leave the sun's path completely at about noon.

Moon will begin to cross the sun's path from the right edge of the solar disk. Casual observer won't be able to detect the early stages of the eclipse and probably won't notice much of a change until the sun is blocked about 70 per cent.

At 80 per cent coverage, the sun will take on a definite change in tint. At this stage, two things will occur: The temperature will drop and the sky will take on a grayish appearance and become noticeably darker.

Those who watch the eclipse should be extremely careful, according to astronomy professor Lawrence Rudnick. Looking directly at the partially eclipsed sun can cause severe damage to the retina of the eye.

"Type of partial eclipse such as we will be experiencing in Minnesota is extremely dangerous since there is no immediate pain when viewing the sun while it has a 90 per cent coverage," Rudnick said.

One safe method of watching the eclipse is through a number 14 welder's glass, according to an article in the January issue of "Sky and Telescope" magazine. Such filters can be purchased for about a dollar at welding supply stores.

An indirect method — and the safest method — is to use a homemade pinhole camera made with two pieces of white cardboard, one with a hole, less than one-eighth of an inch in diameter. The image of the sun can be projected into the second card by holding it a foot away from the first card. Rudnick and van der Hulst plan to do a similar projection using a mirror to project the sun's image onto a University of Minnesota building (Coffman Memorial Union).

Caution should be taken in using telescopes and other optical devices for viewing the eclipse. Even with solar filters, these apparatuses can be dangerous. Solar filters can heat up and crack, allowing intense solar radiation to come in direct contact with the eye.

If the sky is clear, people in Minneapolis and Rochester will see an eclipse of about 90 per cent, Duluth residents will see 94 per cent, St. Cloud residents will witness a 93 per cent eclipse, and International Falls will see about 97 per cent coverage, according to van der Hulst.

If the weather is cloudy, or if you have to miss the eclipse entirely, your next chance to view another partial eclipse in Minnesota will be in 2017, and a total eclipse will be visible in 2106.

KING'S MEN musical team will present a sacred concert Friday at 8 p.m. as part of the ladies aid service at the Evangelical Free church in Newfolden. Consisting of a men's trio with a lead guitar, bass guitar and piano accompaniment, the team features Earl Hanson, Ron Trontvet, Dillmond Lewis, Everett Kompelien, Orville Trontvet and Glenn Espe. Hostesses for the service are Mrs. George Gunderson, Mrs. Engvald Dahl, Mrs. Jerome Nelson and Mrs. Marcel Douglas. Everyone is welcome.

Former Talent Fest Winners To Play Again

A young country fiddler and a concert harpist will be the two main attractions at the 20th annual winter shows talent festival this Sunday evening, February 18 in Kiehle auditorium, located on the campus of the university of Minnesota — Crookston. UMC is sponsoring agent for the variety show, which is held each year in conjunction with Red River valley winter shows.

In a departure from tradition, winners of the talent competition from both 1978 and 1977 will return for encore performances during Sunday's entertainment extravaganza. Customarily, only the winning entrant from last year is invited back to the Kiehle stage to headline the contest finals the following year.

Michael Sistad, a 14-year-old fiddling virtuoso from Stewartville, near Rochester, will open the show. Sistad's mastery of the violin as an instrument for "blue grass" music earned him the first place award at the 1978 contest. A seasoned soloist with a casual, rather jaunty stage presence in spite of his tender years, Sistad has appeared in a number of revues and captured several prizes since his winning performance at last year's talent fest in Crookston.

The multi-talented Julie Miller of Crookston will join Sistad in presenting the act that brought her the highest accolades in the 1977 show. Due to a prior commitment, Miller was unable to entertain at last year's evening presentation as the top performer of the year before. However, she will end the 1979 production on an entrancingly lyrical note by playing her harp at the show's finale. Miller, a college sophomore majoring in music at the university of Minnesota, has also gained wide attention as a vocalist who often accompanies herself on the guitar. As a harpist, she has been heard with symphony orchestras in both Rochester and Grand Forks, N.D.

With the exception of Sistad and Miller, all other show participants will be competing for $250 in cash prizes, with first place netting $100, second $75, and third and fourth $50 and $25, respectively. All contestants in the finals will be selected from among entrants who have auditioned earlier in the day.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students of all ages including college youth.

All talent entered in the festival should have amateur status as entertainers, according to general chairman Ed Stoyanoff. Further information may be obtained from Stoyanoff at (218) 281-6510, ext. 250 or 246.

Special Salute To Hospitalized Veterans Set

Sixth annual national salute to hospitalized veterans will bring top government officials and stars of the sports and entertainment fields in contact with patients in all 172 veterans administration medical centers.

VA chief Max Cleland said that this special tribute, sponsored for the first time by VA, will be held today (Wednesday). It's a unique way of showing the men and women in VA's medical facilities that others care," he said. "Many hospitalized veterans are far from family and friends. I urge all Americans to remember them on February 14."

In 1974, to recognize Vietnam conflict wounded, former prisoners of war in Vietnam planned the first salute with the help of "No Greater Love," a non-profit, private organization. "Since then, when some 50 hospitals participated," Cleland said, "the program and VA's involvement have grown. Total of 124 medical centers participated last year."

Veterans, civic, religious, and youth groups have planned special activities for the event. Day-long festivities will include talent shows, VA benefits workshops, musical programs and celebrity visits. "The success of this salute depends on the extent of community involvement," Cleland said.

Individuals or groups interested in participating on February 14 should contact the voluntary service office at a nearby VA medical center. Voluntary service, the VA organization that coordinates the services of over 100,000 volunteers who contribute more than 10 million hours to VA medical patients each year, has been assigned full responsibility for the program.

Area 4-H'er Wins 4H Trip To Chicago

A Minnesota 4-H'er, who studied the futures market to determine the right time to buy and sell swine, has won an expense-paid trip to the 28th 4-H commodity marketing symposium in Chicago February 25-28.

Denise Myerchin, 17, of rural Crookston, will be among about 25 4-H'ers attending the four-day educational event in the Windy City. Winners were selected by the cooperative extension service.

Young people from 41 states are eligible for trips to the symposium in the 4-H commodity marketing awards program sponsored by the Chicago board of trade. Annual event brings together 4-H'ers who have completed outstanding commodity marketing projects during the last year.

Miss Myerchin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis W. Myerchin, is a high school senior and plans a career in agricultural education and general livestock farming. She is a four-year 4-H'er.

West Polk county 4-H member owned and managed a swine operation in a 50 per cent partnership and so had a keen interest in when to buy and sell swine. She also raised chickens and turkeys, processing them and then selling them for a cash profit.

The 4-H'er made a five-year study of beef cattle prices as part of her work in the commodity marketing program. She followed this up with a study of wheat prices over a three-year period. She also traced the flow of grain from the field to the finished product in the store.

Miss Myerchin made still another study on the rising costs of land. Another of her research projects involved a study of the U.S. exports over a number of years.

"I learned the importance of good management, including record-keeping, through working with my own livestock operation," she added.

Miss Myerchin also studied the history of the futures markets from the formation of the Chicago board of trade in 1848 to the present day.

She learned the basic supply and demand factors and how they affect the price of a product. She also studied regulations on commodities and the various acts of congress that led to these regulations.

4-H commodity marketing symposium is designed to help participants understand the basic principles of commodity marketing, and how these principles apply to commodities sold in cash markets and traded in futures markets of major commodity exchanges.

Delegates will participate in seminars, tours and activities that explain the use of futures markets as a management tool and aid them in adapting market information and knowledge of market functions to ongoing 4-H projects.

Delegates will view audiovisual presentations on marketing topics, meet commodity traders and brokers, and tour the pit trading floor. There, they'll watch traders buy and sell cash and futures. 4-H'ers will also meet with officials of the Chicago board of trade and hear from traders and marketing representatives. 4-H'ers and their chaperons will tour points of interest in Chicago and enjoy special entertainment during their stay in the Windy City.

Symposium is arranged by National 4-H council.

Zoological Board Has Four Openings

Four policy-making positions are now open on the state zoological board—the governing body of "The New Zoo" in Apple Valley.

According to Mary Jo Richardson, the governor's special assistant on appointments, the 11-member board has wide decision-making powers which cover every aspect of the Minnesota Zoological garden ("The New Zoo").

"Members of the zoological board will make decisions crucial to the future of this high-profile project," says Richardson, "and their powers run the gamut from setting construction policies to overseeing actual zoo maintenance."

Governor appoints the members with the advice and consent of the Senate. They must also file with the ethical practices board.

Persons interested in applying for a four-year term on the board should send their resumes no later than February 23 to: the Governor's Appointments Committee, Room 130 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Board meets at the zoo every fourth Friday at 9 a.m. members receive $35 per diem plus mileage or required travel expenses. Members who are also employed by the state do not receive per diem.

$147,860,000 Unemployment Payments Made

Jobless Minnesotans received about $147,860,000 in unemployment benefits in 1978, 34.8 per cent less than the $226,936,000 paid in 1977, the Minnesota department of economic security reported recently.

Barbara Beerhalter, assistant commissioner for unemployment insurance, said the decline was due to better economic conditions which reduced the length of time workers collected benefits and a sharp drop in payments under special federal programs.

Number of claimants in the regular state program decreased from 187,222 in 1977 to 151,302 in 1978, a decline of 19 per cent, Beerhalter said. Payments under the regular state program totaled $136,972,000 in 1978, down 16.8 per cent from $164,609,000 in 1977. Payments for federal programs totaled $10,888,000 in 1978, down 82.5 per cent from $62,327,000 in 1977.

Maximum weekly benefit amount increased from $122 to $133 during 1978. The average weekly amount paid went up from $86.11 in 1977 to $95.50 in 1978, an increase of 10.9 per cent.

Unemployment benefits are available for a maximum of 26 weeks. When special federal programs are in effect as a result of high unemployment, additional weeks are available. In 1977, the maximum was 52 weeks for a part of the year.

Beerhalter said unemployment benefits provide families with necessary assistance during periods of unemployment and support the levels of business activity particularly during periods of high unemployment.

"They laughed when I said I was going to build my own home".

"But, you should have seen the looks on their faces when they saw my new Capp Home."

"Having a home custom-built at today's prices was out of the question for us. But, we didn't want to buy an older home in need of remodeling. I didn't like the idea of undoing the work of the last owner before I could add my own personal touches.

"So, when I heard about Capp's finish-it-yourself homes, I sent for their free catalog.

"Capp's local representative helped us develop a plan based on our sketches. He even introduced us to his contact at the bank, and we had no trouble getting financing.

"After Capp erected our house on our lot and foundation, I did all the finishing myself—except for the sheet rock, masonry and heating.

"I not only saved a bundle, but, I got a custom-built home. I even had the flexibility to put in extra features like a built-in buffet, antique stairway railing, and a work shop above the garage.

"When our old neighbors dropped by to see our new home, they couldn't believe what we'd been able to accomplish in such a short time. We made our dollars go a lot farther with a Capp Home."

Dr. Marx Tells Dairymen About Protein Ration

With the Dairy Herd Improvement association ratings just released at the program, it was noted that the Northwest experiment station herd topped 18,000 lbs. of milk per cow last year. The record also showed an average of 663 pounds of butter fat on 64 cows. The herd actually produced over one million pounds of milk in 1978 (1,074,460 lbs.).

Marx spoke to the group on balancing dairy rations. He emphasized the need to determine the total digestive nutrients and protein in the feed that is fed dairy cows. He recommended the farmers use a reliable commercial laboratory and have their feeds tested and analyzed. Marx recommended feeding grain to meet TDN needs but never over two-thirds of the total ration or the milk fat percentage is then affected.

Further recommendations included adjustment of protein in the grain ration to meet the cows' needs with a close eye on each cow's production. He suggested 14 per cent for low producers, 15 per cent for medium producers and 16 per cent for high producers. His final recommendations included keeping crude fiber above 15 per cent in that ration and adding sufficient minerals to balance, especially calcium and phosphorus.

Marlyn Jacobson, assistant dairy scientist at the Northwest experiment station, Crookston, also addressed the group and explained the Pearson Square method of balancing protein in the dairy ration. He showed an example using the experiment station ration to balance cows' needs.

During the day the Red Lake county DHIA held a business meeting and lunch. Four top herds in the DHIA were commended with Gene Johnston and Sons, Angus; Conrad Zak and Sons, Angus; Roger Odegaard, Crookston; and the Northwest experiment station all recording over 17,000 pounds of milk on the average and over 650 pounds of fat.

David Kabes, county extension director, Red Lake Falls, arranged for the meeting and speakers. Election results for the Red Lake County DHIA showed Orville Knott, president and Conrad Zak, secretary of the Association.

Show "Pilgrim's Progress" At Hegland Church

"Pilgrim's Progress", a motion picture based on the book by that name, will be shown Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Hegland Lutheran church of rural Strandquist.

Second only to the Bible in volume of sales, "Pilgrim's Progress" was written three centuries ago by John Bunyan. As a result of his sharp disagreement with the religious practices of his day, he spent 12 years in prison, and during that time wrote the book. The motion picture selects highlights from the story, and illustrates many of Pilgrim's experiences.

There will be refreshments served and fellowship following the film, and the public is welcome.

Art Adventure Leaders Plan Meet Friday

A workshop for all volunteer leaders of the art adventure series for elementary schools will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. in the Northwest Regional library meeting room. Sue Fredeen of the Sue Line will show how to mat and mount prints and leaders are asked to bring ideas for future presentations.

Art adventure is designed to bring art appreciation into 3rd, 4th and 5th grades. Once a month, a painting or sculpture will be shown and discussed in Thief River Falls elementary school classrooms. Members of Zehlians, Thief River Falls community arts council, association of university women and Jaycee women invite others to join in this community project.

MJCAA Hockey Pairings Nearly Set

It looks like first round pairings in the 1979 MJCAA state hockey tournament, scheduled to be played in the Thief River Falls sports arena Saturday and Sunday, February 24 and 25, will find Hibbing playing Northland while Rainy River meets Crookston.

Heading into this, the final week of the 1978-79 regular season schedule, Hibbing has already won the MJCAA pennant with a 13-3 record, good for 30 standings points, and Rainy River has a lock on second with an 11-6 record for 26 points. Northland is currently third at 10-8 and 24 points, followed by Crookston at 9-7 and 22 points. Mesabi is relegated to the basement with a 3-12 record and 10 points.

Top four regular season finishers advance to the MJCAA state tournament. Only question at this point is third and fourth place between rivals Northland and Crookston. The Northmen have completed their MJCAA schedule. They'll host Rochester Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in nonconference games. The Yellowjackets began the year as an MJCAA member but withdrew from the conference when they ran into manpower problems. Forfeited points were given to the other four MJCAA members and the games against Rochester were simply considered nonconference affairs.

Trailing Northland by two points in the standings, Crookston will probably make up that deficit this weekend when the Trojans host Mesabi. A Crookston sweep would move the Trojans into a third place tie with Northland, and since Crookston beat the Northmen three times in four meetings this winter, the Trojans would get that third-seed.

However, a single Mesabi win this weekend would leave Crookston in fourth place and produce a Hibbing-Crookston, Rainy River-Northland first round state tournament.

Hibbing and Rainy River will tangle in the season finale Saturday at Hibbing. The Cardinals entertain Mesabi tonight (Wednesday).

Mid-State Shows Interest In NWAC Teams

Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith told the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club that officials of the Mid-State Conference did not, as it was expected, reject the applications of Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston who would like to join the six-team league as football-playing members only.

East Grand Forks and Crookston indicated late last fall they were considering leaving the Northwest Athletic Conference because they have difficulty competing against Class AA NWAC members Bemidji and Fergus Falls. The Green Wave and Pirates then applied for membership into the Mid-State Conference, a move that was quickly followed by Thief River Falls in interest of self-preservation.

However, Mid-State president Bob Hooper of Detroit Lakes wrote to the three schools to say their applications "will undoubtedly be denied" on the basis of geography. But athletic directors Bob Strand of Crookston, Larry Selk of East Grand Forks and Smith went ahead with plans to attend the Feb. 7 Mid-State meeting where they were pleasantly surprised by change of heart among Mid-State people.

A major reason for the change is the possibility that the Minnesota State High School League, which sponsors the post-season playoffs, might step in and force a realignment on MSHSL terms. Obviously, local officials would rather do it themselves.

Next step in the matter will come at a meeting tentatively scheduled for March 28 at Detroit Lakes when representatives from the two conferences will attempt to design a football schedule that would call for a conference consisting of Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, Aitkin, Crosby-Ironton, Park Rapids, Staples and Wadena.

Athletic directors and superintendents of the six Mid-State Conference schools will have the final vote in the matter at a spring meeting March 30 at Wadena. If the merger is approved, it would go into effect in the fall of 1980.

Miscellaneous

+Bemidji's John Noga connected on 13 of 15 long jump shots for 27 points in the Lumberjacks' 55-53 Northwest Athletic Conference high school basketball win over Crookston Friday, drawing praise from Crookston coach Marshall Olson. "I have never been beaten by one guy before like I was against Noga," said Olson. "That's the best performance I've ever seen by a high school player. It was simply amazing."

Class A Teams Start District Tournaments

District basketball tournament action is underway in Region 8A where winners in Districts 29, 30, 31 and 32 will gather for the Region 8A tournament March 2-3 at Bemidji State University.

District 29

Kelliher and Walker reached the District 29 quarterfinals with wins Monday as Kelliher edged Northome 46-43 and Walker defeated Nevis 73-46.

First round will be completed tonight (Wednesday) while Littlefork-Big Falls plays Cass Lake at 7 p.m. and Akeley meets Gonvick at 8:45.

In the quarterfinals Saturday, number one-seeded Bagley plays Walker at 7 p.m. and number four-seeded Clearbrook meets Kelliher at 8:45. On Monday number two-seeded Blackduck plays the Littlefork-Big Falls and Cass Lake winner at 7 p.m. while number three-seeded defending champion Laporte takes on the Akeley-Gonvick winner at 8:45.

Semifinals will be played Wed., Feb. 21. Consolation and championship games are planned Thurs., Feb. 22.

All District 29 tournament games are being played at Bemidji State University.

District 30

Six first round games were played Tuesday in District 30 as Mentor edged Twin Valley 65-63, McIntosh-Winger got by Gary 57-55, Fertile-Beltrami eliminated Erskine 70-45, Hendrum ousted Borup 65-53, Mahnomen knocked off Oklee 66-46 and Ada nicked Halstad 53-50.

In Thursday quarterfinals, Fosston plays Mentor at Fertile and McIntosh-Winger meets Fertile-Beltrami at Ada in 7 p.m. games. Friday quarterfinals will have Waubun playing Hendrum at Mahnomen and Ada facing Mahnomen at Fertile in two more 7 p.m. starts.

Semifinals will be played at Crookston Monday when the Fosston-Mentor winner plays the McIntosh-Winger and Fertile-Beltrami winner at 7 p.m. while the Waubun-Hendrum winner tackles the Mahnomen-Ada winner at 8:45.

Consolation and championship games will be played at Crookston Wed., Feb. 21.

District 31

Pairings in District 31 will be made tonight (Wednesday). The tournament will begin with three games Monday at Warren. Stephen and Warren will both host two quarterfinal games Tuesday.

Semifinals and finals will be played at Crookston Thurs., Feb. 22, and Sat., Feb. 24.

Warren and Arygle rank as tournament co-favorites. The two teams split regular season decisions when the Eagles won 50-47 in the final seconds at Warren and the Ponies turned around to win 35-33 on a last second shot at Argyle.

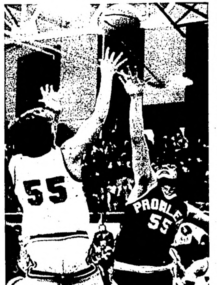
First round games in District 32 will be played Thursday. At Newfolden, Badger meeting Lancaster at 5:15 p.m., Lake of the Woods tests Humboldt at 7 and Greenbush goes against Middle River at 8:45. At Roseau, Strandquist plays Warroad at 5:15, Hallock challenges Grygla at 7 and Marshall County Central takes on Kennedy at 8:45.

Quarterfinals, semifinals and finals will be played at Roseau. On Monday the Strandquist-Warroad winner tackles Roseau at 7 p.m. and the Hallock-Grygla winner squares off with the Marshall County Central-Kennedy winner at 8:30. On Tuesday the Badger-Lancaster winner jumps in against Karlstad at 7 and Lake of the Woods-Humboldt winner opposes the Greenbush-Middle River winner at 8:30.

Semifinals will be played Thurs., Feb. 22. Consolation and championship games will be played Fri., Feb. 23.

Roy Smalley of the Minnesota Twins enjoyed a vintage season against Seattle pitching, slamming 6 of his 19 homers, driving in 18 runs and hitting .361 vs. the Mariners, in 1978.



DEFENSIVE EFFORT by Thief River Falls center Todd Young couldn't stop Warren's Mark Turgeon from getting off this shot during Tuesday's high school basketball game played here. The Ponies completed a near-perfect 17-1 regular season with a 59-53 win. The Prowlers will take an 8-9 record to Park Rapids Thursday.

Minus Top Scorers, Ponies Defeat Prowlers 59-53

Warren's once-beaten Ponies, playing without leading scorers Steve Brekke and Bob Lubarski, still did enough things right Tuesday to overcome a seven-point second quarter deficit enroute to a 59-53 high school basketball win over Thief River Falls. Or did they?

"I don't know if it was us doing something right," questioned Warren coach Gary Schuler. "If Thief River might have been a little more patient on offense it might have been different."

Nevertheless, Schuler was elated with the win that completed a superb 17-1 regular season for the Ponies who are regarded as a prime Region 8A threat. "That was super, I thought. We came back from seven down playing without our two leading scorers," he said.

Brekke, a 6-4 senior and one of the best basketball players in the region, and Lubarski, an impressive 6-2 sophomore, both missed the game here after suffering ankle injuries in a 52-46 Saturday win over Lake of the Woods. They'll both be ready for the District 31 tournament.

Schuler indicated Brekke's presence in the line-up would have changed things considerably. "We would have posted Brekke inside. They wouldn't have had anybody that would have been able to stop him," he stated.

Thief River Falls, a 16-15 leader at the end of the first quarter, owned a seven-point lead on four different occasions in the second quarter, including a 30-23 edge following a pair of Kyle Hams free throws with 2:07 remaining.

But Warren scored the final six points of the first half, capped by Robert Norman's short base line jumper with one second on the clock that brought the Ponies to without 30-29.

A loosely played third quarter ended in a 41-41 stalemate. The first two minutes of the fourth quarter produced some additional fast-paced action and a 47-45 Thief River Falls lead following two more Hams free throws.

The next four minutes belonged to Warren, though, as the Ponies out-scored the Prowlers 11-2 to take command, 56-49, with exactly two minutes remaining. Mark Turgeon, a strong 6-2 junior center, and Norman, a slender 5-11 senior guard, did all the scoring. Turgeon drove the lane and put up a left-handed shot to tie things at 47-47. Norman put Warren in front with a pair of free throws and then made sure the Ponies stayed on top by completing a three-point play as Thief River Falls center Todd Young fouled out of the game with 4:44 left.

But with Young gone, Warren kept a volley of shots going with three consecutive offensive rebounds before Turgeon scored for a 54-49 cushion. It became 56-49 when Turgeon was left unguarded under the basket at the two-minute mark.

"I'm disappointed in our kids," said Thief River Falls coach Glen Peters. "We're not aggressive. Warren's kids are aggressive and they beat the hell out of us on the boards."

The rebounding figures show Warren with only a slight 39-36 edge, but the Ponies did a good job on their offensive boards for a bundle of points.

Thief River Falls, after a 43 per cent shooting effort from the field in the first half, made only 10 of 35 second half shots and finished the game 23-for-65 for 35 per cent. Warren was 25-for-60 for 42 per cent. Neither team shot free throws well as the Prowlers made seven of 15 and the Ponies sank just nine of 22. The turnovers were even at 13 apiece.

Enderlein and Kyle Hams, who finished with 16 points, produced 41 of the 53 Thief River Falls points from their guard positions. Norman led Warren with 16 points, Turgeon had 14 and forward Mitch Carlson added 13.

Thief River Falls, 8-9, will try to finish the year at .500 when the Prowlers play a 7:30 p.m. game at Park Rapids Thursday. Region 8AA Sub Region 4 tournament play starts Tuesday at Crookston.

Prowlers Rip Hallock 10-2

Eight different Prowlers scored Tuesday as the Lincoln high school hockey team drilled Hallock 10-2.

Myles Lund and Paul Drees scored two goals apiece as the Prowlers completed their 1978-79 regular season road schedule with a 12-5 record. Thief River Falls will end the year with home games against Detroit Lakes Friday, Warroad Tuesday and Fergus Falls Fri., Feb. 23.

Also scoring against the Bears were Dave Geatz, Jim Thompson, Murray Dicken, Todd Trickle, Scott Sabo and Jeff Ulrich. In addition to the eight goal scorers, four others had a hand in some 17 assists credited to the Prowlers — three apiece to Wade Hoppe and Tom Bjorkman.

"Our kids played quite well," said Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "It was the kind of game we needed."

Hallock scored first when Darryl Younggren put the puck in the net at 2:42 of the first period. Younggren got another goal early in the third period, but not until after the Prowlers had run up a 9-1 lead. It was 3-1 after the first period and 7-1 after two when Sabo and Drees scored just 11 seconds apart in the final minute of the second period.

Thief River Falls outshot Hallock 55-23.

Hallock beat the injury-plagued Lincoln junior varsity 7-5, dropping the B squad record to 6-10-1.

The three remaining Thief River Falls home games will have a big bearing on the final Section 8 point standings, with the Otters, Prowlers, Lakers and Warriors ranking 2-3-1-4 respectively, heading into this week. Roseau has a lock on first place following a decisive 10-5 victory over Warroad Tuesday. The top four regular season finishers in the point standings earn seeded berths in the March 2-9 Section 8 tournament at East Grand Forks. Others must earn their way into the tournament through sub section play.

Detroit Lakes will bring a 14-4 record into Thief River Falls Friday following a 6-4 win over Mount St. Benedict Tuesday. The Lakers, guilty of playing up-and-down hockey this year, earned their first victory over Bemidji since 1964 Friday, 3-1. "It was a close, hard-skating, clean game and everyone wanted to play hockey," reported Detroit Lakes coach Ken Anderson. "I think we probably played our best game as far as team effort was concerned. We back-checked real hard and didn't give them time to set up in our end very often."

In other Tuesday action, Fergus Falls beat Moorhead 4-2 and East Grand Forks doubled Bemidji 8-4.

Unbeaten Roseau, ranked number two in the Associated Press hockey poll, will clash with number one-rated Grand Rapids Friday in a premiere match-up at Grand Rapids that could very well be a preview to a first round state tournament confrontation.

Doug Dallmann Nearing Northland Scoring Mark

Freshman wing Doug Dallmann is closing in on the Northland community college single season hockey scoring record that, interestingly enough, is shared by current Northland coach Bob Lundbohm.

As members of Northland's first intercollegiate hockey team in 1971-72, Lundbohm of Roseau and Leo Marshall of Warroad finished a 24-game season with 65 points apiece. Lundbohm scored 27 goals and collected 38 assists for his points while Marshall scored 33 times and added 32 assists. Lundbohm's assist mark and Marshall's goal total are also still in the record books.

In the six seasons since 1971-72, nobody has challenged the scoring record. Until now. In 18 games, Dallmann has collected 50 points, ranking him third, behind Lundbohm and Marshall, in the single season scoring charts.

Needing 15 more points to join the record-holders, Dallmann and his Northland teammates have four games remaining. The Northmen will host Rochester in a weekend series that features a Saturday night game at 7:30 and a Sunday afternoon contest at 1:30 to close out the 1978-79 regular season. The Northmen will also play a pair of games in the 1979 MJCAA state hockey tournament, scheduled to be played in Thief River Falls Feb. 24-25.

Dallmann collected seven points last weekend at Hibbing when the Northmen lost both ends of the Saturday-Sunday series, 8-5 and 8-7.

Northland 5

Hibbing scored two goals in the final 20 seconds to pad its lead in Saturday's 8-5 victory.

Northland led 2-1 after the first period, fell behind 3-2 after two and trailed 6-5 when goalie Joe Klosterman was pulled in favor of an extra attacker in the final minute. Hibbing scored into an open net at the 19:40 mark and got another one at 19:50.

Doug Dallmann, Mark Koehn, Gordy Markstrom, Mike Malberg and Mike Olson scored for the Northmen.

Northland 7

Doug Dallmann scored four goals, but it wasn't enough as Northland lost the Sunday rematch 8-7.

A 1-0 first period Northland lead evaporated into a 6-4 second period deficit. It was 8-6 until Dallmann scored with seven seconds remaining.

Gordy Markstrom, Steve Geatz and Karl Chromy also scored for the Northmen.

Sports Boosters Meet Thursday

Glen Peters, Lincoln high school basketball coach, will be the guest speaker Thursday at the weekly 12 noon luncheon meeting of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters meeting in the basement of the Rex cafe.

The meeting is open to the general public.

Northmen, Spartans Eye Division Title

Already assured berths in the Feb. 22-24 MJCAA state basketball tournament at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids, Northwest Division rivals Fergus Falls and Northland will be jockeying for state tournament positions this week when both teams wind up the 1978-79 regular season with a weekend Iron Range road trip.

Fergus Falls is the current Northwest Division leader with an 8-1 record, one game ahead of Northland at 7-2. Games this weekend against Northeast Division opposition count in the Northwest Division standings for the Spartans and Northmen.

Owning a 14-6 overall record, Northland will play Itasca Friday at 8 p.m. at Grand Rapids and will visit Hibbing Saturday afternoon at 2. Fergus Falls has a much tougher weekend draw as the Spartans face Vermilion at Ely and meet Mesabi at Virginia.

Top two teams in each of the four MJCAA divisions earn spots in the state tournament. But the draw is important. The Northwest Division champion faces the Central Division runner-up in a first round game while the Northwest Division runner-up draws the Central Division champion.

Tharaldson Leads 52-48 Goodridge Win Over RLF

Kevin Tharaldson, a 6-2 senior, scored 15 points and grabbed 19 rebounds Tuesday to lead Goodridge to a season-ending 52-48 Polar Conference high school basketball win over visiting Red Lake Falls.

"He played a super game," said Goodridge coach Rick Nelson, praising the play of Tharadlson. The Huskies completed their regular season schedule with a 7-11 record.

Goodridge held a narrow 6-5 first quarter lead and nursed a 23-20 lead into halftime before pulling away in the third quarter, 38-28. The Huskies maintained control throughout the final quarter until Red Lake Falls narrowed the gap in the final minute.

"We did a good job on defense," mentioned Nelson who used a zone for one of the few times all year.

Randy Henrickson and Jeff Bakken also scored in double figures for the Huskies with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Greg Guzek led the Eagles with 13 points.

Goodridge shot only 36 per cent from the field, hitting 20 of 55 shots, but the Huskies sank 12 of 19 free throw attempts to win it. Red Lake Falls out-scored Goodridge from the field, shooting 39 per cent on a 22-for-57 showing, but the Eagles were only 4-for-9 at the free throw line. Led by Tharaldson, Goodridge held a 39-29 rebound advantage.

Roseau, RLF Scorers Lead Section Eight

Aaron Broten of Roseau and Dennis LaCoursiere of Red Lake Falls share the Section 8 high school hockey scoring leadership this week, according to statistics compiled by Frank Fee of KROX radio in Crookston.

Broten has 21 goals and 19 assists for 40 points in games played through Feb. 10. LaCoursiere has 18 goals and 22 assists for his 40 points.

Red Lake Falls scorers rank 1-2-3 in the overall scoring charts, headed by Jim Violette with 38 goals and 24 assists for 62 points, LaCoursiere 29-31 for 60 points and Mark Harren 14-31 for 45 points.

Northwomen Lose To UND JV 63-53

University of North Dakota junior varsity spoiled parent's night for the Northland community college women's basketball team Tuesday by beating the Northwomen 63-53.

Kelly Hennessy scored 15 points and Mary Dahlgish 10 for the winners who led 29-23 at halftime. Georgine Troska scored a game-high 17 points for Northland.

North Dakota shot a solid 48 per cent from the field, hitting 28 of 58 shots. Northland shot 32 per cent, making 24 of 74 tries. The Sioux were 7-for-16 at the free throw line where the Northwomen were 5-for-10.

Northland, 4-14 for the year, will close out its 1978-79 season with a weekend road trip that includes a 6 p.m. game Friday against Itasca at Grand Rapids and a 12 noon game Saturday at Hibbing.

Sub Region 8AA Wrestling Tournaments Are Saturday

North and south Sub Region 8AA wrestling tournaments will be staged Saturday at Moorhead and St. Cloud Tech, respectively.

Top two teams in each sub region will advance to the Region 8AA team tournament Tuesday at Park Rapids. Top four wrestlers in each weight class in each sub region will advance to the Rebion 8AA individual tournament Fri., Feb. 23, at Fergus Falls.

North Sub Region 8AA wrestling at Moorhead starts with preliminaries on three mats at 10 a.m. Saturday. Quarterfinals and semifinals will begin at 12 noon. Consolation semifinals will get underway at 2:30 p.m. Third and fourth place matches will be staged at 6:30 and the championship matches will be held at 7:30.

Warren Beats B Squad 48-27

Limiting Thief River Falls to just three points in the first quarter and only two in the third period, Warren was an easy 48-27 winner in junior varsity high school basketball Tuesday.

Warren led at the quarter stops 13-3, 24-16 and 38-18 as Thief River Falls' record dropped to 6-11.

Marshall County Central high school basketball team completed a 10-8 regular season Tuesday with a 56-48 win over Strandquist in a game played at Newfolden.

"We showed a lack of intensity," admitted Marxshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We hustled, but we played without intensity."

Marshall County Central jumped out to a 14-5 first quarter lead and maintained control the rest of the way, owning a 26-16 halftime advantage and carrying a 42-31 edge into the fourth quarter.

Ray Kvalvog paced the winners with 15 points while Jim Sethre scored 13, Dan Engen 18 and Kevin Anderson 10. Tim Storeby and Lee Donaldson scored 10 points apiece for Strandquist.

Both teams scored 38 points from the field, but Marshall County Central was 18-for-23 at the free throw line where Strandquist was only 10-for-22. The Nordics made 10 of 49 shots from the field for 39 per cent while the Warriors made 19 of 45 shots for 42 per cent.

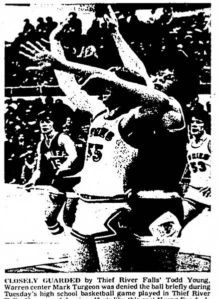
Fisher Leads Cardinals To 52-24 Victory

Plummer girls high school basketball team improved its record to 9-4 Tuesday with a one-sided 52-24 win over Mount St. Benedict at Crookston.

The Cardinals blitzed the Blue Wave 18-5 in the first quarter, led 30-8 at halftime and enjoyed a 38-14 cushion after three quarters.

Diane Fisher scored 19 points for the winners, with Melanie Skjerven adding 13 and Sandy Zimpel 12.

Plummer will play at Argyle Thursday and will host Strandquist Saturday.



CLOSELY GUARDED by Thief River Falls' Todd Young, Warren center Mark Turgeon was denied the ball briefly during Tuesday's high school basketball game played in Thief River Falls. However, defensive efforts like this cost Young five fouls and Turgeon scored 14 points in the Ponies' 59-53 win.

— NOTICE —

Due to a mixup, there were about fifty programs sold at the Thief River Falls arena at the game between the Warroad Lakers and the St. Paul Parkers, that did not include an advertisement from Milo's Hartz, Warroad, Minn. The Laker management is sorry for Milo's embarrassment.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

Only home games for Thief River Falls youth hockey teams will be played Sunday when newcomer Apple Valley visits the sports arena for a 4 p.m. Squirt A game and a 5:30 Pee-Wee A contest.

In other Saturday games, the Squirt B team will be at Red Lake Falls for a 1 p.m. contest, Bantam B at Bemidji at 1 and Bantam A at Bemidji at 2:30.

On Sunday, the Bantam A team will be at Roseau at 1 p.m., Pee-Wee B at Red Lake Falls at 1 and Bantam B at Red Lake Falls at 3.

Thief River Falls Squirt A and Pee-Wee A teams will also be on the road Monday at Roseau at 1 and 2:30 p.m., respectively.

Bantam B team ran its record to 16-0 with weekend wins over Crookston 3-1 and Detroit Lakes 20-0. Goalie Dan Odegaard turned in an outstanding 28-save performance at Crookston and goalie-turned-forward Kerry Wollin broke open a scoreless game with a second period goal. Wollin returned to the nets Sunday and shut out Detroit Lakes offensive support that included a five-goal game by Robbie Raymond and eight assists from Rodney Harder.

Squirt B team record climbed to 11-2-1 with a weekend win and a tie. After three consecutive wins over Roseau, the two teams played to a 1-1 tie Saturday. Goalie Bill Dicken shut out Crookston 2-0 Sunday as Wayne Rausch and Kent Hamre provided the offense.

Eagles Pee-Wee A team drilled Detroit Lakes 15-1 and beat Bemidji 5-2 for a 15-11 record.

In other games, the Squirt A team beat Bemidji 4-3, Pee-Wee B team lost to Hallock 3-0 and the Bantam A team overwhelmed Detroit Lakes 12-3 while tying Grafton 7-7.

States-Dominion Bonspiel Scheduled This Weekend

Annual States-Donimion curling bonspiel will be staged this weekend at the Thief River Falls curling club, located on the Pennington county fairgrounds.

Ten Thief River Falls rinks will be included in the 32-team event that features curlers from Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada. Competition starts at 12 noon Friday and will continue through Sunday, spectators are welcome. A Saturday night banquet will be held at the Elks club.

Annual Thief River Falls mixed bonspiel, another 32-team event, will be staged March 2-4. The Legion will host the Saturday night banquet.

First mixed mini bonspiel and spagetti supper will be conducted by the members of the women's league and women in the mixed leagues March 23. An $8 ticket includes curling and a spagetti supper. Contact the club for additional information.

League Standings

Midway through the 1978-79 season, close races are developing in all six Thief River Falls leagues.

A Monday night battle is shaping up between Terry Lubitz' 6-0 rink and Wes Swanson's 6-1 rink. Lubitz beat Swanson in a head-to-head match Feb. 5.

Marge Carliss and Sharon Jorde rinks are the apparent leaders in the Tuesday night women's league that has been plagued by neglect in marking down scores.

Wednesday afternoon business league has a spirited race with the Gene Henrickson (7-1) and Tom Dimich (6-1) rinks leading the field that includes rinks skipped by Lowell Swenson, Mark Larson, Jon Larson and Bill Corliss.

Veteran Harold Halvorson leads his 7-1 rink at the Wednesday 6 o'clock draw. The Don Barron rink is a close second at 6-2. Rest of the rinks are skipped by Cliff Jorde, Alfred Solem and Terry Beich.

Curt Bottem rink is the apparent leader in the Thursday mixed league that is also guilty of not marking down results.

Undefeated rinks skipped by Loren Weigand and Pete Solem head the Thursday night beginners league. Each team has two beginners — Rob Romocki and Rod Heshke on the Weigand rink, Kurt Marden and Lon Flatun on the Solem rink. The Bill Corliss rink is also very much in contention with just one loss.

Archery Club Stages Open Indoor Meet

Thief River Falls archery club drew a weekend field of 50 archers who participated in an open indoor tournament in the upstairs portion of the old arena.

Competition was divided into 10 classes, with trophies going to the winners and medals awarded to second and third place finishers.

Archery League Completes Fifth Week Shooting

Buck Busters have a firm hold on first place in the target portion of the Thief River Falls indoor archery league, but a close four-way first place struggle shapes up in the bowhunter standings following the fifth week of shooting.

The Buck Busters beat the Fast Cats 876-874 and the Arctic Arrows defeated the Bear Busters 880-871 in target shooting to give the Buck Busters a 5½-point lead over the second place Bear Busters.

Game Getters with 19½ points own a slim lead over Team Arctic in the bowhunter competition, with Arctic Cat II and Arctic Cat I also in the title chase with 17 and 16 points, respectively.

In the bowhunter shooting, it was Arctic Cat I 1226, Arctic Archers 1130; Game Getters 1156, TG Sporting Goods 1140; Team Arctic 1178, Bow Benders 1148; Bull Skippers 1189, Wasatch Warriors 1116; "Z" Archers 1199, Junior Giants 1124. Arctic Cat II received a bye while shooting a 1140.

TRF Swimmers Beat Bemidji 87-85 Monday

Reversing an earlier 19-point loss, Thief River Falls edged Bemidji 87-85 Monday in a junior high school swim meet.

Keith Grochow was a double winner for Thief River Falls as he swam the 200-yard freestyle in 2:19.7 and covered the 400-yard freestyle in 5:07.1.

Scott Jorstad won the 100-yard individual medley in 1:15.0; Rodney Nichols took the 50-yard freestyle in 27.5; and Dean Booth captured the 100-yard freestyle in 1:03.1.

Those three were also together, along with Dave Ose, to win the 400-yard freestyle relay in 1:52.6.

Thief River Falls junior high school squad will compete along with the Lincoln high school varsity at Fosston Friday at 7 p.m.

Al Lindner's In'fisherman Tips

BOAT CONTROL IS A MUST!

Whenever you are fishing, you will tremendously increase your chances of taking fish if you know how to handle your boat properly. During my guiding days, I really learned the value of boat control because I only used to fish my parties for four hours. As a result, I had to be on or near fish at all times.

IN'FISHERMEN are aware that good boat control is simply the ability to keep the boat in such a position so as to have their line constantly in the fish zone. The trick to boat control is keeping the boat above the proper bottom depth at all times. This demands that you have a good understanding of the bottom terrain.

Boat control can be achieved in one of three ways: drifting, trolling, or anchoring. Aside from anchoring, trolling is the easiest method to use in order to achieve maximum boat control. With the aid of a sonar device you can keep your boat above a prime depth and troll either backward or forward. A basic IN'FISHERMAN rule is to be sure that your baits are always running at the desired depth. In this way, if you catch a fish you will be able to pinpoint exactly what depth it came from.

I have found that backtrolling (that is, trolling in reverse) can be very effective. I always backtroll into the wind, if possible. This gives me greater control of the boat, and it allows me to make turns more easily in order to follow an exact depth contour.

Speedtrolling is a method of following a certain depth contour at a very rapid speed, utilizing deep-diving plugs. I keep the boat at a fast, even speed and follow the edge of a bar as closely as possible. This takes practice, but it usually pays off!

The wind, which is generally considered as an enemy of fishermen, can be used instead as an ally in maintaining your boat on an even keel. Drifting is a good example of this. Just let the wind do your work for you.

An improved method that I developed is "controlled drifting". This amounts to letting the boat drift along the edge of a bar with the motor remaining in neutral until I start going too deep or too shallow. Then I switch into forward or reverse and adjust the boat over the desired depth. Controlled drifting is an excellent way to work large bars.

It's easy to understand, then, that whether you troll, drift, or anchor, the key to your fishing success may well be your ability to control your boat at the proper speed and over the proper depth.

SNAKE YOUR WAY TO MORE FISH!

"Snake trolling," or zig-zag trolling, is a very effective way of eliminating unproductive fishing areas. Since at least 80% of the surface area of most lakes is totally fishless, many little tricks must be used to locate the fish, and my method of snake trolling is one of these tricks. What snake trolling amounts to is moving [usually backtrolling] in a zig-zag pattern along known structure to find the depth at which fish are holding.

This particular method of backtrolling could be used, for instance, when fishing for walleyes with a slip-sinker live bait rig. The snake curves that are made while trolling should not be tight turns. Rather, they should be slow, wide turns that cover a fairly wide range of depths. Be sure that you spend enough time working these various depths to allow fish to strike.

Whenever I am snake trolling, I keep a very close watch on the sonar device so that when fish strike, I know at which depth they are located. After fish are found, I use the normal procedure for working and holding a school of fish.

Snake trolling can also be used to catch largemouth bass, northern pike, and for other species of fish. For example, if I'm angling for largemouth bass, I like to "snake" along the piece of structure that I'm working so that my casts land in a multitude of different depths. When I find the fish, I note the depth and the approximate length of cast. This allows me to set a pattern for the day and the particular conditions that exist. After I have set a pattern [area, depth, speed of retrieve, and bait] on one piece of structure, it usually will hold true for other similar pieces of structure for the rest of the lake on that day.

The northern pike, after his spring migration to the spawning grounds, will usually spend his time in and around weedbeds on given day, there may be one on the edge of the weedlines, in the edge of the weedlines, in the weeds, or even on the deep side of the weeds. For this reason, snake trolling is an excellent method to use to locate northerns. By backtrolling with a known pike-producing bait, such as a spinner-minnow combo, and zig-zagging over the tops of the weeds, along the weedlines, and on the deeper side of the weeds, the pike can be located. There may be days when they will be taken throughout the weedbeds, but usually they too will hold to a pattern for the existing conditions.

Because of the crappie's perplexing habit of suspending in deeper water off structure, snake trolling is a great method to use to locate them. Use small jigs, spinner baits, or live minnows, and work along weedy structures very slowly, covering every possible depth. With the use of a good sonar device, it is also possible to see schools of crapples suspended off the bottom, so watch closely.

Not only is snake trolling a very useful method for finding fish on strange lakes, it is also a good, deadly method for picking up stragglers under negative feeding conditions or during cold front periods. In general, the angler who gets the snake trolling procedure down pat is well on his way to becoming a part of the minority of fishermen who catch the majority of fish.

Perch Limit Is Changed By DNR For '79 Season

Department of Natural Resources announced that it has changed the fishing limit on perch for the 1979 season.

The regulation, published earlier, established a limit of 50 on perch exceeding seven inches in length. This has been rescinded.

Commissioner of natural resources Joseph Alexander said further discussion of the problem with resort owners, sportsmen, legislators and the DNR's fisheries staff has led to a decision to set a limit of 100 on perch of any size.

He noted that this is the first time that Minnesota has had a limit on perch.

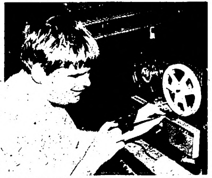
Blind 4-H'er An Electronics Expert

Blind since birth, an 18-year-old Wyoming 4-H member hasn't let his handicap deter him from becoming something of an electronics wizard!

Kevin Utter, 18, of Wheatland, was named state winner in the national 4-H electric energy program for his skills in building and repairing an assortment of complicated equipment ranging from tape recorders to overhead projectors.

The 4-H'er also spends many hours at the local radio station, taping spot announcements and even running the control board when the station manager is busy. A talented musician, the youth often provides music for the station by singing both soprano and alto parts, accompanying himself on the organ and then "mixing" the separate soundtracks.

Using an amplifier, mike mixer and echo chamber he built himself, the 4-H'er controlled sound effects for his school's recent production of the musical, "Godspell."



Although he is blind, 18-year-old Kevin Utter of Wheatland, Wyo., easily repairs everything from tape recorders to overhead projectors. The young electronics expert won state honors in the national 4-H electric energy program last year and received a trip to the 57th National 4-H Congress in Chicago as guest of Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

As a reward for his accomplishments—which might be envied by many sighted persons—Kevin received an expense-paid trip to the 57th National 4-H Congress in Chicago last November. He and other state winners in the 4-H electric energy program were guests of Westinghouse Electric Corporation while in the Windy City.

Westinghouse also provides $1,000 scholarships for six national winners in the program and medals of honor for four winners in each county. Awards are arranged by National 4-H Council and recipients are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the program.

Boys and girls 9-19 can "learn by doing" in a variety of 4-H electric energy projects and activities that combine theory and technical information with a "hands on" approach to education.

In line with current national concerns about energy and energy conservation, 4-H members study ways in which electricity can be efficiently utilized in the production of heat, light, power, communications and computations. They also explore career opportunities in the electric and allied industries.

County extension agents can furnish more information on the 4-H electric energy program.

McDowell Gives Statement On Court Decision

(Editor's Note: Larry McDowell, chairman of the Thief River Falls board of education, has issued the following statement in regard to the recent court decision involving a suit against the school district by the Thief River Falls Education association and Minnesota Education association.)

After extensive litigation in the spring of 1978, Judge Robert Peterson issued his Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Order for Judgment on Feburary 2, 1979, in a lawsuit brought by the Thief River Falls teachers' union against their school district, its board, and two administrators. Because of this litigation, Independent School District No. 564 was forced to defend its conduct.

Independent School District 564, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, was found to have negotiated in good faith with the Thief River Falls Education association, the teachers' union, regarding the collective bargaining agreement for fiscal years 1977-79.

In addition, Judge Peterson determined that Dr. Milton Hoff, an administrator for the school district, neither interfered with, restrained or coerced teachers, nor discriminated in regard to hire or tenure to encourage or discourage membership in an employee organization.

The Judge did determine that the school district appointed a teacher and paid some teachers in violation of the contract between the teachers union and the school district.

The Judge indicated that he will enjoin the school district from hiring and paying teachers in violation of the union contract, and will require the union and school district to negotiate a proper method of compensation for all teachers hired by the school district.

The school district believes that it complied with his determinations prior to their issuance.

The school district is not aware of any order requiring it to proceed to arbitration on any issues that the teachers' union has raised in the past, as has been reported in other news items.

The Judgment concluded the litigation between the teachers' union and its school district. Since the Judge's apparent directions have already been implemented, the school district believes that all of its operations will continue without change as a result of the formal Order.

Cable TV To Change To New Mpls. Station

Beginning at 6 a.m. Monday, March 5, Channel 5 on the local cable system will begin carrying the programming of KMSP-TV in Minneapolis, according to Richard Sjoberg of Sjoberg's Cable TV. The new station will succeed WTCN-TV on the local cable.

Sjoberg said the changeover results from a shuffling of stations in the Twin Cities from independent to network affiliate status and from network in independent status. WTCN-TV will become a network affiliate.

The new station, an independent, will provide local cable viewers with 50 Minnesota Twins baseball games, continued telecasts of Minnesota North Stars hockey, and both boys' and girls' state high school basketball tournaments.

Also scheduled are 30 weeks of world championship tennis, Minnesota Kicks soccer show, championship wrestling, boxing from the Olympic and several sports, fishing and outdoor shows.

Many entertainment programs, re-runs of popular series, motion pictures from four Hollywood studios and made-for-television movies will also be included in the programming, Sjoberg said.

Apart from locally-produced shows in the Twin Cities, such as news and public affairs programs, most viewers will likely not notice any major changes in the channel except for the change in station call letters, Sjoberg said.

Ten Ton Roads To Be Meeting Topic Feb. 26

Ten ton road needs of region one will be the topic of a February 26 meeting to be held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Scheduled by the Minnesota transportation committee, purpose of the meeting will be to develop, in conjunction with the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT), priority roads to be designated as 10 ton roads. This 10 ton designation would allow these routes to be upgraded as needed.

Legislators are also being asked to sit in on the meeting to discuss load limits and how they can effectively be policed.

The transportation committee is seeking a broad overview of the load limit problems and alternatives available for consideration during the planning process, and is inviting shippers, haulers, legislators and any other interested persons to be in attendance at the meeting Monday, February 26.

Minnesota NFO Meet Attended By Co. Members

Members of Minnesota National Farmers organization (NFO) hosted the Minnesota legislature at a legislative banquet at the St. Paul hotel last Thursday. Attending from Pennington county were NFO county chairman Merle Lundeen and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Darrow Lundeen.

A crowd of 300 heard national NFO president DeVon Woodland talk about the threat of foreign investments in agricultural land in the United States and the need for collective bargaining in agriculture.

"Foreign buyers pose a serious threat in this country through their purchases of agricultural land, a threat no other countries allow," Woodland told legislators and NFO members.

He said that although no one really knows exactly how much of our land is in foreign hands, a United States department of agriculture (USDA) study gives some indication. That study shows that during an 18-month period from Jan. 1, 1977 to June 30, 1978, a total of 826,543 acres of United States agricultural land went to foreign investers, Woodland explained. He said that mans 54 out of every 1,000 acres of U.S. farm land put up for sale during those 18 months went to foreign buyers.

"I think the time will come when the U.S. Congress will realize the family farm act introduced years ago did have a purpose," Woodland commented. "Not only foreign investments, but land purchases by corporations threaten family farming."

Woodland also explained NFO's programs and talked about what he believes has to be done to put agriculture on a sound economic footing.

He said it is not possible for Congress to legislate farm markets. "Congress may give temporary relief through price supports and diversion and disaster programs," he said, "but the permanent solution is through collective bargaining by farmers that will return cost of production plus a reasonable profit contracts."

Alfred Longren of North and Alvin and Peter Nygard were Saturday forenoon coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home. Roger Dyrdal Jr. was a noon luncheon and afternoon guest and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dyrdal were coffee guests when they called for him. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. David Dyrdal, Jackie and Eric were supper and evening guests at the Lewis home.

Birthday

Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Lilas Klefstad, Mrs. Martin Solseng, Mrs. Duane Olson and Mrs. Daryl Lewis brought cake, ice cream and birthday anniversary wishes to Mrs. Roy Blomker Monday afternoon, February 5. Also enjoying the celebration were Nathan, Odetta and Jonathan Blomker. The previous week Mrs. Blomker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Leonhardt of Waskish brought early birthday wishes and were guests at the Blomker home from Thursday through Saturday.

Enjoying coffee and luncheon at the David Bach home in Numedal Thursday afternoon following a meeting of the Oak Ridge ALCW were Janice Olson, Florence Knutson, Lillie Mae Hible, Dess Anderson, Ardith Olson, Alfreda Bach, Louise Solseng, Effie Pederson, Pearl Helgenset, Evelyn Swanson, LuAnn Lewis, Carol Waswick, Diane Colby, Pauline Vatsaas, Sally Gibbons and Shannon.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo, who has been spending a few days at the Marvin Olson home in Rocksbury, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Olson, Steve, Kelli and Jill to Warren Sunday, where they visited at the Wallace Lamb home. While there, the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hoglo was celebrated a week early. Her granddaughter, Michelle Lamb, had baked and inscribed a cake for the occasion and it was enjoyed by all families present. Before returning home, they also visited at the Gary Potochek home in Warren.

Mrs. Edith Dyrdal and Mrs. Daryl Lewis were Friday afternoon coffee guests at the Nels Dyrdal home in Thief River Falls. Kay Gjertson was also a caller.

WHERE YOU PUT ONE BLOCK

You can learn more than spelling while playing with blocks. You can also learn how good and evil are the results of the choices we make.

HAT could have been HATE. And LOVE would then have been incomplete. It all depends on where you put one block.

People who realize the tremendous importance of seemingly small choices want their children to acquire a sense of spiritual responsibility. The churches serving our community respect and fulfill that vital need through religious education and moral training.

When we grow up and put away our blocks, those same churches provide the spiritual foundation on which we build a life of decision-making.

CPA Society Lists Tax Law Revisions

Although most of the tax law revisions adopted by Congress last year did not take effect until this year, taxpayers now getting ready to prepare their returns should be aware of the changes that apply to 1978 incomes, for most of those changes benefit the taxpayer, according to the Minnesota society of certified public accountants.

Among persons affected are those who: Had capital gains or losses; are 55 or over and sold their homes after July 26, 1978; sold inherited assets that appreciated in value after 1976; made energy-saving modifications in their homes after April 19, 1977; or changes homes for employment reasons.

As for the other changes you may have heard about — the raising of personal exemptions, the ending of the general tax credit, the broadening of tax brackets to lessen the effects of inflation, and the increase in the earned-income credit to help low-income taxpayers — all those were indeed enacted, but they become effective only in 1979.

Of more immediate concern, until the law was changed, 50 per cent of long-term capital gains had to be added to taxable income. Not, on most gains realized after Oct. 31, 1978, only 40 per cent must be included.

Because of the complexity of changes in the treatment of capital gains, which make it necessary to compute gains and losses at two different rates, anyone affected is likely to need professional assistance with 1978 returns.

The same is true of those 55 or over who after July 26, 1978, sold a home at a profit after owning and occupying it for three of the past five years. This one-in-a-lifetime exemption from capital gains tax on the first $100,000 of profit could be the biggest tax break most persons are ever likely to receive, so it should not be treated casually.

A change adopted earlier but which became effective in 1978 and thereafter determines the length of time an asset must have been held in order to qualify for a long-term gain or loss; it is now a full year. Another earlier change provides that in 1978 a taxpayer can offset up to $3,000 of net capital losses against ordinary income. In 1977 the maximum was $2,000.

Anyone sharing in an estate that was settled in the past couple of years may also need professional help. The Tax Reform Act of 1976 provided for new treatment of assets inherited and sold after the end of the year. But Congress now has moved the start-up date for those changes back to 1980. So anyone who received a post-1976 legacy should check; they may have paid taxes on it now that are refundable.

If you improved the insulation in your home on or after April 20, 1977, or added storm windows or other fuel-saving devices, you may be eligible for a credit of 15 per cent of what you spent, up to a total credit of $300. If you put in solar heating or equipment utilizing renewable sources of energy, the credit can be even bigger. The energy-conservation credits apply only to principal places of residence, not vacation homes. They also do not apply to new homes.

It has long been true that if you make a profit on a home sale you can defer the capital gain tax if within eighteen months you reinvest in another home costing at least as much. It also has long been true that this "rollover" could be used no more than once every year and a half. Effective in 1978, however, if the change of homes is employment connected, as in a change of your place of employment, you can defer the capital gain tax even if two sales occur within 18 months.

Magrath Sees Budget As Sign Of The Times

University of Minnesota officials were disappointed Tuesday when they saw Gov. Albert Quie's recommended no-growth budget for the institution for the coming two years.

One line in the supporting materials accompanying the governor's budget message is likely to stand out in future discussions of the budget on campus. It reads: "The governor's guidelines were applied uniformly to all three systems of higher education to ensure quity and consistency even though the university's increase request approaches $100 million."

University officials had argued that the institution has a unique research mission that cannot be compared to other Minnesota systems and that its costs due to inflation are higher than those of the other agencies.

But, university president C. Peter Magrath said, the recommendation may be "a sign of the times" that reflects a declining emphasis on higher education and tight spending of public money.

Magrath pointed to President Carter's federal budget, in which declines in social programs are combined with increases for defense spending.

"You didn't hear much talk about higher education in the discussion of President Carter's 'budget' message," Magrath said. "It's much different from the days when President Johnson was talking about the Great Society."

University's request cannot be compared directly with those of the state university system and the community colleges, which both followed the governor's guidelines and did not ask for increases, Magrath said.

"We are comparable in certain respects, he said, "but we are a different institution with different kinds of needs."

Magrath said that Quie's budget does recognize the University's unique research mission with increases for library funds, graduate school research and agricultural research.

University faculty leaders have said that the University would decline in quality if its competitive market were considered to be the other state systems instead of the more prestigious national institutions such as California and the Big Ten.

But, Magrath said, many nationally recognized universities are also suffering in the current fiscal climate, notably California and Massachusetts.

If Quie's recommendations are adopted, the University would face severe cutbacks to meet the costs of inflation, which are not included in the governor's budget, Magrath said.

"Clearly, it's the most austere recommendation since I've been here," said Magrath, who came to the University in 1974.

He said he was concerned about an "erosion of quality" that many faculty members believe dates back to 1971, another year of tight appropriations for the University.

State officials agree that it's a tight year but, they say, the University is not unique. In his budget message Tuesday, Quie said that his state budget represents only a 16.2 per cent increase over the current biennium.

This is the lowest percentage increase in the state's budget since 1963, the first year for which the department of finance has records," Quie said.

Dale Nelson, education coordinator for the department, said that Quie's recommended increase for the University is about three per cent as it now stands. But more than half of the University's request remains to be considered.

"Once the salaries and fringe benefits are added, I would be surprised if the increase for the University isn't comparable to the increases for the state generally," Nelson said.

"This is the tightest budget ever recommended, not only for the University but also for the state," Nelson said. "It's the smallest increase in state funding in the last 20 years."

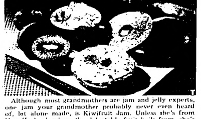
TOAST AND KIWI JAM?



Although most grandmothers are jam and jelly experts, one jam your grandmother probably never even heard of, let alone made, is Kiwifruit Jam. Unless she's from New Zealand, where the delectable fruit hails from, she's not likely to have experienced this pleasant bread-spreader.

The kiwifruit, now also grown in California, has a delicate flavor that lends itself beautifully to the modern, fresh-spread jams. Its flavor has been described as having the essence of watermelon, strawberries and bananas. And the colorful meat of the kiwi is something to behold—a rich eye-dazzling emerald green.

When selecting kiwifruit for the jam, be sure and choose plump-looking, unwrinkled fruit. You'll know the fruit is ripe when it yields to gentle pressure, like a peach or avocado. Ripen at room temperature as you would other fruit. If you want to speed the ripening process, simply place the kiwifruit in a plastic bag with a banana, apple or pear.

You may want to eat kiwifruit just as you would any other fruit. Peel and slice, or serve "melon-style," cut in half. Just scoop out the meat with a spoon. An average sized kiwi yields 1/2 cup diced or sliced fruit, enough for two servings.

Just when your grandmother thought she knew it all.....

KIWI JAM

6 ripe Calavo kiwifruit, peeled
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 cups sugar
1-3/4 oz. package powdered pectin
3/4 cup water

In large bowl, crush kiwifruit with fork until chunky. (Approximately 1 1/2 cups.) Add lemon juice and sugar. Stir well and let stand 15 minutes. In small saucepan, dissolve powdered pectin in the water; bring to a boil; boil for one minute, stirring constantly. Stir hot mixture into fruit; continue stirring for 3 minutes. Ladle into a jar with tight-fitting cover.

Allow to cool; place in refrigerator.

Makes about 1 quart of jam.

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2, City, 681-3897

Friends visiting with Mrs. Vernon Malberg at the Valley Home during the past week were Mrs. Anna Robarge, Mrs. Clifford Jorde and a friend of hers, Mrs. Minnie Erickson, Mrs. Donna Poole, and Mrs. Bonnie Carlson.

Mrs. Margaret Pederson was honored Saturday evening for her birthday at the Larry Gustafson home when Thora and Lawrence Skomadal, Mrs. Amanda Torgerson and Jarvis Torgerson, Debbie and Lisa came over to help her celebrate.

Late Monday afternoon visitors at the Lloyd Larson home were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Benitt of Holt. Tuesday afternoon Eldon Moe was a caller.

Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended a meeting of the Rebekah circle at the Trinity Lutheran church parlors Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony, Mrs. Margaret Pederson and Otto and Bernice Knutson were Sunday evening visitors at the Thora and Lawrence Skomedal home.

Mrs. Eldon Moe and Mrs. Joe Ose, councilors respectively of the West and East Steiner homemaker groups, attended the Leaders' Council meeting at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt Thursday. The "Spring Thing" was discussed.

Mrs. Orlando Solberg and Keith of Plummer and Mrs. Anne Muzzy of Thief River Falls were Wednesday dinner guests and afternoon visitors at the Lloyd Larson home.

Mrs. Ethel Moe received a call from her nephew, Leonard Roso Sunday evening that his father, Enoch Roso, of Bradley, S.D., had passed away at the Home for the Aged in Watertown where he had been a resident for several years. Enoch is Ethel's brother. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Moe and the Eldon Moe family.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Alvin Halvorson home were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gustafson of Viking.

Mrs. Eldon Moe attended a meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Cowbelles at the Carnegie public library meeting room in Thief River Falls on Friday morning. They made plans for their booth at the Red River Valley Winter shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Yonke and David were among the Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kosmatka at Grafton.

NEWS OF TRAVEL

Enjoy The Slovakia Of Czechoslovakia

Question—can you name the six countries comprising Eastern Europe? If you get to three and stop, you're not alone. This scenic cluster of countries—Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Poland, Eastern Germany and Romania—is somewhat of an enigma to most Americans.

Sandwiched between Western Europe and the USSR, and sharing the Danube River (which isn't blue), Eastern Europe offers travelers the best of both worlds ... at prices much lower than Western Europe.

If you only have time to go to one of these, then plan to visit Czechoslovakia, a country a little larger than New York state with a population of fifteen million. Most of the forty thousand Americans who go to Czechoslovakia each year stay in Prague, the thousand-year-old capital, making trips into the Bohemian countryside. Czechoslovakia is for the culturally-hungry, offering a rich blend of architecture, 2,500 castles, 40,000 monuments, and music, music everywhere.

But . . . there's more. The visitor who wants to sense the ancient mystery of this country, and completely escape the modern world, should head south to Slovakia, the southeastern part of Czechoslovakia.

Starting a trip at Bratislava, the capital located on the Danube, the visitor heads slowly (no rushing allowed) East, driving through little towns which trace history back thousands of years, where people live in a different age, still weaving cloth for clothing, and making their own furniture. Such a journey back into time is certain to encounter some of the many folk festivals held during the summer and fall, and ends up in the High Tatras where turn-of-the-century resorts make the ideal stopping place for a few days of swimming, boating, hiking, or skiing.

In short Czechoslovakia—in the heart of Europe—is a fairyland kind of country set up to accommodate millions of visitors in first class hotels, and with organized motorcoach tours throughout Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia. The big surprise in store for the first time visitor are the moderate prices for hotels, food, and gifts.

For more information, call or write Cedok, Czechoslovak Travel Bureau, 10 East 40th Street, New York, New York 10016.

Good To See Smiles

When we dropped in at the Pennington county DHIA meeting Monday night to take a few pictures of award winners, it was good to see the dairymen smiling again. For those who kept an eye on herd management and didn't run into too much tough luck, 1978 probably provided them with a bit of a profit.

Having done a good deal of growing up on a farm harboring diary cattle, we know some of the rigors of the business. In spite of modern equipment and labor-saving devices, operation of a dairy farm is self-induced slavery. It would be hard for use to believe that any sort of profit in the dairy business could be too high.

For too long dairy farmers have plodded through their pre-dawn to post-dark seven-day weeks with little to console them for their efforts except the company of their cows. Better breeding, better record keeping, better management information, better production and finally better prices have etched a silver lining around the diaryman's cloud. Hopefully, the sun is about to shine.

Most farmers are incurable optimists anyway — although you wouldn't always think so to hear them talk. If they didn't have optimism in their souls, however, they wouldn't be in farming. Dairymen have to have a little extra optimism and you will generally find them to be less prone to complain about their plight. Maybe they just don't have the time.

At any rate, with a pretty good year behind them and a seemingly brighter future ahead, the dairymen at Monday night's meeting seemed to be genuinely happy to be in the business they were in. As an avid consumer of dairy products, we're happy for them.

Please pass the milk.

Agenda For Schools

Following comments are from an address given by Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, U.S. commissioner of education, at the national school boards association convention in 1978:

When all is said and done about school finance, budgets and management, we must once again refocus our attention on two fundamental concerns:

Toward these basic issues, I offer the following thoughts. First, I believe our schools must recognize the centrality of language. It is language that makes us a unique species; language that is the connecting tissue which binds us all together; language that gives us our identities and our meaning. Language is the centerpiece of our common experiences. All we know, all we fear and all we hope is created and conveyed through symbols.

Every student also must understand the complexity of language: the way we use and misuse symbols and the ways we communicate — not just with words — but with mathematics, Music, computers and with dance. Today, of course, language is depreciated in all too many ways: so many occasions which distracts us from the printed page, so many moments when we are encouraged not to talk, write or to read. It is startling that children today watch between four and five thousand hours of television before they ever go to school. We have, in short, become the age of the flash and the zap, the hour-long epic, the 30 minute encyclopedia, the five minute explanation, the one minute sell and the two-second fix. And in our video culture, with its emphasis on speed and ease, language increasingly has become more fleeting and less valued.

And yet, I believe every child must be taught to read and write effectively by the third or fourth grade. After all, the mastery of language is still the most essential key to learning and living.

Teaching children how to read must be the top priority in our schools.

I also doubt seriously that we can have good schools without good education in the home. In recent years, schools and the home have been somewhat suspicious of each other. Parents have focused more on governance and budgets that on education. Increasingly, however, there is common agreement in the two camps that schools neither fail nor succeed alone. To reaffirm the parent-teacher partnership, I would like to see parents reading to their children every day. I also would like to see a time when families would turn off their TV sets to read and talk to each other as a way to rediscover the beauty of written and spoken word. If no one reads at home, our children will not become good readers.

At the same time, we must rediscover the true meaning of vocation by bridging the gap between work and education. Every thing we know about society — and about ourselves — tells us that our choice of work, our vocation, is overwhelmingly important in shaping our values and in determining the quality of our lives.

We hear a lot of talk about "liberal vs. vocational" education and it is suggested that our educational tradition is demeaned if it leads directly to a job. Such a view not only distorts the present — it denies the past. It is time for our schools to confront the subject of vocation as a profoundly serious course of study. We need to recognize that education must prepare all students for a life of learning and a life of creative work. We need to restructure our schools to reflect this fact.

Finally, education must leave students with a perspective. We must, of course, teach the fundamentals and prepare students for vocations and a place in society. But, language and vocation are insufficient in themselves. If our civilization is to survive, our students must not only become informed, they must become wise as well. We must help each student understand the interdependence of our world.

A decade ago, noted historian Arnold Toynbee observed that we have conquered nature, and that the great unfinished task now before us is to conquer ourselves. The time has come, Toynbee said, for humanity as a whole to unite against the common enemy in each of us. The great irony of our times is that humanity may be destroyed not by its madness, but by its carelessness — by its wanton disregard for its special relationship to the planet Earth.

For centuries we have believed that we could build a humane civilization from nature's resources. We have witnessed the miracle of production and construction. We have praised human ingenuity and scientific knowledge for this progress. Yet, tragically, we have taken for granted the raw materials of our mother planet and the several hundred million years necessary to produce the fossil fuels we use to power our machines. Suddenly we are beginning to understand the concept of finite resources. As a corollary, we are beginning to realize that limited resources will require not only new technology in the years ahead, but new values and new attitudes as well. We are beginning to see that our self indulgence must be replaced with a new perspective — an understanding that we are members of a human community with a common plight and a common fate. This calls for perspective in our education.

Our sciences, our literature and our social sciences increasingly must highlight the relationship of our students to each other, to the larger civilization and to the planet Earth. Such education may not be popular or easily measured on a statewide competency examination. Nonetheless, I am convinced that such programs are urgent and that they relate both to excellence in education as well as excellence in living.

If this century does not slip forever through our fingers, it will be because learning — especially in our schools — will have directed us away from our splintered dumbness and will have helped us focus on our common goals.

I am optimistic about public education in America. We must push for more money, less paperwork, more support for local school board members. And we must push for excellence: the mastery of language, the rediscovery of the true meaning of vocation and the development within our students of a greater understanding of who they are and how they relate to the planet Earth.

Legislative Report
Marv Hanson
District 1 State Senator

Two school districts in our area will receive no state foundation aid for local education this year. In these districts, as in 11 other Minnesota school districts, aids have been lost/due to rapidly escalating real estate values. Under the present foundation aid formula, aids are reduced as valuations go up; this results in an increase in local property taxes as well.

Minnesota's school aids formula was not intended, however, to lead to a cut-off of educational aids to local schools. Sky-rocketing prices for farmland have pushed our aid system out of balance and created the need to restore a more equitable base of local school financing.

In response to this problem, I have introduced legislation to change the method of assessment of agricultural lands in determining school aids. My new measure would restore agricultural school districts to a more equitable base. This new bill would assist those districts by changing the basis for assessment from the land's sales value to its rental value.

The bill I have authored would base that assessment entirely on what a landowner would receive if he rented the land out to other farmers. Most farmers will agree that sales price doesn't mean a thing if you are not selling your land, and that increases in sales price bear little relation to the actual output value of a farm. The new legislation would base agricultural valuations for school aids on what farmland produces rather than on the land's sales value.

Under Minnesota's school-aid formula a typical school district should raise about 30 per cent of its local foundation budget through the property taxes, with about 70 per cent contributed by the state. Although the local proportion will be higher for high valuation districts, local communities should not be denied state school aids. The assessed value of land in the metropolitan area went up 32.7 per cent over the past five years but it jumped 76 per cent in the rest of the state. And farm incomes have not kept pace at all.

The bill I have introduced would restore a better balance, bringing aids back to districts that have seen an aid cut-off and relieving the financial pressures on rural school districts.

If you have questions or views on this or any other issue please write me at Room 23J, State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, or call: (612) 296-4835.

The Big Gamble: Child Care In The U.S.

Spin the wheel and take your chance.

What will it be . . . a day care center, neighbors, friends, relatives, a family day care home or a live-in housekeeper?

"There is no set answer; no one place to turn for quality child care in the U.S.," asserts Dr. Sheila Kamerman, professor of social policy at New York's Hunter College School of Social Work and member of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Time Out Institute.

Founded in 1977 by Kentucky Fried Chicken, the Institute is designed to explore the changing role of the American woman and offer practical suggestions on coping with her dual vocation—wage earner and mother.

The Institute is concerned about "workmoms" in particular, who may have guilt feelings about spending less time on household chores, including home cooking, due to their busy schedules.

In a recent study comparing child care benefits and services in the United States with those of many other industrialized nations, Dr. Kamerman found that the United States does the least in providing: government-subsidized maternity leaves, infant/toddler care, preschool programs or extended programs for school-age children when schools are closed.

Kamerman believes the key to excellent child care would be programs which enhance child development, not ones which merely play custodian; and the working mother in the United States must be prepared for a difficult quest for this high quality. She suggests the following checklist in the search for child care:

_Check with your state social services department, local planning councils, religious organizations and Head Start centers. They can provide guidelines for selecting a day care center (where many children are cared for in one place), a family day care home (where the child is in the home of another family during the day) or a preschool program.

_See if your state requires licensing of these facilities. Ask yourself if these licensing requirements represent the kind of care you want for your child.

_Consider the location. A center, home or school close to you will make transportation easier, and your child will be more comfortable among familiar people and places.

_Take time out to visit several centers, homes or schools and see for yourself what daily activities are available for your child.

_Spend time with the person in charge. Watch how that person and other staff members interact with the children. Will they care for and love your child in the same way you would?

_Be prepared for the varied costs of child care in the U.S.

"Working mothers in the U.S. are at a disadvantage," Kamerman believes. "While the percentage of working women in other nations is comparable to that in the U.S., many countries provide benefits which make it easier for women to manage their two jobs: one at the workplace and the other at home."

Kamerman sees the United States' awareness of the need for more child care growing, but at a much slower rate than other countries. Almost two-thirds of the U.S. children ages 3-6 are in some form of child care program outside the home, mostly in preschool programs. However, most of these programs are private and many do not cover the whole day.

"There are steps in the right direction," says the social policy analyst and KFC Time-Out Institute member. "However, the U.S. government needs to catch up with other countries and develop more extensive family policies which would provide more cash benefits, more government-subsidized child care centers and more work-related benefits to ease the pressure on the working mother and help her to be successful in both roles . . . parent and full-time worker."

For more information on wage-earning mothers, contact: The Kentucky Fried Chicken Time Out Institute, 221 N. LaSalle St., Suite 1400, Chicago, IL 60601.

Launch Campaign To Fight Child Abuse

It's easy to dismiss child abuse as something that happens to somebody else. Somebody with mental problems, maybe, or somebody a rung or two below you on the social ladder.

But the idea that some people are immune to this problem is a myth, according to Evon Kruse, of the maternal and child health section at the Minnesota department of health. "Only 10 to 15 per cent of all child abusers are mentally ill," said Kruse, "and child abuse and neglect are not limited to any particular social class. We want people to realize that anyone can become a child abuser."

Concerned health professionals like Kruse are now participating in a month-long campaign to focus public attention on the problem of child abuse and neglect. Effort is part of the International Year of the Child (IYC), a world-wide observance being held this year under the sponsorship of the United Nations. U.N. resolution which set up the IYC urged people in all nations to "think children, to celebrate their true potential, to take a hard look at each nation's programs for children, and then mobilize every possible supporting action" on behalf of the world's children.

Kruse feels the extent of the child abuse problem may have been underestimated in the past, partly because "abuse" has been defined too narrowly. "There's a tendency to think of abuse only in terms of overt physical violence," she said, "but neglect is also part of the problem. Neglect means failing to support a child emotionally, for instance, or failing to provide the basic necessities of life. That sort of thing is roughly ten times as common as physical abuse."

Problem is larger yet if sexual abuse is included. Until recently, cases of sexual abuse often went unreported. Kruse says sexual abuse may take place in anywhere from a fourth to a third of all families, according to estimates from the University of Minnesota's program in human sexuality.

Consequences of child abuse can reach far beyond the individual victim, Kruse says. There is evidence that abused children are more likely than others to become child abusers themselves when they grow up. Abused children are also more likely to be involved in juvenile crime. Kruse cites studies which indicate that 80-90 per cent of juvenile offenders may have a history of abuse or neglect.

Minnesota has been expanding its efforts to deal with child abuse. State law now requires that all cases of abuse or neglect be reported to the proper authorities. "The old misconception about social class was partly a result of problems with the reporting process," said Kruse. "In the past, the most reliable and thorough reporting of abuse took place in public hospitals, free clinics, and other agencies that do a lot of work with the poor. Child abuse therefore came to be associated with the social groups that use these institutions."

State department of public welfare has a federally funded program to encourage the creation of child abuse teams at the county level. These teams will deal with the problem through the combined efforts of social workers, teachers, public health nurses, law enforcement personnel, county attorneys, and other interested professionals. State department of health has a federally funded training program for health professionals who handle child abuse problems. Over a thousand people have gone through the program during the past year.

Kruse foresees a greater emphasis on preventing child abuse in the future. "We want to do more than just intervene where child abuse has already occurred," she said. "We want to identify potential child abusers before or shortly after they become parents, so we can offer help before the problem develops."

"We already know a good deal about what to look for," she added. Possible abusers, she says, include people who generally lack self-esteem, people under unusual stress, and people who were themselves abused as children. People with chemical dependency problems are "at risk," as are people who lack a "support system" of people who can help them in time of need. Lack of knowledge about how children grow and develop, unrealistic expectations about living with children, and children with handicaps or special problems can also create the sort of tensions that lead to abuse.

"If we could reach the people who face these problems, through pre-natal classes or some other appropriate vehicle, we could educate them about what to expect," said Kruse. "We could help them learn to cope, and avoid becoming abusers in the first place."

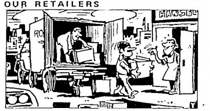
Unsung Heroes Of America

OUR RETAILERS



WELL-REGULATED TRUCKING helps keep our retailers in business.

America's nearly two million retail establishments contribute some $130 billion yearly to our national economy. According to many historians modern retailing is a continuation of the world's oldest business.

Practiced by the ancients, retailing has been the custom of all peoples. The earliest form of retail merchandising was probably the exchange of food and weapons. Traders and peddlers came later, and by 3,000 B.C. shops were quite common.

In America, the history of retailing has been one of experiment, improvement and progress. Here, the general store preceded the single-line store and is still common in many communities.

In the late 19th century, the department store came into being, and chain stores, though known in earlier times, first developed in their modern form in 1859, with a standard of quality and price on all merchandise sold in all stores.

Retailers serve their communities by adding to employment, providing goods and services and easing the flow of the local economy. They also do such things as lend their windows for displays by community groups such as the Boy Scouts or environmentalists, participate in United Fund, Chamber of Commerce and other community programs, help fight crime and rehabilitate downtown areas.

Helping our retailers help us is the careful government regulation of the trucking industry. Most consumer goods move from place to place by truck. In many communities, regulated truck transport is the only freight link with the outside economy.

Regulated interstate motor carriers must serve small-town and suburban America, whether it's profitable or not—often it's not. Yet, retailers in these communities have the same rights as those in major cities to sell the best goods available at the best prices they can offer.

Regulation helps assure that, and so helps keep a lot of retailers in business. It also helps keep prices down since, without trucking service, some would have to turn to alternative—though very expensive—ways of bringing products.

In retailing, the principal job is to spread the overhead over as large a sales volume as possible so that no price is too high. Successful retailing demands being on the side of the consumer, working as the consumer's purchasing agent. Your merchants are working for you.

Are you working too hard for too little?

Being an independent housing contractor can be very rewarding . . . especially if you have a proven line of homes behind you.

We offer 60 standard catalog plan homes, plus we sell hundreds of custom designs annually in 18 states. We sell only through a network of local builder-dealers who are independent contractors. A dealership is not a franchise and no fees are required.

Midwestern Homes has sold pre-engineered homes of the finest quality materials since 1952. They enjoy better-than-average resale because of the design and quality.

Our headquarters and original factories are in Rapid City, SD. With the 1978 opening of a large factory in Pittsburg, KS, we now have available the opportunity for qualified builder-dealers in additional areas. This is one.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

How Brokers Can Help

When the time comes to sell your home, should you retain a broker rather than try to sell it yourself?

Experts point out four advantages in using a broker: most home owners cannot accurately appraise the value of their homes in today's market; cannot handle the legal and financial complexities; don't know how to show their homes to their best advantage; and cannot take the time to do the job on their own.

According to Kenneth F. Cibroski, executive vice president of Gallery of Homes, Inc., the nation's oldest residential real estate franchising organization, many frustrated homeowners who sell their houses without brokers end up losing money and taking time and energy away from other tasks that might prove more profitable.

If a homeowner decides to utilize the services of a broker, Cibroski observes, he should seek one who will do a first-rate job.

What should you look for in a broker? Cibroski urges the following:

- Look at the broker's track record and whether he can advise you on financing, mortgages, interest rates, and laws and regulations affecting your sale.
- Does the broker have a proven method of selling homes and a good reputation in the community?
- Does he belong to national, state and local real estate boards and organizations?
- Can the broker bring an adequate number of qualified buyers to the house?
- Do the firm's sales associates have a strong foundation in real estate basics and does the firm have a training program and ongoing education program for its associates?
- Can the broker advise on which improvements would add value to the property and which would not—and can he evaluate a house for its good and bad points?

- Is the broker familiar with the community and aware of social or economic problems that might affect the value of the property?
- Is the broker able to provide prospective buyers with information on schools, churches, shopping, transportation, cultural and sports activities?
- Does the broker have a nationwide relocation-referral service at his or her disposal? And, if the broker is part of a national franchise, does the broker maintain an independent identity in the community? Does the franchise provide national advertising to produce additional qualified buyers?
- Does the broker show a genuine concern for you and your timing needs?

Cibroski suggests that, when you list your property with a qualified broker, you are buying services that will help you realize the maximum profit from your most valuable asset — your home.

Cancer Answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

My cousin had leukemia, but the doctors say he's in remission. What does that mean? Is he going to be all right now? I sure hope so, because he's been really sick. Why did the medicines he took make him feel so bad? Aren't medicines supposed to make you feel better?

Jennifer

Dear Jennifer:

A remission means that all of the signs and symptoms of the leukemia are gone, and the doctors can find no more leukemia cells in your cousin's blood or bone marrow. This is what his doctors hoped would happen when they began treating his leukemia.

The medicines your cousin received are designed to destroy the leukemia cells, but unfortunately these drugs sometimes affect other cells, normal cells, as well. Doctors call this a "side effect" of the drug. Side effects usually don't last very long, and the good cells that were damaged will grow back, but the cancer cells shouldn't.

Your cousin should now be able to do all of the things he used to do before he got sick. He will still have to have some chemotherapy to keep the leukemia in remission. A remission can last for months or years; no one knows for sure. If your cousin is in remission for a number of years the doctors may be able to discontinue treatment and may even consider him cured.

Dear Cancer Answers:

There seems to be so much in the news these days about x-rays causing cancer. I find this very confusing since most doctors consider x-rays beneficial in many cases. What should a person do? Never have any x-rays? Are there any guidelines a person should follow?

Mrs. P.E.

Dear Mrs. P. E.:

There has never been a documented scientific study proving that the small doses of x-ray used today in diagnostic procedures can cause cancer. Accurately estimating a person's increased risk for developing cancer as a result of various x-ray examinations is not possible. As you would guess, different types of x-ray exams expose different organs and tissues in the body to different amounts of radiation.

It is known, however, that certain parts of the body like the bone marrow and the thyroid gland are much more sensitive to radiation than are the muscles or skin.

Don't forget to consider the substantial benefits of diagnostic x-rays. X-ray examination of the stomach and bowels as part of an annual routine physical may be completely unnecessary. On the other hand, in the presence of certain symptoms the information obtained from such an examination may save your life. In such cases, the risk of not having the exam is much greater than the risk of the examination itself.

Certainly it is desirable to keep a person's total radiation dose as low as possible. Yet it is also important to realize that the risks associated with an x-ray examination are small and have to be judged medically against the potential benefits from the x-ray procedure. Thus, if your doctor needs important diagnostic information about your condition and suggests an x-ray exam, radiation exposure should not influence the decision to conduct the examination.

You may wish to follow the guidelines suggested in "A Consumer's Guide to Avoiding Unnecessary Radiation Exposure.":

—Ask what identifiable benefit will result from a proposed x-ray exam.

—Ask if it is possible to use the results of previous x-ray tests instead of taking new exposures.

—You should express special concern about the need to x-ray children.

—If there is any possibility of your being pregnant, inform your physician or dentist. Don't wait to be asked.

—If you are pregnant, you should avoid all x-ray exams of the lower back or abdominal region unless there are strong indications of a serious condition.

—If other means of obtaining x-rays are available, avoid mobile units.

—Avoid fluoroscopy if your doctor says that ordinary x-ray films will provide adequate information.

—Question the need for routine pre-employment x-ray exams.

—Refuse to submit to dental x-rays as part of every routine checkup unless you have special problems or unless your dentist can justify the need for these x-rays.

—If you change dentists or are referred to a specialist, request that your new dentist obtain existing dental x-ray records.

ANIMAL ODDITIES

SAVING CROCODILES FASCINATES TOURISTS

Mercilessly hunted for its valuable skin, and with its enemies protected by conservation laws, the wild crocodile has been declared an endangered species in South Africa. So a vast recovery project has begun on a farm outside Pretoria which tourists are invited to visit, says the South African Tourist Corporation.

Although the biggest killer of humans in Africa is not the lion but the crocodile, a whole ecological chain depends on crocodiles. The operator of the rescue project, Jan-Gerd Kuhlmann explains that the crocodile's preferred diet is the barbel or catfish. Kill off the crocs and the barbel proliferate. The barbel then kill off surface fish like carp and kurper. So fish-eating birds then dwindle towards extinction or move elsewhere. (With no surface fish to eat mosquito larvae, there is also increased fever hazard.)

At the farm, appropriately titled "Croco," Kuhlmann and his wife, Hestrie, have raised over 2,000 crocodiles...so far. In nature only about one egg survives out of an adult female's clutch of 50 eggs a year. But, under farm conditions, in hot houses and nurseries, 49 will survive. At the age of 5 the crocodiles are delivered to the nearly 500 private game reserves in South Africa. The first 400 were recently released to a Transvaal Lowveld reserve.

Jan-Gerd Kuhlmann in playful mood with a ferocious-looking crocodile.

To educate the public about the vital importance of the preservation of the crocodile, Jan-Gerd gives a talk to the hundreds of schoolchildren and adult tourists who visit the farm about one of the few creatures to have survived from prehistoric times. Selected visitors can touch the baby crocodiles in the nursery, who will live for 100 and more years. Feeding time is the highlight for most visitors when the huge adult crocodiles heave out of the water to snap powerful jaws ferociously at great chunks of meat.

Tourists who just want to see crocodiles under natural conditions can travel South Africa's many national parks, taking their chances on a sighting—or they can visit the new Cango Crocodile Ranch just outside the ostrich center of Oudtshoorn on the road to the Cango caves.

AN INFORMATION LETTER TO:

1979 Sunflower Growers

Many seed dealers are talking of short sunflower seed stocks. This is true of certain varieties and brands. This is also true in certain local areas where dealers did not originally order enough quantity to supply their area.

In 1978 your St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator handled a total of 70,000,000 lbs. of sunflowers. Therefore they were aware of the potential 1979 sunflower business.

They put in a total of 475,000 lbs. of sunflower seed for 1979 planting. Of this amount 385,000 lbs. have been booked. This leaves a total of 90,000 lbs. of seed left to sell of which 80,000-lbs. are 894 - the most common number in sunflowers.

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator believes they will have enough good hybrid sunflower seeds to cover your needs at very competitive prices.

Thank You,
St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator

Heart Month

Today's Pacemaker Patients Let Their Fingers Do The Talking

Most of the half-a-million people around the world who have pacemakers controlling their heartbeats lead lives like those led by other people the same age. Pacemaker wearers climb mountains, are cheerleaders and even have run in the Boston marathon.

However, every so often the pacemaker wearer has to check in with his or her physician to monitor the performance of the heart and the tiny little device that controls the rate at which it beats.

Today, new advances in electronics and medicine let these patients check in with their doctor without ever leaving home. They do it by telephone.

A device called the telephone monitoring system allows the patient to send an instantaneous electrical report of both his heart and pacemaker performance to his physician. This transmission is made simply by dialing the physician's office, attaching sensors from the monitoring system to his fingers, and letting the monitor do the rest. It sends a high quality electrocardiogram and other information to the doctor's receiving unit.

When the physician, or his assistant, determines that an adequate measure of the patient's heart performance has been made a button is pressed which signals the patient to pick up the phone. After setting up another appointment (usually for a month or two later), the procedure is completed.

The patient is spared the time and much of the expense of an office visit. The physician is able to keep electronic tabs on his patient's performance.

Early models of this device required the placement of large electrodes under the patient's armpits. Often, to enhance electrical conductivity, they had to be dipped in a salt water solution. Needless to say, it was uncomfortable.

Today's advanced telephone monitoring systems are smaller and work with tiny finger-tip electrodes which simply slip on the finger of the patient. They are much more convenient, and they are more reliable, too.

In fact, for pacemaker patients, letting their fingers do the talking is the preferred way to make an office call to their physician.

This woman's heart is talking to her doctor. Both her heart function and pacemaker function are being instantaneously checked by a pacemaker monitoring clinic more than 30 miles away. Some pacemaker patients have even maintained their telephone monitoring schedule while thousands of miles away vacationing overseas.

Your Thriving Cooperative Is Helping Build A Strong Community.

CONGRATULATIONS

St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator
St. Hilaire & Thief River Falls

Because you probably take great pride in your community and the businesses there, you'll be glad to hear some news about the cooperative in town that serves the feed and livestock industry. The customers, employees, manager and directors of the cooperative have earned a place in the Land O Lakes-Felco Feed Champ Club.

That means your cooperative is one of a select group of over 150 cooperatives serving farmers with the Land O Lakes-Felco feeding program covering seven upper midwestern states. The Feed Champ Club is not just passed out to anybody and everybody. It's only possible because of the cooperation between the livestock producers, cooperative employees, managers and the cooperative board of directors. That cooperation can lead to even better things for the entire community.

Land O'Lakes says congratulations because you, your cooperative and your community can be proud of your feed and livestock industry and those in your cooperative that serve that industry.

Job Satisfaction In Nation Has Decline

Job satisfaction among workers in the U.S. declined significantly between 1973 and 1977, according to a "Quality of Employment Survey" produced for the U.S. department of labor.

The national survey, conducted by the University of Michigan's institute for social research and patterned after similar surveys conducted in 1969 and 1973, found that the job satisfaction decline was more pronounced in some groups than in others and was particularly notable among college graduates.

Lowest levels of job satisfaction in 1977 were reported by persons under age 30, black workers, semi-skilled, blue-collar workers and manufacturing industry employees.

Self-employed people reported high levels of satisfaction in 1977.

Commenting on these and other survey findings, secretary of labor Ray Marshall cautioned against drawing unduly pessimistic conclusions. "By and large, the majority of American workers are still quite satisfied with most aspects of their jobs," he said, but the decline in job satisfaction over the past four years is significant and cannot be ignored. It serves as a worning against complacency and a useful reminder that there is a continuing need for the labor department to promote energetically the improvement of conditions at work. This survey data will be of considerable assistance in considering the courses of action the department might take to achieve that objective,"

Designed to evaluate problems experienced in employment and to monitor worker well-being, the surveys are unique in their use of a national sample and in the breadth of their coverage.

In addition to measuring job satisfaction, they collect a wide array of information about such matters as wages and fringe benefits, working hours and work schedules, occupational safety and health and the nature of work performed.

Among other major findings from the 1977 quality of employment survey are the following:

Family income: About one in five workers judged their family income inadequate to meet their monthly expenses. Among black workers, however, the proportion was substantially higher — three in five.

Fringe benefits: Almost six out of 10 workers expressed a desire for improvements in their existing fringe benefits, with medical insurance, retirement programs, dental plans and paid vacations most frequently cited.

Wage tradeoffs: About half of the workers interviewed expressed willingness to trade a hypothetical 10 per cent pay raise for improved retirement benefits, better medical insurance or more paid vacation days. However, less than one in five would forego such a raise for less tiring work, more job autonomy or somewhat safer or more healthful working conditions.

Safety and health: More than three-fourths of the workers reported exposure in their employment to one or more of 13 listed safety and health hazards. An equal proportion felt that workers should have "complete say" or "a lot of say" in workplace decisions involving safety equipment and practices.

Underutilization: More than one-third of the respondents said they had skills they would like to use but could not use on their present jobs. Almost as many expressed the belief that they had more education than was required by their jobs.

Labor unions: If representation elections were to be held, about 70 per cent of the unorganized white-collar workers and 60 per cent of the unorganized blue-collar workers would not vote in favor of union representation. Although union members in 1977 expressed criticism of some aspects of their unions' performance, more than seven out of 10 reported that, all in all, they were either "Very" or "somewhat" satisfied with their unions.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration, a monitor-advocate had been established in every state employment security agency and every Labor Department regional office to help ensure migrant and seasonal farmworkers their rights and benefits.

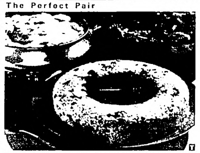
INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

The Perfect Pair



IDEAL COMBINATION — Molded and filled with fresh, green watercress, a colorful Confetti Rice Ring makes a bed of subtle taste for a seafood-rich sauce.

Rice and weddings, like love and marriage, go together in more than the traditional way these days. Rice is not reserved for throwing, but is frequently served at the wedding luncheon or dinner, and at parties for the bride as well.

Delicious and economical, rice is an appropriate accompaniment for almost any dish you might select for a wedding luncheon or dinner. And for buffet style entertaining, rice is ideal for hot creamed chicken or seafood served in chafing dishes.

Like many rice dishes, a cool delicious rice salad is a good choice, too. The rice can be prepared ahead, since cooked rice, covered and stored in the refrigerator, will retain its quality and flavor for six or seven days. Then just toss salad ingredients together a few hours before serving. According to the Rice Council, a half-cup serving of rice costs about 3 cents, so you can make a Classic Rice Salad that easily serves 25 for very little cost.

Simply mix together three quarts of cool, cooked rice, two cups of finely chopped onions, one and three-fourths cups finely chopped sweet pickles, 4 teaspoons salt and 1 teaspoon pepper, one quart mayonnaise, 4 teaspoons prepared mustard, one cup diced pimientos and 15 chopped hard-cooked eggs. Serve well chilled in your prettiest large bowl, garnished, and with a tray of lettuce cups for a serve-yourself affair.

To make a fancy Tuna Rice Salad that serves eight at a bridge brunch or bridal luncheon, mix two cups cooked rice with two six and a half- or seven-ounce cans of tuna (drained), a cup each of cooked green peas and sliced celery, and half a cup each of onions and mayonnaise. Season with salt and pepper to taste; add four or five drops of pepper sauce. Chill. For party service, fill tomato petals with tuna mixture. Top with bottled or homemade avocado dressing.

Some of the simplest ways of cooking rice are the best. As a side dish for meat and vegetables, it's always a tasty treat cooked in chicken or beef bouillon with a small chopped onion.

SEAFOOD SAUCE WITH CONFETTI RICE RING

2 cans (10-3/4 ounces each) condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 cup half-and-half (cream and milk)
2 bay leaves
1 pound peeled and deveined cooked shrimp
1 pound crab meat
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 to 8 drops Tabasco pepper sauce
Salt and pepper
1 cup chopped green peppers
3/4 cup sliced green onions
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup chopped pimientos
6 cups hot, cooked rice (cooked in chicken broth)

Combine soup, half-and-half, and bay leaves. Cook over low heat, stirring, until hot and smooth. Add shrimp, crab meat, lemon juice, pepper sauce, and salt and pepper to taste. Heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Discard bay leaves before serving. For Confetti Rice Ring, cook green peppers and onions in butter until soft but not brown. Add pimientos. Stir into rice; mix well. Pack rice mixture into a buttered 6-cup ring mold or individual molds (or custard cups). Turn out onto a heated platter and serve with seafood sauce. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

'Fringes' For Workers Triple Over 10 Years

Employee benefits once known as "fringes", now are a multibillion-dollar expense for U.S. employers. These expenditures more than tripled from 1967 to 1977, according to a new survey by the chamber of commerce of the United States.

The chamber has been making the biennial statistical study of benefits since 1947. The 16th in the biennial series has just been published.

Based on data from 748 companies and other information, the chamber estimates that employee benefits cost employers $310 billion in 1977, or 36.7 per cent of payroll and an average of $4,692 per employee per year. Total costs in 1967 were $100 billion.

The largest outlay continues to be for payments to workers for time not worked such as vacations, holidays and sick leave but not paid rest or lunch periods. These payments account for 9.5 per cent of payroll costs.

But the next largest chunk is one that is causing some concern and double-think these days — expenditures for employee benefits that are required under federal laws, such as social security taxes.

These account for nine per cent of payroll expenditures and include: Old age and survivors and disability insurance, $37.6 billion; hospital insurance, $6.9 billion; workmen's compensation, $10.0 billion; government employee retirement, $19.2 billion and unemployment compensation, $11.5 billion.

These costs — representing only amounts spent by employers — have been growing into a larger and larger share of all payroll costs. They grew to nine per cent in 1977 from 6.3 per cent in 1967, 3.7 per cent in 1957 and 0.8 per cent in 1929, when total benefits came to $1.5 billion.

Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist of the U.S. chamber, observes that employee benefits of all kinds have "substantially improved worker well-being and also have increased the cost of doing business."

In these inflationary times, it is well for Americans to bear in mind that these additional costs are inflationary to the extent that they are not offset by higher worker productivity.

Social security taxes, as well as other government social programs, have their price. So do vacations, holidays, other time off and employee benefits generally.

It is a trade-off. Somewhere down the road these benefits are supposed to make us happier, healthier and a more productive nation.

'U'M President Has 'Problems' With Budget

University of Minnesota President C. Peter Magrath says he "has problems" with the $394.9 million appropriation recommended for the university over the next two years by Gov. Albert H. Quie.

"We have real problems with certain aspects of the governor's recommendations as they now stand," Magrath told the Senate education committee chaired by Sen. Jerome Hughes, DFL-Maplewood, February 6.

"Our problems stem from the fact that in the 1970s, we've faced cutbacks totaling, in absolute dollars, $12 million at the same time as we face growing demand for our activities in research and service, enrollment that is steady and inflation that will be at least seven per cent," Magrath said.

University's request for about $11 million in price-level increases was not included in the governor's budget, Magrath said. He said cuts would have to be made elsewhere to cover price increases.

"We simply cannot operate where we are today without the price level increases which were projected at six per cent each year," he said.

Unemployment compensation, hazardous waste disposal and funds needed to maintain and operate new buildings were "fixed costs" in the university request that were not included in the governor's budget, Magrath said.

"I've never said this to a legislative committee as strongly as I'm saying it now: If we do not receive an adequate appropriation, the University of Minnesota is going to suffer and we are all going to suffer," Magrath said.

"Governor did make a number of recommendations for which we're very gratified," Magrath said, referring to research and book fund supplements included in the governor's budget.

Quie recommended a $939,000 supplement to university libraries to offset inflation in the costs of books and peridicals, and a $200,000 increase for the graduate school research fund.

Magrath's comments came in response to a question by Sen. Neil Dieterich, DFL-St. Paul, about the impact of the governor's recommendations, which are about $42 million less than what the university is requesting from the 1979 Legislature.

House DFL caucus leader Irv Anderson of International Falls mentioned the university in his reaction to the Quie budget last week. He noted that higher education was not mentioned in the governor's budget address.

"Governor's policy for higher education appears to be to starve it now, even though enrollments won't decline until the mid 1980s. Proposed University of Minnesota budget is so austere as to raise a very real question about the governor's intentions.

"Does he want the university to become a smaller, less ambitious state university rather than the regional, national and international center of learning and research it has been?" Anderson said.

Sen. Jerome Gunderson, DFL-Mabel, however, expressed concern that increases for the University of Minnesota would enhance its prestige, leaving the state university system at a greater competitive disadvantage for recruiting students within Minnesota.

Brain Death Bill Viewed As Threat To Poor

Proposal to cut off medical benefits to patients diagnosed as brain dead was criticized today as "an insidious threat to the low income population of Minnesota."

Nancy Koster, a spokesman for Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCL), said the legislation, authored by state Senators B. Robert Lewis and Allan Spear, "appears to view diagnosis of brain death as a cost cutting measure, which is an extremely frightening approach to medical care."

She said the legislation would discourage medical personnel from resuscitating patients whose chances for survival are judged slim because doctors and hospitals would fear financial and other liability.

She pointed out that under such a law, serious questions would arise as to when a patient becomes legally dead and thus no longer eligible for public assistance. "Since tests to determine brain death are usually administered more than once at 12 to 24 hour intervals, would the patient be dead when the second set of tests confirmed brain death, or would he have to be adjudged dead at the point the first tests were administered?" Mrs. Koster asked. "If he is dead at the earlier point, who pays for his subsequent care and is the doctor guilty of ordering useless treatment for a dead body?"

She said, "The proposal to deny assistance to the poor in such situations shows a callous disregard for low income people and their families. Surely there are more humane ways for the state of Minnesota to cut corners than to discriminate against those who can't pay their medical bills."

She said the proposal would not even be very effective in cutting medical costs because in the vast majority of cases it is not necessary to apply the brain death standard to determine death. Legislation would affect primarily poor patients on respirators. "It is hard to understand why the bill's authors would want to cut off financial aid in these few tragic cases," Mrs. Koster said.

MCCL also reaffirmed its opposition to proposed "definition of death" legislation facing the legislature. "We do not object to the medical concept that when a person's entire brain ceases to function totally and irreversibly, the person is dead," Mrs. Koster said, "but we do object to putting the state in the business of defining who is and is not dead."

She said Minnesota, like most other states, has never defined death by statute and that doing so now would set a revolutionary precedent for no good reason and would open the door to a number of potential problems and abuses.

"Physicians are already using brain death as a criterion in determining when someone has died, along with more traditional criteria, such as lack of respiration and heartbeat," Mrs. Koster said. "This approach has proved completely workable and there is no need for a brain death statute, which would always be vulnerable to revision to define death as something less than the irreversible loss of all the functions of the entire brain."

She pointed out also that medical advances are bound to make an statutory death definition obsolete. "What if 30 years ago the legislature had defined death as lack of respiration or heartbeat?" she asked. "How many patients now sustained by respirators and pacemakers would have to have been declared dead?"

Shaving Through The Ages

Beards have symbolized strength and manhood through much of history, but at times have been blamed as the cause of wars and taxes, credited as symbols of wisdom and patriotism.

A MODEL OF KING C. GILLETTE'S FIRST SAFETY RAZOR.

Modern technology has made shaving easier and more comfortable, which explains in part why only ten percent of American men sport beards today.

Before recorded history, men bravely faced sharpened clam shell edges or polished flint to achieve that cleanshaven look. The natives of Polynesia relied on finely honed sharks' teeth.

In ancient Egypt, as well as in Turkey and India, a beard was a sign of dignity and wisdom. Fashionable early Greeks also wore beards, but hairy faces met banishment when Alexander the Great ordered his soldiers to shave in the 4th century B.C. His reason? The beard was a "handle" by which the enemy could seize his men.

Beards flourished during the early 1800's, but when the safety razor's inventor, King C. Gillette, began working on his invention, most men were shaving again. Gillette's idea came one morning in 1895 when he tried to shave with a straight razor so dull he couldn't use it.

Gillette formed a company in So. Boston, Mass., to manufacture razors and blades and soon acquired a patent on his invention.

While successful from the start, sales really leaped with the U.S. government's unprecedented World War I order for 3.5 million razors and 36 million blades. It not only boosted the company's business but also irrevocably changed attitudes toward shaving among men who previously had depended on barbers to wield the straight-edged razor.

The razor blade has been improved many times since Gillette first manufactured them to fit his safety razor. Today Microsmooth blades, used on all Gillette twin-blade cartridges, are produced by a new ultrasonic honing process.

It microscopically rehones the very tip of the blade edge after it has been formed by conventional sharpening and honing techniques.

Ultra-high magnification and advanced testing techniques reveal that the tip of the blade measures less than one one-millionth of an inch and has a more uniform edge than any of its predecessors.

'U' Unhappy In Quie's Budget Suggestion

University of Minnesota officials will work to increase the $394.9 million appropriation that Gov. Albert Quie recommended for the institution over the next two years.

Governor's recommendation goes to the 1979 Legislature for consideration along with the University's request for $437 million for the biennium.

Observers say that in the past the governors' recommendations usually have been close to what was finally appropriated by the legislature.

University vice president Stanley B. Kegler, who is faced with the task of defending the request, said the University would be in "deep trouble" if the Quie recommendations were accepeted.

"With $20 million more in there, we would avoid deep trouble," Kegler said.

President C. Peter Magrath said he was "concerned" that the Quie Budget would continue an "erosion of quality" that many faculty members believe began in 1971, another year of tight appropriations for the University.

Magrath and Kegler said the University would continue to argue for the full request that was approved last summer by the board of regents.

"If we can't get some appropriations to meet inflation, then we are de facto cutting back," Magrath said about the Quie no-growth budget.

"The thing that initially troubles me the most is the governor's failure to recommend non-salary price level increases," he said. "Inflation affects every academic program, every department of the University."

University had requested $11.1 million for meeting cost increases throughout the five-campus system over the next two years.

University request and the Quie recommendation differ by about $42 million.

Quie deferred his decision on an additional $59 million of the University's requested increase, which includes such items as faculty salary increases, social security funds, rising fuel and utility costs and student tuition.

Quie recommended that tuition increase by 7 per cent in each year of the biennium. This would increase University income by about $10 million. Request included no assumptions about tuition income.

Decisions on a $41.9 million request for academic salary increases — 11 per cent in each year of the biennium — and about $5 million in requested social security increases were deferred until later in the year, when salary negotiations involving the state university system and community college faculties are to be completed.

"The request for a $2.3 million increase to meet rising fuel and utility costs was deferred, and the University will seek an appropriation for increasing energy costs from a contingency account to be administered by the legislative advosory commission."

Largest increase Quie recommended, Kegler said, was for a $2.5 million "base adjustment," which is to put on recurring funding a civil service pay plan approved by the state during the current biennium.

Quie's largest program increase recommendation was a $939,000 supplement to University libraries to offset inflation in the cost of books and periodicals, and he recommended a $200,000 increase for the graduate school research fund.

Magrath said he was gratified by these recommendations, which showed a recognition of the University's unitue position as a graduate and professional school.

Other increases that Quie recommended are: $923,000 for increased costs of skilled people hired on construction contracts; $280,000 for transit services; $263,000 for rental costs, $466,000 to meet federal requirements to get funds for the school of dentistry;

$477,000 for services for handicapped students, $600,000 for agricultural research; $600,000 to match federal money for surface mining research; $200,000 to seek federal money for a Sea Grant program on water research; $42,000 for the Gray Freshwater Biological Institute; and $14,000 for a training program for firefighters.

Quie recommended funding for 5.9 of the University's requested 227 new faculty and civil service positions.

Recommendation includes one academic position for the Freshwater Biological Institute, one half-time person for the Sea Grant program and four-tenths of a position for the fire education program.

Three new civil service positions were recommended to improve services for handicapped students and one civil service position was recommended for the Sea Grant program.

Magrath said he was concerned about $2.4 million that the University requested to pay for workers' and unemployment compensation over the coming biennium and to meet deficits already existing in these funds.

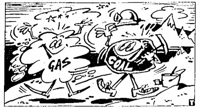
State officials say, however, that the University should budget internally for worker's and unemployment compensation, according to Dale Nelson, education coordinator for the state department of finance.

"To have granted the University what it asked for in this area would have been to treat the University preferentially," Nelson said.

No funds were recommended for women's intercollegiate athletics. Magrath said he would not take academic funds for sports, even if the legislature fails to fund this item of nearly $1.3 million.

Triumphs of Science

"IN SITU"—An Idea To Help Keep Costs Down, Air Quality Up



COAL GASIFICATION MAY MAKE IT POSSIBLE TO USE over 920 billion tons of unmineable coal.

Coal is the most plentiful of U.S. energy resources. Within the Rocky Mountain region alone, the estimated total of recoverable reserves is more than 3,250 billion tons.

Despite its abundance, approximately 85 percent of this coal exists in seams that are too thin or under earth cover that is too thick to make conventional mining techniques—underground mining or strip mining—economical. Thus, alternative methods of recovering these fossil fuel resources are being sought by government agencies and private industry working together.

One Massachusetts-based scientific corporation, EG&G, Inc., has been assisting the Department of Energy (DOE) in rendering that coal suitable for our use. The company is conducting materials research for "in situ" coal gasification projects at two federally developed sites in Hanna and Hoe Creek, Wyo.

"In situ" gasification, the most promising approach at this time, is a controlled burning of the coal where it lies in order to convert portions of it to low heat-content gas. It is more economical and practical to use such gas at the wellhead to produce electrical power and process heat than to transport it elsewhere for these purposes.

It is estimated that 920 billion tons of the unmineable coal in the western region can be used via such techniques.

"In situ" gasification has been tried with both coal and oil shale. At present, it shows particular promise for coal. Gasification techniques are also applicable to tar-sand deposits in the region.

The gasification technique entails the boring of two holes into the coal formation. One supplies air for burning, and one removes the product gas. The output is a variety of gases suitable for fuel and carrying heat usable in industrial and agricultural applications.

The conditions encountered during "in situ" burning can be exceedingly harsh. The materials employed both above and underground for the gasification systems are subjected to chemically active gases and temperatures of up to 2400° Fahrenheit.

Only through testing will scientists be able to identify suitable materials. EG&G Idaho, EG&G's largest division, is analyzing the effects of underground burning on candidate alloys for casings, gas lines, fittings and other systems componets. The various metal alloys are being evaluated to obtain data on total cost and service life.

In addition, the EG&G Energy Measurements Group, based in Las Vegas, has conducted aerial surveys of the coal gasification processes at both Wyoming sites. Utilizing special multi-spectral scanning equipment, their flights monitored the environmental effect of the coal conversion processes on the surrounding territory. These surveys were authorized by the DOE for the collection of information being used to develop state and federal statements on environmental impact.

In 1978, the EG&G Energy Measurements Group was also selected as technical support contractor for Energy Technology Center work on coal gasification and other energy-maximizing concepts.

Fear Of Obesity Can Lead To Starvation

by William Hoffman
U M News Service

More people every year starve themselves because they think they are getting fat.

These people suffer from a disease called anorexia nervosa. Anorexia means "loss of appetite," but it is a misnomer because anorexics suppress their appetites rather than lose them.

More cases of anorexia nervosa are reported every year, according to Elke Eckert, assistant professor of psychiatry at University of Minnesota Hospitals. She expects the number of reported cases to climb even higher as more doctors become aware of the clinical symptoms of the disease.

Anorexia nervosa is among the more mysterious psychological diseases. First cause to appear in medical literature was recorded nearly 300 years ago, yet doctors still don't know exactly what causes it. But its symptoms are familiar to the staff of the University of Minnesota anorexia treatment center, one of several such facilities in the country.

Anorexics are preoccupied with food and diet. Usually they are not overweight but they are deathly afraid of getting fat — so afraid that they eat foods with little nutritional value or stop eating altogether. Some anorexics gorge themselves and then induce vomiting. Others exercise excessively or use laxatives or diuretics.

In time they become severely emaciated, and without treatment they may die. Some anorexics die despite treatment, and some who are diagnosed early and treated over many years never resume normal lives, Eckert said.

Many anorexics think they are actually becoming fatter when they are starving themselves: the thinner they grow, the fatter they think they are, and the more resistant they are to treatment. Some of them love to cook but hate to eat. Some are so preoccupied with food that they steal and hoard it but don't eat it.

Another paradox of the disease is that its victims seem to have a lot going for them. Most are teenage girls from upper middle and upper class homes, and many are excellent students and are physically attractive. Only a small percentage of anorexics are male, and according to Eckert there has never been a reported case of a black anorexic.

"These girls are overachievers. They want to be perfect. They look very young and many are very attractive and bright," Eckert said. "But for some reason they cannot conform and instead regress to puberty, both physically and psychologically. The begin to look even younger."

Anorexics are "afraid of growing up" but at the same time "show a need for attention and independence, a need to gain control of their lives," she said. The sense that society and, particularly, their parents interfere with their freedom and their struggle for self-identity, yet they may behave obediently and feel obilgated toward their parents. They see society praising slenderness, and in becoming slender they feel they have demonstrated self-control and earned society's praise.

"There is a lot of denial in these girls, a lot of stubbornness and rebellion. About 60 per cent of them are obsessive-compulsive types. They see themselves as responsible only to other people, and they can't do things on their own. They see themselves as pawns of others," Eckert said.

Most anorexics begin by dieting. After dieting awhile they find that eating and gaining weight produces fear and anxiety about food. In some anorexics a food phobia develops. Othes will eat food but immediately throw it up.

Some victims become so emaciated that they require medical attention, although they may not think they do. Neither is getting a victim's parents to accept that fact always easy, Eckert said, and in some cases the victim is referred to a doctor by a teacher.

The anorexia treatment center gets referrals from all over the country and admits about 15 to 20 new patients to the program each year, Eckert said.

Psychotherapy is one of the techniques used in treating anorexic patients. Its objective, Eckert said, is to bring the patient to terms with her past and then reduce anxiety and eventually remove the phobia. "For example, in treating persons who are afraid of dogs, you first get them to picture a dog and put them at ease with the mental image." Once anxiety is reduced the irrational fear can be removed gradually.

But a food phobia takes a long time to cure, and psychotherapy is of little value if the patient is too emaciated. "You can't use psychotherapy on a patient who is about to die," she said. So at the early treatment state "lifesaving maneuvers" such as tube feeding are sometimes needed, although Eckert said she has had success with just a firm warning that tube feeding is the consequence of a patient's not eating.

Behavior modification is another short-term measure used to restore patients' lost weight. Through a system of rewards for eating, patients are conditioned to accept food and resume normal eating patterns. But the method has hazards, for some patients may feel they have been tricked into eating and react strongly.

Problems of anorexics often begin at home. Eckert noted that a strong mother-daughter dependency is common in the families of anorexics, as are bouts with depression and underlying conflicts among the menbers of such families. Family problems may be hidden and often include parents' reluctance to allow their daughter greater independence and responsibility as she matures.

Mortality rate among anorexics is between 5 and 15 per cent. About a third of them have a single episode and recover with or without treatment in three to five year, Eckert said. Another third are chronic sufferers who have recurring bouts with the disease for 10 to 15 years or more.

Once the patient's weight is brought back to normal, the delusion of being fat is often removed, she added, but anorexics who consistently see their bodies as larger than they really are become chronically ill. For them the outlook is dismal.

In a recent study the University's team, along with researchers from the Universities of Iowa and Chicago, found that behavior modification and medication were not effective forms of treatment overall, although they were useful in individual cases.

Effective long-range treatment will have to await better understanding of the causes of the disease. "A lot has been written about anorexia but there have been few systematic, controlled studies," Eckert said.

Right now some researchers are studying the physiological effects of anorexia, such as the role of the hypothalamus, the part of the brain that regulates appetite. Others are investigating the endocrine or hormonal imbalance that causes mentration to cease in many anorexics.

But why do an increasing number of young women withdraw into their own bodies and choose the road to starvation in the first place?

Hilde Bruch, whose most recent book "The Golden Cage: The Enigma of Anorexia Nervosa," was published last year, believes that part of the blame for the increase in anorexia rests with the women's liberation movement for the pressure it has put on women to be independent, Eckert said. "I think that the social preoccupation with food and diet may have something to do with it. Anorexia may be a form of fighting the obesity in our culture," she said.

Eckert contends that more public and medical education on anorexia is badly needed. When she was in medical school she had never heard of anorexia, "and that wasn't very long ago. Lots of general practitioners still don't know about it."

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Little Known Facts

You probably know, in a general way, a lot about Canada. But specifics—about Canada's most industrial and populous province? Did you know . . .

The Province of Ontario, bordering on four of the Great Lakes and Hudson and James Bays handles about 25 percent of all cargo loaded and unloaded in Canada.

Ontario accounts for close to half of Canadian investment income. The Province grew (gross product) at an average compound rate of 14.7 percent (1971-75).

The largest electrical utility in Canada, Ontario Hydro, is second in North America only to the TVA in dependable peak capacity and energy made available.

Ontario has one of the world's largest known reserves of uranium. Ontario Hydro is a world leader in the production of electricity from nuclear energy.

ONTARIO HYDRO

Ontario produces agricultural products with a gross value of $2.5 billion, and manufactures over 80 percent of Canada's steel.

Including the University of Toronto, Canada's largest, there are 22 institutions of higher education in Ontario—the largest number in the nation.

Billy Lee Lubitz Baptized

Billy Lee, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lubitz, became a child of God at a private baptism service officiated by Father Leon Rausch Sunday afternoon at St. Bernard's Catholic church. Present besides Terry and Joan Lutitz, Marie and Billy Lee, and Father Rausch were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rausch, and Mrs. Angeline Larson, godparents, Eldon and Maria Augustine, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rausch, Monica, Wayne, Melissa and Kristina. A luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rausch following the baptism ceremony for everyone in attendance.

The following gathered in the guest room at the Valley home Sunday afternoon to help Vernon Malberg celebrate his 80th birthday, which was February 2. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stoberg, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Meyer, Olaf Jorde, Mrs. Clara Jaennette, Mrs. Mabel Swanson, Mrs. Anne Muzzy and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Malberg. Mrs. Malberg had ordered a deocrated cake and the rest of the luncheon was pot luck. A very enjoyable, sociable afternoon was spent by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Johnson, Sheryl and Jeffry were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Lowell Naeseth home in Sanders.

Kent Kleinwachter of Strandquist spent Wednesday last week with his grandmother, Mrs. Lloyd Larson at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustafson at Viking. Other guests there were Mr. and Mrs. Lewayne Gustafson and boys of East Grand Forks.

We are sorry to report that Otto Rupprecht had to have a leg amputated at Northwestern hospital Friday morning.

Officials See Good Financial Aids Picture

Financial aids picture for college students and entering freshmen looks brighter then ever, according to Bemidji state university officials. In announcing the availability of applications, information packets and approaching priority dates, BSU financial aids director Robert Frazey noted awards will be made this year to many students who previously may have been ineligible.

November 1 President Carter signed into law a $1.2 billion budget item extending college grants and loans to middle-income students. Being heralded as one of the most landmark funding decisions affecting middle-income students since the GI bill in 1944, the action expands the basic education opportunity grant (BEOG) eligibility to students from families earning $15,000 to $25,000 a year and to additional independent students. It also removes the $25,000 income eligibility ceiling for interest subsidy under the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) program.

During the current 1978-79 academic year, over 3,000 BSU students will receive financial assistance totaling over five million dollars. Approximately 80 per cent of enrolled students are now receiving aid, with the average award figure being $1,707.

Financial aid available to new freshmen, transfer and upperclass BSU students falls into three categories:

1) Gift aid: basic educational opportunity grants, Minnesota state scholarships-grants, and institutional scholarships

2) Guaranteed student loan and national direct student loan: These loans do not require repayment while in school.

3) Student employment: Over 800 students are employed in various capacities on campus at all times during the academic year.

According to Frazey, high school seniors, community college students, and current BSU students planning to attend Bemidji state in the fall of 1979 should start the financial aid application process now. Forms and instructions have been mailed to Minnesota high school and community college counselors in preparation of the March 1, 1979 priority filing date.

Frazey recommends all prospective students fill out the ACT family financial statement and the BSU financial aid application. Parents cooperation, he commented, is needed to complete income information, which should be taken directly from the 1978 federal income tax forms.

Anyone wishing more information, or brochures describing the various programs, may contact their high school or community college counselor, or the BSU Financial Aids Office, Deputy Hall 106, Bemidji State; phone 218-775-2034.

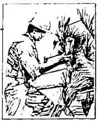
THE FOREST AND YOU

This article has been prepared by Georgia-Pacific, the growth company interested in protecting our natural resources.

The demand for wood products has risen 70 percent in the last three decades according to a recent U.S. Forest Service survey, and the demand will continue to rise. People are using more and more wood products every year. In addition, the world population is increasing steadily, and many developing nations are vying for the thousands of products made from wood. As a result, some experts predict, the demand for wood products will double between now and the year 2020.

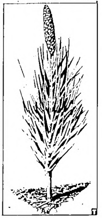
The trees to meet that burgeoning demand are being grown now — fast.

Nature grows very few superior trees per acre — in some areas, maybe only one in 25,000 acres. These trees grow taller, are healthier and have more usable wood fiber than surrounding trees of the same age. Foresters take cone-bearing branches called scions from these superior trees and graft them on young, healthy stock. The smaller trees are relatively easy to work with. When buds or "flowers" develop on the grafted trees, they are covered and protected to prevent random pollination. Then they are dusted with pollen from other superior trees. The resulting seeds are superior to ordinary seeds, and when planted, they become super seedlings.



FORESTERS SELECT SPECIAL BRANCHES from superior trees.

Mature trees bear seeds in erratic cycles, averaging one good crop every four years after age 20. Seeds from abundant crops are kept by forest products companies for planting in "off" years. To date, one company has planted more than 131 million superseedlings. Special plantings include Douglas fir, Western hemlock, Port Orford cedar, coast redwood, Southern pine, true fir and Eastern spruce. Additionally, millions of new seedlings are growing in nurseries across the country, and seed for millions of supertrees is in storage.



SUPERSEEDLINGS are created when those better branches are grafted and mated.

These superseedlings are often eight times larger at the age of six months than natural seedlings of the same age, and they're also a lot tougher. Supertree seedlings have a remarkable survival rate. They'll become very special trees. More than special, they'll be super.

Private Sector New Hires Hit Over 70 Million

Number of new hires in the private economy — other than agriculture — totaled more than 70 million in 1978, according to the most comprehensive such study ever made, the U.S. department of labor has announced.

This is the first time that an estimate of total U.S. new hires in the non-agricultural private sector has ever been available, according to assistant secretary of labor Ernest G. Green.

The study indicated that the average firm hires almost as many workers in a year as its average employment. (New hires include replacement hires as well as hires for new jobs.)

A second major finding was that only about one-third of all new hires last as long as nine months. This is significant for the design and evaluation of employment and training programs, according to the employment and training administration (ETA), which sponsored the study.

The study was commissioned by ETA's United States employment service (USES) to better identify the different labor markets in which the affiliated state job services provide services throughout the country.

The results will be used to measure labor market penetration by the state job services and to plan and allocate these services more effeciently, according to William B. Lewis, administrator of the USES in the employment and training administration.

The study's principal investigator was Dr. Malcolm Cohen, of the institute of labor and industrial relations at the University of Michigan. Dr. Cohen pointed out that the annual rate of new hires by all private nonagricultural firms was nearly 100 per cent of the average employment in these firms in 1978.

But Cohen noted that there is dramatic variation in new hire rates across industries and states. Some industries, such as communications, public utilities, and air transportation, have new hire rates of less than 32 per cent per year. Other industries, such as building construction, eating and drinking places, amusement and recreation establishments and hotels and motels have rates in excess of 220 per cent.

According to the study, annual new hire rates vary by state from two new hires per employed worker (200 per cent) in Wyoming to a 48 per cent rate in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

The University of Michigan study differs from existing bureau of labor statistics (BLS) estimates of the rate of new hires in two important ways, Cohen explained. First, the Michigan study includes all industries, not just manufacturing. Second, the study is based on quarterly administrative wage records from social security and state employment security files.

The BLS statistics on new hires are based on information directly reported by a sample of employers and are used primarily as a measure of change (economic indicators) while the Michigan study is used primarily as a measure of level to gauge how adequately the state employment agencies are serving the local labor market.

The estimates for new hires for manufacturing were 40 per cent higher in the Michigan study than the estimates derived from rates of new hires published by BLS. Further work is needed to evaluate the differences between the two estimates which are based on different sources of data, different concepts and different needs.

Marriage Penalty In Tax Continues

Tax treatment that is fair for everyone continues to elude even the most determined tax reformers. Once again Congress has worked long and hard at reshuffling the tax laws, still no one would describe the results as a new deal, equitable to all, according to the Minnesota society of certified public accountants.

An example of old inequities that persist is the "marriage penalty," which causes married couples to pay more taxes than two unmarried individuals with the same income, exemptions and deductions.

This was not an intended result. It was an inadvertent side effect of efforts to correct a previous imbalance resulting from still earlier adjustments in the tax code.

The chain of unsuccessful attempts at achieving fair treatment for married and unmarried alike began in 1948, when it was decided that families should be treated as single economic units, with family income taxed as though each spouse had earned half of it, thus sharply reducing the tax rate in cases where one spouse, in fact, earned the bulk of the income.

The income-splitting option gave such families an advantage over those in which both spouses earned roughly equal incomes, and an even bigger advantage over single individuals.

The latter protested this treatment and continued to do so until 1971, when Congress granted a more favorable rate for the single individual, thus putting the shoe on the other foot once more.

Since 1971 it has been working couples' turn to protest, and they have been doing so as successive administrations have wrestled with the problem, so far to no avail.

Congress has resisted various solutions that have been offered, partly because it feared they would lead to excessive loss of tax revenues, but chiefly because changing the rules would violate the principle of progressivity, which requires that taxes be levied according to the ability to pay.

With the issue unresolved, what can married couples who both have incomes do to minimize their taxes?

Forget about filing singly; the marriage penalty for that is even worse than with a joint return. Forget also getting a "quickie" divorce in December and then remarrying in January so that at year end you are "single." Internal revenue service has ruled such divorces, obtained solely for tax reasons, are a sham and has decided they do not alter a couple's tax status.

What, then, can working couples do?

First, they can be extra diligent in identifying business deductions. With two people employed in the family there is twice as much likelihood of job-related deductions, such as business travel and entertainment.

If you have young children or a disabled adult you have to hire someone to look after so that both of you can hold jobs, look into the child-care credit. With two or more qualifying dependents this credit could be worth as much as $800, depending on your income level.

If one of you began working again in just the past year or so, it's possible that your combined incomes have taken a big jump in 1978. If so, you may be eligible for income averaging. This permits you to calculate your tax bill for the current year by assuming that you earned the income over a five year period; i.e. the current and preceeding four years.

If one of you is self-employed, consider protecting part of your income from being taxed now by putting it in a Keogh-type pension fund. Or if either of you is not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan, you might be able to defer until retirement the taxes on some income by setting up an individual retirement account.

Give extra attention to the tax aspects of your investments. There is a world of difference among ways of financing your future. Many far-out investment schemes do not really shelter you from taxes; they simply push the taxes into another year, when your tax rate may be even higher than it is now. But there are tax shelters that are perfectly sound — real estate and petroleum development ventures, for example, that offer tax breaks because Congress intended that they should. Talk over investments with your financial advisor — in advance.

Working couples, and other taxpayers with higher than ordinary incomes, have reason to be concerned not just with their 1978 taxes but with those in future years, as well. For them, tax planning is a year-round necessity.

Italian Style Entree Combines Beans, Sausage, Pasta

To prepare, simply brown the sausage and saute green pepper, onion and garlic. Add cooked pasta. Canned tomatoes make a light sauce flavored with full-bodied seasonings.

Beans, when combined with protein from meat, eggs, milk or other foods of animal origin, provide a balanced protein source. They contain iron, calcium, phosphorus, potassium and some of the B vitamins, as well as fiber, so necessary for maintaining a healthy digestive tract.

In soups and salads, casseroles and chili, beans fuse deliciously with other flavors and adapt to a variety of cooking methods. There are twelve major varieties of Western dry beans from which to choose: dark and light red kidney, pink, pinto, small white, navy, baby and large limas, blackeye, garbanzo, red and great northern beans.

Italian Beans And Sausage

- 1 can (15-1/2 oz.) dark red kidney beans
- 1 can (15-1/2 oz.) garbanzo beans
- 1 pound Italian sausage
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 4 oz. fettuccine or wide egg noodles, cooked and drained

Drain beans. Brown sausage; remove and drain all but 1 tablespoon fat from skillet. Saute green pepper, onion and garlic in fat until tender. Drain and chop tomatoes, reserving liquid. Combine beans, sausage, vegetables, tomatoes and liquid, seasonings and noodles in skillet. Mix well and heat through. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Hetteen Receives Community Award

SPECIAL PLAQUES were received by Richard (Bud) Evans as new president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce and Arnold Narverud (right) as past president at the annual dinner meeting of the chamber Wednesday. Narverud's past president's plaque was a standard appreciative gesture of the organization. Evans' award, purported to be a congratulatory gift from the junk dealers of America, included a steel bolt, kernels of grain, a patch of fur and a tuft of wool. Evans operates Evans' Seed, Wool and Fur company and deals in steel as well as scrap metals.

Edgar Hetteen, founder of Arctic Enterprises, received the L.B. Hartz community service award and Richard (Bud) Evans ascended to the presidency of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce when the annual dinner meeting of that organization was held Wednesday evening at the Best Western Inn.

Jerry Wigness served as master of ceremonies for the program with Rev. Berton Hushagen of Trinity Lutheran church presenting the invocation. Arnold Narverud, 1978 president of the chamber of commerce, presented awards for service during the past year, including those to committee chairmen.

A special award was made to Deb Matero, associate county extension agent, for her efforts in assisting the chamber of commerce in staging a highly successful farm wives appreciation night program in 1978.

Appreciation was expressed to past directors Jack LaSalle, Stan Upham and Ev Ault whose terms expired during the past year. Welcomed and introduced as new members of the board were Jerry Hendrickson, Bill Hogan, Jerry Bolin and Sue Fredeen.

Other board members whose terms of office continue into 1979 are Bill Duckworth, Phil Hess, Dr. Milton Hoff, Jim Carlson and Dr. Hal Freeman. Board members representing organizations are Clayton Restad, city council; Robert Flynn, Jobs Incorporated; Larry McDowell, School District 564; Don Grabanski, county board of commissioners; Jim Bowen, Jaycees; and Muriel Olin, Jaycee Women.

Introducing Edgar Hetteen as winner of the L.B. Hartz community service award, Richard Trudeau, past president of the chamber of commerce, summarized Hetteen's relationship to the Thief River Falls community. He summarized how Hetteen and his brother had a machine shop in Roseau, building straw choppers for combines and making other equipment.

At the request of Pete Peterson, a Roseau businessman who asked them to design and build a motorized device which would take him into the woods to do his hunting, the Hetteens and Dave Johnson built a cumbersome, heavy metal contraption with skis and a track which would transport people and pull a load over the snow. Edgar tested the machines

EDGAR HETTEEN (left) was presented with the L. B. Hartz community service award from the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce at the organization's annual dinner meeting Wednesday evening at the Best Western Inn. Making the award was Richard Trudeau, past president of the chamber of commerce. The community service award is not made annually by the organization but is presented to selected individuals who have made exceptional contributions to the community in one way or another. Hetteen, as the founder of Arctic Enterprises, initiated an industry here which has had a huge financial impact on the community. He is also an enthusiastic supporter and promoter of Thief River Falls.

64 Entered In Cherry Baking Contest Here

Sixty-four entrants took part in the cherry baking contest held Saturday as part of the President's Bargain Blitz promotion, sponsored by the retail business association of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce.

There were four divisions: Pies, bars, cakes and cookies and three winners in each division, plus prizes for the oldest and youngest entrants and those from the greatest distance. Prizes were $25 savings bonds.

The winners, by division were:

Pies — Mrs. Pat England, Karlstad, first place; Mrs. Henry Williams, city, second place and she also was the oldest contestant; and Mrs. Melba Penning, city, third place.

Bars — Marcia Larson, city, first place; Ann Nabben, city, second place, and she also won the prize for the youngest entrant; and Michelle Trontvet, third place.

Cakes — Deb Matero, city, first place; Julie Peterson, city, second place and Joni Mosbeck, Red Lake Falls, third place.

Cookies — Merrilee Olson, city, first place; Mrs. Margaret Rupprecht, city, second place; and Melody Rupprecht, city, third place.

Mrs. Audrey Johnson, Hallock, won the prize for bringing an entry the greatest distance. Ann Nabben is eight years old and Mrs. Williams is 75 years old.

Judges for the event were Gladys Hallstrom, Dr. Orion Beich and Jim Carlson. Promotion chairman Duane Walton termed the first cherry baking contest an "outstanding success" and said it will continue to be a part of this annual event.

There were 12 entrants in the pie division, 25 with bars, 14 entering cookies and 13 cakes.

Hiebing Resigns Directorship At NW Library

The Northwest regional library board of trustees has accepted the resignation of Dottie Hiebing, director of that system since 1976.

Hiebing left to accept the position of public library consultant - continuing education with the Wisconsin division of library services headquartered in Madison.

During her two years as director, the Northwest regional library grew from a three-county system to a five-county system with branches in six locations. A new bookmobile was purchased and a mail-a-book program instituted to more adequately serve the rural residents in the area. Programs and other activities increased substantially in all the libraries under her direction.

Hiebing was also active in state and national professional organizations as well as several local organizations in Thief River Falls.

Hiebing told the board that her decision to leave the library was a very difficult one to make because of the satisfaction she has derived from serving as director and because of her many friends in the area. After regretfully accepting her resignation the board of trustees made plans to begin a nationwide search for a new director. During the interim Julie Anne Chase, assistant director will be acting director.

Post High Grants Are Expanded

"If your son or daughter will be graduating from high school this coming May or June, and has tentative or final plans for attending school after high school, it could be very helpful to your family financially if you complete the parents' part in either the family financial statement (FFS) or the financial aid form (FAF)," states Whitey Olson, Lincoln high school guidance director.

"In that the Minnesota state scholarship and grant-in-aid program is affiliated with the FFS, most student-parents will be using this form which was mailed directly to the senior's home in December of 1978'., he said. "If this form has been lost or you did not receive one, your high school principal or guidance office has extra forms available. In Thief River Falls contact the Lincoln high school guidance office. The priority date deadline for the Minnesota program is March 1, and it is strongly urged that parents use information from their filed 1978 income tax return in completing their son's or daughter's FFS."

With the passage of the middle income student assistance act by Congress and its signing into law by President Carter on Nov. 1, 1978, the basic educational opportunity grant program (BEOG) extends eligibility to families with adjusted gross income up to $25,000, Olson explained. Previously the income limit was about $15,000.

"It is anticipated that this expansion of eligibility for the BEOG will add an additional two million dollars in financial assistance to Minnesota students. BEOG grants range from $200 to $1,800. By completing questions 89 and 90 on the FFS with a 'yes' the procedure if completed for applying for the BEOG," he said.

With the BEOG providing more dollars for students, the Minnesota scholarship and grant monies will go further to meet needs of more students. The Minnesota program provides scholarships and grants ranging from $100 to $1,100. (Priority date deadline of March 1.)

It should be noted that a combination of the BEOG and Minnesota state scholarship and grant program can not exceed 75 per cent of a student's need.

The new middle income student assistance act also allows families with income over $25,000 to borrow monies under the federal insurance loan program (FIL) to interest free. Repayment starts nine months after compeltion or termination of their education. No financial aid forms, such as the FFS, need be completed for the FIL. Most local banks provide this service.

Parents who have questions are urged to contact either Ken Wiebolt at Northland community college (681-2181), Bob Reeve at the Thief River Falls AVTI (681-5424), Whitey Olson at Lincoln high school (681-2700) or the student's home high school.

Merle Lundeen Family Named Honor Dairymen

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When some people make the claim that they were born and raised on the farm they own, they don't mean it as literally as Merle Lundeen does. He was born "in the corner of the kitchen where the refrigerator is now" and has made the southeastern Pennington county residence his home all his life.

Merle and his wife Armilla have been selected as honor dairymen from Pennington county for 1979 and were recognized Friday at the honor diarymen banquet sponsored by the Red River Valley Dairymen's association at the Red River Valley Winter shows in Crookston.

While Merle and his wife accepted the honor for the family Friday, both are quick to call attention to the other family members who make the dairy operation work. There are five Lundeen children at work on the farm and two others have gone through the work program, married and moved away from home.

"Without the kids there wouldn't be any dairy herd, and that's a fact," Merle says. He has a bad back that gives him trouble and the five youngsters — from 17-year-old Anthony to 11-year-old Dale — handle most of the actual herd operation.

Sixteen-year-old Barbara, a junior at Oklee high school, has been in charge of the milking for the past year. She took over that job from her sister Gayle, new Mrs. Greg Hilgeman, who farms with her husband 12 miles northeast of Oklee. Anthony works with the milking and other chores as well while 15-year-old Perry is referred to by Merle as "my herdsman". Thirteen-year-old Jeffrey and 11-year-old Dale are also called upon to help.

For a number of years the Lundeens have been building their herd back from a devastating disease loss. They have been DHIA members for 17 years and Merle was among the group which helped form the Pennington DHIA unit in about 1963. He served as an officer of the association in its early years and recruited a number of members to keep the group functioning.

This year the herd average at the end of the testing year was 488 pounds, down slightly from the nearly 500 pounds hit at one time during the year. The herd had five cows which topped the 600 pounds of butterfat production mark during 1968, including the top animal which produced 18,472 pounds of milk and 642 pounds of butterfat.

In 1977 the Lundeen herd was recognized for having the largest increase in butterfat production over a three-year period — increasing by 77 pounds. They had received the same award in 1975.

"That's not as impressive as it sounds," Merle says, "because we are probably lower than we should be and it's easier to show increases at this level." But the Lundeen family is putting sound management practices to work and with increasingly better replacement heifers the herd's production should continue to climb.

Merle contracts with the Animal Analysis association to study his herd and reveal its weaknesses. He then selects the sires from artificial insemination firms which should strengthen the offspring in those areas of weakness. There is room in the barn for 48 cows but the Lundeens are milking 33 at the present time.

The barn used for the Lundeen dairy operation was built in 1941. It was increased in size in 1964 when it was also extensively remodeled, including new drinking cups, new stalls and a barn cleaner. A milk house had been built and bulk tank installed in 1961, but with the remodeled barn in 1964 the farm went to a Grade A operation.

In 1977 another change took place when a pipeline milker system was installed and a manure pump system put into use. In 1978 a 700 gallon bulk tank replaced the orginal unit. The new tank is energy efficient in that it uses heat from cooling the milk to heat water for barn and milk house use, including cleaning of the milk transport pipeline.

The Lundeen farm is strictly dairy. Merle bought ehe 320 acre farm from his father, Emil Lundeen, in 1959. He has since added another 160 acres and rents 80 acres more. Almost all of the land is open and that open land is drained with a system of surface ditches installed with SCS assistance. The farm is self-sufficient in that all hay and feed is raised on the farm, and everything raised is intended for use by the cattle. No cash grain crops are planted.

Each year on the farm there are approximately 200 acres of alfalfa hay, 200 acres planted to a mixture of oats and barley for feed, and 100 acres of pasture. The pastures are rotated and are seeded to tame grasses. There are two stockwater ponds (with another to be built this year) and some tree planting has been done for a farmstead winbreak.

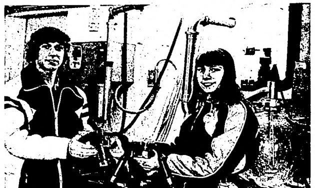
Merle is also getting into the HONOR DAIRYMEN for Pennington county who were honored Friday at the Red River Valley winter shows at Crookston are Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen of rural Trail. They are shown looking over the production records of their cattle which are on test with the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association. Merle and Armilla received their recognition plaque at the winter shows banquet sponsored by the Red River Valley Dairymen's association.



PIPELINE MILKER system installed in 1977 has been a work saver on the Merle Lundeen farm, located about four miles southeast of the River Valley bridge in southeastern Pennington county. Anthony (17) and Barbara (16), who share the milking duties for the 33-cow herd, show the equipment in the milk house on the farm. A 700-gallon bulk tank was installed in 1978 and the energy-efficient unit uses heat from cooling the milk to heat water for use in the milk house and barn.

Legion-Auxiliary Donate $5340 To Heartbeat Fund

This amount, the post and unit's "fair share" based on three dollars per member, included $3072 contributed by the post and $2268 by the unit.

Operation Heartbeat was launched 25 years ago by the American Legion and its auxiliary. Its purpose was to establish an American Legion Memorial heart research professorship at the University of Minnesota medical school for the study and research of heart diseases and rhumatic fever in children. A goal of $500,000 was set. This was met. Later, in order to establish a permanent professorship in research at the University of Minnesota, a second goal of $500,000 was set. When this goal is reached, with the competition date set for March 1, the amount will total a million dollars.

Several major breakthroughs have been made possible by the American Legion heart research program. Through this program Dr. Robert A. Good directed the first successful bone marrow transplant in 1968. Other life saving techniques have been discovered. What began as a basic heart research program led doctors and scientists to study the body's immune system, leading to treatment and cure of unusual and recurring infections such as otis media (inner ear infections) lukemia and cancer.

In 1974, Dr. Paul Quie, professor of pediatrics, microbiology and pathology at the University of Minnesota, was appointed to succeed Dr. Good as the American Legion heart research professor. He expects the research program to provide enough new information that people with ineffective white cells can be supplied with the missing blood factors.

Mrs. Roger Fuller Awaits Roger's Return From Iran

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Milbank Grand County Review, Milbank, S.D.

"We got out before it was a bad experience," said Mrs. Roger (Rosann) Fuller (daughter-in-law of Mrs. Tom Fuller of Thief River Falls) commenting on the hasty departure she and her two children, Barry and Amy, had made from Tehran, Iran, in December. With rioting throughout the city and gun fire punctuating the night air, Roger Fuller decided it was time to send his family out of the country.

Mrs. Fuller was ready to go. She had packed her bags a month earlier before the rioting became so severe. On December first, shots could be heard from all sections of the city after curfew. The English and Irish families that lived in the Fullers' 14-family neighborhood had left in August.

On December third, Roger put his wife and children on a German airline for Frankfort, where they were met by her brother, Capt. Larry Johnson, and taken to Gelhausen to join his family. Roger, who remained on his job in Tehran, joined them there for a 10-day Christmas holiday. He then returned to Tehran and Mrs. Fuller and the children flew to South Dakota. After a week's visit there with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E.A. Johnson, formerly of Thief River Falls, they left for their former home at Jackson, Mich.

The Fullers went to Tehran in November of 1977 when Roger was named project manager for his Michigan based firm contracted to build two power plants in Iran. Attacks on Americans began shortly after the Fullers arrived but they felt they were in no danger as long as they stayed off the streets when there were demonstrations.

Shortly after she left Iran, Fuller invited a deputy project manager and his wife to move in with him and share the rent, which is terribly high. Since their home is located eight blocks from the Shah's palace, she at first, felt no concern for the safety of her husband. She felt that the tanks that guarded the palace area would also provide security for her husband.

All the homes in their area were built of brick. Theirs was a three-story residence with spacious rooms. Their furniture was purchased by the firm which employes Fuller. In her hurried exit, Mrs. Fuller left behind her cooking utensils, dishes, and linens.

Heating oil costs about 13.7 cents per gallon, but due to the oil workers strike, fuel oil and cooking gas are very short. Upon their arrival in Tehran, Fuller was assigned a driver to take him to and from work. The driver always knew the routes to take to avoid trouble and the days when it was best to stay at home and out of danger.

During the last days Mrs. Fuller was in Tehran, the taxi driver who took her shopping asked that the children's blond hair be covered and that she cover her head also. He feared that rioters might attack or throw objects at his taxi if they discovered he was transporting Americans.

Mrs. Fuller regrets that political strife shortened her stay in Iran. There were so many interesting places that she and the family had hoped to visit before returning home. They had enjoyed a vacation trip to Israel in October and in July, they had spent some time at the Caspian Sea and visited Pahlavi Dej.

For the children, Barry, 10, a fifth grader, and Amy, seven, a second grader, education went on as usual in an American school taught by "super" teachers.

Most of the friends the Fullers enjoyed were people they met through their Lutheran church and included Lutherans of the Missouri, ALC and LCA synods. "Though we did have some lively discussions, we all took communion together," commented Mrs. Fuller. About 130 attended the services. Many of the members were military families. The pastor had gained entrance to Iran as a teacher, since clergymen were not issued passports into that country. When Mrs. Fuller and the children fled from Tehran, the pastor's wife was also one of the evacuees.

In Iran, women still wear garments known as chador, which cover them completely, except for the eyes. Women of higher education are getting away from this custom, but on high holidays they also wear the costume out of respect. American women were advised to wear a scarf on their heads, long-sleeved blouses and ankle-length pants when they went out in public on holy days.

In the super markets, all the help spoke English; but this was not the case in little stores. Mrs. Fuller estimated that she had accumulated about 200 words in Farsi, the official language very similar to Arabic. She was able to make herself understood in the market but didn't get to the conversational stage as it wasn't necessary.

While there were many fruits and vegetables available in the markets, great care had to be taken in preparing them for use. It was possible to buy five or six heads of lettuce for less than a dollar; but before using it, the lettuce had to be soaked for 20 minutes in rocal, a product similar to chlorox, washed in water containing a tablespoon of Tide, and then rinsed thoroughly. The lettuce was very good, but did not keep well. The same treatment was used in preparing fruit.

The Fullers found some of the Iranian food was very tasty. A favorite was lamb marinated, broiled and served with rice. Some fanciers preferred a raw egg dropped onto the hot rice. A breakfast treat among the Iranians was beets, which could be purchased from peddlers who cooked the beets in carts along the streets.

One big change for the Fullers was getting accustomed to the fact that all bread was unleavened. Although it was good, it crumbled easily. A favorite was barbari bread, which had to be broken rather than cut. A huge sheet could be bought for 15 cents. Since it didn't keep, only a meal's supply was bought each time.

They found most desserts unpalatable as they contained rose water, giving them a horrid taste.

During her last weeks in Iran, Mrs. Fuller experienced some "Americans go home," attitude from taxi drivers and shopkeepers. At night, the Fullers listened from open windows to determine where the rioting was taking place. "Although it seemed to be coming from all over the city, we wondered if some of the noise and shooting sounds had been recorded and was being played over loud speakers in the mosques." The day before they left, heavier gun fire could be heard. On December 3rd, the electricity went off and the city became quiet. It was then that Fuller decided his family must leave immediately.

Since arriving home, Mrs. Fuller had had reassuring messages from Gilbert Commwealth company, the company which employs Fuller, stating that her husband is in no danger. The firm contacts its office in Tehran by phone each Tuesday and then relays messages for its six workers there and the families here. The company also provides special mail service to its employees.

The stay in Iran was an experience the Fullers will look back upon with many colorful memories, especially once Fuller is back at Jackson and the family is reunited again."

(After contacting Fuller's mother this morning (Monday) she stated Roger had called her last night about eleven o'clock stating that he had just arrived at his home in Jackson, Mich.)

Newcomers Club Morning Coffee Set for Tuesday

Newcomers club coffee will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m., at the home of Kathy Turner, 111 Kenwood court.

The event was announced on Tuesday at a meeting of the club held at the home of Eleanor Kuchowicz. President Jane Rockstad presided at the brief business session which included her resignation. It was decided that vice president Jean Shaffer will fill her office until the end of the term.

Report on the spring dance, set for May, was given by the committee composed of Dee Winter, Kathy Turner and Val Vloemen. They stated that the date and place will be announced at a later date, and that letters solicitating door prizes are being mailed.

Members were also reminded that reservations for the Newcomers luncheon, to be held March 3 at 12 noon at Thebothofus, must be made by March 1. Reservations may be made by calling Jan Quinlivan 681-6080.

The meeting concluded with the presentation of a set of coasters to Jan Rockstad in appreciation for serving as club president for the year. The door prize was won by Dedee Hallada. Following a money-making event for the club, lunch was served by Mrs. Kuchowicz.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held March 13 at 8 p.m., at the Elks club. On the agenda will be election of officers. Those interested in any particular office are asked to contact one of the current officers.

Homemakers Of Rocksbury Discuss Coming Events

February meeting of the Rocksbury homemakers club was held recently at the home of Clara Voldness with Goldie Breiland as co-hostess. Mrs. Breiland, who is vice-chairman of the club, presided at the meeting. The homemakers creed was read by Seneva Engelstad.

Several coming events were announced and discussed. It was noted that an open meeting based on understanding perscription drugs will be held February 23 at 1:30 p.m., at the Pennington county court house meeting room; that the women's activities at the Valley Winter shows will include a women's seminar on February 21 and a Senior citizen day and Horticultural meeting on February 20; and that an exhibition, "People of the Plains," featuring original artwork and articrafts from 1820-1850, will be on display at the Northwest regional library through March 15.

It was also noted that Olga Engelstad, a member of the club, had made a number of lap robes which had been donated to residents of Oakland Park Nursing home.

The lesson, "Making a house a home — adding a personal touch," was presented by Minnie Krause. Members added interest to the lesson by displaying articles, both decorative and useful, which they had brought from home. Also adding interest were slides featuring different ideas in decorating the home.

During the social hour, the happy birthday song was sung for Hildur Lain, whose birthday was that day, the door prizes were given to Dolly Mead and Gladys Heinze, the lunch was served by the hostesses.

Members attending, in addition to those already mentioned were Julia Finstad, Gena Gunderson, Ann Gunderson, Viola Husby, Gloria Johnson, Ivadell Reierson and Inga Geving.

Direct Viewing Of Eclipse Can Cause Blindness

Direct viewing of the upcoming total eclipse of the sun on February 26th can cause immediate and permanent blindness, warns Raymond C. Croissant, M.D., president of the Minnesota association of ophthalmology.

Ophthalmologists, physicians and surgeons who specialize in eye care, are particularly concerned about young people improperly observing the eclipse, the last one to be visible from the continental United States during this century.

Contrary to popular belief, sunglasses, photographic film, smoked glass or other devices are not safeguards against the direct rays of the sun, Dr. Croissant said. Young people viewing the eclipse without proper adult supervision and safeguards could be injured permanently.

"When looking directly into the sun, the eye focuses the light on the retina and heats it. It has the same effect as focusing the sun's rays on a piece of paper through a magnifying glass and produces the same results. A very small area of the eye is literally 'cooked' and this area is the part you use for reading and all close vision," he said.

Eclipse blindness cannot be cured, but it can be prevented with a few simple precautions," Croissant said. "You can acutally see the eclipse more clearly by doing what the experts do — watch the image of the eclipse with a pinhole device."

A simple projector can be made with a shoe box, or with two sheets of white cardboard. A pinhole, or pencil hole, in the top cardboard will project and focus the image of the eclipse on the second cardboard. Size of the ~~image of the eclipse on the second cardboard. Size~~ of the image may be changed by altering the distance between cardboards.

"The actual brightness of the sun ordinarily prevents our looking steadily at it," Dr. Croissant pointed out, "and the more complete the eclipse, the less the brightness. But the danger of burning the interior of the eye by the heat of the sun does not depend on brightness."

"Invisible infra-red rays continue to be emitted, and can cause permanent burns to the eye's retina, producing a blind spot in the victim's field of vision. The retina is not sensitive to pain, so the retinal burn is not felt." he said.

Dr. Croissant also warned against using telescopes, binoculars or cameras to view the eclipse, since they also focus the sun's rays.

"This is one permanent impariment of vision we can prevent with a few simple precautions," Dr. Croissant concluded.

The eclipse of the sun will be a total in a 180 mile wide path which starts near Portland, Oregon, and sweeps across much of Oregon, Washington, northern Idaho and North Dakota. In Minnesota, it will be 91 per cent visible starting at about 10:50 a.m.

Energy Agency Offers Prizes For Efficiency

Minnesota energy agency is holding its second design competition — this time a redesign competition — and cash prizes will be given for the best package of changes designed to increase a house's energy efficiency. Prizes of $85,000 will be distributed among 113 winners.

The package of changes, known as retrofitting, can include changes to the structure of the house, its heating, cooling, ventilating or other systems, or its surroundings.

This could mean added insulation and caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows. It could mean planting a row of evergreens to block north winds. It could mean installing an automatic thermostat that turns your thermostat down at night or when you're gone, along with moveable insulation for your windows. It could even be an idea which you've already put to work in your house. You tell the energy agency what it means.

Entries must be submitted by 2 p.m. May 15, 1979. Only one entry per house is allowed, and must include a plan for the re-design; a record of energy use for at least the last 12 months, preferably the last 24 months; and an estimation of future energy savings.

It must also include a thorough description of the house, its systems and surroundings, and how they affect energy use. You must also tell how you chose the particular package of changes, what the potential is to use it in other homes, and how you calculated the costs and energy savings of the redesign package.

You may enter one of six categories. The categories and prizes in each category are: Cost up to $200, 30 prizes of $200 each; up to $500, 30 prizes of $400 each; up to $1,000, 20 prizes of $750 each; up to $2,500, 19 prizes of $1,000 each; up to $6,000, nine prizes of $2,000 each; and over $6,000, five prizes of $3,000 each.

Winners will be announced by June 15. Homeowners must carry out their re-design plans by Oct. 1, 1979, and then report the actual energy savings every six months for two years. Renters do not have to carry out their plans.

A five-member jury will select the winners based on the following criteria: Originality; potential application to other homes; ease of implementation and operation, safety, durability and material availability; technical feasibility (does it really save energy?); thoroughness in considering other re-design measures; the extent to which the home is a total energy-efficient system; and clarity and accuracy of energy and dollar savings, estimates and implementation costs and calculations.

The agency plans to publish a manual with all of the winning re-design plans.

If interested in entering, write or call for a copy of the rules from Minnesota Energy Agency, 980 American Center Building, 150 East Kellogg Boulevard, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. Metro area number is 612-296-5175. Others may call toll-free 800-652-9747.

"TOO MUCH HEAVEN" was the theme of Northland community college's annual Sno-Daze celebration and student team, The Crew That Grew with the Great Northwest, chose an ensemble of devil and bottle to represent the theme. This creation won second place in the college's snow sculpture contest.

Teachers From Europe Need Host Families

American families are needed to host English-speaking European teachers as guests in their homes for a seven to 10-day period this summer, it was announced recently by the American Host foundation.

American Host is the only nonprofit, nongovernmental program designed to show the American way of life to European teachers by pairing them with American families. It is a nation-wide home hospitality program which is endorsed by the department of state.

Now in its 18th year American Host has opened the doors to better understanding for more than 11,000 English-speaking European teachers who have passed on their new understanding to their students, friends and colleagues when they have returned to their homelands.

Being a host family is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Europeans and Americans. Host families are required to provide a private room and meals for their guest and to give their guest the opportunity to meet friends and neighbors and to see local sights.

American Host foundation arranges all transportation but host families are asked to meet their guests on arrival in their area. Visitors and host families have the opportunity to correspond for a month prior to the visit.

Anyone interested in being a host family or learning more about the foundation's activities may write to: American Host Program, 12747 Brookhurst Street, Garden Grove, California 92640, or call (714) 537-5711.

Subcommittee Assignments Please Senator

His three agriculture subcommittee assignments are prime spots to work for long-term answers to farm problems, Senator Rudy Boschwitz announced recently.

"I'm convinced that farmers will receive fair prices for their goods only through increased demand," said the former businessman. "To enlarge that demand, markets, particularly those overseas, must continue to expand.

"In my seats on the foreign agriculture policy, rural development, and agriculture research subcommittees, I'll have a good chance to shape legislation that can work for this expansion," he explained.

"Foreign ag policy," continued Boschwitz, "is the committee that deals with import quotas and international trade. Rural development committee will be a good spot to further programs that use farm by-products for energy production.

"Finally, one of my main interests on the ag research committee is to work for programs of 'applied' research, that is, studies which will look for larger uses of our farm products world-wide."

Concluded Boschwitz, "I'm dubious that farmers will ever achieve fair prices simply by petitioning Congress and the administration each session for support programs; supports have proven too short term a solution.

"The true answer for the *future will come when far*mers achieve a sound bargaining position for their goods. That will happen when an adequate demand exists for those goods and when the farmers organize their own efforts better, and that's what I'll be working for in my service on the agriculture committee and three subcommittee assignments."

K. Kompelien Is Soloist At UND Concert

Combined concert featuring several University of North Dakota musical groups and including a solo by Kevin Kompelien of Thief River Falls will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Chester Fritz auditorium.

UND concert band, under the direction of student conductor Phil McKenzie of Crookston, will perform "The Rambler March," four French songs and "Jubilation," an overture.

The Varsity Bands, conducted by Terry Eder, will sing seven selections including "Bonnie Eloise," with soloist Kevin Kompelien. The UND Goliards, a select group of the Bards, will perform three numbers. Other group participating will be the Wind Ensemble, conducted by Michael Polovitz.

Wangberg Is Education Day Speaker At WS

Lt. Gov. Lou Wangberg will be the luncheon speaker on Education day February 24, sponsored by the university of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC). Education day is an annual event coordinated by UMC and hosted by the Northwest Educational Improvement association (NWEIA) as part of Red River valley winter shows activities.

Luncheon is open to the public and will be held in Bede hall at 12:30 p.m. Luncheon tickets will be available at the door for $2.75.

"Alternatives to consolidation" is the topic Howard Casmey, commissioner of education, will address at the 10 a.m. seminar in Dowell hall, room 204-5. He will speak about how to refrain from consolidation and still meet rising costs of education due to inflation and declining enrollment. Rep. Willis Eken, DFL-Ada, will speak about schools in relation to legislative concerns.

Five panel members will react to the morning speakers. Panel members include: Dr. Floyd Keller, state department director of planning; Adeline Vollan of Thief River Falls staffing task force on planning in Region I and II; and superintendents Charles Potter, Crookston; W.D. Lindberg, Fertile-Beltrami; and Dr. James Noonan, East Grand Forks.

Jack Bywater, director of admission and financial aid at UMC, will chair the program.

Special invitations have been sent to public and parochial school superintendents, principals, counselors and school board members. Interested citizens are most welcome to attend, according to provost Stanley D. Sahlstrom. Registration will be held at 9:30 a.m. Feburary 24, in Dowell hall, room 204-5. There is no registration fee for the morning seminar.

Randine Bakke Services Held At Westaker

Funeral services for Mrs. Randine Bakke, 87, of Newfolden were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the Westaker Free Lutheran church. Mrs. Bakke died Wednesday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Merle Knutson officiated at the services. Mrs. Stanley Holmaas served as pianist. Vocal selections included a solo by Harvey Dyrud and a duet by Reuben Haugen and William Wagner. Interment will be in the church cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Bakke, the former Randine Haugen, was born May 22, 1891 in Marsh Grove township, Marshall county, to C.P. and Mathia Haugen. She attended school and grew to womanhood in that community. In January of 1908, she was united in marriage to John M. Bakke. The couple lived and farmed in Marsh Grove township, where she continued to make her home until her death.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Jennie Miller, Minneapolis, and Gladys Loeffler, Thief River Falls; four sons: Magnus, Harlan and Roy Bakke, all of Newfolden, and Raymond of Inkster, N.D.; 15 grandchildren, and 21 great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers: Hjalmer and Carl Haugen, both of Newfolden, and three sisters: Mrs. Anna Engelsrud and Mrs. Albert Knutson, both of Newfolden, and Mrs. Marion (Mary) Shaff of Bemidji.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died Sept. 11, 1968; a daughter, one brother and a sister.

Ella Steiger Services Held Here Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Steiger, 77, of Black River township, Pennington county, were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Evangelical Covenant church in this city. Mrs. Steiger died Tuesday night at Oakland Park Nursing home where she had been a resident since 1976.

Rev. Marden Wickman officiated at the services. Mrs. Alvin Dahlstrom was the organist, and Rev. and Mrs. Wickman provided the vocal selections. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Belmont Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Carl Swanson, William Kruse, Donald Thyren, Rodney Brodin, Ronald Tollefson and Alvin Dahlstrom.

Mrs. Steiger, the former Ella Brandt, was born Sept. 23, 1901 at Euclid to William and Wilhelmina Brandt, now deceased. As a child, she moved with her family to the St. Hilaire area where she attended school and grew to womanhood. She attended the Aakers Business school in Grand Forks and after completing the course, was employed for a time as court reporter for Pembina county, North Dakota.

On Feb. 22, 1922, she was married at Euclid to John Steiger. The couple made their home in Black River township, where she resided until entering Oakland Park Nursing home.

She is survived by two sons: Maurice Steiger, Thief River Falls; and Douglas, Red Lake Falls; one daughter, Mrs. Floyd B. (Geraldine) Olson, New Hope; 10 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and three sisters: Mrs. Anna Nelson, Euclid; Mrs. Nora Booher, Charles City, Iowa; and Mrs. Carrie Ross, Mason City, Iowa.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in October of 1976, one grandchild and a brother.

Edgar Hetteen Is Community Award Winner

with three other men on a 1,200-mile trip across Alaska's wilderness — including a 700-mile stretch where they didn't see another human being. The trip took 28 days.

When Hetteen returned to Roseau in March of 1960 after finishing the Alaskan trek, the directors of the board of the company in Roseau told Edgar they wanted him to stay home and work in the business. Edgar replied that if he had wanted to stay home he wouldn't have left the farm. When his daughter graduated from high school he moved to Alaska. Unable to build snowmobiles in that area, he found support for starting a plant in Thief River Falls.

"Edgar started here in January of 1961," Trudeau explained. "The first plant was the old Math Barzen seed company building down near the hospital (now the school district service center). Edgar and his family lived upstairs and started to build snowmobiles downstairs.

"They didn't build many machines that first year, but they sold a lot of them," Trudeau said. "That's because they would sell one, it would break down, they would take it back, rebuild it and sell it again. Some of those first machines were sold five or six times before they stayed sold.

"Ninety-six machines were built in 1962. Steve Rugland was sales manager at that time. Steve would have to pick a spot to put on demonstrations where the snow wasn't too deep so he wouldn't get stuck. If he sold one he would call Edgar and say, 'build another one — I sold one today'.

"Arctic had 13 employees in 1962; today about 1,300 are employed just here in Thief River Falls. The company struggled along in 1963 and 1964, and in 1965 things started to happen. This was the year Lowell Swenson came to the company with his financial expertise and it was the first year Arctic produced the light weight aluminum chassis Panther. In the 1972 model year 112,000 machines were produced — just 10 years from when 13 people built 96 machines. Arctic's payroll in Thief River Falls last year was $15,000,000.

"All this started with a man who had a dream and a love affair with a thing called a snowmobile just a few years ago," Trudeau continued, "a man who wrote the first pages of history of an industry and a new outdoor sport. This man has served this community, and his service has had a profound effect on all of us."

Hetteen's response was that it is the Thief River Falls community which deserves to get the award and that perhaps his acceptance of it would be a way to thank the community.

"Things like this must be shared," Hetteen said of the award. "I could have gone anywhere with my ideas. What I saw in Thief River Falls I liked people like J.J. Womack, L.B. Hartz, Bill LaFave, Les Ihle, Bob Wurst, Lowell Swenson and more; available buildings; a fresh new outlook in dollars; enthusiasm; people alive and moving; a willingness to take a chance."

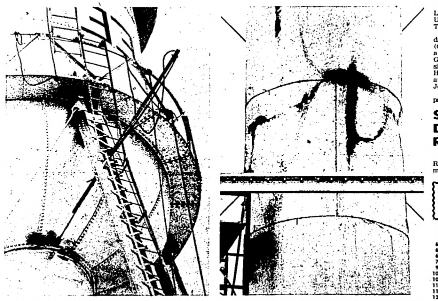
He emphasized the importance of dedicated and creative workers such as Rugland, Bob and Mary Johnson and Roger Skime and the cooperation of local merchants and other suppliers.

He commented on financing. "As a young man I had been scared by a banker," he quipped. "One day Jim Womack (then president of Union state bank) brought his board of directors over to the plant for a visit and I remember commenting when he came in: 'My Gosh, is the overdraft THAT bad?'

"I always had trouble borrowing money. It was my nature to only ask for one dollar when I really needed two and after I got the loan to say to the banker, 'You didn't really want to give that to me, did you?'.

"Then one day Lowell Swenson came in to see me and said he would like to buy a part of the business. Independent cuss that I am, I told him he would buy it all or none at all . . . and he bought it all. Lowell can go to the bankers and make them feel like he is doing the bank a favor by accepting a loan."

He challenged young people who say opportunity doesn't exist today by saying that all things that existed in 1961 by way of opportunity also exist today. "You can do anything if you are willing to pay the price in time and effort and the only limits are those which are self-imposed," he said.



PROBLEMS CONTINUE for the city of Oklee as ice frozen in the top of the stand-up pipe leading to that city's water tower remains solidly in place. The ice plug at the top of the pipe and rapid lowering of the water level in the six-foot diameter pipe last Saturday evening caused the pipe to collapse. "It was flat as a pancake," Oklee mayor Earl Swenson said. The collapse caused the pipe to rupture. The cracks were welded (note welded patch in photo) and water once again pumped into the stand-up pipe on Tuesday. That pressure caused the pipe to expand back to nearly its original shape, but more leaks appeared. These were also welded shut. Now the city is concerned about the large ice plug at the top of the pipe. Should the water level in the pipe be low when the ice plug releases, the ice core sliding down the pipe could create a hydraulic effect increasing pressure in the mains, Swenson said. The city has four men manning the tank operations to provide a watch around the clock. Water level is being kept up in the pipe rather than pumping directly into the mains. Efforts to thaw the ice with a torch (see accompanying photos) to permit water to flow past or to drill a hole through the ice with an auger were unsuccessful. City officials are keeping a watchful eye on the weather in hopes of anticipating when the ice will melt and release.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION was given by the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce at its annual dinner Wednesday evening to Deb Matero, associate extension agent for Pennington county. Miss Matero was cited for her efforts in organizing and conducting the farm wives appreciation dinner sponsored by the chamber last year. Making the award presentation is Arnold Narverud, 1978 president of the chamber of commerce. At left is Dwight Tangquist, chairman of the agribusiness committee which had responsibility for the farm wives dinner.

Mrs. James R. Olson, 64, Of TRF Dies Sun.

Funeral services for Mrs. James R. Olson are pending. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Rites Tonight At RLF For F. Schmidt, Sr.

Frank Schmidt, Sr., 84, of Red Lake Falls died Thursday evening at Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls where he had been a resident for the past year.

Liturgy of the Funeral for Frank Schmidt Sr., will be offered today (Monday) at 8 p.m., at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls with Rev. Gerald Noesen officiating. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery at Red Lake Falls.

Pallbearers will be Wayne, Dale, Mark and James Violette, David Lanctot and Brian Desrosier.

The body will repose at the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, from 3 p.m., until time of services at eight o'clock.

Frank Schmidt was born Nov. 24, 1894 at New Ulm to Franz and Anna Clesaner Schmidt. As a child, he moved with his parents to Red Lake Falls. He was married Oct. 18, 1921 at Plummer to Angela Schiefert. They farmed in Gervais township, Red Lake county, until retirement several years ago. Schmidt continued to live on the farm until he entered Hillcrest nursing home.

There's No Better Seed For Your Sunflower Field!

There is no one prescribed form for a funeral. You and your clergyman, if you have one and we as your funeral director, will arrange the kind of service that best meets your needs.

Today, there is seldom use of mourning clothes by members of the family. They usually wear the type of clothing they would wear to a funeral other than the one they are arranging.

CAR TELEPHONE

The Wikstrom Telephone Company, Inc. is planning to install mobile telephone service that will cover the area of Kittson, central and eastern Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, and Pennington counties. This system will be UHF. The service that we install will cover the area as stated above, plus any other area offering UHF. Before a system can be installed, we have to obtain an FCC license and approval of rates from the Minnesota Public Service Commission. Before these can be obtained, it is required that we have signed up enough users to support the system. Anyone interested in mobile telephone service, contact the Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc., at Karlstad, Minnesota, 436-2121.

Sincerely,
Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc.

Deanna is the 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hanson of Thief River Falls. All six students will advance to the state competition to be held March 10 in Minneapolis and Hanson will also participate in the state honor student concert. The girls are students of Ruth Jensen and Marcia Knuttila.

D. Waterworth Ends Marine Basic Training

Marine Private Donald A. Waterworth, son of William P. and Betty J. Waterworth of rural Newfolden has completed recruit training at the marine corps recruit depot, San Diego.

During the nine-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival, was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by marines.

Waterworth also participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1978 graduate of Marshall County Central high school, he joined the marine corps in June 1978.

Ewertz Chosen To Attend May Science Fair

Lois Ewertz of Goodridge is one of two northern Minnesota public school science instructors selected to attend the international science and engineering fair in San Antonio, Tx., this May. Selected from a group of candidates by the Bemidji state university coordinators of the Northern Minnesota regional science fair were Ewertz and Bill Muscatello of Aitkin. Alternates for the trip are Gladwyn Lynne, Warren; and Calvin Wallin, Pequot Lakes.

The award trips are being made possible through funding received from the Blandin foundation of Grand Rapids. Blandin also helped sponsor an instructors' science fair preparation workshop earlier this winter on the BSU campus. Those participating discussed such topics as project design, display preparation and idea development.

Special School Board Meet At Center Tonight

Special Thief River Falls board of education meeting will be held tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m. at the school district service center. Discussion speaker will be Dan Gallagher, architect for the AVTI.

Gallagher will report to the board on the remodeling of AVTI spaces at Lincoln for high school purposes. He will also discuss structural and energy maintenance ideas for Lincoln.

Parents are also asked to take special note that the February 16 missed snow day will be made up on Wednesday, April 11.

More Bureaucracy

A newspaper colleague has maintained for a number of years that the U.S. postal service won't reach its potential for service and efficiency until private enterprise is free to compete with it. Only through competition of the free enterprise system, he says, will waste and inefficiency be substantially reduced and rates kept in line with service given.

A note in an area paper recently called attention to one of the problems faced by competition to the postal system. Most people are familiar with United Parcel Service and its success in taking over much of the volume of parcel post. Such activity is not without its restraints.

The note in the area paper was that the federal government won't let UPS carry more than 100 pounds of packages from a single shipper to a single receiver on one day. A total shipment of several packages totaling 108 pounds had to be divided. Not only did a separate shipment of one package have to be made the following day, UPS had to make two deliveries a day apart to the same destination. Stupid regulation? We'd say so.

How about the regulation that prohibits you from putting what you want in your own mail box? You purchase and own the box, erect it on your own property, maintain it to specifications, but it can't be used for anything but mail delivered by the U.S. postal service. The carriers who deliver our Northern Minnesota Shoppers Guide can't place it in your mail box. In towns where the shoppers Guide is mailed, however, the postman puts it in the box.

These bureaucratic annoyances are frustrating at times. They seem designed to restrict competition. And with such restraints built into the system out of apparent necessity, you just know there must be better ways of getting the job done. When such a system is in force, who loses? We all do.

Pipeline Questions

Following editorial appeared recently in the St. Paul Pioneer Press and gives one viewpoint of a pipeline proposed to help serve Minnesota:

The important thing to remember about the proposed Northern pipeline from Illinois to Pine Bend is that Minnesota needs it.

Construction of this pipeline is not a neighborhood or a regional issue. It is a question of utmost importance to everyone who lives in Minnesota. The people whose land the pipeline would cross must realize that and so must Gov. Al Quie.

There is an unfortunate similarity in the names of two major pipeline projects planned for Minnesota.

The 476-mile Northern Pipeline would come into the state from the south, bringing oil from the Gulf states and Mexico to three refineries in Minnesota and one in Superior, Wis. The Northern Tier pipeline, which was denied a state permit by Minnesota energy agency director John Millhone last week, would carry oil 1,557 miles from Port Angeles, Wash., to the Chicago area, passing through our state on the way.

There is a major difference between the two: The Northern pipeline can be built in time to head off a major energy crisis in Minnesota; the Northern Tier pipeline cannot. In fact, odds are that the Northern Tier pipeline never will be built, even if it eventually receives a permit.

The Northern pipeline has become controversial because it would pass through about 100 miles of southeast Minnesota farmland on its way to Pine Bend. Minnesota farmers have become particularly sensitive about such things such the great power line fiasco in west central Minnesota. It is unfair to compare the two.

Pipelines go under the ground. Construction would disturb each farmer's cropland for one summer only, then farming would go back to normal. Only a 50-foot-wide strip would be distrubed during the construction period. The total amount of Minnesota land taken out of production for one season only would be one section.

There is no question that the crude oil brought here by that pipeline will be needed. About 65 per cent of the petroleum products (gasoline, heating oil, etc.) used in Minnesota are refined here. Seventy-five per cent of the crude oil now being refined at our largest refinery, Koch Refining Co., Pine Bend, comes from Canada. The flow of Canadian crude will be cut drastically in 1981 and could end completely by 1983.

The Northern pipeline could begin delivering enough oil to replace the lost Canadian crude by Jan. 1, 1981, if the builder is permitted to complete the work on schedule. Minnesota refineries would be connected directly with pipelines and year-round barge terminals that could deliver oil from all over the Gulf coast, from offshore wells and from Mexico.

A new U.S. department of energy study shows that if no new pipelines are built to supply Minnesota and western Wisconsin refineries, 37 per cent of the nation's crude oil supply shortfall in 2000 will occur in Minnesota and 16 per cent will occur in Wisconsin.

This is not to say that Minnesota should not require every possible environmental safeguard. State officials, farm leaders and pipeline officials should sit down together and reach agreement before the digging begins. But Minnesotans must recognize that properly-constructed pipelines are far and away the safest method of moving crude oil and that a good many of our homes will be cold, our factories dead and our cars, trucks and tractors idle if the Northern pipeline is not ready to deliver crude oil when the Canadians turn off the spigot.

Safety Valve

The Minnesota Legislature appears to be designing a safety valve for a pressure cooker.

A state Senate sub-committee has approved a bill which would create a 17-member committee to advise the U.S. Forest Service on the management of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

The subcommittee was part of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee which is next in line to review this legislative proposal.

The bill, approved in subcommittee on a divided voice vote, is not viewed favorably by environmental interests. The advisory committee members would be named primarily by the governor, would have 13 appointments, leaving four positions to be filled by four legislators. The governor would appoint three committee members from St. Louis County, another three from Cooke County, three more from Lake County and four others from the state's remaining 84 counties.

Carol Lee of the Sierra Club said this committee would "amount to a state-funded lobbying group, a mouthpiece for those who oppose full use of the wilderness."

Given that Minnesota now has a conservative administration, and given also that the recent federal legislation on the BWCA does not sit well with many residents of Cook and Lake counties, especially, this proposed advisory committee could be viewed as a device to undermine the pro-wilderness thrust of the new BWCA law.

But there is a more constructive way to look at this proposed committee. First, it would be only an advisory body, and it could have impact only by working through the U.S. Forest Service. Given that the Forest Service has a clear responsibility to carry out the directives of the new BWCA law approved by Congress last October, it's ridiculous for environmental concerns to fear the potential impact of this committee. The only way this committee could undermine the new federal legislation would be by persuading the Forest Service to break the law. That's a bit far-fetched.

On the other hand, in certain situations in which the law may not be entirely clear, this committee could provide the Forest Service some information or opinion on how to implement the law in those specific situations. Conceivably, environmentalists could also have access to the Forest Service, too, through this same committee. This proposed committee then could be viewed as a kind of safety valve for both sides of the BWCA issue. Instead of local intests being closed out from the Forest Service, this committee would establish a channel for communication. And as the new BWCA law is put into effect, good communications will be needed critically.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Asked if the 1978 crop year's prices bothered him, a farm friend replied that he slept like a baby. "Every two hours I wake up and cry," he explained.

The gal didn't know how stingy her finance was until they were married and moved into his apartment. It was so small her dog had to wag its tail up and down!

Then there was the serious minded football recruit at a major college who was told by his doctor he would need a urine test and stayed up three nights studying for it.

MILKING COWS has been the job of Barbara Lundeen for the past year and one-half — ever since her older sister Gayle was married and moved to a farm 12 miles northeast of Oklee. Barbara is now a junior at Oklee high school.

MERLE LUNDEEN

UNIQUE MAILBOX at the end of the lane leading into the Merle Lundeen farm yard features an old cream separator. Merle was born on the farm where he now lives and dairy cattle have always been a part of the farm operation. The Lundeens were named honor dairymen for Pennington county this year and honored Friday at the Red River Valley winter shows.

production of beefalo, one-fourth to one-eighth cross of cattle with buffalo. He presently has 19 head of the animals which seem to thrive in cold weather and are said to gain quickly and economically on a simple hay and grass ration.

Chairman of the Pennington county unit of the National Farmers organization this year, Merle markets the farm's milk through the NFO marketing organization. It is picked up at the farm and trucked to either Sebeka or Moorhead where creameries are being supplied through NFO contracts.

In addition to his chairmanship of the county NFO, Merle is chairman of the Pennington county 4-H leaders council. He is active in the Oak Park church and in the past has been on the NFO dairy board and the Oklee creamery board.

Mrs. Lundeen, the former Armilla Pugh of the Itasca state park area, taught for two years at the Deer Park school and for two more years at Zerkel school near Bagley. She is superintendent of the Oak Park Sunday school, teaches first through sixth grades during religious release time classes in Oklee on Tuesdays, chairman of the Highlanding TOPS club and a past 4-H club leader. She also helped to reorganize the River Valley homemakers a few years ago, although she is not now a member.

Lest anyone believe that operating a farm leaves no time for community involvement, take at look at the Merle Lundeen family. They are willing to serve others as well as themselves. It's an attitude that has helped make America great.

Dianne Wilson Earns Honors At Floral Show

Dianne Wilson, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Sidney Wilson of Goodridge, received top honors February 10 at the eighth annual floral design contest and show held in conjunction with the 53rd Little International at North Dakota state university.

Dianne placed second in the "Let It Be" division, competing with students from across North Dakota and Minnesota.

Indian Basket Demonstration Set At Library

A demonstration on "Basketry of the Plains Indians" will be presented at 7 p.m. Thursday, February 22, at Northwest regional library in conjunction with the art exhibit presently on display in the library, "People of the Plains: 1820-1850." Present to give the basketry demonstration will be Bill and Josephine Robinson, members of the Minnesota Chippewa tribe from the White Earth reservation.

The plains art exhibit is being circulated throughout Minnesota by the University of Minnesota agriculture extension service and continuing education and extension. It includes 31 watercolors and prints and nine authentic Indian artifacts and will be on display at the Thief River Falls library through March 12.

Animal waste management systems will help reduce non-point pollution.

Report Shows Local Lodging Receipts Climb

Despite year to year fluctuations, Minnesota's lodging receipts climbed steadily from 1972 to 1977 showing a total increase of 78 per cent over the five year period. In Thief River Falls lodging sales increased from $432,000 in 1975, to $962,000 in 1976 and $1,576,000 in 1977.

These receipts are one indicator of the health of the lodging industry, which includes hotels, motels, resorts and private campgrounds.

A study recently completed by the Research Division of the Minnesota Department of Economic Development also showed that the industry is especially susceptible to outside influences that caused year to year growth rates to vary from a low of 4.4 per cent in 1971-72 to a high of 15.6 per cent in 1973-74. The lodging industry and the tourism industry are heavily affected by the economy, weather conditions, governmental actions and national problems. For example, the best year for lodging receipts followed the state's best farm year. On the other hand, drought, lack of snow or extremely cold weather are all weather conditions that directly curtail lodging receipts. The industry is also affected by governmental actions such as burning bans or energy emergencies.

Also revealed in the study is the continuing decline of smaller lodging facilities, those of five units or less. In 1971 there were 3,943 total lodging establishments in Minnesota, while in 1977 the number had dropped to 3,320. Although Minnesota is seeing a decline in total number of facilities, it is gaining room capacity because the very small facilities are being replaced with new large and medium sized facilities and a portion of existing facilities are adding units. Research Director Kirk Watson noted that a primary reason for this trend is a growing consumer preference for facilities that offer a number of conveniences such as restaurant, pool, car, sauna, meeting rooms and other recreational facilities.

The seasons of the year continue to be in influencing factor on lodging receipts, affecting various parts of the state differently. The seasonal pattern in Minnesota lodging receipts is pronounced and stable with the third quarter showing 32 per cent of the year's total receipts. Most counties in the state have their peak sales in the third quarter (July to September). However two counties (Goodhue and Washington) peak in the first quarter, apparently because of skiing and related winter activities. One county, Lac Qui Parle, peaks in the fourth quarter, due to duck and goose hunting.

The study also reports that 16 counties take in 78 per cent of the total lodging receipts for the entire state. These counties can be divided into three main categories of tourist-travel types: (1) business-recreational travel, (2) vacation-recreational travel and (3) necessity-business travel.

The Twin Cities metropolitan counties account primarily for the business-recreational travel market. In 1975 Dakota, Hennepin, Ramsey and Washington counties accounted for 6.5 per cent of the state's establishments and 43.3 per cent of total state expenditures.

Ten northern counties with high natural, resource amenities and concentrated commercial accommodations account for most of the vacation-recreation travel receipts. These are: Cook, Itasca, Koochiching, St. Louis, Clay, Douglas, Otter Tail, Cass, Crow Wing and Stearns. These counties contain 46.4 per cent of the state's total number of establishments and in 1975 accounted for 24 per cent of total expenditures.

The two counties with the necessity-business travel market are Olmsted and Mower counties. These have 3.2 per cent of the state's total number of establishments and 11.4 per cent of expenditures in 1975.

The remaining 71 counties in the state contain 43.9 per cent of the establishments and 21.2 per cent of total expenditures.

The report is a joint effort of the research division of the Minnesota department of economic development and the development planning division of the state planning agency. It is available by calling 612-296-3871 or by writing the Department of Economic Development, Research Division, 480 Cedar St., St. Paul, MN 55101.

Boschwitz To Serve On Small Business Com.

Announcing his appointment to the Senate's small business committee, Senator Rudy Boschwitz recently noted the irony of that committee's composition.

"There are only two of us who have business backgrounds," he commented, "and I'm the only one who's actually started a business.

"I'm understandably excited to have this final committee assignment (Boschwitz also serves on agriculture and budget) because it's a good chance to give small businessmen a voice in Washington they haven't had before."

Boschwitz said that a main thrust of his work on the committee will be "encouragement of the free enterprise system which actually provides access to people starting businesses 'from ground zero.'

"The only way to do this," he continued, "is to insure an economic atmosphere where competition exists and where small businesses can get the capital they need to operate.

"This, of course, ties in to my previous commitment to slowing the growth of government spending. I couldn't help noticing as I traveled through rural and metropolitan Minnesota during the campaign the large percentage of money which many local banks have loaned to the government to finance its spending.

"If this spending can be curbed, then clearly the local banks will have more funding available to local businessment for local enterprises. Government at all levels borrows around one-third of the available money supply," Boschwitz pointed out.

The first of his two subcommittee assignments is government procurement. This subcommittee, on which he'll be the ranking Republican, monitors small businesses getting their fair share of government contracts. Other Subcommittee is advocacy and future of small businesses.

Fiddlers Ass'n. Will Meet In Erskine Feb. 25

Red River Valley Fiddlers association will hold a meeting February 25th at 2 p.m. at the city council rooms in Erskine. All members and those wishing to join are cordially invited.

Items for discussion will include membership; contest rules and regulations (We have a copy of the Texas Fiddler association rules for discussion); planning for a Fiddlers Jamboree to be held in conjunction with the Crookston Centennial celebration on July 6th; old time dances; the regional newsletter; and, assisting other regional organizations to get started.

Coffee will be furnished and a jam session will be held after the business meeting so persons should bring their fiddle, guitar, banjo or whatever.

Housing Group Members Vote To Dissolve

Northwest Minnesota housing program advisory council, has voted to dissolve its duties and responsibilities.

The advisory council was formed September 25, 1972, through a consortium of region I community action agencies. The CAA's involved were: Inter-County Community Council of Oklee; Northwest Community Action of Badger; and, Tri-Valley Opportunity Council of Crookston.

The purposes of the advisory council was to identify the housing needs of the area; establish long and short range goals; and, to formulate program plans and priorities.

Through the efforts of the members of the advisory council and the community action agencies, the Northwest Minnesota multi-county housing and redevelopment authority was formed. This organization now operates housing programs in Region I and is serving the needs and reaching the original goals of the advisory council. There the council felt it had served its purpose and voted to dissolve the organization.

The housing authority is presently serving 441 persons and-or families with their housing needs in Region I, through Federal HUD programs. They are also negotiating additional housing programs for the region.

Bill Seeger, executive director of the multi-county housing and redevelopment authority, commended the members of the advisory council and the region I community action agencies on their foresight and the procurement of funds to make the housing program in Region I self-sufficient through good OEO-CSA efforts.

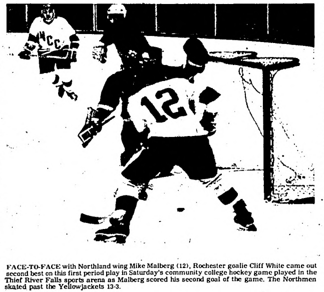
Note Increase In Registered Snowmobiles

Number of snowmobiles registered with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources in 1978 rose slightly over the previous year, it was reported this week.

The DNR's license center said 32,586 were registered with the state last year compared with 27,682 in 1977. The 1977 figure was the lowest since the department began licensing the machines in 1967.



FACE-TO-FACE with Northland wing Mike Malberg (12), Rochester goalie Cliff White came out second best on this first period play in Saturday's community college hockey game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena as Malberg scored his second goal of the game. The Northmen skated past the Yellowjackets 13-3.

Northwomen Split Final Weekend Road Games

Playing without the services of high-scoring Georgine Troska, the Northland community college women's basketball team split a season-ending weekend road trip against Northeast Division foes, losing to Itasca 70-57 Friday before beating Hibbing 52-49 Saturday.

Troska, a sophomore from Goodridge, suffered a sprained ankle just six minutes into Friday's game at Grand Rapids.

"We played pretty good basketball," reported Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "But it was kind of bad in that George (Troska) didn't get to play her final two games."

Northland finished the season with a 5-15 record, 3-7 in the Northwest Division standings.

Itasca 70

Itasca's Judy McDonald and Deb Perry combined for 40 points in a 70-57 win over Northland. McDonald scored 22 points and Perry had 18 for the Vikings who led 33-27 at halftime.

Julie Anderson and Coco Stokke scored 12 points apiece for Northland, with Joan Engel adding 11.

Northland shot 30 per cent from the field, hitting 24 of 79 attempts. Itasca shot 38 per cent, making 33 of 87 shots. The Northwomen were 9-for-16 at the free throw line. Itasca made four of seven free throws.

Hibbing 49

Northland overcame a 24-21 halftime deficit by out-scoring Hibbing 31-25 in the second half for a 52-49 Saturday afternoon triumph.

Joan Engel scored 14 points for the winners and Julie Anderson contributed 11. Cindy Peternal and Jacki Roonzani scored 15 and 10 points, respectively, for Hibbing.

Northland struggled with a 20-for-68, 29 per cent shooting performance from the field, but sank 12 of 18 free throws to win it. Hibbing was 21-for-84 from the field for 25 per cent and made only seven of 16 gift tosses.

Name Chelseth Assistant DNR Commissioner

Appointment of Archie D. Chelseth to the post of assistant commissioner of Natural Resources was announced by DNR commissioner Joseph Alexander.

Chelseth has served for several months as administrator of the DNR's metro region and under the Wendell Anderson administration was assistant commissioner for planning in the department.

In his new post, Chelseth will be responsible for administering most of the DNR's bureaus — such as personnel, finance, licenses, engineering, lands and field services.

He will replace Donald Carlson, who will assume Chelseth's former duties as administrator of the seven county metro region, headquartered at the fish hatchery in St. Paul.

Trout Streams In Wisconsin Are Mapped

Trout fishermen are something special. They seem to want to get off the beaten track and try new streams and battle the wily Wisconsin trout.

All Wisconsin trout streams have been classified into three categories by the Department of Natural Resources.

This book has just been revised and up-dated and can again be obtained by sending $4.95 to Wisconsin Trout Waters, Stock Number 775M-1R, P.O. Box 5096, Madison, WI 53705.

Separate from the maps is a complete list of all trout streams in Wisconsin, with notes as to species of trout, stream length and location.

CO. BOARD PROCEEDINGS

February 19, 1979
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota.
February 6, 1979

Pursuant to adjournment the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 A.M., February 6, 1979. Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present. Richard Jamison, Regional Director of the Assoc. of Minn. Counties and County Commissioner from Norman County visited with the Board for a time relative to the State policies of the A.M.C.

The Annual Report of Livestock Inspector, F.W. Hazard was reviewed and ordered filed.

At 12:00 Noon the Board recessed to meet with the City Council of Thief River Falls in the Council Chambers to discuss as scheduled, the proposals for signaling and widening 1st Street and the possibility of widening the 1st Street Bridge.

A written report was read as prepared by the City Engineer in which it was recommended that the signaling be continued and that 1st Street be widened on the North side of the street at the time of the signaling project and in addition that 1st Street Bridge be widened to allow traffic to be routed onto Pennington Avenue even though traffic is stopped by a train as often happens on 1st Street.

It was pointed out that a traffic problem exists at the 1st Street Bridge site with an estimated 11,500 cars per day and that in order to keep that traffic from using 3rd Street during the widening of the 1st Street bridge, it will be necessary to provide a bypass at an estimated cost of $50,000. Members of the Board and others asked for a time schedule on the development of a bridge over the river on Greenwood which is in the 5 year plan for the City. It was pointed out that if Greenwood would be developed first the traffic would have an alternate route. Some feeling was expressed that the Greenwood project was being planned but it was a matter of money. Greenwood is on the City 5 year plan and would be a State Aid Street which qualifies it for State Aid Funds, but the bridge must be built first.

The Board returned to the Commissioners' meeting room to further discuss the matter and to report their decision to the City Council.

County Court Judge Larry Jorgenson asked the Board for consideration of a plan for realignment of the Probation Services in the County. Presently the State is providing the Probation Services and the Officers are also in Clearwater County for part of their work. Judge Jorgenson asked for Board approval of attempting to re-align and work with Marshall County instead. Judge Jorgenson asked also that a Commissioner be appointed to work with the Court in attempting to re-align the present system of Court appointed Attorneys. Moved by Stenberg seconded by Grabanski that the Board approve the suggestion of Judge Jorgenson, which was also agreed upon by County Attorney Olin, to realign the Probation Services to work with Marshall County rather than with Clearwater County. Motion declared unanimously carried.

The Chairman appointed Commissioner Grabanski to Committee to study the matter of the Court appointed Attorney.

Moved by Koop seconded by Tasa that the following Plats be approved:

A Plat known as Sunflower Square First Addition consisting of one Lot located in Govt. Lot 1 in Section 5 in Rocksbury Township.

A Plat known as Gunderson First Addition consisting of 6.5 acres in SE¼SW¼ in Sec. 28, T154N, R43W in the unplatted portion of Thief River Falls Lying on North State Street.

A Plat known as Votava's First Addition consisting of 2 Lots which consists of .72 acres in part of SW¼SW¼ in Sec. 34, T154N, R43W in unplatted Thief River Falls adjacent to the Soo Line and south of Annie Street. Motion declared unanimously carried.

The Auditor then presented a proposal for re-windowing the Courthouse, a project which has been designed by Foss Engelstad Foss, Architects from Moorhead. An estimate of the possible cost has been made by the Architect in the amount of $94,270.00 and the Board has set aside Revenue Sharing Funds totaling $55,576.00 with added funds being available in October. The project involves replacement of the solid aluminum window frames which are cold in the winter and warm in the summer with insulated frames and by replacement of a large percentage of the windows with insulated panels with the total project designed to conserve energy. The Auditor was asked to contact the Architect about some possible alternates to save part of the cost.

The Board briefly discussed the Solid Waste problem in the County with no pregress to record.

Moved by Grabanski seconded by Koop that the Engineer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to advertise for bids for a new Motor Grader with an older unit being traded in and with bids to be opened at 3:00 P.M., March 6, 1979. Motion declared unanimously carried.

The following bills were read audited and allowed:

AN INFORMATION LETTER TO:
1979 Sunflower Growers

Many seed dealers are talking of short sunflower seed stocks. This is true of certain varieties and brands. This is also true in certain local areas where dealers did not originally order enough quantity to supply their area.

In 1978 your St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator handled a total of 70,000,000 lbs. of sunflowers. Therefore they were aware of the potential 1979 sunflower business.

They put in a total of 475,000 lbs. of sunflower seed for 1979 planting. Of this amount 385,000 lbs. have been booked. This leaves a total of 90,000 lbs. of seed left to sell of which 80,000 lbs. are 894 - the most common number in sunflowers.

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator believes they will have enough good hybrid sunflower seeds to cover your needs at very competitive prices.

Thank You,
St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator
Ray Miller, Mgr.

P.S. "St. Hilaire Elevator is proud to have 16 of the top 21 growers in the NK Sunflower Grower Contest".

Sub Region 4 Tournament

It's anybody's guess who will win the Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament this week at Crookston. All season long its been an unpredictable struggle between Thief River Falls, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Bemidji. The tournament picture isn't clearer now than it was back in December.

Crookston probably has the best overall balance in the Sub Region 4 field; Bemidji has the best player in John Noga; East Grand Forks has two talented ball players in John Roche and Todd Selk who are capable of scoring an awful lot of points; and Thief River Falls has the best set of guards in Steve Enderlein and Kyle Hams.

What all four teams lack is size. That may not be much of a factor this week as they slug it out among themselves, but wait until the winner reaches the Region 8AA level!

Look for Thief River Falls to win its first Sub Region 4 basketball title. If forward Jeff Oseid can match the scoring of Enderlein and Hams the Prowlers will be on par with the other three teams. And if forward Jim Nyland and center Todd Young contribute offensively while continuing their solid rebounding, the Prowlers will field the best team in the tournament.

Roseau Meets Challenges

A month ago area hockey fans were eagerly awaiting what was expected to be the most competitive Section 8 hockey tournament in recent years. Oh sure, Roseau was unbeaten at the time, but the Rams, instead of nailing everybody like the previous season, were winning by such margins as 3-0 over Fergus Falls, 7-5 over Warroad and 5-3 over Thief River Falls. It really looked like the Otters, Warriors and Prowlers, along with East Grand Forks, would be able to mount a very real challenge for the Rams at tournament time.

However, with post-season play scheduled to start next week, the Rams have once again clearly entrenched themselves as the Section 8 favorite following impressive back-to-back wins over Thief River Falls 8-1 and Warroad 10-5.

It's still possible that Roseau's two-year championship reign could end during the March 2-9 Section 8 tournament at East Grand Forks. But that possibility doesn't seem as likely as it did earlier this winter.

Tournament Coverage

Cable television viewers in northwestern Minnesota will be able to watch the 1979 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament March 15-17 on KSTP-TV, it was announced by Sjoberg's Cable TV of Thief River Falls.

It was first feared that northwestern Minnesota would be left out of the tournament coverage when it was learned last year that KSTP, a Twin Cities ABC affiliate, had purchased the broadcast rights that previously belonged to WTCN, an independent station carried on cable system throughout Minnesota. Viewers in this part of the state had waited years for tournament coverage on WTCN and the prospect of losing the event upset many.

But WTCN and KSTP will be involved in a network shuffle very shortly as WTCN goes network and KSTP becomes an independent. The switch takes place March 5.

It was already announced this area would be receiving KSTP's state basketball tournament coverage for both boys and girls. But because of conflicts with North Dakota stations, the hockey situation had to be handled in a special manner by Sjoberg's who had to receive permission from the FCC and area stations to carry the event. Pending any unforseen protests from local stations, the hockey tournament will be on the air here.

Nine state hockey tournament games will be televised: four opening round games Thurs., March 15; two semifinal games Fri., March 16; and the consolation, third place and championship games Sat., March 17.

Al Shaver, voice of the Minnesota North Stars, will handle the play-by-play duties.

Miscellaneous

+ Team Arctic snowmobile driver Bob Elsner gained national recognition when he was included in Sports Illustrated's "Faces in the Crowd" section Feb. 12 for his victory in the world's championship race Jan. 21 at Eagle River, Wis.

+ In a recent dual meet match-up of Section 3 swimming favorites, Fergus Falls edged Brainerd 87-85 with a win in the meet-ending 400-yard freestyle relay that broke a 79-79 tie. The Warriors won seven of the 11 events, but the Otters took 10 of the 11 seconds. Included among the Brainerd winners was diver Tim Frazer who out-pointed Kevin Stich, rated among the state's best, 237.05 to 232.5.

Sub Region 4 Features Well-Balanced Field

What promises to be an exciting four-team championship scramble will take place this week when athletic rivals Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Crookston and Bemidji tangle in the 1979 Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament at Crookston.

First round pairings Tuesday will find Thief River Falls playing Bemidji at 7 p.m. and East Grand Forks meeting Crookston at 8:45. Winners will square off in Friday's 7:30 p.m. championship game.

In stark contrast to three previous Sub Region 4 tournaments won by Bemidji, this year's event presents an extremely well-balanced field. There is no favorite and there will be no upsets as the Prowlers, Green Wave, Pirates and Lumberjacks compete for a Region 8AA berth. This year also marks a change in first round pairings. For the first time it won't be a Thief River Falls-East Grand Forks, Bemidji-Crookston opening night.

"I think it's up for grabs," confirmed Thief River Falls coach Glen Peters. "They're all evenly balanced. It should be a good tournament."

If there's any kind of an edge it belongs to the Priates who have the home court advantage. Peters agrees. "I think it's a factor, especially when it's so balanced," he noted.

However, the Pirates lost to East Grand Forks 57-51 and fell to Bemidji 55-53 at Crookston during the 1978-79 regular season. They lost the tournament's number one seed with successive back-to-back season-ending losses to Bemidji and East Grand Forks, 56-45 Friday. Crookston did sweep Thief River Falls 58-56 and 81-61 and won at Bemidji 44-43.

Bemidji, in addition to splitting with Crookston, also divided a pair of games with Thief River Falls, losing 48-46 in overtime at Bemidji but winning 54-38 in a rematch at Thief River Falls. The Lumberjacks got by East Grand Forks 52-48 in their only meeting of the season to complete their bid for the tournament's top seed.

East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls also traded wins. The Green Wave won 59-57 at East Grand Forks but the Prowlers won the second time, 76-66 at Thief River Falls.

"We've got a good chance to win it," said Peters. "But in order for us to win we have to make up our minds to play defense and we have to get 50 to 60 points from Steve Enderlein, Kyle Hams and Jeff Oseid."

Rest of the Region 8AA sub region tournaments will also be played this week.

In Sub Region 1, St. Cloud Tech plays Alexandria and St. Cloud Apollo meets Melrose.

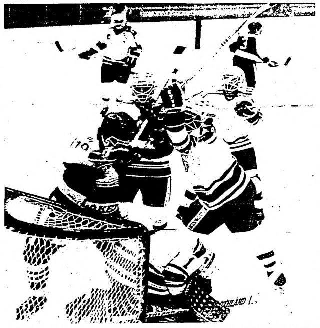
First round pairings in Sub Region 3 have Moorhead playing Fergus Falls and Park Rapids facing Detroit Lakes.

Region 8AA tournament opens Thurs., March 1, when the Sub Region 1 winner plays the Sub Region 4 winner at Bemidji State University and the Sub Region 2 winner faces the Sub Region 3 winner at Concordia college in Moorhead.

The Region 8AA championship game will be played Sat., March 3, at Concordia.



THIEF RIVER FALLS goalie Bill Jury covered the puck while players from both sides battled for position in front of the net during Friday's high school hockey game against Detroit Lakes played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. The Prowlers beat the Lakers 4-2.

8A District Champions To Be Named This Week

Class A district basketball tournaments will be completed this week as four teams try to make the Region 8A field March 2-3 at Bemidji State University.

District 29

First round play was completed Wednesday in District 29 at Bemidji State University as Littlefork-Big Falls edged Cass Lake 51-49 and Gonvick tripped Akeley 52-49.

In Saturday quarterfinals, Clearbrook toppled Kelliher 69-48 and Bagley thrashed Walker 88-39 to set up a semifinal match Wednesday. Two quarterfinal games will be played tonight (Monday) as Blackduck goes against Littlefork-Big Falls at 7 p.m. and Laporte takes on Gonvick at 8:45. The winners will meet in Wednesday's second semifinal game.

Championship and consolation game will be played Thursday.

District 30

Fosston plays Fertile-Beltrami at 7 p.m. and Waubun meets Mahnomen at 8:45 in the District 30 semifinals tonight (Monday) at Crookston. Championship and consolation games will be played at Crookston Wednesday.

In Friday quarterfinals, Fosston beat Mentor 66-49, Fertile-Beltrami eliminated McIntosh-Winger 65-53, Waubun handled Hendrum 70-50 and Mahnomen ousted Ada 54-44.

District 31

Beginning post-season play tonight (Monday) at Warren, District 31 will have Goodridge playing Fisher at 5:15 p.m., Oslo vs. Red Lake Falls at 7 and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart vs. Plummer at 8:45.

Quarterfinals will be played Tuesday. At Warren, the Oslo-Red Lake Falls winner plays Argyle at 7 p.m. and Alvarado meets Stephen at 8:45. At Stephen, the Goodridge-Fisher winner takes on Warren at 7 p.m. and the Sacred Heart-Plummer winner tackles Climax at 8:45.

Semifinals will be played Thursday at Crookston, followed by the consolation and championship games at the same site Saturday.

District 32

First round games in District 32, postponed because of weather from Thursday to Saturday, found Warroad beating Strandquist 57-46, Hallock eliminated Grygla 60-52, Marshall County Central handled Kennedy 49-36, Badger ousted Lancaster 44-31, Lake of the Woods drilled Humboldt 85-32 and Greenbush got by Middle River 46-45.

Rest of the tournament will be played at Roseau. In quarterfinal action tonight (Monday) Roseau plays Warroad at 7 p.m. and Hallock faces Marshall County Central at 8:30. On Tuesday Karlstad goes against Badger at 7 p.m. and Lake of the Woods opposes Greenbush at 8:30.

Semifinals will be played Thursday as the Roseau-Warroad winner plays the Hallcok-Marshall County Central winner at 7 p.m. and the Karlstad-Badger winner meets the Lake of the Woods-Greenbush winner at 8:30. Finals will be played Friday.

Elsner, Dimmerman Win Sno Pro Races

Elsner captured the 440-X feature, followed by Decker and Brad Hulings on a Scorpion.

In the 340 race, it was Decker, Hulings and Elsner, in that order.

Next stop on the 1978-79 Sno Pro schedule will be Sunday at Beausejour, Man.

Prowlers Beat Lakers 4-2 To Earn Section 8 Berth

Scoring twice in 10 seconds early in the third period, Thief River Falls went on to beat Detroit Lakes 4-2 Friday to lock up a seeded berth in the 1979 Section 8 high school hockey tournament.

Top four regular season finishers in the Section 8 point standings earn automatic Section 8 tournament berths. The other 12 teams must earn their tournament spots through sub region play. The Prowlers, while assured of a top four finish, can gain an even more favorable seed with wins this week over Warroad Tuesday and Fergus Falls Friday. Both games will have 7:30 p.m. starts in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

It was an evenly matched 1-1 hockey game when the Prowlers floored the visiting Lakers with their one-two third period scoring punch.

Defenseman Dave Geatz broke the tie at 4:03 with a long slap shot. A Detroit Lakes defender was face-to-face with Geatz as he crossed the blue line. He stiffened to block the shot, but Geatz got his shot by him and the puck sailed past goalie Mark Thorson. The Prowlers won the ensuing face-off, threw the puck into the attacking zone and Jeff Ulrich went into the corner to set up Jim Thompson in front at 4:13.

Detroit Lakes' Craig Caulfield scored his second goal of the game with a long power play slap shot that beat Thief River Falls goalie Bill Jury high and to the glove side at 8:44 for a 3-2 game.

But less than a minute later, with both sides skating a man short, Thief River Falls' Todd Trickle matched Caulfield with his second goal as he got the puck in the slot and shot quickly to beat Rick Wallin who had replaced Thorson following Thompson's goal.

"I thought we played a good hockey game," said Detroit Lakes coach Ken Anderson. "A couple of goals where we had a mental lapse beat us."

Defenseman Mark Huot, who missed three games because of an ankle injury, returned to the Thief River Falls line-up, but the Prowlers played without the services of captain Scott Sabo who was sick and played only the final 20 seconds when he won a face-off in the Thief River Falls end with the Lakers pulling their goalie to strengthen a power play opportunity.

"Considering the fact we played without Sabo, I thought we played a pretty decent hockey game," explained Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand whose club is now 13-5. "It was encouraging to see us take it to them in the third period."

In Sabo's absence, Wade Hoppe's line, with Ulrich and Thompson on the wings, drew Detroit Lakes' talented Andy Ogren - Bill Ries - Bob Landry unit. "We matched Hoppe's line with their big guys and they did well," praised Grand.

"We have a good hockey team," pointed out Anderson. "We just got beat by a team that was better than us."

Northwest Division Title Is Shared By Northmen, Spartans

Final Northwest Division

	w	l
Northland	9	2
Fergus Falls	9	2
Brainerd	4	7
Crookston	2	9

Combining wins over Itasca, 97-85, and Hibbing, 117-88, with a Fergus Falls loss to Mesabi, the Northland community college basketball team pulled into a first place tie with the Spartans in the Northwest Division standings as the 1978-79 regular season came to a close over the weekend.

Fergus Falls owned a one-game lead over Northland as both teams started out on season-ending Iron Range road trips. The Spartans beat Vermilion, but lost to undefeated Northeast Division champion Mesabi to finish with a 9-2 MJCAA mark — same as the Northmen. The two teams split one-sided home court decisions during the year to finish as true co-champions.

Northland, Fergus Falls, Mesabi and Vermilion will all be participants in the 1979 MJCAA state basketball tournament scheduled to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids.

With division champions playing division runner-ups in the first round of the MJCAA state basketball tournament, a coin flip was needed to decide the positioning of Northland and Fergus Falls. The Spartans won the flip, conducted Sunday, and will play Anoka-Ramsey at 1 p.m. Thursday while the Northmen draw pre-tournament favorite Golden Valley Lutheran at 8:30 that night. In the other matches, Mesabi meets Willmar and Vermilion faces Worthington.

AFTER DEFLECTING a shot by Northland community college wing Lyle Johnson (10), Rochester goalie Cliff White kept an eye on the airborne puck during Saturday's hockey game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. The Northmen won 13-3.

Itasca 85

Northland attempted 41 shots in both the first and second half against Itasca Friday at Grand Rapids. But the Northmen made only 12 of those first half attempts (29 per cent) to trail 36-34 at intermission while hitting 25 second half shots (61 per cent) en route to a 97-85 win.

The slow-starting Northmen trailed 26-13 with 8:30 remaining in the first half. The Vikings maintained a 32-20 edge with 3:45 left before Northland went on a 14-4 offense tear to pull within 36-34 at halftime.

Northland finally managed to overtake Itasca when Joe Kraska scored with 15:18 to go, putting the Northmen on top 48-47. Northland never relinquished that lead, although Itasca trailed only 85-83 with 1:42 on the clock before surrendering 10 points in a 50-second Northland barrage.

Sophomore forward Jerry Hooten paced the Northmen with a 20-point, 13-rebound game that also included five loose ball recoveries. Vince Parker scored 18 points for the Northmen while Doug Engelman and Keith Charbonneau added 11 apiece. Blane Senn collected a game-high 24 points for the Vikings who finished last in the Northeast Division with a 1-11 record.

Combining the two halves of shooting together, Northland was 37-for-82 for 45 per cent from the field. Itasca was 35-for-71 for 49 per cent. Northland's offense was aided by a 23-for-34 free throw night while Itasca made 15 of 25 gift tosses. Northland owned a 55-47 rebound advantage and Itasca led the turnover charts 21-17.

Northland's fast-breaking offense produced a 67-45 halftime cushion and the Northmen went on to beat Hibbing 117-88 Saturday afternoon.

Keith Charbonneau scored 19 of his team-leading 26 points in the first half. Jeff Neelan contributed a strong 20-point, 15-rebound game while Joe Kraska collected 16 points and Jerry Hooten completed an outstanding weekend by scoring 14 points, pulling down 13 rebounds, handing out five assists, blocking four shots and grabbing a near-record 12 loose ball recoveries.

Northland shot 52 per cent from the field, hitting 52 of 101 attempts, after shooting at a 67 per cent clip in the first half. Hibbing, with Jerry Aker and Marv Vuicich scoring 49 of the Cardinals' 88 points, shot 42 per cent on a 40-for-96 showing. The Northmen were 13-for-23 at the free throw line where the Cardinals were 8-for-15. Northland out-rebounded Hibbing 68-64. The 59 turnovers were nearly evenly split, with 30 charged against Hibbing.

Northland ended the regular season schedule with a 16-6 record. Hibbing finished 2-10, one game ahead of Itasca in the race to avoid the Northeast Division basement.

NCC Sweeps Rochester, Finish With .500 Record

Final regular season weekend series for the Northland community college hockey team produced a 13-3, 6-3 sweep over Rochester Saturday and Sunday in nonconference play in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The double triumph completed a .500 season for the Northmen who finished 10-10 overall and 8-8 in MJCAA play, the best Northland finish since a 14-9-1 mark in 1972-73 and only the third non-losing season the Northmen have had in nine years of intercollegiate hockey.

"It was a good weekend in that everybody got to play and we worked on a lot of fundamentals — Like breakout patterns," explained Northland coach Bob Lundbohm who used the series as a warm-up for the 1979 MJCAA state hockey tournament scheduled to be played in Thief River Falls Saturday and Sunday.

First round pairings Sunday will find Rainy River playing Crookston at 6 p.m., with Northland taking on regular season MJCAA champion Hibbing at 8:30. On Sunday, the consolation game will start at 1 p.m., with the state championship game scheduled for 3:30.

Northland freshman Doug Dallmann of Thief River Falls was limited to just one goal and five assists against Rochester to bring his season totals to 31-24 for 55 points. He is two goals behind the school single season record set by Warroad's Leo Marshall in 1971-72 and 10 points behind the school single season point record shared by Marshall and Lundbohm during that 1971-72 season.

Rochester 3

Karl Chromy, a sophomore from Park River, N.D., collected the hat trick and finished with four points as Northland handled Rochester 13-3 in Saturday night's series opener.

Steve Geatz, Mike Malberg and Mark Koehn all scored twice for the Northmen who led 3-1 at the end of one period, 8-2 after two and then shot a 9-3 lead to 13-3 in a two-minute span late in the third period.

Completing the Northland scoring were Mike Olson, Gary Laidley, Scott Bergland and Doug Dallmann who also picked up three assists.

Rochester offered little in the way of offense, managing just 12 shots on goal through the first two periods. The Northmen out-shot the Yellowjackets 46-24 for the game.

In addition to the late game flurry that included goals by Bergland at 16:40, Koehn at 17:09, Dallmann at 17:21 and Chromy at 18:25, the Northmen executed a two-goal quickie midway through the second period when Koehn and Laidley scored just seven seconds apart.

Northland 6
Rochester 3

Thief River Falls sophomores Bill Olson and Gary Laidley scored two goals apiece as Northland won Sunday afternoon's penalty-marred regular season wind-up 6-3.

Laidley, easily the team's most improved player, was also credited with two assists as the Northmen skated to a 3-1 first period lead that included goals spaced just 21 seconds apart in the final two minutes by Olson and Laidley and opened up a 6-3 second period cushion when Steve Geatz scored just 11 seconds into the stanza.

Gordy Markstrom also scored for the Northmen who limited Rochester to just seven shots on goal through two periods.

Tom Kothenbeutel, a freshman from Rochester John Marshall, scored all three Rochester goals.

The game deteriorated into a steady march to the penalty box. There were 32 penalties called in the game, including 15 in the third period. Rochester was charged with 17 infractions and Northland accumulated 15 penalties.

Poker Run Has 72 Participants

Seventy-two participated in Wednesday's snowmobile poker run that included a draw at the American Legion.

Ervin Olson held the high hand, Ed Haraldson drew the low hand and Millie Dahl won the door prize.

This week's draw will be held at Lon's.

A DETROIT LAKES player celebrated a third period goal as Thief River Falls goalie Bill Jury sprawled on the ice during Friday's Section 8 high school hockey game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. The puck went in and came back out again on a long slap shot by the Lakers' Craig Caulfield. Thief River Falls won the game 4-2.

District 32 Opener . . .

Nordics Defense Rockets 49-36

A strong Marshall County Central defensive effort held Kennedy to 20 points through three quarters Saturday as the Nordics opened District 32 high school basketball tournament play with a 49-36 win over the Rockets at Roseau.

"We played pretty well," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We played excellent defense. We went with a man-to-man most of the way and our kids did a real good job."

Both teams were 17-for-45 from the field (38 per cent), but the Nordics were 15-for-26 at the free throw line where the Rockets were only 2-for-7.

Kevin Anderson led the Nordics with a 17-point, 12-rebound game. Ray Kvalvog scored 11 points for the winners who held a 31-20 edge on the boards. Vern Lysford and Randy Dahl scored 14 and 10 points, respectively, for the Rockets.

Marshall County Central will carry an 11-8 record into tonight's (Monday) District 32 quarterfinal game against Hallock at 8:30 p.m. at Roseau.

East Grand Forks beat Crookston 56-45 Friday, allowing Bemidji to earn an out-right 1978-79 Northwest Athletic Conference high school basketball title.

The Green Wave overcame a 35-34 third quarter deficit by out-scoring the Pirates 17-10 in the final eight minutes. Todd Selk led the winners with 18 points and John Roche contributed 10. Dan Royal and Tim Knotek scored 12 points apiece for the Pirates who could have been conference co-champions with the Lumberjacks with a victory.

Bemidji and East Grand Forks finished with identical 4-2 NWAC records, but in the title-deciding conference point standings, the Lumberjacks held a 6-5 edge over both the Green Wave and Pirates.

In other final regular season scores, it was Wadena 56, Crookston 42; Grand Forks Central 66, Bemidji 40; Grand Forks Red River 67, East Grand Forks 52; Warren 59, Thief River Falls 53; International Falls 53, Bemidji 44; Wheaton 63, Fergus Falls 57; and Thief River Falls 60, Park Rapids 48.

Prowlers Finish With A 70-48 Win Over Panthers

Lincoln high school basketball team completed a 9-9 regular season record Saturday with a 70-48 win at Park Rapids. Weather forced the postponement of the game from its orginally scheduled Thursday tip-off.

Park Rapids led 16-14 at the end of the first quarter, but Thief River Falls went ahead 33-22 at halftime and built a 46-34 lead in the third quarter.

"We played just well enough to win," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Glen Peters. "We did not play that well even though we scored a lot of points."

Steve Enderlein led the Prowlers offensively with 16 points. Jeff Oseid scored 14 and Jim Nyland added 13. Ten Panthers scored, but none of them reached double figures in the mistake-marred game.

Thief River Falls shot 47 per cent from the field, hitting 24 of 51 shots. Park Rapids shot only 36 per cent, connecting on 20 of 55 attempts. The Prowlers were supplied with 37 free throw opportunities and they made 22 of them. The Panthers were 8-for-18 at the line. Thief River Falls held a 38-22 rebound advantage.

Girls Top Pirates 40-34, Lose To Fosston 39-38

A 40-34 winner over Crookston Friday, the Lincoln high school girls basketball team dropped a 39-38 decision to Fosston Saturday for a 7-8 season record.

Thief River Falls faces a Region 8AA title contender Tuesday when the Prowlers travel to Detroit Lakes for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Crookston 34

Crookston out-scored Thief River Falls 12-8 in the first quarter, but it took the Pirates two more quarters before they got their next dozen and the host Prowlers won the Friday game, set back one day because of the weather, 40-34.

Thief River Falls went ahead 20-18 at halftime and led 28-24 at the end of the third quarter.

Julie Easton scored 11 points and pulled down eight rebounds for the Prowlers, with sophomore guard Ann Goodrich adding 10 points. Heidi Broekemeier scored 12 points for the Pirates.

Thief River Falls shooters connected on 14 of 53 field goal attempts for 27 per cent. The Prowlers were 12-for-15 at the free throw line where the Pirates were 8-for-12. Thief River Falls held a 33-26 rebound advantage.

Marlys Huot scored 12 points and Karen Kloety had 11 as Thief River Falls won the junior varsity game 34-28.

Fosston 39

Fosston turned a one-point third quarter deficit into a one-point Saturday victory, 39-38.

The two teams played to an 8-8 first quarter draw. Fosston built a 19-16 halftime lead but fell behind 30-29 at the end of the third quarter.

Eighth grader Vickie Winkler led the Greyhounds with 15 points. Julie Easton scored 13 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for the Prowlers while Roberta Engel and Pam Kotschevar added 10 points apiece.

Duplicating Friday's shooting figure, Thief River Falls again shot 27 per cent from the field on a 14-for-52 night. But this time the Prowlers were only 10-for-19 at the free throw line. Fosston fared even worse — 7-for-17.

Matching the 7-8 varsity level, the Thief River Falls junior varsity lost to Fosston 42-35.

Eagles, Cards Are Winners In Basketball

Grygla and Plummer were narrow weekend winners in girls high school basketball as the Eagles edged Middle River 33-29 and the Cardinals outlasted Strandquist 39-37 in overtime.

Grygla — Middle River

Grygla ran its impressive record to 15-1 with a 33-29 victory at Middle River as Sherri Anderson scored 13 points and Jill Saurdiff had 12. Betsy Abrahamson scored 11 points for the Skippers.

The two teams played to a 7-7 first quarter draw. Grygla opened up an 18-12 halftime lead and stretched it to 27-1 in the third quarter.

Grygla will play at Humboldt Thursday before finishing the year Mon., Feb. 26, at Karlstad.

Plummer — Strandquist

Melanie Skjerven scored the only points in a three-minute overtime session as Plummer got by visiting Strandquist 39-37 in overtime Saturday.

Diane Fisher, who missed two free throws with five seconds left in a 37-37 regulation time game, led the Cardinals with 13 points. Skjerven scored 11. Janeen Borowicz scored a game-high 14 points for the Warriors.

Plummer doubled Strandquist 12-6 in the first quarter and led 21-13 at halftime before the margin was reduced to 30-29 in the third quarter.

Now 10-4, Plummer will host Oklee Tuesday and will be at Clearbrook Friday.

Park Rapids Out-Scores LHS B Squad 60-53

Thief River Falls, finishing the 1978-79 season with a 6-12 record, trailed at the quarter stops 20-11, 32-26 and 46-31.

Mark Lundin scored 15 points for Thief River Falls, Mitch Muzzy 12 and Bob Schelling 10.

Workshop On Refugees To Be Held Thur.

Background, goals and resources in dealing with the world refuge situation will be the topics of a workshop to be held at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Thursday, Feburary 22, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Featured speaker will be Rev. John Matthews of Trinity Lutheran church in Moorhead. Rev. Matthews, task force representative of Lutheran social services in the Northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church, will also conduct a question and answer session.

Refuge task force committee members who work with Matthews include Estelle Corind from Thief River Falls along with: Eunice Heglund, Bemidji; Paul Mathre, Twin Valley; Carl Prischman, Elizabeth; Cy Milbrath, Duluth; Tom Halvorson, Detroit Lakes; Rolf Wangberg, International Falls; and Herman Larson, Moorhead.

Commenting on needs of refugees, Grinde states, "The world refugee situation is daily becoming more urgent in its needs as thousands continue to flee from the tyranny of communism. In southeastern Asia the refugee camps become overcrowded resulting in scarcity of food, water, medical supplies and living areas. As the waiting seems endless in hoping for sponsorship by friendly nations, boredom and depression become common afflictions.

"Every state in the U.S. has become involved in sponsorship activities in addition to 28 other nations of the world. The Lutheran Immigration Service in the U.S. has approximately 200 families a month who are processed and waiting for sponsoring congregations.

State governments are also involved in this activity. Governor Ray of Iowa has become very concerned about the refugee problem. After viewing the film "Boat People," he telephoned President Carter to say that his state would sponsor 1,500 more refugees in addition to the 3,000 already established in Iowa. He stated, "We who have so much owe to these who, through no fault of their own, have lost everything." The industry and work records of the refugees were also empahsized by Governor Ray. He stated that none in the state of Iowa were welfare recipients and that one third of the refugees had already purchased their own homes.

"Although much has been done to relieve the suffering of these homeless poeple, the task remaining is one of immense proportions."

Grinde explains that the task force hopes to see each pastor in the Thief River Falls conference of the ALC present at the workshop with at least two lay persons from each congregation. She also states that the workshop is open to any interested persons who may wish to attend.

Must Display Vehicle Tabs By March 2

Owners of trucks and other miscellaneous vehicles must display the 1979 registration stickers or license plates by 12:01 a.m. March 2 if the vehicle is driven on public roads, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Trucks, vans and recreational vehicles must show the 1979 gross weight sticker near the bottom edge of the license plate, said Ken Dirkzwager, director of the driver and vehicle services division.

"Put the 1979 sticker directly over the old one. It's not necessary to stencil the gross weight on the vehicle because the sticker is coded with the vehicle's weight limit," he said.

Buses, semi-trailers, motorcycles and motorized bicycles (mopeds) will display 1979 year stickers without the weight limit code.

Owners who have not registered their vehicles may stop at any deputy registrar's office or at the driver and vehicle services office in the Transportation building near the State Capitol in St. Paul.

Record Set In Building Costs

New high was reached in 1978 in total construction cost in the city of Thief River Falls, according to a year-end report from city building inspector Bob Bregier. Number of permits issued, however, was down. The total cost of construction was $8,577,171, topped the former high of $7,570,972 in 1975 and was up nearly three million from last year's total construction cost of $5,577,171. The 337 building permits issued in 1978 did not match last year's historical high of 375 but were up from the 1976 total of 225.

The largest buildings constructed or under construction in 1978 included the Westside Motors building with an estimated cost of $320,000; Thief River Falls city fire hall, $329,000; AVTI addition, $2,202,000; and the Executive Builders 12 townhouse dwellings, $400,000. Most substantial remodeling of non-residential buildings was done at the First Northwestern bank, $135,000; and the Falls Theatre building, $205,000.

A new record was also set in the number of single family dwellings erected in 1978 and the cost per unit was up substantially. A total of 76 permits were processed for single family dwellings and average cost was $37,836.82. This is in comparison to last year's total of 56 permits issued with an average dwelling costing $34,821. Total construction cost for single family dwellings in 1978 was $2,799,925 compared to $1,949,992 last year.

Permits for remodeling and repairing of houses dropped from a total of 233 issued in 1977 to 169 in 1978, but the cost of repairs completed rose from $410,147 to $501,799.

Also in 1978 one permit was issued for three new apartment dwellings in an existing complex with cost estimated at $10,000; 43 permits were issued for new residential garages, $158,850; 20 were processed for new non-residential buildings, $4,326,400; and 30 were issued for remodeling non-residential buildings, $560,228.

The year-end report shows a slight increase in fees collected for building permits with the 1978 total at $8,831.94 and the 1977 figure reaching $8,612.49.

Bregier also indicated that beginning in 1979 he will also be responsible for inspecting the installation of all mobile homes and that a permit must be obtained for such installations from the city.

Award County $5,366 Bridge Allotment

Pennington county will receive $5,366 as its share of the $1,544,048 in township bridge funds allocated to qualifying counties, according to Gordon Fay, director, office of state aid, Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT). With 15 deficient township bridges, the county has estimated needs of $344,000, and total available monies equal $12,197.

Established by the 1975 state legislature, the town bridge account assists those counties with two or more organized townships to replace deficient township bridges 10 feet or more in length. This account can be used to fund up to 90 per cent of the cost to replace the deficient bridge.

The 1978 allotment was $1,443,360. That for 1977 was $1,364,000 and for 1976 it was $1,265,633.

To date, Fay said, the counties have been authorized to replace 225 deficient township bridges with $3,751,023 from the town bridge account. As of Jan. 1, 2,403 township bridges were deficient.

County engineers hold public meetings to discuss priorities for replacing deficient bridges within their area. After the public meetings are held, the county boards pass resolutions to set bridge replacement priorities. Engineers then apply to Mn-DOT for these funds.

Replacement funds are granted only after Mn-DOT approval of the bridge plans and only for construction of the structure. Local units of government must pay for removal of the old structure, engineering costs and approach grading.

Deficient bridges are those structures which do not meet minimum standards in one or more of the categories of load, condition, width or clearance.

Prescription Drugs Topic Of Friday Meeting

Information on understanding prescription drugs will be presented at an open meeting Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room.

Linda Erickson, a local pharmacist, will give suggestions for stocking a home medicine chest as well as instruct participants in ways to communicate with a pharmacist.

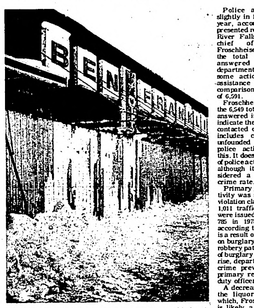
Anyone who has questions about prescription drugs — their cost, side effects or recommended dosage — is invited to bring those questions to this meeting.

Program is sponsored by the Pennington county extension service.

Thermograms To Be On Display

In an effort to help local citizens discover the amount of heat loss in their homes the Thief River Falls city planning office will have aerial infrared photos on display in the city auditorium February 22 and 23 from 4 to 8 p.m. City staff will be on hand to help citizens interpret the thermograms and to give advice on solving whatever insulation problems may exist.

Slight Decline In '78 Police Activity



BEN FRANKLIN STORE in Thief River Falls closed before it opened Monday when weight of snow caused the large metal awning to collapse about 8 a.m. The awning pulled loose for the entire width of the store front and folded down flush against the store front, effectively sealing off the front doors and show windows. Although there were employees in the store at the time and there had been considerable sidewalk traffic past the store earlier, no one was under the awning when it collapsed. The incident caused a hurried rash of snow scraping from other awnings in the downtown area. Lack of wind with snowfalls during the winter has resulted in accumulations on roofs and other exposed surfaces and the build-up of weight creates a hazard.

Police activity declined slightly in 1978 from the 1977 year, according to a report presented recently to the Thief River Falls city council by chief of police Ken Froschheiser. The report gave the total number of calls answered by the police department officials where some action was taken or assistance given as 6,549 in comparison to last year's total of 6,591.

Froschheiser explains that the 6,549 total represents calls answered in 1977, it does not indicate the number of people contacted or arrested and it includes calls which were unfounded but still required police action to determine this. It does give an indication of police activity over the year although it can not be considered a reflection of the crime rate.

Primary decrease in activity was seen in the traffic violation classification. In 1977 1,011 traffic violation tickets were issued compared to only 785 in 1978. This decrease, according to the police chief, is a result of greater emphasis on burglary patrol and armed robbery patrol. With incidence of burglary and robbery on the rise, department policy made crime prevention patrol the primary responsibility of on-duty officers.

A decrease is also noted in the liquor laws violations which, Froschheiser explains, is likely a result of the enforcement program put into effect in 1978. With an officer on duty at the off-sale liquor facility, incidence of minors attempting to purchase an alcoholic beverage and individuals furnishing liquor to minors has declined.

An increase was seen in false alarms with the 1978 total reaching 534, or more than a call a day. An example of a typical false alarm is the accidental activation of electronic surveillance devices by business employees or owners. Assistance calls also showed an increase from 397 to 530. These calls range from someone needing help in anything from getting into a car to getting a cat down from a tree.

Total mileage driven by patrol units increased by 9,793 miles in 1978 from 136,000 to 145,793. This is accounted for partly by city growth with officers having more territory to cover in patrolling and also by the police department's participation in 1978 in airport security. During the majority of the year five trips a day were made to the airport. Now, however, the number of trips has been reduced to three.

In the report of activities calls are classified according to the most serious violation when more than one violation is involved unless a call includes a motor vehicle accident. When a motor vehicle accident is included the call is counted in the accident classification and in the offense classification since it is important to keep a record of the number of accidents.

For example the number of curfew violations in the report

Lincoln HS To Perform "The Sound Of Music"

Rogers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music" has been chosen by Lincoln high school director David Morken as the 1979 Lincoln musical production. March 23, 24, 26 and 27 are the performance dates for the annual musical. Directing the orchestra will be James Solsten.

Cast in the lead roles of Maria and Captain Von Trapp are Ruth Ferber and Tom Bjorkman with Jane Olson cast as Mother Superior. Liz Brodin will play the part of Elsa Schrader, Bill Saetre will be Max Detweiller, Kathy Achenbach will be Leisl Von Trapp and Dave Beito will play Rolf Gruber. The Von Trapp children include: Freidrich, Bill Hustad; Louisa, Lisa Nelson; Kurt, Rob Blankenfeld; Brigitta, Leslie Weigand; Marta, Julie Hanson; Gretl, Meredith Green.

Deb Green will take the part of Sister Margaretta; Deb Fearn, Sister Sophia; and Jody Ripley, Sister Berthe. Jan Swanson is cast as Frau Schmidt, the maid, and Brett Carter will play Franz the butler. Nazi soldiers and officers include Brian Ranum as Admiral Von Schriber and Dave Waale as Herr Zeller.

This show, which includes such popular tunes as "Do Re Mi," "My Favorite Things," and "Edelweiss," opened in New York on November 16, 1959, and starred Mary Martin. It played three years in New York before taking a national tour. "The Sound of Music" has been chosen as a repeat of the 1965 high school production.

Draw Winners Of Presidents' Days Prizes

Four communities were represented among the seven winners of merchandise in the Presidents' Day bargain blitz drawing held Wednesday in Thief River Falls. Winners drawn in the free registration may pick up their prizes at the chamber of commerce office.

Winners include Mrs. Walter Bradley, Roseau, 13-inch color television set; Jassie Miramontes, Thief River Falls, microwave oven; Esther Fixter, Thief River Falls, Skil saw; Marles Sagstuen, Newfolden, chain saw; Edwin Sjulestad, Goodridge, 10-speed bicycle; Doris Hallquist, Thief River Falls, electric grass trimmer; and Jim M. Berg, Thief River Falls, $50 in groceries.

Lincoln School Situation Aired

Because of the age variation in five segments of the Lincoln high school complex, the Thief River Falls board of education was advised by an architect Monday evening to meet with state department of education officials before becoming deeply involved with program planning and extensive building renovation.

Dan Gallagher, architect for the new area vocational-technical institute now under construction, reviewed with the board his observations following an inspection of the complex, made at the board's request. He pointed out that the newest part of the building — the vocational section to be vacated when the new AVTI is completed — will be 25 years old this year.

Next newest part of the composite building is the northern segment which includes the gymnasium, auditorium, home economics and science rooms, second floor classrooms and library. That part of the building was built as a WPA project in 1938; it is now 41 years old.

The "old Lincoln" portion of the building was built in 1910 — nearly 70 years ago — with an addition in 1919 which houses the present boiler room, vocal music room and other areas. Oldest part of the complex — old Washington — was built in 1901 and was vacated this year. It is expected that the old Washington building will be demolished as a safety measure in the near future.

Upon recommendation of the architect, the school board has scheduled a meeting on March 26 with Fred Christiansen, director of school facilities planning and operations for the Minnesota department of education. That meeting in Thief River Falls should give an indication of what alternatives the board will have in preparing for future high school programs.

Enrollment projections of the district indicate that Lincoln will hit its low point in current day enrollment in 1983. Larger class sizes after that time will once again tax the space of the existing facilities.

13 ACP Practices Approved

Conservation Projects Are In Farmers' Hands

Pennington county farmers participating in the agricultural conservation program (ACP) for 1979 must file their requests and receive approval before starting on their practices, according to information received at the county agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS) office.

Thirteen practices designed to help prevent soil loss from wind and water erosion, solve pollution problems and conserve wildlife in Pennington county have been approved for 1979 — essentially the same program as that offered last year. Cost share is being limited to 75 per cent on all projects this year.

Ruth Hanson, who administers the ACP program in the county ASCS office, said that the county has been allocated $45,530 for its ACP payments in 1979. A similar allocation was received in 1978, she said, but demand was for more than that amount and a supplemental appropriation was received from funds not used by other counties. Payments under the ACP program in Pennington county last year were in excess of $60,000.

Most popular programs a year ago were for tree planting, water control structures for drainage, water impoundment reserviors and shallow water impoundments for wildlife.

Cost shares are not only limited to 75 per cent of the cost of establishing the practice the first year, Mrs. Hanson said, but may not exceed $3,500 per producer. Regulations also provide that cost shares must be returned by the recipient if the practices established are not maintained for their designated lifespan.

In addition to approval by the county ASCS committee, projects requiring assistance from the soil conservation service (SCS) must also be approved by that agency before cost share work is begun.

Long-term agreements are being offered for 1979 and can cover a period from three to 10 years. Farmers who have a number of conservation problems which can be solved by ACP practices over a period of years may work out a conservation plan of operation with the SCS and be guaranteed a cost share of 75 per cent of the cost of the practices. Sign-up period for the long-term agreements ends June 29.

Mrs. Hanson encourages farmers interested in participating in the program or having questions about it to stop at the office located in the federal office building on Dale street in Thief River Falls or call 681-1612. A list of the approved practices is as follows:

SL1 Permanent Vegetative Cover Establishment — Applicable to cropland which is subject to wind or water erosion to be seeded to permanent vegetative cover and retired from row or close-sown crops except for the crop used to establish the seeding. Soil test is required. Vegetative cover must be maintained 5 years following the year of seeding.

SL2 Permanent Vegetative Cover Improvement — Applies to land permanently retired from row or close sown crops, in vegetative cover needing improvement or protection to control erosion. Six year lifespan.

SL5 Diversions — Eligible on farmland subject to erosion from excess surface or subsurface water runoff where the problem can be corrected by Diversion facilities. Lifespan -10 years following year of establishment.

SL7 Windbreak Restoration or Establishment — Cost sharing is authorized for restoring or establishing field or farmstead windbreaks where needed for protection against wind erosion. Lifespan-10 years following year of establishment.

SL7B Thinning or Pruning Field Windbreaks — Applies to field windbreaks where the density of shrubs and-or trees result in excessive buildup of snow. Windbreaks must be maintained 5 years following the year of thinning or pruning.

SL11 Permanent Vegetative Cover on Critical Areas — Applies to areas which are susceptible to erosion and where runoff carrying substantial amounts of sediment constitutes a significant pollution hazard. Lifespan-5 years following year of establishment.

WC1 Water Impoundment Reserviors — Purpose is to control erosion and prevent or reduce pollution of water or land; to provide multiple benefits when possible, including conservation of water for agricultural or wildlife uses. Lifespan-20 years following year of establishment.

WP1 Sediment Retention, Erosion or Water Control

TRF Churches Plan World Day Of Prayer Service

Plans for the local observance of World Day of Prayer were made at a recent meeting of representatives from the participating churches in this city.

This annual day of prayer has been observed in Thief River Falls for a number of years. This year, Redeemer Lutheran church will host the service, and, as in the past, men and women of all area churches are welcome to attend. The service has been set for Friday, March 3, beginning at 10 a.m. The theme will be "Spiritual Growth."

Presiding at the planning session was Ann Haugen, president of Redeemer Lutheran Church Women. Representatives from local churches, who assisted her in the planning were: Cheryl Berg and Jeanette Arhart of Zion Lutheran church; Vi Sullivan and Helen Bushaw of St. Bernard's Catholic church; and Betty Kezar and Ruth Wilkinson of St. John Lutheran church;

Also Verna Christensen and Naomi Lindquist of the Evangeilcal Free church; Catherine Spengler and Marge Green of the United Methodist church; Rema Hannestad and Meredith Armstrong of the First Baptist church; Maxine McEwen of Redeemer and May Isaacson of Trinity Lutheran church.

Although the representatives of the Evangelical Covenant church were unable to attend the planning session, the congregation is one of the churches sponsoring World Day of Prayer.

Tonia Lee Larson and Douglas E. Booth Wed

Tonia Lee Larson and Douglas Edward Booth exchanged marriage vows at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city on December 30 at 1:30 p.m.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville D. Larson of Holt. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Booth, Thief River Falls.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony were Rev. Don Knudson of Redeemer and Rev. Lea Johnson of the White Earth Lutheran camps at Waubun. Organist was Mrs. Donald Mosbeck of Red Lake Falls. During the ceremony, the assembled guests sang, "Love Came Down at Christmas;" and Miss Diane Mosbeck of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Carol Johnson of the White Earth Lutheran camps, Waubun, sang, "The Wedding Song." "Whither Thou Goest" was sung by the bride.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in white crepe-backed satin gown made by her mother. The gown was styled with a fitted bodice with fitted lace sleeves and a lace yoke with a high neckline featuring a satin band and self ruffle. Her A-line skirt was edged with a ruffled hemline with lace trim. A matching ruffle complemented her chapel-length train. Dainty lace trim edged her waist-length veil held by a lace over satin cap-style headpiece trimmed in back by a small satin ribbon bow. Her veil was also made by her mother. She carried an arm styled bouquet of three long-stemmed red roses on a bed of cedar, ferns and babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Connie Benitt, Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride. She was attired in a dark blue crepe-backed satin gown fashioned with elbow-length puffed sleeves and a V neckline with stand-up collar.

Similar gowns in light blue and deep blue, were worn by the bridesmaids: Sherry Hjelle, Thief River Falls, and Stephanie White, Moorhead, friends of the bride. All carried a solitary, long-stemmed, red rose backed by cedar, ferns and babies' breath.

Byron Stuart, a friend of the couple, was best man. Groomsmen were David Cork and Tony Brennan, friends of the groom. They were attired in light blue tuxedos with white ruffled shirts and black trousers. Their boutonnieres were white carnations with the best man's centered with a red rose. The groom wore a white tuxedo with a light blue ruffled shirt and black trousers. His boutonniere consisted of a single red rose with white babies' breath.

Serving as ushers were Jerald Larson, Holt, brother of the bride, and Dennis Booth, brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a silver-blue floor-length gown with a V-neckline, long cuffed sleeves and a belted waistline. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece ensemble featuring a violet floor-length skirt topped by a violet print, long-sleeved blouse with a cowl neckline and a belted waistline.

Honor guests were Mrs. Lloyd Haagenson, Thief River Falls, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Olaf Olson, Lengby, grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larson, Holt, great uncle and aunt of the bride; and Miss Kathleen Sorensen, Fargo, a friend of the bride, who served as the bride's personal attendant.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Haagenson, uncle and aunt of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Larson, Holt, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, registered the guests as Susan Botner, Thief River Falls, and Kim Lammer, Moorhead, friends of the groom, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a five-tiered wedding cake with alternating layers in chocolate and white. The cake was iced in white and decorated with flowers in shades of blue, together with white doves and wedding bells. Topping the cake were a traditional bride and groom in modern setting. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Kenneth Boyum of Greenbush and Mrs. Lowell Larson, Thief River Falls, aunts of the bride. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Don Larson, Carrington, N.D., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John Thorstad, Thief River Falls, godmother of the groom.

Waitresses were LeAnn Larson, Carrington, N.D., and Becky and Bonny Boyum of Milwaukee, Wis., cousins of the bride. Mrs. Jack Chrzanowski, a cousin of the bride, and Darcy Olson, a friend, arranged the gifts. Gift bearers were Renee Larson, Darrin Haagenson, cousins of the bride, and Tony and Elmer Eychaner, Holt, foster brothers of the bride. Julene Eychaner, Holt, foster sister of the bride, and Loren Haagenson, cousin of the bride, distributed the wedding programs.

Out of town guests were from Fargo, Bismarck and Carrington, N.D.; Des Moines and Forrest City, Iowa, Shawnee, Kans., Holt, Middle River, Gatzke, Plummer, Newfolden, Goodridge, Lengby, Erskine, Waubun, Fosston, Detroit Lakes, Moose Lake, Red Lake Falls, Minnetonka, Minneapolis and Bemidji. Phenology Will Be Studied By Campanula Club

Phenology, the study of natural phenomena that recur periodically and their relation to climate and changes in season, will be the year's program theme of the Campanula garden club, according to an announcement made at the meeting of the group held February 14 at the Valley Home conference room.

President Geneva Overum presided at the meeting. In explaining phenology, she told of daily weather reports that she has kept for years and also displayed her charts. She showed other examples of phenology published in the January issue of the Horticultural magazine.

Miss Overum also announced the Horticultural meeting to be held at Kiehl hall at the Crookston winter shows, as well as the Senior Citizen's day activities. She stated that the Spring Workshop will be held March 31 at Roseau, and that the 13th District Flower Show has been scheduled for August 8 at Viking.

During the business session, members decided that lunch dues will be raised to 35 cents and that transportation fees will be the same. The treasurer was also instructed to send Mrs. Christ Saustad an appreciation gift for making the club's program booklets which were distributed to the members.

Adding interest to the meeting was a report on the book, "A Herbal or general history of plants," given by Ruth Holmes. The book was passed around for members to examine.

The meeting began with the reading of the purposes of the club and the January and February poems. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Emil Koglin, the treasurer's report by Bertha Hastad, and the good cheer report by Bernice Knutson. Correspondence included thank-you letters from Anna Magnuson and Martha Matheson. Nine members and one guest, Olga Klungness, attended the meeting, which included an exchange of Valentines. Joining the group for lunch were Mrs. Don Fugleberg, and Rev. Berton Hushagen. Following lunch, all attended the church services in the chapel with Rev. Hushagen in charge.

Larson-Gruetzmacher Engagement Announced

Rev. and Mrs. Richard E. Larson of Madrid, Spain announce the engagement of their daughter, Melodee Rae, to Larry Gruetzmacher, son of Rev. and Mrs. Calvin R. Gruetzmacher of Houston, Tex.

The bride-elect is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Paulson of this city. She is attending North Central Bible college in Minneapolis where she is a junior. Her fiance is also attending North Central Bible college and will graduate this year with a Bachelor of Arts degree in pastoral studies.

The wedding will take place May 19, at Fridley Assembly of God church in Minneapolis.

Banding of Birds Studied by Deer Park Garden Club

Judy Alderson of the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge was guest speaker at the recent Deer Park garden club meeting held at the Leo Ellingson home in Goodridge.

In her presentation, she told of her work in assisting with the banding of birds at the refuge. She stated that most of the birds banded were waterfowl, the majority of them being mallards. She said that the reason for banding was to trace and study the bird's movements, family groupings and diseases. She displayed several certificates recording the discovery of banded birds and the return of the bands. It was noted that the discovery of the carcass of a two-year old male Baltimore Oriole, banded by the University of Manitoba on June 20, 1977 had been found July 10, 1977 in Moylan township, Marshall county.

Club president Mrs. Leo Ellingson presided at the business meeting which began with members answering roll call by listing their favorite bird calls.

During the session, members voted to purchase two trees commemorating Arbor day. The trees, to be planted on the Goodridge retirement homes property, are to correspond with the trees already planted there. Norma Hanson and Dorothy Svanjord were appointed to be in charge of the project.

Ethel Wiseth, chairman of planting the flower beds in the Goodridge Lions park, presented two plans for club consideration. The group voted to plant red cosmos, yellow petunias, white snapdragons, dusty millers and ageratums.

Members attending the meeting were Lois Swanson, Mary Kusmak, Alice Skreland, Norma Hanson, Dorothy Svanjord, Helen Chervestad, Luella Peterson, Ethel Wiseth, Edna Appleman, and Irene Ellingson. Mrs. Alice Lappegaard attended as a guest.

St. John Guild Hosts Chrismon Session Sunday

Altar guild of St. John Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls, will host a "Chrismon" work session this Sunday from 2-5 p.m. in the east educational building.

A "Chrismon" is an ornament for a Christmas tree to depict a Christian symbol. In recent years they have been made from such materials as styrofoam, gold, silver and pearl beading, as well as gold or silver foil. The Chrismons made at the Sunday work session will be used on the 1979 church Christmas trees, and many ideas and demonstrations can be easily incorporated into home usage.

The session is open to all families with work materials provided, according to Mrs. Cyril Stensrud, coordinator of the session. Giving demonstrations throughout the afternoon will be Mrs. Dan Drevlow and Mrs. Art Hinrichs.

McCullough Is Featured In Suburban Paper

D. Patrick McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat McCullough of rural Newfolden and a graduate of Goodridge high school, was featured recently in a St. Paul area community newspaper upon moving into new law offices at the Maple Hills office center at 905 Parkway Drive.

A graduate of Bemidji state college and William Mitchell law school, he has been practicing law since 1971. The firm of D. Patrick McCullough and associates includes another Newfolden native, Jonathan Dyrud, a graduate of Hamline law school.

McCullough is a past board member of the Payne area business association, member of the Phalen area community council, member of the Ramsey county, Minnesota and American bar associations, Minnesota and American Trial Lawyers associations, several legal committees and in 1975 represented his area as "East Wind" during the St. Paul winter carnival.

DRAPERY CARE HINTS
WATER & SHRINKAGE
Rainwater or condensation on windows can cause unsightly watermarks on drapery fabric. Sometimes these stains are unnoticeable until the draperies have been cleaned, and then the marks are practically impossible to remove without telltale traces. Close your windows against the elements, and hang your draperies so they won't touch the glass. Unless a fabric has been completely preshrunk, you can expect up to 4% shrinkage when your draperies are cleaned. Ask for sanforized or preshrunk fabrics; ask us about professional drapery dry-cleaning and pressing.

Former Teacher Here Becomes College V.P.

Dr. William Jones this week was appointed Moorhead state university's vice president of academic affairs by university president Dr. Roland Dille. Jones was director of music at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls in 1944.

Jones, 56, has been the acting vice president of academic affairs since the summer of 1977 when Dr. Robert Hansen left that post to become the president of Winona state university.

A 15-member search committee of faculty, administrators and students received 129 applications for the position last year, but instead of making an appointment, extended the search another year. Jones was not a candidate then, but he was this year.

This year the committee received 132 applications, narrowed its choice to four last month and after interviewing the finalists, recommended Jones for the job.

The vice president of academic affairs, second in command at the university, is primarily responsible for academic personnel and programs.

Jones went to Moorhead state in 1972 as dean of arts, humanities and communications and after an administrative reorganization, became dean of arts, humanities and social sciences the next year.

Laymen Join In St. John Service Sunday

St. John Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, will mark the 46th season in the broadcasting of The Lutheran Hour Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The Lutheran Hour is a radio ministry of the Lutheran laymen's league. Albert Koop, league and Lutheran Hour representative at St. John church, will ask for prayer support and financial patrons at the service.

Other laymen will also be involved with the morning worship along with Rev. Barrie Henke. The event is open to public attendance.

Required two-credit class in educational planning for all people entering Moorhead state university's external studies program will be offered this spring on the Moorhead state university's external studies program will be offered this spring on the Moorhead state campus and at the area vocational-techanical institute in East Grand Forks.

The external studies program is designed to help adults earn a college degree through part-time study. It also offers some credits for competencies acquired through work, personal experience or community service.

At Moorhead state the class will meet on four consecutive Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning March 13 in room 103 of MacLean hall.

At the East Grand Forks AVTI it will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on four consecutive Thursdays beginning March 15 in the General West room.

Each student will also have two individual counseling sessions with the course instructor. The planning class is designed to help external studies students develop a program leading to a bachelor's degree.

Cost is $26.30 for the on campus course and $23.80 at East Grand Forks. Registration and payments will be accepted the first class session.

For further information, call or write Audrey Jones, director of the Moorhead State external studies program, (218) 236-2181.

10-Ton Roads To Be Monday Meeting Topic

The need for 10 ton road designations in region one will be the topic of a meeting to be held by the Northwest Regional Development Commission transportation committee February 26 in Thief River Falls.

Purpose of the meeting is to develop, in conjunction with the Minnesota department of transportation (MN-DOT), priority roads to be designated as 10 ton roads. This designation would allow the routes to be upgraded as needed. Effective policing of road limits will also be under discussion at the meeting which is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Expected to be in attendance are legislators, shippers, haulers, MN-DOT personnel and NWRDC transportation committee members. The meeting is open to all interested parties.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Sale of girl scout cookies will get underway Friday, February 23, in Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire with local Brownie and Girl Scouts to be selling door to door. The annual cookie sale is a fund raiser for council and troop activities.

This year cookie varieties have changed. The seven varieties to be sold are: samoas, do-si-dos, trefoils, tagalongs, vanchos, granolas and thin mints. The cookies can be ordered at $1.50 a box with payment accepted upon delivery about one month after the orders are placed.

In addition to supporting troop and council activities through cookie sales, Girl Scouts may earn individual credits which can be applied to council sponsored activities such as the camping program.

Minnesotans Work Less To Buy Food

Consumers in Minnesota have to work less time than most other world citizens to put food on the family dining table, agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin declared recently.

"U.S. department of agriculture news feature on retail food prices and a more limited comparison of the time it takes workers in some of 16 major nations to earn various food products made us wonder how Minnesota compared, and the analysis is a pleasant surprise. Food is 'minutes cheap.'

"In Japan a worker spends two hours and 48 minutes to earn the price of a pound of sirloin steak, compared to only 23 minutes for his average American counterpart. In Minnesota the average factory production worker spends less than 20 minutes earning a pound of sirloin.

"According to the analysis of retail food prices in Washington, D.C., on January 3, compared to currently advertized (February 4-10) Minnesota retail food prices the bill on 21 food staples here totaled up 30 per cent less than in the nation's capital, and slightly over one-fourth of the food bill in Tokyo, Japan," commissioner Seetin stated.

Only two of the 16 nations in which retail food prices were compared in the federal agency survey came up with lower total bills than Minnesota for the same items, South Africa and Brazil. But, USDA reported, the Brazil consumer has to work six times as long as the American consumer to pay the grocery bill. South Africa's earning power was not reported in the USDA release.

Grocery list compared included one pound each of boneless sirloin steak, boneless beef roast, pork chops, boneless pork roast, ham, sliced bacon, chicken, butter, margarine, cheese, tomatoes, yellow onions, potatoes, apples, bread, rice, sugar, plus one dozen eggs and one dozen oranges.

In Washington on January 3 the bill for that grocery order was $30.35, in Tokyo $67.77, in Brasilia, Brazil $20.41.

Lower food bills were reported for Buenos Aires, Argentina, $19.24, and for Mexico City, $19.41 than Minnesota's February 4-10, $21.09. But neither the pork roast or ham were available in Argentina, and the ham was not available in Mexico. Minnesota prices are 11 per cent below Argentina and four per cent below Mexico.

Comparisons on available items in the shopping list revealed that Minnesota's grocery bill is less than half the average family food cost in Denmark, Sweden, and West Germany as well as less than 29 per cent of the bill in Japan.

Minnesota's total bill was 14 per cent less than for consumers in neighboring Ottawa, Canada, was more than 40 per cent below the cost in Paris, less than three-fourths the grocery bill in Belgium, Holland, and Italy. Minnesota consumers also enjoyed a food bill 20 per cent below that in Australia and England.

"But the real cost of food should be measured in the worker's time it takes to earn," Commissioner Seetin suggested.

The following table is based on published current Minnesota retail food prices, and the $6.72 per hour average production worker wage reported by the Minnesota department of economic security for last December.

Items are listed with unit, price and minutes taken to earn it listed respectively: Steak, boneless sirloin, lb., $2.19, 19.6; beef roast, boneless, lb., $1.98, 17.7; pork chops, lb., $1.59, 14.2; pork roast, boneless, lb., $1.50, 14.2; ham, lb., $2.39, 21.3; bacon, sliced package, lb., $1.19, 10.6; eggs, doz., $.59, 5.3; butter, lb., $1.19, 10.6; margarine, lb., $.39, 3.5; cheese (cheddar, edam or gouda), lb., $1.59, 14.2; milk, whole, ½ gal., $.89, 7.9; oil, cooking, 38 oz., $1.79, 16.0; tomatoes, lb., $.79, 7.1; onions, yellow, lb., $.25, 2.2; potatoes, lb., $.10, 0.9 (53.6 seconds); apples, lb., $.30, 2.7; oranges, doz., $1.50, 13.4; bread, white package, lb., $.29, 2.6; rice, lb., $.20, 1.8; and sugar, lb., $.20, 1.8 for a total price of $21.53 and a time of three hours and 13 minutes.

NWRDC Offers Workshop On Government

Northwest regional development commission, in cooperation with the office of local and urban affairs of Saint Paul are sponsoring a "Minnesota Intergovernmental Learning Experience" workshop March 7 and 8 at the Best Western Motel in Crookston. Registration will begin 8:30 a.m. March 7th and the meeting will close at 2 p.m. March 8th. Only cost to participants will be a $10 registration fee, which will cover cost of materials, meals the lodging for those who need it for March 7th. Registrations should be made no later than February 23, mail them to the NWRDC Office, Crookston, Mn or call Helen Jurchen 281-1306 to indicate your plans to attend.

Program is designed to acquaint participants with the way governments of all types and at all levels operate in Minnesota. Program will also give participants a better understanding for their role in our system as the role and responsibilities of other officials from other units of local government.

Part of the program will feature a "Mile One Simulation" based on data received from public officials around the state. This simulation will provide a unique experience and a chance to get involved in making decisions from a perspective different than that of the participant. Other program features will be discovering common barriers and avenues of success, exploring effects of intergovernmental cooperation, trading information with colleagues, defining and expanding knowledge and understanding of the roles and responsibilities of other local government officials, examining back home problems, and creating a system for analyzing and dealing with issues relevant to your community.

Chairman Ervin Strandquist encourages local officials to use this opportunity to broaden their knowledge and opportunities to learn about cooperation between governments.

NCC To Present 'Damn Yankees'

Northland community college music and theatre departments will present the musical comedy "Damn Yankees" February 28 and March 1, 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 4 at 3 p.m. in the Northland community college theatre, under the direction of Les Torgerson and Roger Vaughan.

"Damn Yankees", a show that ran 1,019 performances on Broadway and was also a successful movie, traces a year in the life of a middle-aged baseball fan who sells his soul for renewed youth, fame and a chance to lead his favorite team (in this adaptation, the Minnesota Twins) in a victorious season.

Steve Hjelle from Viking plays the dual role of Joe Boyd-Joe Hardy in the show. The devil figure Applegate, who negotiates the bargain with Joe, is played by Chris Kays from Thief River Falls. Meg Boyd, Joe's wife, is played by Anne Ingeman from St. Cloud and the beguiling seductress Lola, employed by Applegate to keep the young player entranced and living up to his bargain, is played by Diane Mosbeck from Thief River Falls. The sceptical female reporter, Gloria Thorpe, who investigates the mysterious background of Joe Hardy and Applegate, posing as his agent, is played by Kathy Shetler from Thief River Falls.

Tickets for the production are being sold as reserved seat tickets and may be reserved by calling 681-2181, extension 31. Admission charge is $2.50 for adults, $1.75 for students and $1.50 per person for groups of 20 or more. Northland community college faculty and students are admitted free of charge by activity card, but must reserve tickets.

Chat and Chew Club Discusses Home Decorating

"Making a house a home — adding a personal touch," was the theme of the lesson presented at the meeting of the Chat and Chew homemakers club held February 13 at the home of Hilda Wennberg.

Presenting the lesson were Louise Nereson and Marian Williams. They also had a number of home-decorating pamphlets, from which members could select.

President Carol Narverud presided at the meeting. Pauline Aubol read the homemakers creed and Marian Williams the correspondence, which included a thank-you letter from the Fergus Falls state hospital, expressing appreciation for the gifts sent to the patients.

A report was given on the county homemaker's luncheon. It was noted that eight members of the Chat and Chew club had attended the event with Pauline Aubol, Louise Nereson and Geneva Overum winning centerpieces.

Plans were finalized for hosting the friendship club meeting on March 22. Members also wrote personal greetings and signed a Valentine for a former member, Lena Hayes, who is a resident in a nursing home at Alexandria.

A dessert lunch was served by the hostess. Adding interest to the social hour was the reading of fortunes found in the cookies.

Services Set For Henry H. Hallstrom, 86

Henry H. Hallstrom, 86, of Thief River Falls died Monday at St. Mary's Nursing center at Detroit Lakes.

Funeral services for Henry Hallstrom will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel in this city where the body will repose until time of services. Rev. Keith Prekker, pastor at Redeemer Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Black River cemetery.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

H. McMahon Rites Set At Faith Lutheran

Hilton McMahon, 51, of rural route 3, Thief River Falls, a brakeman for the Soo Line railroad, died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Hilton McMahon will be held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Faith Lutheran Brethren church. Rev. Duaine Espeseth will officiate.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home beginning Thursday at 3 p.m. and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will be published in the Monday Times.

Services Set At Oklee For M. Lindquist

Funeral services for Mauritz Lindquist will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church at Oklee. Rev. Charles L. Gunderson will officiate. Music will be provided by Mrs. Walter Aanenson, organist, and Mrs. Lowell Enerson and Mrs. Jeff Sundrud, vocalists. Interment will be in the church cemetery with the Petterson Funeral home, Oklee, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers will be Elmer Hanson, Oscar Flateland, Harold Cyr, Norman Nelson, George Lerohl and Bennett Larson.

Mauritz Lindquist, a son of the late August and Gunhild Engen Lindquist, was born Dec. 28, 1903 at Elbow Lake. In 1915, he moved with his parents to Oklee. He attended the Oklee public school and Aaker's Business college at Grand Forks and was employed in Grand Forks for a time as a bookkeeper. After his return to Oklee, he worked as a carpenter in construction.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving with the U.S. Army Coast Artillery.

He was a member of Zion Lutheran church at Oklee.

He is survived by three brothers: Raymond and Dr. Harold Lindquist, both of Oklee, and Willard, Moorhead; four sisters: Alice and Adella Lindquist, Oklee; Mrs. Marvel Sheets, Laporte, and Mrs. Paul (Norma) Sweet, Minneapolis; 18 nephews and nieces, 16 great nephews and nieces, and an uncle, Ted Engen, Elbow Lake.

One borther, Vernon, preceded him in death in 1959.

Susie Schalz Rites Held At St. Bernard's

Funeral services for Susie Schalz, 71, of this city were held Tuesday at 11 a.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church, Thief River Falls. Miss Schalz died Friday morning at Wausau, Wis., at the home of her niece, Mrs. Phillip Urban.

Rev. James Bernauer and Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the services. Mrs. Roger Amundson was the organist and Mrs. David Dupree, the vocalist. Interment will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery with the Belmont Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Lowell Collins, Dennis Tufte, Raymond Vaudrin, Ralph Hunt, Jr., Clifford Overum and Irvin Larson.

Susie E. Schalz, a daughter of the late John and Catherine Schalz, was born in North Washington, Iowa on Feb. 11, 1908. At the age of three years, she moved with her family to St. Hilaire, where she resided until she was seven years old. At that time, she came with the family to Thief River Falls, where she attended school and grew to womanhood. She was employed here as an operator for the Northwestern Bell telephone company from March 3, 1927 until June 16, 1963. After her retirement, she continued to make her home here until four months ago, when she moved to Wausau, Wis., to be cared for by her niece.

She is survived by one brother, John Schalz of Mahnomen; a sister, Mrs. Mary Louze, Wausau, Wis.; and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by three brothers.

Services Held Today For Mrs. James R. Olson

Funeral services for Mrs. James (Ruth) Olson, 64, of this city were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m., at the Redeemer Lutheran church. Mrs. Olson died Sunday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Keith Prekker officiated at the services. Mrs. William Halbach was the organist and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ramsey sang. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery at Warren with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Ted Voytilla, Bill Hoglo, Laverne Boman, Eddie Moothart, Laverne Olson and Bill Potucek.

Serving as active pallbearers were Orville Holt, Harvey Offerdahl, Neil Offerdahl, Dwight Tangquist, Marlin Anderson and Calvin Offerdahl.

Mrs. Olson, the former Ruth A. Bakke, was born March 20, 1914 in Marshall county to Ingvald and Sarah Bakke, now deceased. On Sept. 7, 1932, she was married at Warren to James R. Olson. The couple lived in the Warren community until 1953, when they came to Thief River Falls where they have since resided.

Mrs. Olson was employed at various places in this city, including Oakland Park Nursing home, the Golf club and the Curling club.

Surviving are her husband, a son, Marvin Olson, Thief River Falls; one daughter, Mrs. Gary (Shirley) Potucek, Warren; five grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Russell (Bernyce) Bergman of Alvarado.

She was preceded in death by two sisters and one brother.

Pennington 4H Members Enter Winter Shows

The general livestock team composed of Brian Noreen of Black River and Paul Waswick and Kirk and Kirby Hamre of City View placed eighth. Brian Noreen tied for sixth place individual judge and Kirk Hamre tied for 15th place. The second general livestock team placed ninth. Team members were Cindy Solem and Tawnya Hamre of City View, Doug Courneya of Steiner and Merle Sorteberg of Smiley. Tawnya Hamre was ninth place judge and Cindy Solem tied for 15th place. Others that participated in general livestock judging were Pete, Scott and Mickey Sharpe of Happy Acres and Tim Panek of Mavie.

The dairy judging team placed ninth. Team members included Anthony and Barbara Lundeen of Deer Park, Dale Rupprecht of Silverton and Kurt Nelson of Mavie. Barbara Lundeen was sixth place judge and Kurt Nelson 20th place judge.

Ruth Dobias and Lynn Mosbeck of the Black River 4-H gave a team demonstration on "Crepes" which earned them a blue ribbon. Karen Wedul of Happy Acres participated in the district public speaking contest. Joni Mosbeck of Black River, Jill Stenberg and Mary Courneya of Steiner participated in the horticulture workshop. They studied house plants and learned how to make corsages.

Sue Spengler of Silverton, Roy Dobias, Wanda Sylvester and Tina Kruse, all of Black River, participated in the meats judging contest. Grain clinic participants were Timothy Mickelson of Kratka and Gene Mosbeck and Tim Kruse of Black River. Participants studied various factors affecting grain production and marketing including seed indentification, grain that has been damaged in various ways during harvest and storage, and a study of chemicals and fertilizers.

Dean Hanson of the Star 4-H had a wheat exhibit which received a red ribbon in the 4-H crops show. Crop exhibits become the property of the winter shows and are exhibited at the Minnesota state fair.

Bureau Of Land Management To Discuss Policy

Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has scheduled a public meeting and workshop at International Falls in the Rainy River community college library from 2 to 6 p.m. on Tuesday, February 27, to present and discuss a draft policy for managing wilderness study areas on BLM lands, along with proposed regulations governing mining-related activities.

Lowell J. Udy, director of the BLM eastern states office, announced the the meeting is set for International Falls to encourage maximum local involvement by those nearest to BLM lands. In the lake states area, the 45,000 acres of public lands to be reviewed are all in northern Minnesota. Another 2,800 islands found throughout Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin will also be considered.

"This public meeting marks another step in continuing public involvement process," Udy said. Copies of the draft policy and regulations have also been mailed to public agencies, organizations and individuals throughout the three states.

The proposed interim management policy and guidelines for wilderness study areas was published in January and gives guidance for public land uses during the wilderness study process. Proposed regulations issued at the same time would require approved operation plans for certain mining-related activities within potential or identified wilderness study areas. Public comment period on both proposals ends March 14, 1979.

Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 mandates the BLM wilderness review and the basic interim management now proposed. The act requires BLM to identify public land areas with wilderness characteristics, study them, and make recommendations through the President and then to Congress on areas suitable or nor suitable to be part of the national wilderness preservation system.

The initial inventory phase of the wilderness review will soon begin in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. It will be conducted by BLM's lake states office manager and staff, headquartered at Duluth.

For further information, and copies of the proposed interim management policy and mining regulations, contact Manager, Lake States Office, 125 Federal Building, Duluth, Minnesota 55802 (218) 727-6692; or Director, Eastern States Office, 7981 Eastern Avenue, Silver Spring, Maryland 20910 (301) 427-7440. Comments should be sent to the Director (303), Bureau of Land Management, 18th & C Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I was amazed to read in several of the local papers that Arlan Stangeland was "extremely pleased by his committee assignments." The facts are that each party picks the members to serve on the different committees. The Republicans had two openings on the agriculture committee. Instead of choosing Mr. Stangeland, they picked two freshmen Republicans.

Mr. Stangeland's lack of influence was understandable when he was a freshman. However, now he is in his second term and freshman Republicans have more influence than he. I wonder if we have the best man in Washington?

Minnesota's Ag Department Given Plaque

Dr. Rollin M. Dennistoun, deputy commissioner, represented the Minnesota agency and accepted the plaque for the division at the annual awards banquet held in New York City's Waldorf-Astoria hotel January 19. The award is for the most outstanding of several thousand trade shows held annually in the nation.

He said the award is deserved recognition for the "All Minnesota Foods Expo," the nation's oldest, biggest and most successful cooperative marketing promotion for food and agricultural products, jointly sponsored by Minnesota producers, processors, distributors and the state department of agriculture.

Now in its 15th year of presenting all Minnesota foods expos annually in five or six major national metropolitan consumer markets to wholesale grocers and the food service industry, the Minnesota promotion has helped establish scores of successful small businesses and also to expand several into global marketing of Minnesota products. In the aggregate, over the 85 past expos, this marketing activity has helped generate hundreds of millions of dollars in increased sales of Minnesota foods and agricultural products.

Deputy commissioner Dennistoun said that the success of the expo series is due to the cooperative teamwork and expertise of the participants. "We in the Minnestoa department of agriculture are proud of the contributions and the achievements of our marketing specialists who are involved in this promotion: Richard Tretsven who pioneered the expos; Walter Oftedahl, the planning chief and coordinator; and director M.C. (Chick) Combs, who is responsible for our agency's total agricultural marketing activities, in-state regional, national, and global."

Gretchen Quie To Address MSU Arts Dedication

Mrs. Gretchen Quie, wife of Minnesota Gov. Al Quie, will speak at the dedication to Moorhead state university's new addition to the center for the arts at 7:30 p.m. February 20. The ceremony, open to the public, will be held in the center auditorium.

Mrs. Quie's address will be followed by comments from Dr. Roland Dille, president of the university, and the recitation of a poem written for the dedication by Mary Pryor, a professor of English at Moorhead state.

After the ceremony, a three-hour kaleidoscope of the arts featuring dramatic readings, slide shows and walk through demonstrations of the visual arts and performances by several university music groups will be staged in the arts center.

Cases Of Reye's Syndrome Are Noted In Feb.

Minnesota department of health and the national center for disease control are investigating recent reports of a disease called Reye's syndrome in the state.

Reye's syndrome is a serious illness affecting the brain, liver, kidneys and other organs. It only occurs in children under 16, and it appears to strike only children who have recently had influenza or chickenpox infections. Seven cases have been reported in Minnesota since the end of January.

Early symptoms of Reye's syndrome occur a few days after a child comes down with influenza or chickenpox. They usually include vomiting, drowsiness and mental confusion. Children with these symptoms should be taken to a physician immediately.

Early signs of Reye's syndrome are often mistaken for poisoning, drug overdoses or mental illness. Even physicians can be confused by the unusual pattern of symptoms.

Reye's syndrome occurs in less than one out of 100,000 children who have had influenza or chickenpox. No one knows why so few children are affected by the disease, which was first described by Dr. R. D. K. Reye of Australia only in 1962.

At least 20 Minnesota children were treated for Reye's syndrome during 1973 and 1974. Most of those cases seemed to be related to a statewide outbreak of influenza B. Only a few sporadic cases have been reported since then. Cases of Reye's syndrome have been reported this year in states where influenza A epidemics have occurred.

Mayville SC To Give Freshmen Scholarships

High school seniors in the upper 25 per cent of their class may be eligible for academic scholarships at Mayville state college. Freshmen scholarships will range from $150 to $300.

Legislative Report
Marv Hanson
District 1 State Senator

by State Senator Marv Hanson

Legislators continue to discuss tax relief proposals. The need to provide property tax relief to state landowners along with the proposed income tax cuts is being recognized. One of the major property tax relief measures of the new Senate tax package would provide $7 million in aids to counties with large tracts of tax-exempt lands.

Acorss northern Minnesota millions of acres are set aside as public lands. These tax-exempt parcels are located in 19 northern Minnesota counties. In our Senate district 1 the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) administers almost 890,000 tax-exempt acres.

These tax-exempt lands represent lost property-tax revenues for each county. They also present an additional tax burden for many residents because there is a basic level of local governmental services that have to be provided. And if the local tax base is less than it should be because of tax-exempt state land, then local property owners have to pay those lost taxes. Thus, local property owners pay the price of setting aside state lands for public use. Additionally, this system is unfair since tax-exempt lands can provide general benefits to all the residents of our state, whether for hunting or other recreational activities. And I believe that then the state should help with local tax problems caused by these tax exempt lands.

Using land estimates provided by the DNR the new tax proposal would provide total payments to counties in Senate District 1 of approximately $650,000. All the counties in District 1 would receive some new aid.

These aids are part of a Senate tax package which provides both income tax cuts and measures to hold back property tax increases. The proposed tax program includes $27 million in additional aids to our county governments and municipalities which I shall discuss in a later report.

If you have any questions or comments on these topics or others, please write me at 23J Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, or call 612-296-4835.

94 Good Roads Members To Go To Washington

Ninety-four members of Minnesota Good Roads, Inc. (MGRI) will fly to Washington, D.C., on February 26 for the eighth annual Washington Fly-In.

Purpose of the Fly-In is to give concerned Minnesotans an opportunity to meet with their congressional delegation and with federal transportation officials in order to discuss the state's transportation needs. Inflation, coupled with taxpayers' demands that government cut spending, has threatened the future of road construction and maintenance in Minnesota, including those that are federally and state funded.

One of the topics to be discussed during the two-day series of meetings is the funding of Section 219 — the safer off-system roads program — of the 1978 federal surface transportation assistance act. Unlike highway trust fund programs, this general fund program requires a supplemental appropriations act if it is to be implemented. The administration does not plan to ask for funds for safer off-system roads in the next two years. In Minnesota this applies to local roads and streets, which presently have no visible means of support other than taxes on real estate.

Other topics on the agenda include amendments to the clean air act and modifications to the mine safety act as they affect the costs of materials used in highway maintenance and construction.

Minnesota Good Roads is an association of 1,500 concerned citizens working together to ensure adequate funding to maintain the quality of Minnesota's road system.

Safest way to free a stuck motor vehicle is to call a tow truck, says the Tire Industry safety council. You will avoid possible tire destruction, vehicle damage and personal injury, which are usually more expensive than a tow charge.

Winter Driving Demands Extra Common Sense

Traffic crashes kill one person every 11 minutes in the United States and studies show at least 80 per cent of all crashes occur because a driver made a mistake that could have been prevented.

Hazardous winter driving conditions demand even greater care, caution and common sense to avoid crashes, warned the Minnesota department of public safety.

Slipperiness of ice and hard-packed snow will vary with temperature. Tests show ice is twice as slippery at 30 degrees Fahrenheit as at zero degrees. Be aware of temperature variations and drive accordingly.

Before starting out, scrape all snow and ice from the windshield and the back and side windows, so you can see clearly in all directions. Then clean off headlights and taillights so other drivers can see you.

Running the defroster several minutes will help cut down any sudden fogging of the windshield when you start moving.

When starting out, touch the accelerator gently. A light foot on the gas is less likely to cause wheel-spinning on ice and snow. To help get moving on slippery roads, start in "Drive" or second gear and make sure the front wheels are pointed straight ahead.

When you're moving, get the feel of the road by carefully accelerating to find out at which point your wheels will spin. If no vehicles are near, brake gently to check when your wheels will start to skid. Then adjust your speed so you are always in complete control of the vehicle.

PIONEER TALES
from the Pennington County Historical Society

by Inga Geving

Last week I had an interesting visit with Mrs. Fred Protz. She told me they had lived all 61 years of their married life in the same home, until this winter when they are living at the Valley home. Fred spends his time relaxing, visiting and working in the craft room.

Mrs. Protz keeps very busy with her handwork, mostly knitting afghans. She said she had made so many that she had lost count. In spite of arthritis she does beautiful work.

Fred started work walking delivering mail when he was 18 years old and delivered mail for 42 years. He had many interesting experiences. He delivered mail twice a day, and no one shoveled sidewalks. The snowdrifts were high to climb over. Many people invited him in for coffee and soup. He liked dogs, and most dogs were friendly. One dog met at 8 a.m. every morning and followed him around the route. His own dog followed hime every day and on Sundays the dog made the entire route by himeslf.

We have the chair in our historical village post office that Fred used all the years he sorted mail. It shows much wear but tells the story. At the time of his retirement he averaged 15 miles a day, or 5,000 miles a year, approximately 200,000 miles during his career. That is about eight times around the world.

I received a good letter last week from a lady who wrote, "I will do my bit for the second volume of the county history book, and the society." With it were her story and poetry as a tribute to her parents and all the pioneers of Pennington county. She was born and raised — one of ten children — 13 miles east of Thief River Falls. She mentioned many of their neighbors by name — many of her former playmates are still living there.

I hope others are getting their first stories ready for the second volume or preparing to add to the first one. It is still winter and a good time to reminisce. The form letters to be mailed to county residents should be ready in another week.

Health Dep't. Observes Year Of The Child

Minnesota's commissioner of health, Dr. George R. Pettersen, has announced that the state department of health will participate in the United Nations-sponsored International Year of the Child (IYC) observance during 1979.

In making the announcement, Dr. Pettersen quoted a statement of the purpose of IYC from the United States UNICEF-IYC Committee:

"Children are our future and our most precious resource. The quality of tomorrow's world — perhaps even its survival — will be determined by the well-being, safety and development of children today."

"The IYC is a time for government organizations and individuals to work together in concrete, constructive, practical programs for the benefit of children."

Dr. Pettersen said the health department will focus on child health during the IYC, by emphasizing its existing programs for family and child health. Department has programs in nutrition, child health screening, family planning, parent education, human genetics, dental health, immunization, child abuse and neglect, and services to children with handicaps. Special activities highlighting a particular child health program are scheduled for each month of 1979.

Anyone interested in learning more about these programs or activities should contact the Maternal and Child Health Section, Minnesota Department of Health, 717 Delaware st. S.E., Minneapolis 55440, or call (612) 296-5266.

Application For Scholarship Due Before March 1

March 1 is the priority deadline for students to apply for a state scholarship or grant-in-aid award for the 1979-80 school year.

Application forms have been mailed to the homes of virtually all high school seniors in the state and to renewal candidates. Forms also are available from high school counselors, post-secondary financial aid officers and from the higher education coordinating board (901 Capitol Square Building, 550 Cedar Street, St. Paul, MN 55101; telephone (612) 296-5715).

Awards range from $100 to $1,100 but cannot exceed one-half of a student's financial need. The state award, combined with a federal basic educational opportunity grant, may not exceed 75 per cent of a student's need.

Scholarship awards are based on scholastic achievement and financial need; grants are based solely on need. Students may attend one of over 160 eligible state schools.

By submitting one application the student is assured of consideration for both the state scholarship and grant programs. The same form may be used to apply for a federal basic educational opportunity grant and aid from institutions.

Applications must be postmarked on or before March 1. Students who apply after this date will be considered on a funds available basis.

Energy Tax Credits Are Available Now

Minnesota energy agency has issued a reminder that energy tax credits are available this year.

The tax credits — for both homeowners and renters — cover investments in conservation, solar and other alternative energy measures between April 20, 1977 and the end of 1985.

The conservation credit allows 15 per cent of the cost up to $300. It covers a variety of conservation measures, including insulation, efficient furnace replacement burners, devices for modifying flue openings, electronic ignition systems for furnaces, storm and thermal doors and windows, automatic setback and clock thermostats, caulking, weatherstripping and meters which display the cost of energy usage.

The credit can only be taken on a house built before April 20, 1977, provided it is the taxpayer's principal residence.

The alternative energy credit allows 30 per cent of the first $2,000 spent plus 20 per cent of the next $8,000 and can be used for both old and new homes.

Eligible items are wind, solar or geothermal energy equipment used to heat or cool the home or to provide hot water. Labor costs for the onsite preparation and installation of the equipment also qualify.

Acting director of the agency, John Millhone, said, "Energy tax credits are one important way in which Minnesotans can offset the increasing prices of fuel. Conservation and solar improvements usually pay for themselves in saved fuel costs within a few years. These tax credits will help pay back the cost of the improvements even faster. We hope people will take advantage of them."

The tax credits are part of the national energy act passed in December. Internal revenue service publication 903 explains the energy credits in detail.

Tree Nursery Production To Be Increased

State tree nurseries operated by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources are planning to increase the number of seedlings to be produced during the next several years.

DNR forestry director Rod Sando said production is being stepped up from an average of about 15 million seedlings annually to nearly 30 million.

The increased production will be needed to meet the needs of an expanded program to produce more timber from state lands, he explained.

"An ever rising demand for wood products together with a shrinking supply of marketable timber means production from lands capable of producing timber for the market must be increased," said Sando.

He noted that some lands previously producing timber for the market are being used for other purposes, including preservation in wilderness areas and parks.

He emphasized that the results of the stepped up seedling and planting programs will not be felt for at least 40 years — the minimum required to grow trees for pulpwood and other forest products.

First U of M Preview Set For Friday

Everyone in Minnesota is invited to spend a day at the University of Minnesota pursuing a special field of interest.

Series of five free "University Previews" have been scheduled beginning February 23 and extending through April 23.

Themes for the days are "Ecology, Technology and Society," February 23; "International Perspectives on the Future," March 9; "Communication and the Arts," March 30; "Business, Law and Government in Contemporary Society," April 9; and "Town and Country in the 20th Century and Beyond," April 23.

Activities have been planned with prospective students of all ages in mind but are open to anyone interested, including parents, teachers and counselors.

"Whichever theme they choose, participants in University Previews can count on an active day that will give them lots of insights about planning for the future — their own and the world's," said Judith Green, a representative of the prospective student services office, which is sponsoring the program.

Each day will begin at 8 a.m. with registration and a reception followed by mini-lectures and forums. Participants will have a choice of subject matter. Day will end with a social hour from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. All during the day participants will have the opportunity to meet and talk with faculty, students and representatives of University service units.

Advance registration is encouraged but not necessary. For additional information, phone (612) 373-3030 or write to Prospective Student Services, 230 Williamson hall, 231 Pillsbury drive S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Bemidji state university's financial aids office reminds current and prospective students and their parents that March 1 is the priority date for filing funding assistance applications.

Financial aids director Robert Frazey encourages students to complete all necessary forms, which have been mailed directly or are available in community college and high school counselors' offices. Parents' cooperation is needed, he added, to complete income information, which should be taken directly from the 1978 federal income tax forms.

During the current 1978-79 academic year, over 3,000 BSU students will receive financial assistance totaling over five million dollars. Approximately 80 per cent of enrolled students are now receiving aid, with the average award figure being $1,707.

Anyone wishing more information, or brochures describing the various programs, may contact their high school or community college counselor, or the BSU Financial Aids Office, Deputy Hall 106, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601. Phone 218-755-2034.

SECOND EVENT at the States-Dominion curling bonspiel held in Thief River Falls Friday through Sunday was won by the Bruce Bernstien rink of Fargo, N.D. Bernstien's rink — which reportedly listed assumed names and can not be identified — was the only non-Thief River Falls' rink from the United States in the 32-rink event. Twenty-one Canadian rinks were entered. Bernstien beat the local James Amundgaard rink in the final draw.

THIRD EVENT champions at the States-Dominion curling bonspiel held at the Thief River Falls curling club last weekend were members of the rink skipped by Garry Peterson of Winnipeg. Left to right are Lewis James, lead; Gerry Croteau, second; Bob Solmundson, third; and Peterson.

Registration will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Friday afternoon, March 2. Total cost is set at $15 and open to youth in seven grade through college age. Special sessions will be available for adults.

Minnesota ADA Examines 1979 Dairy Outlook

"It looks like another all-around good year for the Minnesota dairy farmers," said Cliff Markuson, manager of the American Dairy association of Minnesota.

Markuson said recently that according to the U.S.D.A., increased demand is expected to raise the support for dairy products close to 80 per cent of parity during the last half of the dairy marketing year, April 1, 1979 to October 1, 1979. Prices for 1979 are expected to average about 70 cents per hundredweight above 1978 prices according to Markuson meaning prices over $10 per hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butterfat milk are likely.

This past year the Minnesota-Wisconsin series for milk rose $1.50 per hundredweight while feed costs remained fairly stable, Markuson said. "This year we expect the milk-feed price ratio to rise 10 per cent," Markuson said. "This should increase dairy farmers net income substantially," he added.

The current milk-feed price ratio for the North Central portion of the United States stands at $1.97. This means that as one variable, one dollar's worth of feed is helping produce one dollar and ninety-seven cents worth of milk. An increase in this ratio would mean more dollar's worth of milk would be produced by one dollar's worth of feed.

Markuson feels dairy promotion has had a great deal to do with the current situation.

"Experts continue to tell us that demand is at the bottom line of increased dairy product prices and the prices farmers receive for their milk," he said. "Increasing demand is what the American Dairy association of Minnesota is all about," he added.

American Dairy association of Minnesota is a farmer-financed and controlled organization whose purpose is to increase the demand for dairy products through advertising and promotion, nutrition education and research and consumer and public relations.

Markuson said, "Increased demand means increased consumption, higher prices and eventually greater profits for Minnesota dairy farmers."

STRONG DEFENSIVE play by Thief River Falls limited Bemidji standout John Noga (33) to eight points during Tuesday's Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball tournament game played at Crookston. The Prowlers' Jim Nyland faced Noga on this first quarter play. Nyland netted 10 points in Thief River Falls' 60-56 victory. The Prowlers will play Crookston, a 53-50 first round overtime winner over East Grand Forks, in Friday's 7:30 p.m. Sub Region 4 championship game at Crookston.

Goodridge Is Unbeaten In City League Basketball Play

Trapper and Trader of Goodridge will put its league-leading 16-0 record on the line tonight (Wednesday) against First Northwestern State Bank in Thief River Falls men's city league basketball action.

Rest of tonight's matches will have Plummer playing Fellowship of Christian Athletics and Rusty Nail playing Hobo Haus of Newfolden. Games get underway at 6:30 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Second place Rusty Nail owns a 12-5 record, followed by First Northwestern State Bank 10-6, defending champion Hobo Haus 9-7, Fellowship of Christian Athletics 9-8, Plummer 5-12, Hartz 4-12 and Northwestern Hospital 1-16.

Elementary Basketball Titles Won By Washington, Northrup

Washington and Northrop were winners Tuesday as the elementary school basketball program completed its 1979 post-season playoffs in the Franklin middle school gymnasium.

A Team

Regular season league champion Washington repeated as A Team playoff champion with a 26-20 title game victory over Northrop. Knox out-scored Mark Twain 29-16 in the third place game.

In earlier tournament play, Mark Twain beat St. Bernard's 25-9, Washington knocked off Mark Twain 29-25 and Northrop got by Knox 17-14.

B Team

A third place finisher during the regular season, Northrop came on to win the B Team playoff crown with a 15-13 title game decision over regular season champion St. Bernard's. St. Hilaire downed Mark Twain 26-11 in the third place game.

In earlier tournament action, Mark Twain dumped Washington 11-4, Northrop doubled Knox 10-4, St. Bernard's handled Mark Twain 25-2 and Northrop upset St. Hilaire 19-13.

Archery League Leaders Are Both Winners

Northmen Draw Running Royals

A coin flip won by Fergus Falls after the Spartans and Northland tied for the Northwest Division title has matched the Northmen against a Golden Valley Lutheran team that has received rave season-long notices on the first round of the 1979 Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) state basketball tournament Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids.

Fergus Falls, by virtue of its number one seed from the Northwest Division will meet Anoka-Ramsey, runner-up to Golden Valley Lutheran in the Central Division race, in the tournament opener at 1 P.M.

But Northland coach Chet Engelman says he isn't upset about losing the coin flip and drawing the Running Royals, coached by former University of Minnesota guard Flip Saunders. "I suppose if they'd given us a choice, we probably would prefer to play Anoka-Ramsey," admitted Engelman. "But it really doesn't matter. The Northwest matches up better this way, anyway."

The games involving Fergus Falls, Anoka-Ramsey, Northland and Golden Valley Lutheran should provide the best basketball of the first round. Mesabi and Worthington will be heavily favored over Willmar and Vermilion in the other matches.

Golden Valley Lutheran, led by highly-publicized guard Hurdis Burns whose 34-point scoring average is among the best in the nation, edged Anoka-Ramsey 60-55 in a Central Division first place showdown last week.

The Rams tried to slow the ball down against the Royals. The ploy worked in the first half when Anoka-Ramsey took a 25-16 lead into intermission. Golden Valley Lutheran began running in the second half, though, en route to a 50-48 lead that became a 50-50 regulation time tie on a pair of free throws by Rodney Hargest, the former Marshall University high school star. But the Royals outscored the Rams 10-5 in overtime for the win as strong Dave Trost finished with 21 points to make up for a sub-par 13-point showing by Burns who was under heavy guard all night.

Engelman will use a similar defense against Burns, a Racine, Wis. native. "We'll just try to put somebody on him and keep him busy," he said.

Anoka-Ramsey beat Fergus Falls 79-59 earlier this year when the Spartans, leading 39-38 at halftime, suffered a second half collapse when nine of their first 15 second half possessions resulted in turnovers and two others produced blocked shots.

In Burns and Trost, Golden Valley Lutheran has the tournament's top two players. But Engelman says, "We have more depth. We have people who are willing to give up their 20-point games for the team. If we play like that down there we'll be alright."

Miscellaneous

+Bemidji high school basketball team won just once at home this year, 52-48 over East Grand Forks. "There have been some parental problems during the year that have hurt some," reported Cliff Morlan of the Bemidji Pioneer. "No one wants to win more than the coaches do and they'll work as hard as possible to keep Bemidji on the winning side. Don't think for a minute it wasn't a long season for coach (Jack) Luoma to watch his kids drop eight games at home while winning only one."

+Detroit Lakes high school hockey coach Ken Anderson, following the Lakers' 4-2 loss at Thief River Falls Friday, told the Becker County Record, "I sure would like to get a chance to play Thief River Falls again — I think we are good enough to beat them. Thief River Falls is an awfully physical hockey team. There was a lot of hard hitting in the game. They really aren't that big, but they really throw their weight around well."

MJCAA Hockey Tournament Has Most Balanced Field In History

One of the most competitive Minnesota junior college athletic association state hockey tournaments in history appears to be in the offing this weekend as Thief River Falls plays host to the 1979 MJCAA event Saturday night and Sunday afternoon in the sports arena.

Saturday's first round draw will match Crookston against Rainy River at 6 p.m., with host Northland and Hibbing squaring off at 8:30. Losers will meet in Sunday's 1 p.m. consolation game that will be followed by the state championship game at 3:30.

Hibbing won the 1978-79 regular season MJCAA title, but coach Frank Catani of the Cardinals doesn't think that's enough to make his team the tournament favorite. "Not this year. I've been in it eight years and this is going to be the closest semifinal round ever," he predicted, remembering several first round routs in the past before the heavyweights met in the main event.

"It's going to be a real close state tournament," promised Northland coach Bob Lundbohm. "All four teams will be right in there. But I guess Hibbing would have to rate as the favorite because their defense is so much better than the rest of us. Forwards are a dime a dozen. When you've got those defensemen that can do it all, you're in business.

Jim Underwood (Coleraine) and Mike Gager (Bovey) are the Cardinals' star defensemen. They're complemented offensively by centers Mark Baker (Hermantown) who has 30 goals, 24 assists and 54 points, and Kris Walters (Hibbing) who has 21 goals, 31 assists and 52 points. Baker's first line mates are Jeff Hady (Hermantown) 19-21-40 and Mark Rathdun (Hibbing) 6-18-24.

"We have some pretty good skaters," noted Catani. "We have three lines, which is kind of a luxury when you're at the community college level."

Hibbing swept four regular season games from Crookston by scores of 10-4, 13-8, 6-5 and 6-2; beat Rainy River three times by scores of 10-8, 15-6 and 11-5 while losing 7-3; and split with Northland, losing a season-opening 6-5, 5-3 series in December before winning 8-5, 8-7 two weeks ago.

Final MJCAA Standings

Hibbing	15	3	34
Rainy River	11	7	26
Crookston	11	7	26
Northland	10	8	24
Mesabi	3	15	10

Under Catani, Hibbing won three consecutive MJCAA state tournaments from 1974 to 1976. But because of the league's better overall quality and the annual high personnel changeover at the two-year schools, he says, "I think it will be a long time before a team wins three titles in a row again."

Hibbing finished the 1978-79 season with a 16-6 record, 15-3 in the MJCAA. "I wouldn't want to be picked the tournament favorite," says Cantani, "but with that record, it's hard to say we haven't been doing something right."

Northland will try to challenge Hibbing's defense with an attack centered around it's highly productive first line that features Doug Dallmann (TRF), who has 32 goals, 26 assists and 58 points; Gordy Markstrom (TRF), 18-24-42; and Mike Malberg (TRF), 12-24-36.

In addition to splitting with Hibbing, Northland, 10-10 overall and 10-8 in the MJCAA, split with Rainy River by winning 9-5, 12-11 and losing 9-4, 14-10. But the Northmen, after opening with an 11-7 victory, lost three out of four games against Crookston, 6-1, 12-4, 7-6.

Rainy River coach Terry Thompson, whose team was 11-9 overall and 11-7 for a second place tie with Crookston in the MJCAA, looks at the tournament field and says, "I look at it as a toss-up. We've got just as good a chance as anybody else."

The strong-skating Voyageurs have the league's highest scoring line in Keven Gordon (International Falls), Chuck Green (International Falls) and Al Portinen (Ely). Thompson says Gordon is "probably the best player in the league." He didn't have the exact figures, but Thompson put Gordon over the 100-point mark this winter, including some 66 goals, and said Green and Portnen were both in the 70 and 80 point category.

In stark contrast, Crookston's strength rests with its goaltending tandem of Dean Grindahl (Roseau) and Brad Fowler (Waseca). "Our goaltending has been very good all year," confirmed Crookston coach Mick Metzer who goes with Grindahl most of the time.

Rhody Johnson (Edina) is the top Crookston scorer with 22 goals, 20 assists and 42 points. He centers Jeff Goos (Roseau), 15-18-33; and Bruce Foss (Roseau) 10-7-17. But the Trojans' most effective line lately has featured Todd Wilcox (Crystal), Kevin Malloy (Hickory Hills, Ill.) and Mark Ogaard (Crookston).

"I think you have to go with Hibbing as the favorite," said Metzer whose team was 12-8 for the year, including four-game split against Rainy River. The nearly identical series included a pair of 7-5 Rainy River wins and 8-4, 8-6 Crookston victories.

Otters Here Friday . . .

Warriors Beat Prowlers 4-1

One period of hockey wasn't enough Tuesday when Thief River Falls started strong but faded badly in a 4-1 Section 8 loss to Warroad in the sports arena.

"We played an exceptional first period. After that we played terrible," explained Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. He gave Warroad goalie John Thunder credit for a strong 27-save game, but said the Prowlers really did themselves in. "It was bad enough that it was predominantly us."

The loss sets the stage for a key season-ending Friday showdown with Fergus Falls. Second place in the Section 8 point standings and a number two seed in next week's Section 8 tournament will go to the winner when the Prowlers and Otters tangle at 7:30 p.m. in the sports arena.

A tie Friday would position Fergus Falls second and Thief River Falls third in the standings and tournament pairings. A Thief River Falls loss would drop the Prowlers into a third-fourth place tie with Warroad, necessitating a coin flip to determine tournament berths.

Thief River Falls began the scoring early against Warroad as Wade Hoppe converted a power opportunity on an assist from Jeff Ulrich with just 1:02 elapsed. But despite a 16-shot first period barrage against Thunder, that was it for the Prowlers. It was the second straight impressive performance by Thunder who had 39 saves in Warroad's 5-2 loss at Grand Rapids Saturday.

The Warriors, losers by the same 4-1 score when the two teams met a month ago, scored on two of three second period power plays. Goals by Eddie Christian and Esko Salmela made it 3-1.

Fergus Falls will be here fresh from an impressive 10-2 Tuesday rout of Detroit Lakes that allowed the Otters to match Thief River Falls' 13-6 record. Fergus Falls scored six power play goals in that game as the Otters came back from a 2-1 first period deficit. It was 5-2 after two periods and the Otters, with Steve Lundeen scoring three goals and collecting two assists, completed the rout with five third period goals.

Roseau ended an unbeaten Section 8 schedule Tuesday by drilling East Grand Forks 9-3 Tuesday.

Rob Blankenfeld scored the winning goal late in the third period to give the 8-10-1 Lincoln high school junior varsity team a 5-4 win over Warroad.

District Field Reduced To 14

Region 8A district tournament basketball field has been trimmed to 14 teams. Four district champions will compete for the Region 8A title at Bemidji State University March 2-3.

District 29

Semifinals in District 29 will be played tonight (Wednesday) at Bemidji State University as Clearbrook challenges Bagley and Blackduck opposes Laporte. Championship game will be played Thursday at BSU.

In Monday quarterfinals, Blackduck ousted Littlefork-Big Falls 48-33 and Laporte eliminated Gonvick 62-54

District 30

Top seeds Fosston and Waubun will tangle tonight (Wednesday) at 8:45 p.m. at Crookston in the District 30 championship game.

Fosston dumped Fertile-Beltrami 62-41 and Waubun knocked off Mahnomen 62-50 in Monday's semifinals

District 31

Thursday semifinal matches in District 31 at Crookston will have Warren playing Stephen at 7 p.m. and Argyle facing Climax at 8:45. Finals will be played Saturday at Crookston.

In Monday's first round games, Fisher beat Goodridge 48-44, Red Lake Falls surprised Oslo 58-41 and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart knocked off Plummer 55-46.

Tuesday quarterfinals found Warren getting by Fisher 44-35, Stephen stopped Alvarado 61-56, Argyle crushed Red Lake Falls 62-29 and Climax sidelined Sacred Heart 50-45.

District 32

It will be Roseau vs. Hallock at 7 p.m. and Badger vs. Lake of the Woods at 8:30 Thursday in the District 32 semifinals at Roseau. Consolation and championship games will be played Friday at Roseau.

In the quarterfinals it was Roseau over Warroad 51-40 and Hallock over Marshall County Central 44-37 Monday while Badger slipped past Karlstad 45-44 and Lake of the Woods toppled Greenbush 62-45 Tuesday.

Ron Novak To Address Sports Boosters Club

Ron Novak, Thief River Falls youth hockey program director, will be the guest speaker Thursday at the regular 12 noon luncheon meeting of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club at the Rex cafe.

Prowlers, Pirates To Play For Title

They said it was going to be close. It was. Publicized as a well-balanced, wide-open field, the 1979 Region 8AA Region 4 high school basketball tournament lived up to its billing Tuesday as Thief River Falls outlasted Bemidji 60-56 and Crookston edged East Grand Forks 53-50 in overtime.

The Prowlers and Pirates will meet in the Sub Region 4 championship game Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Crookston. They'll match 10-9 records, but Crookston beat Thief River Falls twice during the regular season, 58-56 and 81-69.

Friday's winner will advance to the Region 8AA tournament, meeting the Sub Region 1 champion Thurs., March 1, at Bemidji State University.

Bemidji 56

Sometimes things aren't always what they appear to be. For instance, Thief River Falls, enjoying an 18-point, 51-33 cushion at the end of the third quarter, became ultra-conservative in the fourth quarter, attempting just one legitimate field goal over the final six minutes, as the Prowlers hung on desperately for a 60-56 win over Bemidji.

To the uninformed it was an out-and-out, sit-on-the-ball, don't-even-think-about-shooting stall. It wasn't. So says Thief River Falls coach Glen Peters.

"We did not come out and stall," insisted Peters. "I don't know what happened. We didn't tell the kids to hold the ball. We told them to go to the basket; run our plays. But they tightened up; they didn't move."

Tom Campbell, a 6-4 junior, led the remarkable Bemidji rally by scoring 14 of his game-high 25 points in the fourth quarter on a variety of maneuvers around the basket.

But in the end it was clutch free throw shooting by Thief River Falls guard Kyle Hams that kept the Lumberjacks at bay. Hams sank five of six free throw attempts on three crucial bonus situations in the final 88 seconds to prevent Bemidji from getting any closer than four points.

"The best team won," pointed out Bemidji coach Jack Luoma. "Thief River Falls played well. It was their fine play that won it."

Bemidji began with a 7-0 lead as Thief River Falls missed eight game-opening shots and didn't score from the field until Hams broke loose for a fast break lay-up with 3:59 remaining in the first quarter. But the Prowlers found the range, hitting five of their last six shots, to trail only 15-13 at the first quarter stop.

Thief River Falls continued to undress a Bemidji zone in the second quarter when the Prowlers made 10 of 19 shots, rebounded their misses and did not commit a turnover en route to a 34-23 halftime lead.

It became a one-sided 42-25 ball game three minutes into the third quarter before the Prowlers gradually became more and more cautious.

"We played really nice ball starting three minutes into the first quarter, through three quarters," praised Peters who admitted he was a bit apprehensive as the lead shrank at the end. "Hell, I was worried from the start, even with a 16-point lead."

Hams led a balanced Thief River Falls attack with 16 points while center Todd Young was impressive while scoring 14, Steve Enderlein had 12, Jim Nyland 10 and Jeff Oseid 8.

Thief River Falls finished with a 22-for-50, 44 per cent shooting night from the field. Bemidji, with a remarkable 10-for-15 fourth quarter, finished with a 26-for-53, 49 per cent figure. The Prowlers made 16 of 24 free throw attempts while the Lumberjacks sank four of nine gift tosses. Bemidji, again with its fourth quarter surge, held a slight 27-25 rebound edge. The Lumberjacks committed 14 of the game's 25 turnovers.

EGF 50

Duplicating the first game happenings, Crookston spotted East Grand Forks a 6-0 headstart before coming back for a 53-50 win in overtime.

East Grand Forks led 12-6 at the end of the first quarter but fell behind 22-18 at halftime. Crookston carried a 33-31 edge into the fourth quarter that ended in a 47-47 tie. There was no scoring after East Grand Forks' Gordy Olson tied it with 50 seconds left.

Olson was in position to produce another tie with eight seconds remaining in the three-minute overtime when he stepped to the free throw line in a 51-49 game. He missed his first shot but made the second try to pull East Grand Forks within 51-50.

An East Grand Forks full court press forced a Crookston turnover with six seconds to go, but the Green Wave bid for victory faded when Todd Selk, in going to the basket, was called for a charging foul with a mere one second remaining.

Fittingly, Crookston's Tim Knotek capped an outstanding game with a basket at the buzzer that gave him 27 points for the night. East Grand Forks countered with a balanced attack that featured Selk with 16 points, John Roche 14 and Steve Troyer 14.

East Grand Forks matched Bemidji's 6-13 finish that included a pair of regular season wins over Crookston.

Pool Rivalry Is Renewed

Fourth annual Thief River Falls vs. Coon Rapids pool shoot will be held Saturday and Sunday at The Club in Thief River Falls.

A winner when the two four-man teams met for the first time, Thief River Falls will be trying to snap a two-year Coon Rapids winning streak this weekend.

Match times have not been set.

NORTHWEST DIVISION co-champion, Northland community college will participate in the 1979 MJCAA state basketball tournament scheduled to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids. The Northmen will take a 16-6 record into an 8:30 p.m. Thursday first round game against Golden Valley Lutheran. Members of the Northland squad include, front row left to right, student manager Marilyn Anderson, Keith Charbonneau, Mike Carriere, Jerry Hooten, Kurt Sigl and student manager Arlene Knutson; middle row, Vince Parker, Doug Engelman, Darwin Nelson, Morice Hendricks and Joe Kraska; back row, coach Chet Engelman, Jon Nelson, Tom Jordan, Jeff Neelan, Scotty Gilbert and statistician Dennis Bendickson.

Northmen Will Play In MJCAA State Tournament This Week

After watching his team play one of its best games of the year in Saturday's 117-88 regular season-ending victory at Hibbing that produced a share of the Northwest Division title, Northland community college basketball coach Chet Engelman will take renewed confidence into the 1979 MJCAA state tournament scheduled to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Anoka-Ramsey community college in Coon Rapids.

"Our chances are as good as anybody else's. In fact, I don't think we're going to lose if we play well," said Engelman. "We have got to pass the ball; we have to fill the lanes on the fast break; and our transition game — going from offense to defense — has to be in working order. We did all those things super Saturday."

Northland will have to be at the top of its game right from the start since the Northmen will complete the first round with an 8:30 p.m. confrontation with ballyhooed Central Division champion Golden Valley Lutheran, the pre-tournament favorite.

Fergus Falls, Northwest Division co-champion with Northland but a winner in a coin flip to decide the MJCAA seeding, opens the tournament with a 1 p.m. game against host Anoka-Ramsey, runner-up to Golden Valley Lutheran in the strong Central Division. In the other draws, Northeast Division champion Mesabi plays Southern Division runner-up Willmar at 3 and Southern Division champion Worthington faces Northeast Division runner-up Vermilion at 6:30.

Semifinals will be played Friday when the Fergus Falls vs. Anoka-Ramsey winner plays the Worthington vs. Vermilion winner at 6:30 p.m. and the Mesabi vs. Willmar winner faces the Golden Valley Lutheran vs. Northland winner at 8:30.

Finals will be played Saturday, with the third place game scheduled for a 1 p.m. start and the championship game set for 3 p.m.

"If we play well we're as good as anybody in there," pointed out Engelman. "But I don't think we can afford to play poorly. I don't think there's anybody in the tournament we can beat if we play poorly."

Northland's strong suit; its depth, will again be evidenced during the state tournament when Engelman plays 11 people with little appreciable drop in productivity.

Probable starters include sophomores Jeff Neelan (TRF) and Jerry Hooten (Canton, Ohio) and freshmen Mike Carriere (Middle River), Joe Kraska (Lancaster), and Vince Parker (Inkster, Mich.). That leaves a wealth of talent on the bench in the likes of sophomores Jon Nelson (Hallock), Keith Charbonneau (Pembina, N.D.) and Doug Engelman (Rosemount) and freshmen Kurt Sigl (Dickinson, N.D.), Scotty Gilbert (San Diego, Cal.) and Tom Jordan (San Diego). They'll all play, although Nelson is still bothered by broken cheek bone he suffered in a Feb. 7 game at Fergus Falls.

The Northland fast break offense produced a 16-6 record for the balanced Northmen who had Gilbert averaging 13.3 points per game, Parker 13.1, Charbonneau 12.7 and Nelson 11.7, with three others just shy of double figures — Carriere 9.5, Hooten 9.3 and Neelan 9.0.

This is Northland's fourth state tournament appearance. The Northmen were third in the 1974 event when they beat Vermilion 84-61, lost to Normandale 83-79 and beat Mesabi 97-82 to finish with a 20-5 record. They were third again in 1975 with another semifinal loss to Normandale, beating Worthington 107-97, losing to the Lions 89-83 and beating Mesabi 100-90 for a 24-1 record. Inver Hills ousted Northland 68-61 in the 1976 state tournament as the Northmen finished 19-5.

8AA Sub Region Tournaments Are Underway

First round was completed Tuesday in the Region 8AA sub region high school basketball tournaments.

Four sub region winners will make up the 1979 Region 8AA tournament field. Opening round Region 8AA games Thurs., March 1, will find the Sub Region 1 and 4 winners playing at Bemidji State University while the Sub Region 2 and 3 champions meet at Concordia college in Moorhead.

The Region 8AA championship game will be played Sat., March 3, at Concordia.

Sub Region 1

St. Cloud Schools will play for the Sub Region 1 championship Thursday following Tuesday's opening round play when Apollo beat Melrose 58-51 and Tech stopped Alexandria 60-50.

Sub Region 2

Brainerd eliminated Little Falls 67-45 in the three-team Sub Region 2 tournament and will face Sauk Rapids Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Cloud State University.

Sub Region 3

In Sub Region 3 play, Moorhead defeated Fergus Falls 81-52 and Detroit Lakes sidelined Park Rapids 73-60.

The Spuds and Lakers will play Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Moorhead State University.

Sub Region 4

Thief River Falls got by Bemidji 60-56 and Crookston shaded East Grand Forks 53-50 in overtime in Sub Region 4 to advance into Friday's 7:30 p.m. championship game at Crookston.

Wrestling Tournaments Being Held This Week

Senior Mike Selves and junior Cory Nelson will be Thief River Falls wrestlers competing in the 1979 Region 8AA individual wrestling tournament scheduled to be held Friday and Saturday at Fergus Falls.

First round matches will start at 6 p.m. Friday. Saturday's activity starts at 10:30 a.m., with the finals scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Top two wrestlers in each weight class will earn berths in the 1979 Class AA state tournament March 1-3 at the St. Paul Civic Center. Wrestlers earned Region 8AA berths by gaining a top four finish in last week's North and South Half Region 8AA tournaments at Moorhead and St. Cloud Tech.

Moorhead won the Region 8AA team championship Tuesday at Park Rapids with a 31-21 victory over Brainerd. In first round matches, Moorhead beat Alexandria 30-20 and Brainerd belted Crookston 43-11.

Oklee faces Greenbush and Warren meets Walker at 4 p.m. Thursday at Bagley in the opening round of the Region 8A team tournament. The winners tangle in the 7:30 p.m. championship match for a state tournament berth.

Warren is the defensing champion. The Ponies will carry the tag of the favorite again this week, but they could fact strong opposition from the Oklee-Greenbush winner. The Tigers edged the Bobcats 25-24 in early January, one of only two dual meet losses for the 13-2 Oklee squad that won its first ever District 30 championship last week.

Oklee thought they won a District 30 title last year, but had the trophy taken away on an MSHSL rules violation.

Five Bobcats won District 30 individual titles: John Cyr, 98 pounds; Randy Bergeron, 105; Wes Magnell, 112; Tom Quinn, 138; and Mike Kirkpatrick 167.

Quinn was a fourth place finisher in the 1978 Class A individual state tournament. He's 23-0 this winter. Bergeron is 23-1 and Cyr is 20-3.

The Region 8A individual tournament will be held Saturday at Bagley beginning at 11 a.m.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

This week's schedule for teams in the Thief River Falls youth hockey traveling program includes a game tonight (Wednesday) as the Squirt A team hosts Warroad at 6:45 p.m. in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Crookston will bring four teams to Thief River Falls Saturday. In the sports arena, the Bantam B teams will meet at 10 a.m., Pee-Wee A at 12 noon and Squirt A at 3:15 p.m.

The Pee-Wee B teams will square off at 2 p.m. in the old arena.

Sunday matches in the old arena will feature East Grand Forks in Pee-Wee B action at 1 p.m. and Bantam B play at 3. That same day the Thief River Falls Squirt A and Pee-Wee A teams will play at East Grand Forks at 1 and 2:30 p.m., respectively.

Bantam Tournament

Thief River Falls Bantam A hockey team will participate in the District VFW tournament at Fergus Falls Saturday and Sunday, facing Roseau at 5 p.m. to open the tournament. East Grand Forks plays Fergus Falls at 7.

The Saturday losers play at 1 p.m. Sunday, with the first round winners meeting in the 3 p.m. championship game that will send its winner to the state VFW tournament in St. Cloud.

Results

Squirt A team won a pair of big games last weekend, beating Apple Valley 6-0 behind the goaltending of Shayne Anderson and blanking Roseau 10-0 with Terry Pribyl in the nets.

Squirt B team, paced by Kent Hamre's hat trick, edged Bagley 3-2 and beat Red Lake Falls 6-3 with Todd Phelps scoring three times and John Thompson twice.

Eagle Pee-Wee A team won a pair of one-goal games, beating Apple Valley 6-5 and topping Grafton 3-2.

Pee-Wee B team lost to Red Lake Falls 4-0 and the VFW Bantam A squad fell to Roseau 5-1.

Sixteen-game winning streak of the Bantam B team came to an end at Bemidji 4-3 despite Rick Engelstad's hat trick, but bounced back to beat Red Lake Falls 8-1 behind the strong goaltending of Kerry Wollin.

Section Eight Scoring Leader Is Aaron Broten

Aaron Broten of Roseau maintained his Section 8 high school hockey scoring as the 16 northwestern Minnesota teams entered the final week of 1978-79 regular season play. Broten scored 22 goals and collected 21 assists for 43 points in Section 8 play for a two-point edge over Dennis LaCoursiere.

Jim Pelowski of Roseau ranks as the top goaltender in Section 8 with a 2.4 goals against mark and an 89 per cent save figure.

Cold-Shooting Nordics Lose To Hallock 44-37

Marshall County Central suffered through a 29 per cent shooting night Tuesday and bowed out of the 1979 District 32 high school basketball tournament quarterfinals with a 44-37 loss to Hallock.

"We had probably five games this year when we shot poorly, and when we shoot poorly we're bad," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland whose small Nordics had little with which they could compensate with for a poor shooting night.

It was a 25-25 ball game going into the fourth quarter at Roseau. The Bears won it by out-scoring the Nordics 19-12 in the final eight minutes. Marshall County Central led 13-8 at the end of the first quarter and held on to a 21-18 halftime edge.

Chris Anderson scored 14 points and Theron Pearson had 11 for the winners. Kevin Anderson collected 12 points and pulled down 10 rebounds for the Nordics who finished the year with an 11-9 record.

While Marshall County Central was struggling with a 14-for-49 performance from the field, Hallock was 19-for-42 for 45 per cent. The Nordics made nine of 14 free throw attempts while the Bears sank just six of 21 at the line.

Detroit Lakes Height Is Too Much For LHS Girls

Detroit Lakes' decided height advantage produced a 43-27 rebound edge for the Lakers who beat Thief River Falls 49-30 Tuesday in a girls high school basketball game played at Detroit Lakes.

Thief River Falls slow-down tactics kept the powerful 15-2 Lakers from running away with the game, said Thief River Falls coach Sylvia Sjoberg.

"It could have been a lot worse," admitted Sjoberg. "We tried to slow it down and not run with them. It kind of helped."

Detroit Lakes, a Region 8AA contender, decided the issue early with a 15-4 first quarter lead. It was 25-12 at halftime, but the Lakers couldn't shake the Prowlers who trailed by only nine at one point in the third quarter before losing ground, 36-21.

"We didn't really play that bad," noted Sjoberg. "We just couldn't get any second shots."

Sophomore Brenda Peterson scored 14 points for the Lakers and rangy junior Lynn Christensen, listed in the Detroit Lakes program at 5'14" collected 13. Pam Kotschevar's seven points led the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls shot only 22 per cent from the field, hitting 13 of 60 shots. The Prowlers were 4-for-7 at the free throw line where the Lakers were 5-for-12.

Marlys Huot scored 14 points as the Lincoln high school junior varsity evened its record at 8-8 with a 35-28 win over Detroit Lakes. The winners built quarter leads of 7-2, 13-6 and 28-18.

Thief River Falls will close out its 1978-79 regular season schedule with a pair of games against Region 8AA Sub Region 4 opponents. The Prowlers, 7-9 for the year, will travel to East Grand Forks Thursday and will host Bemidji Tuesday in 7:30 p.m. games.

NOBODY CONTESTED this driving lay-up by Bemidji's Bob Orgon during Tuesday's Region 8AA Sub Region 4 high school basketball game played at Crookston. Watching the action were Bemidji's Tom Campbell (43) and Rob Egersdorf, along with Thief River Falls' Jeff Osied (left), Todd Young and Steve Enderlein. This bull-like charge netted Orgon two of his nine points. Campbell scored 25 for the Lumberjacks, but the Prowlers won 60-56.

Winningest day over the years for the Minnesota Twins is August 19, in which they have won 15 of 19 games.

Fisher Leads Cards Past Oklee Girls

Diane Fisher scored 15 of her game-high 23 points in the second quarter Tuesday to supply Plummer with a 36-16 halftime cushion and the Cardinals went on to beat Oklee 57-34 in a girls' high school basketball game played at Plummer.

It was a 12-6 game in the first quarter before Fisher, who netted 19 of her points in the first half, exploded. Plummer led 48-24 after three quarters.

Melanie Skjerven added 13 points to the Plummer attack and Sandy Zimpel pulled down 16 rebounds. Donna Stenberg led Oklee with 10 points.

Plummer, 11-4, will be at Clearbrook Friday and at Fisher Tuesday.

TRY THE '79 LTD ON TUNBERG MOTORS TEST TRACK
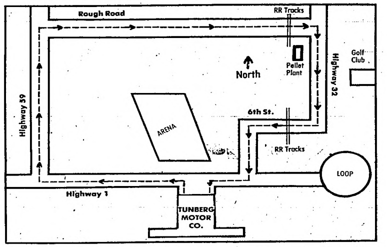
THEN REGISTER TO WIN ONE.



There's only one way to really appreciate the '79 LTD. You've just got to drive it.

That's why we set up the Tunberg Motor's Test Track. Drive this route in your present car and then test-drive it in a '79 LTD from Tunberg Motors. You'll find out why they're calling the LTD a New American Road Car.

And back at Tunberg Motors, you can enter the Northland Ford Dealers Great LTD Giveaway. Win and you can choose either a new Ford LTD or a New Ford F-150 4x4 truck. You don't have to take a test drive to enter, but you must be a licensed driver, 18 or older. There will be two winners in the Northland area. Winners must pay taxes and license. Contest ends March 3, 1979.*

The new LTD for '79. You can read about it; you can come down and look at it; but to really appreciate it, you just gotta drive it.

*Complete contest rules posted at participating Northland Ford Dealers

YOUR FARM EXPERIENCE IS VALUABLE

Put it to work representing our Crop Hail Association in a protected local territory. Realistic first year earnings are $17,500-plus based on salary plus commission.

We are an established firm with 60 years of experience in crop hail insurance. Farmer acceptance has created a rapid expansion rate. We will provide sales training in our home office and in the field. Your responsibilities will also include the adjustment of crop hail losses.

We have immediate openings in Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Card of Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who sent cards, flowers and gifts while I was a patient at Northwestern hospital. Thanks to Dr. Bray and the nursing staff; also to Frs. Rausch, Bernauer and McMenamin for their prayers and words of comfort. May God bless you all.

Byron Backen
1116p

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Bray and Dr. Padilla for the fine care given me while at the hospital the whole month; also, to nurses and hospital staff and for all the visits from friends and neighbors who were so kind.

Also, thanks for the gifts and cards and letters; to my neighbors who visited and did so much for me; also, the friend which cared for my home. Also for the prayers which Pastor Hoveland and Pastor Hushagen gave me while I was so sick. May God bless you all.

Marcella Gutterud

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for the tremendous outpouring of love and concern shown us during this time of sorrow over the loss of our dear son and brother, David Solberg. Truly, through all the beautiful cards, letters, memorials, flowers, gifts of food and visits, you brought God's love and presence to us.

Much strength and peace was left to us by our dear David, through his well used and marked devotional book and Bible.

We deeply appreciated the comforting words given by Pastor Jay Borchert; the visits of Pastor Gene Broughton. Sincere thank you to Grace Hammer and Marian Marquis for their beautiful music; to the pallbearers; the Green Funeral home for their helpful service; and to our friends Irene Lovly, Bernice Grabowska, Adeline Parnow and Marcella Hanson for serving lunch to relatives at our home. May God's grace and peace be with each one of you.

Name Robert Redford Chairman Of March 18-24 Wildlife Week

Robert Redford, who is nearly as well known for his environmental activities as his acting ability, has been appointed honorary chairman of national wildlife week, to be observed March 18 - 24.

The 41-year-old star of some 20 films, once voted the "World's most popular" movie actor, was named to head the 42nd annual observance of the week by Dr. Fred R. Scroggin, a Dry Ridge, Ky., physician and president of the National Wildlife Federation. The NWF has sponsored the week since it was first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938.

More than 13 million students, teachers and other conservation-minded citizens are expected to participate in this year's wildlife week activities, built around the theme, "Conserve Our Wildlife."

"As well as anyone, Robert Redford understands the meaning and importance of this year's national wildlife week theme," said Dr. Scorggin. "As an outdoorsman, he knows that conservation means more than preservation — that it means using our natural resources wisely and planning for the future. His lifestyle has demonstrated his appreciation of this."

As chairman, Redford will narrate wildlife week public service announcements for television. The TV "spots," which will be broadcast nationwide next month, feature a young cougar in its natural habitat. Filmed in the Olympic mountains of Washington state, they explain how the destruction of wildlife habitat threatens the survival of the cougar and other wildlife species.

A cougar is also featured on the 1979 wildlife week poster. Four hundred thousand copies of the poster have been distributed to schools and conservation clubs in all 50 states.

Redford first got interested in conservation as an undergraduate at the University of Colorado, where he became an avid mountain climber, hunter and skier. He has served four times previously as wildlife week chairman — in 1971, '72, '77, and '78.

He underlined the importance of habitat in his "inaugural" statement as wildlife week chairman:

"The biggest problem facing wildlife today is destruction of its habitat. This year's wildlife week theme, 'Conserve Our Wildlife,' emphasizes the need to solve this problem — to make sure that wildlife has the food, water and cover necessary to assure its continued existence."

"Conservation of our wildlife is a complicated task. It will take our best-informed efforts and understanding to achieve the necessary balance between our needs and the needs of wildlife."

Over the years, Redford has spoken out on a number of environmental issues. Last year, he served on the board of advisors for sun day and spoke at the United Nations on the importance of solar power as an energy source. He was also elected to the board of directors of the National Wildlife Federaion.

Redford, his wife Lola — also an active environmentalist — and their three children live in a solar-powered home in the Wasatch mountains of Utah, where they grow their own vegetables and feed for their livestock.

Recently, Redford rode horseback over a trail running from Canada to Mexico that was used by outlaws of the old west from 1870 to 1910. "I wanted to see for myself what remained before it was too late," Redford explained. That ride is documented with text and photographs in his recently-published book, "The Outlaw Trail."

His experiences on the trail strengthened Redford's appreciation for a needed balance between economic growth and conservation. While riding through Wyoming he noted: "In almost every spot that is not forest or park service land, the sprawling hand of the developer can be seen. This area is a natural resource of history threatened by. . . our need to push ahead, sometimes at any cost."

DNR Creates New Heritage Program Plan

A program to identify Minnesota's vulnerable plant and animal species, plant communities, aquatic types, special wildlife habitats and other outstanding natural features has been initiated by the Department of Natural Resources.

Funding for the program was provided by the Nature Conservancy, a private non-profit land conservation organization, and by matching funds from the legislative commission on Minnesota resources (LCMR).

The state will be reimbursed for one half of the total project costs from the land and water conservation fund administered by the Heritage conservation recreation service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

Barbara Coffin, coordinator of the program for the DNR, said, "The Heritage program will create a continuing inventory process for identifying and locating significant examples of the diversity of the state's natural environment."

"This information will be centralized and made readily available to those involved in environmental review procedures, land use planning and natural areas protection," she noted.

Knowledge of the state's rarest natural features can help to avoid conflicts over resource use," Coffin explained.

U Of M Has No Position On Stadium

University of Minnesota president C. Peter Magrath said recently that the university has no position on a proposed domed stadium in downtown Minneapolis.

However, Paul Giel, director of men's intercollegiate athletics, has said that a downtown stadium would "solve" financial problems suffered by the Gopher sports program.

Apparent discrepancy was raised Monday in hearings before the education division of the House appropriations committee by Rep. James Swanson, DFL-Richfield.

"Did you support Paul Giel or encourage him to make these statements?" Swanson asked Magrath.

Magrath said Giel was speaking for himself and not for the university. "He has a right to express his personal views," Magrath said. "We run, and I prefer it that way, a fairly loose operation. Faculty and students are free to express their own views. Mr. Giel, on the stadium issue, does not represent the official university view."

In response to another question from Swanson, Magrath said the university has made no deals with proponents of any of the stadium sites. "We have repeatedly made it clear that if a new facilitity is built, we would consider participating in it regardless of where it is built," he said.

Magrath said the university could use a stadium close to the campus if it included facilities for intramural and recreation sports, but that such facilities are not included in the downtown stadium proposal.

Conservation Stamps Are Now Available

If you see an out-sized stamp bearing the four-color likeness of a polar bear, a desert bighorn or a loggerhead turtle on a letter this spring, it won't mean that the postal service has again raised its rates.

It will mean that the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest nongovernment conservation organization, has — for the 41st consecutive year — issued its conservation stamps.

There are 36 different mammals, reptiles, insects, birds and fish depicted on the 1979 sheet. Contributions received for the stamps, minature replicas of paintings by nationally-known wildlife artists, provide some of the money with which the NWF conducts its conservation education program.

Collectors buy them for their albums and other contributors paste them as ornaments on letters, books, packages and other objects.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt bought the first sheet of conservation stamps at the White House on March 20, 1938, kicking off a fund-raising campaign that netted $16,000 for the then nearly-bankrupt NWF. Ten years later contributions passed the $400,000 mark and last year they reached almost $2 million.

Three animals who live in widely varying habitats are among those pictured on this year's stamps:

Desert bighorn lives in the arid mountains of the southwest. Like other wild sheep, the desert bighorn is well-adapted to life on an incline. Its hooves have special non-skid pads, its shoulders are shock-proof, its forearms are powerful, and it has fantastic natural balance. The desert bighorn can survive long periods getting water only from the plants it eats, but eventually, it must find water — and salt — or die.

Loggerhead turtle once shared primeval beaches with dinosaurs. This sea turtle grows to be four feet long and can weigh up to 350 pounds. It swims the warm coastal waters of the western Atlantic, often following the pull of the currents as far north as New England or as far south as Argentina.

Polar bear, one of the largest and most carnivorous of the bears, lives in the Arctic regions of the world. Among its "equipment" to cope with a life on ice are elongated eyes insensitive to snow blindness, a thick layer of fat for buoyancy and insultaion, non-skid soles for traction and partially-webbed paws for long-distance swimming.

For information concerning the 1979 stamps and NWF stamp albums — which contain descriptions and biological data on each of the animals pictured — write the National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Wildlife Group Endorses New DNR Concept

In individual letters to all 535 voting members of Congress, the National Wildlife Federation has endorsed the "general concept" of a new Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in the federal government.

A new cabinet-level department, taking over most functions of the Interior Department, plus parts of the Agriculture and Commerce Departments and the Army Corps of Engineers, would save taxpayers $150 million a year, straighten out some regulatory problems and make the government more accountable to the people, the NWF letter said.

In the letter, Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the NWF, said his group wanted to "put to rest the reports circulating on Capitol Hill and elsewhere that a majority of the conservation - environment movement is opposed to the creation of a DNR."

With its 4.1 million members and supporters, Kimball said, the NWF accounts for nearly three quarters of the total membership of all national conservation and environmental groups.

While not all environmentalists endorse the DNR plan proposed by the president's reorganization project (PRP), "groups representing a vast majority of all Americans who are affiliated with conservation organizations do support the DNR concept," he told the members of Congress.

President Carter is expected to send the PRP scheme to Congress this spring. Under the reorganization act, the plan would take effect within 60 days unless vetoed by a simple majority vote in either house of Congress.

In a fact sheet accompanying Kimball's letter, the NWF criticized the "dispersed, antiquated and inefficient organization" of the federal government's resource management agencies. It estimated that the proposed reorganization would eliminate 3,700 jobs "while maintaining the same or a higher level of services."

Under the plan, the new DNR would take over all of Interior but a few duties, such as the construction responsibilities of the bureau of reclamation — which would go to the Army Corps of Engineers. It would also assume all preconstruction and budgeting functions of the Corps of Engineers' civil works program, the nation's biggest producer of dams.

The entire national oceanic and atmospheric administration (NOA) would be transferred from Commerce to DNR and Agriculture would lose its forest service and the small watershed program of its soil conservation service to the new department. The water resources council would also be telescoped into the DNR.

When the plan is submitted to Congress it is expected to be referred to the House government operations committee and the Senate governmental affairs committee for extensive hearings.

STEINER . . .

Mrs. Ethel Moe left Tuesday morning by bus for Bradley, S.D. to attend funeral services for her brother, Enoch Roso at the Lutheran church there Thursday afternoon. She was a house guest at the home of brother-in-law and sister, Ray and Karen Potter at Clark until Saturday when she returned home.

Fire Dstroys Barn On Solem Farm

The fire department from Newfolden was called to the Alfred Solem farm Saturday morning when they noticed their quonset-type barn was on fire. It was too far advanced to save the building which was completely destroyed. Luckily there wasn't any livestock lost. The Solems greatly appreciated the help of Clifford Jorde with his snow-blower by which he was able to save the hay bales piled near the barn by keeping them covered with a heavy layer of snow.

West Steiner Homemakers To Meet February 28

The West Steiner Homemakers' meeting which was cancelled for the afternoon of February 13, due to bad roads and weather, will be held February 28 at 2 p.m. at the home of Evonne Moe.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe and Jim spent Monday at the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston since schools were not in session.

SPORTS SHORTS

Old fights, such as this one between Archie Moore and Rocky Marciano in 1955, can still mean big money for someone—maybe you.

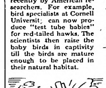
Former handball champion Jim Jacobs will pay good money for films of past fights, particularly for the lightweight fight between Armstrong and Jenkins in 1939 and the 1948 Robinson vs. Gavilan welterweight fight.

If you have old fight films to sell, you may want to write to Jim Jacobs, 9 East 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10016.

FACTS & FIGURES

Some important discoveries have been made recently by American researchers. For example, bird specialists at Cornell Universit; can now produce "test tube babies" for red-tailed hawks. The scientists then raise the baby birds in captivity till the birds are mature enough to be placed in their natural habitat.

Researchers have developed ways to modify cigarettes. Developments involve the porousness of the paper, the soil in which the tobacco is grown, the curing process, the burning temperature and method of manufacture. Probably the most important developments have taken place in filters. An "air stream filter" helps make the Carlton brand the lowest in tar levels of all cigarettes tested by the government. Carlton Box has less than 0.5 mg. of tar average per cigarette.



The development of fiber optics has made it easier for doctors to examine internal organs and for mechanics to inspect otherwise inaccessible aircraft parts.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Box: Less than 0.5 mg. "tar", 0.05 mg. nicotine; Soft Pack and Menthol: 1 mg. "tar", 0.1 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report May '78.

Problems Might Result From 'U' Appropriations

University of Minnesota President C. Peter Magrath said recently that an inadequate appropriation for his institution could compromise his ability to carry out a management program he began a year ago.

Magrath explained a "retrenchment and reallocation process" begun by the university, and defended the institution's $496.7 million legislative request before the house education division chaired by Rep. Wendell Erickson, IR-Hills.

"Retrenchment and reallocation process was developed to manage our own resources as carefully as possible," he said. "We intend in our 1979 budget to undertake a retrenchment of some programs and a reallocation to others."

This management program will be needed by the university because of shifting priorities and projected changes in enrollment within the institution," Magrath said.

"If the reallocation program is used to pay for essential services, it will undercut a delicate process we have worked out in a collaborative manner," he said. Magrath said the faculty and students have accepted the need for internal shifting of money, but the process involves people at all levels of the institution.

"If we cannot use the money for the purposes intended, if we have to use it to bail ourselves out for price-level increases, for example, then it would fundamentally compromise my ability to work with the vice presidents, the faculty and the students to undertake the retrenchment and reallocation we want in the next few years," he said.

Reallocation process will cut 1.7 per cent across-the-board from the university's budget, thus making $3 million available for internal redistribution. University has requested $11 million to pay for price increases caused by inflation.

Guidelines set by former Gov. Rudy Perpich had asked state agencies to make up price-level increases through internal reallocation of resources.

Magrath admitted that the university's legislative request exceeded the limits set in the gubernatorial guidelines, and cited internal consultation with faculty, students and administrators as one reason for the size of the request. "The governor's guidelines were developed long after we were into our consultative process," Magrath said.

Rep. Richard Welch, DFL-Cambridge, said that state agencies were expected to make up inflation-related increases through increased productivity, and that any new positions were to be funded through cutbacks within agencies.

"I believe we are in compliance with increased productivity, but we clearly are not in compliance with price-level and other increases," Magrath said.

Magrath said that faculty productivity has increased as a result of expanding work loads combined with budget cutbacks throughout the 1970s. The university is asking the legislature for 227 new positions.

Strandquist

Mrs. Irene Larson, Strandquist
436-2690

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kasprowicz and Matthew and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jacobson, all of Karlstad were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Arthur Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Larson, Lou Ann, Brian and Jeremy visited Saturday afternoon at the Glen Ekman home in Newfolden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Wollin and Rebekah visited at Paul Anderson's Sunday.

Mildred Nelson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grandstrand, John and Karyn to Roseau Sunday where they visited at the Bill Baumgartner home and helped Sandra celebrate her birthday.

Ruth Anderson returned home Sunday after spending a couple of weeks at the Merle Brevik home in Red Lake Falls where she went to celebrate Fern's birthday on Valentines Day. Monday Ruth visited at the Mrs. Edna Berg home and helped Marlene observe her birthday which was on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stennes, Todd, Tammie, and Tricia came up Sunday from the Cities to spend a week visiting at the Wallace Bothum home at Karlstad and at the Gilman Stennes home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Rud and girls, Mabel Stromberg and Anna Rud visited Andrew Rud at Fargo Saturday.

Mary Gorsuch and Richard Daigre were married Wednesday night at the home of Rev. John Riveness in Karlstad. Attendant were Cynthia Cormier and Bob Daigre. After the service the John Daigre's entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gorsuch, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gustafson and girls, Cynthia Cormier, Bob Daigre and the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daigre, for cake and coffee. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daigre will be making their home in Warren.

As soon as the tax statements come out from treasurer's office, Lavern Swan or Karen Skatsem will set up a day at Strandquist to assist the people in filling out their forms for rent or real estate refunds. Watch for further notice.

Ida Bruce visited with Mrs. Hulda Stromberg a week ago Sunday afternoon.

In spite of the stormy day Thursday, quite a few ladies attended the pink and blue shower for Mrs. Donald Larson at the Hegland church.

DID YOU KNOW?

IT IS TIME TO BE DISTRUBED

A Japanese proverb says, "Blind people do not fear snakes." There are too many blind people in America today. The enemy is taking advantage of their blindness. Paul Harvey comments: "If I were the Prince of Darkness I would want to engulf the whole earth in darkness . . . so I should set about, however necessary, to take over the United States. I would begin with a campaign of whispers . . . To the young I would whisper, 'The Bible is a myth.' I would convince them that 'man created God,' instead of the other way around. I'd confide that what is bad is good and what is good is square. In the ears of the young married I would whisper that work is debasing, that cocktail parties are good for you. I would caution them not to be 'extreme' in religion, in patriotism, in moral conduct, I'd educate authors in how to make lurid literature exciting . . . I'd peddle narcotics to whom I could. I'd sell alcohol to ladies and gentlemen of distinction. I'd tranquilize the rest with pills . . . I'd designate an atheist to front for me before the Highest Courts and I'd get preachers to say, 'She's right!' "

REACHING TOWARD GOD

Copyright 1979 Keister Advertising Service
Strasburg, Virginia

People keep teaching their children to say their prayers at bedtime; but how many do it themselves?

Maybe sometimes they pray in the darkness, silently, so that no one will know. But why the secrecy? Because prayer is a very deep, personal kind of expression? Because we reveal ourselves through it?

The truth is that more of us sense the reaching of our souls toward God than have yet openly admitted our religious need.

Why wait? In church you can pray alone or with others . . . in darkness or in light. But always in peace . . . reaching toward God.

Test Shows That Babies Learn Quickly

by Jeanne Hanson
University News

Young babies recognize patterns very quickly, according to results of a study of their brain signals conducted by University of Minnesota researchers.

Shown a series of different geometric patterns, three-month-old babies registered different brain signals in half a second — almost as quickly as adults do. This finding and the method used to discover it helps refute the old view that a baby's world is a "blooming, buzzing confusion."

Besides being capable of recognizing patterns, three-month-old babies have already developed color vision, said researcher Philip Salapatek, professor of child development. As a matter of fact, he said, color vision may be developed as early as one or two months after birth.

While newborn babies typically have fuzzy 20-450 vision, by the time they are three months old they have learned to prefer patterned images to plain surfaces, Salapatek said.

Salapatek feels that the way he arrived at his discovery is at least as important as what he discovered. The world of infants is a little like a foreign country — you can't question the inhabitants directly because none of them speak your language, he said. There is no way to ask a three-month-old baby whether he recognizes a pattern, prefers red to blue, or recognizes a picture of his mother, Salapatek said.

The method the Minnesota team used to study the babies is at least as intriguing as their findings and his implications for the diagnosis of several kinds of birth problems. "Method we developed is a little like the one used in the pediatrician's office to record a baby's heart rate," Salapatek said. "Although much equipment is attached to the baby, the procedure is entirely painless."

Babies were brought into the research room, and kept on the laps of their parents. A denim head band and some sticky cream held eight wires onto each baby's scalp. Wires were positioned to "hear" the electrical signals of a thinking brain.

Slides of two different striped patterns were flashed, each for a half second, on a large screen in the darkened room. One was shown frequently, and the other less often.

The babies' brains registered differently for each pattern. The brain signals measured were similar to those adults have when comparing stimuli and remembering, Salapatek said. This particular brain signal, associated with higher mental activity, is called the late positive component.

In a second research room, the brain signals were fed into a computer by a mass of colored wires attached to a polygraph and a signal averager. Research assistants Martin Hofmann and Michael Kuskowski analyzed the brain signals, automatically transcribed as peaks and valleys on graph paper and as blips on a small screen.

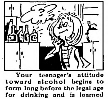
That is how the experiment works on a good day, Hofmann said. On a bad day, babies fall asleep in the middle of the experiment, or try to pull off the denim head band, or wiggle so much the brain wave signals become scrambled, he said. "We have to start with about three times as many babies as we need," Kuskowski said.

Even with problems, the method is versatile, fast and efficient, Salapatek said. He expects the method to be used to check an infant for a defective cortex, to see if oxygen deprovation at birth has caused brain damage, and to analyze the development of a premature infant.

Method can also be used to map the brain more precisely, to study longer term memory in infants, and to find out whether infants can distinguish between pairs of words or associate voices with faces, he said.

University of Minnesota team expects future findings to confirm the competence of infants at many tasks. "It's amazing that a baby that age can figure it out that fast," Salapatek said.

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY



Your teenager's attitude toward alcohol begins to form long before the legal age for drinking and is learned earliest in the home, say many experts on child behavior. Young people brought up by responsible adults are more likely to make the right decisions later on and more likely to realize that drinking too much too often is not grownup.

On the highway, a basic problem is the excessive drinker, not the moderate social drinker. Of course, it's best not to drink at all before driving, but since many people do, the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States advises that you know your limits, as well as the speed limit, and stay well within both.

Use Care When Choosing A Tax Preparer

Americans are a pretty adventuresome people. We like to try new products, challenge the elements, and explore the unknown. About the only thing that gives us a case of cold feet is doing our own federal income tax return. For that, we'll throw in the towel and pay someone to take over.

If you're one of the millions who will use the services of a commercial preparer this year, the internal revenue service reminds you to select that person with care. By law, you are responsible for what is on your return no matter who fills it out. Unlike doctors and lawyers, returns preparers do not go through a licensing procedure. Although most are honest and competent, a few are not.

According to the IRS, those who are dishonest usually send out signals that should warn you to go somewhere else. What are they? One of the easiest to spot is the person who claims to have inside knowledge of the IRS computer system. Such persons may even claim to know the formula IRS uses to select returns for examination. In reality, there are only a few people who know this information, and none of them are returns preparers.

Another signal is the preparer's advertising campaign. Watch out for anyone who guarantees a refund as part of their pitch. It simply is not possible for a preparer to know whether you are legally entitled to a refund without knowing what your income, withholding, filing status and expenses are.

The same principle applies to preparers whose fees are based on the size of your refund. Because their fee increases with the amount of your check, these people may inflate your refund in order to enlarge their profit.

Beware also of the fly-by-nighter — the preparer who hangs out a shingle on January 1st and leaves town right after the filing season is over. Choose someone who will be around to answer questions if the IRS calls you in for an examination.

Never sign a blank return, one that has not been completed, or one that has been completed in pencil. Remember, it is your return and you are responsible for what goes on it. So sign only what you know is permanent and correct.

Finally, if you do have a refund coming, make sure that it is sent directly to you. That way you'll know that the return that was filed was filed the way you signed it. You'll be certain that you're getting all the refund you're due.

New Laws Offer Two Energy Tax Credits

Recent legislation will allow many taxpayers to claim two new income tax credits intended to offset expenditures for installing energy-saving devices and renewable energy source property in the home. The following questions and answers from the IRS explain some of the features of these new credits:

Q: What is the difference between the two credits?

A: The two credits reflect the two categories of equipment that qualify — (1) energy conservation devices such as insulation or storm doors, and (2) solar, wind and geothermal energy equipment — and the costs to install these devices and systems.

Q: What is the credit for energy conservation devices?

A: Homeowners and renters can claim a tax credit for energy conservation devices installed between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985. Items eligible for credit are limited to insulation, storm or thermal windows and doors, furnace replacement burners, weather stripping and caulking, flue-opening modifications, an electrical or mechanical furnace ignition systems which replace gas pilot lights, clock thermostats and meters which display cost of energy usage.

Q: How much is the credit for energy conservation devices?

A: The credit is 15 per cent of the first $2,000 in eligible expenses, to maximum of $300. Credit must amount to at least $10 in order to be claimed and it cannot exceed your tax liability.

Q: Do I have to spend the entire $2,000 in one year?

A: No. The credit is cumulative. It applies to expenditures made between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985. Total credits claimed for all years may not total more than $300.

Q: I paid $700 to have some insulation installed in my home, so that would give me a credit of $105. If the maximum is $300, do I lose the rest?

A: Not if you install other energy saving devices. The credit is cumulative and you can add to it from year to year until you reach the maximum amount. If you put up storm windows and doors next year and it costs you another $700, you could claim another credit of $105. You would still have $90 of credit left and could continue to claim the credit until your total amounted to $300.

Q: Are there any other requirements?

A: Yes. You must acutally install the device in your home to be eligible. Just purchasing the equipment and storing it in a basement, for example, is not enough. Also, the home must be your principal place of residence-vacation and summer homes do not qualify — and it must be in the U.S.

Q: I don't own my home. Can I claim the credit even though I rent?

A: Yes. Renters are eligible as well as tenant-stockholders in cooperatives. Also, members of condominium management associations may claim a share of the credit for their organizations' qualifying expenditures.

Q: I built my home last year and installed insulation, weather stripping and caulking. Will my home qualify?

A: Yes, but only if construction was substantially completed April 20, 1977 and the energy conserving items were installed after April 19, 1977.

Q: What happens if I move?

A: If your new principal residence meets the general requirements, the $2,000 expense limitation starts again, just as though you'd never made any previous expenditures.

Q: What does the other credit involve?

A: The other credit offsets the costs of installing renewable energy source property, such as solar, geothermal, or wind energy equipment, to heat or cool your home, or to heat water for your home.

Q: Are the amounts the same as for the other credit?

A: No. For solar, geothermal or wind energy equipment, the credit is 30 per cent of the first $2,000 in expenses, plus 20 per cent of the next $8,000 spent, to a maximum credit of $2,200. For example, if you install a solar heating system which costs you $5,000 and you meet the other requirements, your credit would be 30 per cent of the first $2,000, or $600, plus 20 per cent of the remaining $3,000, or $600, for a total credit of $1,200.

Q: Is this credit cumulative too?

A: Yes. If your credit for this year totaled $1,200, for instance, you would be able to claim another $1,000 in credits in subsequent years.

Q: Are there any other requirements if I install solar energy equipment?

A: Yes, the system must have been installed in your home between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985. You can either own or rent, but your home must be your principal place of residence and it must be located in the U.S. In addition, the credit cannot exceed your tax liability. Renewable energy source credit is available for items installed on either existing or newly constructed residences.

Q: Do I have to itemize deductions to take advantage of either of these credits?

A: No. Because your expenses are claimed as tax credits, not deductions, you do not have to itemize to take advantage of the provisions. But you do have to file the Form 1040. As with any other credit, the amount you claim is subtracted directly from your tax liability.

Q: How do I claim the credit:

A: Compute the credit on Form 5695, "Energy Credits". The form is included in the Form 1040 packages sent to taxpayers in late December and is also available at many banks and post offices and from local IRS offices. Qualifying expenditures made in 1977 (after April 19) and qualifying expenditures made in 1978 must both be claimed on your 1978 Form 1040.

Farmland Value Average Rises By 12 Per Cent

Average farmland values in Minnesota rose 12 per cent over a year ago, according to a recent study by University of Minnesota agricultural economists.

Estimated average land values were $889 per acre as of July, 1978, an increase of $95 per acre over 1977. Although rural land prices continued to climb, the percentage increase was the lowest in the last six years, according to U of M economists Rodney Christianson and Philip M. Raup. Their study included the 12 months from July 1977 to July 1978.

However, the statewide trend was uneven with price declines reported in about a dozen counties, mainly in south central and southwestern Minnesota.

Annual Minnesota farmland values from 1972 to 1977 increased 20, 42, 24, 27 and 19 per cent, respectively. "When adjusted for inflation, the 1978 figure reflects a downturn in the farmland market in several regions of the state and an actual decline in money terms for a few southern Minnesota areas," they said.

Reported sales prices of good farmland changed "very little" over 1977. In addition, average price paid by expansion farmers for good land declined significantly from 1977 levels.

By districts, highest increases in estimated values were in the southeast and east central districts (16 and 20 per cent, respectively). In the primarily cash crop areas of southwest and west central Minnesota, farmland values rose half that much (8 and 10 per cent).

"Slowdown in farmland value increases in these two western districts is apparently associated with the downward movement of cash crop prices and farm incomes over the last two to three years. Expansion buyers have also played a smaller role in these districts," the economists said.

Farmland values in the southwest continue to lead the state with an estimated value of $1,421 per acre.

Statewide average reported sales price for the first six months of 1978 was $980 per acre — 14 per cent above the 1977 average sales price. Land market activity shifted towards the more livestock, urban and recreationally oriented eastern districts. Average sales price rose by 11 per cent in the southeast district, while the reported price declined one per cent in the southwest.

"The 11 per cent increase in the southeast returned this district to the top position in average sales price for the first time since 1973," the economists reported. "This is another indication of the weakened agricultural forces in the 1978 rural land market in southern Minnesota. Among the five most agricultural districts (excluding the northeast), the percentage rise was greatest in the west central district, where the land market is apparently recovering from the drought conditions of 1976."

There were 21.7 voluntary farm sales per 1,000 farms in Minnesota during the year ending Feb. 1, 1978. This was the lowest rate of transfers by voluntary sale since 1935.

Transfers of all types (voluntary sales, inheritance, estate settlements, foreclosures, tax sales) reached a record low of 30.2 per 1,000 Minnesota farms in 1978.

The economists' report was published in the February issue of "Minnesota Agricultural Economist," published by the University's agricultural extension service.

ALCW Have Birthday and Valentine Party

The American Lutheran Church Women of the Zion church had a birthday and Valentine party at the church Wednesday afternoon with about 30 ladies attending. A devotional program was given with Mrs. Joan Krohn as chairwoman. Planning the program were Joan Krohn, Joyce Erickson, Jean Anderson and Veronica Moose. An offering was taken which will go towards the Sunshine fund of the church. A candle lighted luncheon was served in the lower auditorium which was decorated in the Valentine decor. The luncheon included birthday cakes to honor all the birthdays and the happy birthday song was sung. Hostesses were Rose Anderson, Agnes Halvorson, Janet Berg and Minnie Gustafson. It was a very festive occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Sustad, Dayna and Dawn visited Sunday with Danny's grandmother, Mrs. Lilabelle Peterson at Walker. They also visited at the Harry Peterson home at Backus.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hanson and family of Newfolden visited at the Elmer Anderson home Sunday evening.

A week ago Monday Mrs. Palma Broten accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Nelder Broten to Warren where Mrs. Palma Broten visited with Mrs. Sanford Goplin and the Nelder Brotens transacted business.

Saturday evening Clarence Tangquist was a supper guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Myrtle Sackett in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Danny Hogberg of East Grand Forks and Mr. and Mrs. Halward Anderson visited and were coffee guests at the LeRoy Sustad home Sunday afternoon.

Afternoon and luncheon guest at the Russel Floberg home Sunday was Omer Broten.

Dale Anderson was a caller at the Melvin Grandstrand home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Lillie Flodstrom was a Sunday dinner guest at the Virgil Hjelle home.

Sunday dinner and afternoon guests at the Gene Nelson home were Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson and Ryan of New Rockford, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Michael Waterworth of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson of Thief River Falls were noon luncheon guests Tuesday at the Clarence Gustafson home.

Jayne Broten, student at UND, spent the weekend at her parental home, the Ervin Broten's. Sunday afternoon Jayne and Kent Broten visited with their grandmother, Mrs. Palma Broten. Kent also visited at the Nelder Broten's that afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sinn, Angie, Stacy and Sherrie of Thief River Falls spent Sunday afternoon and were supper guests at the Melvin Grandstrand home.

Spending the afternoon Saturday and luncheon guests at the Gene Nelson home were Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson and Ryan of New Rockford, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zavoral of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Waterworth of Newfolden, and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Nelson.

Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustafson, Mr. and Mrs. John Gustafson, Julie, Scot, Jan and Sandy were luncheon guests at the Larry Gustafson home of Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon. The occasion was to help Larry Gustafson celebrate his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Winton Forsberg and also Darlene and Deloris Floberg of Thief River Falls visited Sunday evening at the Mrs. Ida Gustafson home.

Mrs. Ruth Ranum entertained to a Sunday dinner at her home. Guests were Mrs. Ida Gustafson, Agnes and Glen Halvorson.

Sunday dinner guests at the LeRoy Gustafson home were Mr. and Mrs. Duane Krohn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Anderson and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Sustad, Dayna and Dawn were evening visitors Saturday at the Tom Price home.

Afternoon guests Sunday at the Axel Gustafson home were Mr. and Mrs. Winton Forsberg, Deloris and Darlene Forsberg, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson all of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Herbert Peterson called on Mrs. Ida Gustafson at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nelson were coffee guests at the Emil Zavoral home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Skjerven visited and were luncheon guests at the Halward Anderson home Sunday evening.

Sunday visitors at the Mrs. Hannah Halvorson home were Mrs. Gene Halvorson, Mark, Nancy and Danny, Mrs. Bob Halvorson and Kyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hanson and Nancy were Sunday dinner guests at the Bill Brinkman home in Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Krohn and four of their children of Williams visited Thursday afternoon at the Mrs. Ida Gustafson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Sustad, Dayna and Dawn visited at the Marshall Ness home of Newfolden Friday evening.

Congratulations, Edgar

We would like to add our congratulations to Edgar Hetteen upon his selection as winner of the L.B. Hartz community service award through the local chamber of commerce. It was a bit of recognition appropriately given to someone who never looked for a chance to be in the limelight.

Our acquaintance with Edgar began shortly after he came to Thief River Falls and began manufacturing steam cleaners, bug collectors and metal auto desks. We never knew him to consciously duck a meeting with the press, but we can't recall him ever seeking one, either. When he was involved, he preferred to have the emphasis placed on his products or his associates.

Since growth and fame came to Arctic Enterprises, Edgar has been called upon to be a spokesman for the company on many occasions. He always handled the chore (that would be his assessment of the opportunity) with a good deal of humor and humility. . . both parts of his nature that have long stood him in good stead.

In his own way Edgar has indeed made an extensive contribution to the community. Not only has his inventive ability created the groundwork for an entire industry, but he has been an exceptional ambassador for Thief River Falls. Had he been paid a chamber of commerce salary, he could not have been a more enthusiastic booster for our town, our area and our people.

It is perhaps true, as award presenter Dick Trudeau said, that Edgar measured the success of the company he founded by the fact that it had two of its own garbage trucks. Certainly he would express it that way.

Congratulations, Edgar Hetteen, on a deserved and perhaps overdue award. And keep up the good work — a grateful community needs your continued support and enthusiasm.

Tobacco Smoke Screen

Following editorial is from the Christian Science Monitor:

The US tobacco industry only casts more doubts on its credibility by the type of shoddy public relations the Tobacco Institute employed this week to try to undermine a new federal study on the health hazards of cigarette smoking.

So anxious were the tobacco spokesmen to soften the impact of the serious warning from the Surgeon General that they held a press conference to attack the study a day before its findings were announced. What the study reported was that smoking-related illnesses cost Americans $5 billion to $18 billion and account for almost 350,000 mostly preventable deaths each year.

The industry officials' contention that the new study was only a rehash of previous findings and that it amounted to nothing more than a "publicity stunt" or "media event" has a hollow ring when the industry tries to get the jump by staging its own publicity stunt and media event. Such obvious evidence of placing self-interest ahead of the broader public interest cannot help but make one wonder about the seriousness of the industry's much ballyhooed interest in developing "safer" cigarettes.

As a matter of fact, the new federal study goes considerably beyond the Surgeon General's initial findings of 15 years ago on the health hazards of smoking. It declares flatly that its medical research indicates smoking is a direct cause of numerous diseases and that women who smoke may be harming their unborn children as well as themselves. The study found that while the percentage of men who smoke has dropped from 53 to 38 per cent since 1964, the percentage of women smokers stayed at 30 per cent.

It is surprising that, despite such medical warnings, so many Americans continue to smoke. They clearly have become the victims of a mesmeric habit, abetted by slick promotion, which American society ought to resist as an insidious national problem.

The sad fact is that much of the $500 million the tobacco industry spent last year to advertise smoking as "glamorous and satisfying" was aimed at young people and teenagers in particular. HEW Secretary Califano says 75 per cent of the adults who smoke acquire the habit before the age of 21; 100,000 children aged 13 and younger are regular cigarette smokers.

We have deplored many times the federal government's ambivalent attitude toward tobacco, reflected in the HEW campaign to reduce smoking while the agriculture department spends more than $65 million annually on price supports and other tobacco sudsidies and the food for peace program regularly sends tobacco to needy countries. Far better would it be for the government and the industry to put the millions they spend in subsidies and on public relations into a joint effort to develop alternative crops for tobacco farmers that would benefit, rather than harm, the public.

Rural Guarantees

Following editorial is from the Mahnomen Pioneer:

The Minnesota Legislature should provide for initiative and referendum in state elections "only if it guarantees that Twin Cities residents would not be able to use the power to enact laws contrary to the desires of outstate Minnesotans," State Senator Collin Peterson (DFL-Detroit Lakes) said.

"Several bills have been introduced in the state Senate this session which call for a state constitutional amendment providing for initiative and referendum in Minnesota," Peterson said. "Such an amendment would enable Minnesotans to enact, amend or repeal state laws by petition.

"These powers should be guaranteed to the Minnesotans, only if we put guarantees in the law which prevent metropolitan residents from forcing an unpopular law on outstate residents," the senator added. "Twin Citians could do this if required to gain a specific number of signatures on a petition."

Laws providing for initiative and referendum could prevent power from falling into the hands of residents of any one area by requiring that a petition contain a percentage of voters in each Minnesota county or legislative district, explained Peterson.

"Under proposed legislation a petition to place a measure on the ballot would require signatures equal to five per cent of those voting in the previous gubernatorial election," the senator said. Using the last election's vote totals, a successful petition would require 81,245 signatures.

"Obviously, this could give Twin Cities residents the ability to complete a petition only within their own area, and put an unpopular measure on the ballot," Peterson said. "They could then marshall support in the metro area and dictate a law of their own liking to the rest of the state.

"Yet if petitioners were required to get a certain percentage of signatures from voters throughout the state, we could vote on citizen-initiated laws that reflect the will of all the people," the senator remarked.

Peterson said initiative and referendum could enable many Minnesotans to become more directly involved in the legislative process, giving them an effective tool if they feel legislators have passed a bad bill or are not adequately dealing with an important issue.

"All Minnesotans, however, must be assured of their ability to participate in that process without the danger of one area of the state having strong new powers over another," Peterson said.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Called to the home of a seriously ill woman, the doctor was implored by the woman's husband to do everything possible to save his wife. "I'll pay anything you ask," he pleaded, "even if I have to sell everything I own."

"And if I can't cure her?" the doctor asked.

"Whether you cure her or kill her, you must try and I will pay," the desperate husband cried.

When the woman died a week later the doctor sent her husband a huge bill. The man suggested to the doctor that they see an attorney together. The attorney, who had heard of the doctor's reputation for exhorbitant fees, asked him "What was your agreement with this man?"

"He agreed to pay me anything I asked for treating his wife," the doctor replied, "whether I cured her or killed her."

"And did you cure her?" the lawyer asked.

"No."

"Well, did you kill her?"

"Certainly not!"

"Then," said the lawyer, "under what contract are you claiming your fee?"

It is purported to be true that Hsaio Fong of Taiwan sent his girlfriend a marriage proposal every day for two years . . . and she recently became engaged to the postman.

VALENTINE PROJECT of the Thief River Falls Jaycee Women, undertaken during Jaycee Women week February 11-17, was a Valentine party for retarded citizens. Project chairmen Myrnell Brusegaard (left) and Nancy Tofte are pictured with Valentine cupcakes that were distributed Wednesday when the women visited special education classes at Knox school, Falls Day Activity center and the Occupational Development center.

Talking movie equipment is being installed in the Lyceum Theatre, A.M. Holte, manager, announced. — Mrs. A. Lein left on a business trip to Chicago and Milwaukee. — J.M. Theige was reelected president of the local creamery board. — Rev. Axel Shefveland, pastor of Trinity church since last fall, announced he was retiring from the active ministry.

1939 — 40 YEARS AGO

Red Lake Electric Co-op was granted a $243,000 REA loan to finance construction of lines to serve an additional 628 patrons. — C. Herb Jung was reelected president of the Thief River rifle club. — Erick Erickson, who served here as chief of police for 18 years died Feb. 16.

1949 — 30 YEARS AGO

A capacity audience attended dedication rites Feb. 20 for the new St. Bernard's church and school edifice. — Arthur A. Johnson was a winner in the speech contest conducted by the TRF Toastmasters and will compete next in the area contest. — Mrs. Paul A. Landgren, leader in TRF community affairs for many years, died Feb. 19 in University Hospital in Minneapolis.

1959 — 20 YEARS AGO

Walls, all that was left standing after the Jan. 31 fire which destroyed the two-story Strandquist school, were leveled in preparation for a new school building.— Thief River Falls city treasury was enriched to the extent of $8,311.20 by receipt of the city's share of state liquor and cigarette taxes for the last half of 1958. — An addition, more than twice the size of the present warehouse between State and Arnold aves. will be constructed by the L.B. Hartz Stores Wholesale in the near future. – Carrying the best wishes of the townsfolk and the resounding cheers of their fellow classmates, the hockey Prowlers and their coaches, John Matchefts and Dave Rogers, left town in a four-car caravan en route to St. Paul and the state high school hockey tournament.

1969 — 10 YEARS AGO

Approximately 400 Lions club members and their wives, including more than 300 from communities other than Thief River Falls, attended the District 5M-3 mid-winter conference held in TRF. Selected from among 71 entries in Minnesota, Art Heinze of TRF has been named one of the state's ten outstanding young men for 1968. — Pennington county spelling winner at the contest conducted at the Goodridge school Feb. 18 was Anita Hallsrtrom from the eighth grade at the St. Hilaire school. "Oof Da," a tiger-striped tom cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Lind who farm seven miles west of Newfolden, completed a two-month, 122-mile cross country trip as he found his way home after disappearing from his owners along the Rainy River near Baudette.

4-H News

Silverton

The Silverton 4-H club met at the Verne Spengler residence on February 8 for their monthly meeting. The next meeting will be held the 8th of March. Valentine verses were receited for roll call. Sue Spengler was in the Public Speaking Contest. The contestant's speeches will be on the radio on February 24. Some members in our club are planning on participating in the Winter Shows. The plays and Share-the-Fun were discussed. Marion Peterson and Ione Sparby are the leaders for the play. Martha Torgerson, Sharon Russel, Bernice Barth, Pam Battleson and Melrene Klotter are the leaders for Share-the-Fun. Our club plans to go roller-skating on March 6th as a social meeting. Members who joined our club lately are Karen, Debbie, Sue and Jim Langenfeld. They were each given a 4-H pin.

Demonstrations were given by Lisa Torgerson on yarn wall hangings and yarn pillows and Cammy Altepeter on safe toys for children. Project talks were given by Dale Rupprecht on starting and stopping a tractor safely, Mike Torgerson gave one on safety in the shop, and Cindi Russell on sewing on a button.

We had another class on judging, with Lisa Wagner bringing three hard cooked eggs which were judged by us.

For recreation we unscrambled some Valentine words which were provided by Valerie Knutson.

Lunch was served by Peterson and Jordes. Then Howard Person talked about animal projects and records.

Present at the meeting were 27 members, 14 4-H parents, and 1 visitor.

Blindness doesn't discriminate, but fortunately, neither does saving sight. Half of all blindness can be prevented! For information on what you can do to safeguard your eyes, write: National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

CAR TELEPHONE

The Wikstrom Telephone Company, Inc. is planning to install mobile telephone service that will cover the area of Kittson, central and eastern Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, and Pennington counties. This system will be UHF. The service that we install will cover the area as stated above, plus any other area offering UHF. Before a system can be installed, we have to obtain an FCC license and approval of rates from the Minnesota Public Service Commission. Before these can be obtained, it is required that we have signed up enough users to support the system. Anyone interested in mobile telephone service, contact the Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc., at Karlstad, Minnesota, 436-2121.

Sincerely,
Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc.

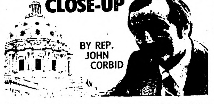
CAPITOL CLOSE-UP



BY REP. JOHN CORBID

The pace of the House of Representatives is picking up, but it is still much slower than in previous years. The full House has debated only one bill to date.

There is a lot of action in the communities though, and sometime in the near future we should be considering the following bills.

First, is the issue of ratification of the Constitutional Amendment to give full voting rights in Congress, to the people living in the District of Columbia. I will vote for the Amendment because I believe that the people of the District of Columbia deserve to be full citizens of the United States. One argument often heard against the Amendment is that the people of the District are federal employees voting in other home states. It's thought they could have a bias in favor of federal programs. But in fact, 66 per cent of the people living there have no connection with government service.

Probably the second bill we will consider is the repeal of the 2 per cent on-sale liquor tax that was a part of the stadium law. I am not completely decided, but I'm leaning towards voting against repeal of this tax. No one seems to have a better alternative for solving the problem of providing adequate sport facilities. And it is possible that without a new stadium, the Vikings will leave Minnesota.

Another bill I am concerned with involves nuclear energy. This past week our energy committee toured NSP's nuclear power plant in Monticello. While nuclear power is a significant source of energy in Minnesota, there is growing concern with the disposal of the waste products of electrical generation. The bill that we are hearing would prohibit nuclear power plant construction until the disposal question is answered. I would sincerely like to hear from my constituents on this issue.

Besides talking about the legislation I am involved with, I would like to share some toll-free telephone numbers which might be of some assistance to you. They are provided by several State departments who are ready and willing to answer questions you may have about their particular concerns.

First of all is telephone tax-assistance from both the Federal and State tax offices. You can call 1-800-652-9094 for State income tax information, and 1-800-652-9747. Just ask for the DNR, and someone will be able to answer questions you may have, or take down your comments of how you feel about a particular issue.

Another number which may interest you is the Women's Information Line, 1-800-652-9744. It is sponsored by the Council on the Economic Status of Women, and the people at the Council are interested in your comments on issues statewide.

My number, of course, is not yet toll free at 612-296-4329. But once again I welcome your calls, or letters, to keep me up-to-date on how you feel about current bills and other issues around the State.

4H CLUB

Star

The Star 4-H club met on February 14 at the Eklund dining hall for their monthly meeting. The meeting was called to order by president Leann Holen followed by flag pledges. The secretary's report was given and roll call was taken by answering the question "Who is your Sweetheart?", in keeping with Valentines Day. The Leaders Council report was touched on by leaders Marcella Hanson and Adeline Parnow. Ideas for Share-the-Fun numbers were discussed. Adeline also reported on the Winter Shows and handed out materials pertaining to 4-H records. Adeline and Marcella were congratulated on receiving the Hot Dog Award at the February Leaders Council. A motion was made and seconded to purchase banquet tickets for the leaders and their spouses. The meeting was adjourned.

Keith Stenvik gave a demonstration on how to make equipment to watch the upcoming eclipse. Howard Person, from the Extension Office showed slides on conservation and tillage of soil. The club also asked about how to get ready for the county fair.

A game of "around the clock" was led by Adeline Parnow and lunch was served by the Stenvik family.

Thirteen 4-H members were present at the meeting, ten 4-H parents and two visitors.

Dean Hanson, Reporter

Steiner

The Steiner 4-H club met at the Jim Muzzy residence on February 12. The next Steiner meeting will be held at the Steiner Hall on March 12.

We discussed the leaders appreciation banquet and decided to pay for the tickets for the leader and their spouse.

We also talked about the Winter Shows and the plays and Share-the-Fun.

A demonstration was given by Monica Rausch on making popsicle-stick picture frames and a project talk was given by Kevin Courneya on ducks. Wayne Rausch, Debbi Courneya, Tami Jorde, and Christie Bjerken gave a reading on Valentines Day for the program.

There were fifteen 4-H members present and four 4-H parents.

Laureen Muzzy, Reporter

Minority group and women participating in apprentice programs continue to increase, according to data compiled by the Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of labor; in 1977, minority group members represented 18.4 per cent of all apprentices.

Indians and other native Americans who are unemployed or underemployed and disadvantaged can receive training, public service employment and other services through the Labor Department's Indian programs.

I love the "new look" that contact lenses have given me. Talk about comfort, I hardly know I have my soft lenses on. Plus, there are no hassles. They require no boiling, since they're chemically sterilized and they don't fog up. Six million people and me. I like that group.

SPICED CUPCAKES FOR KIDS' PARTIES

T

Spiced cupcakes can easily be the center of attraction at children's birthday parties, and especially when the kids can join in and make the cakes themselves. These are easily prepared from a handy mix, with chocolate chips, cinnamon and a dash of nutmeg and cloves stirred in. Those sweet spices are the ones youngsters have always loved and they smell so good they like using them, too.

SPICED CHOCOLATE CHIP CUPCAKES

- 1 package (1 lb. 1 oz.) pound cake mix
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 package (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 4 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1-1/2 to 2 tablespoons milk or water

Preheat oven to 375°F. In a medium mixer bowl blend cake mix with 1/2 teaspoon of the cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Fold in chocolate chips. Line 24 cupcake pans with paper liners. Fill up cake pans with batter. Bake until a cake tester inserted into the center of a cupcake comes out clean, about 15 minutes. Remove from pans; cool. Spread with Cinnamon Frosting. To prepare Cinnamon Frosting beat in a medium bowl cream cheese and butter until well blended. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, mixing until smooth. Stir in remaining 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and vanilla. Gradually add milk, beating until frosting is of spreading consistency. YIELD: 24 cupcakes.

Freeman Heads HHH Institute Advisory Group

Former Minnesota governor Orville Freeman has been named to head a 15-member advisory committee for the Hubert H. Humphrey institute of public affairs at the University of Minnesota.

Committee will meet once or twice a year to help plan the direction of the institute, to advise the director of the institute on ways it can serve both citizens and government, and to support the programs and plans of the institute.

Freeman, who is a former U.S. secretary of agriculture and is currently president of Business International corporation, will serve a three-year term on the committee. Other members serving three-year terms are Muriel Humphrey, widow of the late senator; Lane Kirkland, national secretary of the AFL-CIO; Rutherford Aris, University of Minnesota regents' professor of chemical engineering; and Evron Kirkpatrick, executive director of the American political science association.

Members serving two-year terms include state senator Skip Humphrey, son of Hubert H. Humphrey; Erwin Hargrove, director of the institute for public policy studies at Vanderbilt university; Curtis Carlson, chairman of the University of Minnesota foundation; John French, partner in Faegre and Benson law firm and adviser to Vice President Walter Mondale; and Katherine Vander Kooi, former University of Minnesota regent.

Those named to serve one-year terms are Thomas Rivera, executive vice president of the University of Texas, El Paso; Minneapolis businessman Burton Joseph; Lew Wasserman, chairman of the board for Music Corporation of America; Vernon Jordan, director of the national urban league; Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, former congresswoman from California; and Eugenie Anderson, former ambassador to Demark and a resident of Red Wing, Minn.

Racquetball A Smashing Success

Racquetball is surfacing as the hottest racquet sport in the country. "It's a super game," says John Zwahlen, senior buyer for Herman's World of Sporting Goods, a division of W. R. Grace & Co. "It requires less talent and dexterity than tennis does and the average person can learn it in 30 minutes." Herman's has seen a steady rise in the volume of sales of racquetball equipment over the past three years.

According to Mr. Zwahlen, until 1976 when the sales volume at Herman's soared to five times that of the previous year, most of its racquetball business was institutional, with such organizations as YWCA's for example. Today more than 50% of the business is with individual players.

The United States Racquetball Association (USRA), which runs over 1,000 tournaments a year, estimates that eight million Americans, 30-40 percent of them women, are playing the game today as against a mere 50,000 back in 1970 when the Association was founded. The USRA estimates there are nearly one thousand racquetball facilities in the U.S. today with anywhere from 10 to 55 courts each, as against next to none in 1970. Estimates for 1980 project some 14 million players and 1,700 facilities.

What is this hot new game and why has its rise been so meteoric?

Racquetball is an indoor court game played on a four-wall court 40 feet long, 20 feet wide and 20 feet high. It is played with a short-handled racquet, the length and width of which may not exceed a total of 27 inches, and a hollow pressurized ball 2 1/4 inches in diameter. The racquet is equipped with a loop which is kept securely wrapped around the wrist during play. Opponents share the same space, face the same way and keep hitting the ball back toward one wall. In fact, the court is similar to an enclosed room and the ball may be bounced off walls or the ceiling on its way back to the target wall that the players face.

The game is an offshoot of paddle ball, which was developed in the thirties at the University of Michigan and played on a handball court with a solid wooden paddle or one with small holes bored in it. In 1949 Joe Sobek, a tennis and squash pro from Greenwich, Conn., designed a short-handled racquet that made for the faster, more powerful game that has come to be known as racquetball and that has long since surpassed paddle ball in popularity. Not only is racquetball the fastest-developing racquet game in the United States, it is also showing up on the international sports scene, primarily through the Armed Forces stationed in Japan and Western Germany. It is also making inroads in countries like the United Kingdom with a tradition of squash, which it resembles in its basic principles.

Racquetball has caught on in this sports-oriented age simply because it is easy to learn and because it can be played by almost anyone. "You don't have to be a super athlete to enjoy the game. It's a family sport," says Joe Ardito of the National Racquetball Club in Chicago. Although 35 percent of racquetball players are 18 to 34 years old, the game is a favorite also with children and senior citizens. "A person can play as hard as the body allows," adds Mr. Ardito. Besides, the initial investment for equipment is not high. At Hermans' stores racquets range from $10 to $60 and balls from $2.59 to $3.69 for a can of two.

In the early days, racquetball players wore cut-off jeans, sweat tops and any old tennis or basketball sneakers they happened to have. Many people still do just that. The game, however, is now creating its own fashion with coordinated shorts and shirts designed exclusively for it by manufacturers like Ektelon, Leach and Wilson. Such outfits in white or bright colors sport the company emblem combined with the magic word "racquetball" to make sure the message is received. Another development is sneakers intended specifically for the sport in styles that are suitable for play on wood and that provide lateral support. At Herman's, such shoes, some of them available in women's sizes, range from $20 to $33.

Accessories are assuming an important role also, with eye guards considered a must because eye injuries constitute the greatest hazard of the game. Since racquetball is a fast game that works up an honest sweat ("one hour of racquetball is equivalent to three hours of tennis") many players wear terry head and wrist bands, often in colors coordinated with clothing and the racquet cover. To aid a person's grip, some wear a leather glove or one with a leather palm on the playing hand. The pace setter, of course, carries his or her racquet, balls and clothing to and from the club in a bag designed for the purpose—and not on any account to be confused with a tennis or a squash bag.

Increase Shown In Minnesota Farm Earnings

Farm earnings in 1978 will be higher than 1977 for most types of farms in Minnesota according to an early analysis of farm records.

Farm records showing these results are those of farmers in southern Minnesota who cooperate with the Minnesota cooperative extension service and the department of agricultural and applied economics at the University of Minnesota.

Preliminary findings from 1978 farm records were recently released by Delane Welsch and Paul Hasbargen, extension economists in farm management at the University of Minnesota. They caution that these preliminary findings may change as more records are analyzed.

Early indications are that beef, dairy and hog farmers had record high earnings in 1978. Crop farmers also show an increase in earnings of about 50 per cent over 1977, but their earnings will likely be less than their record highs in 1973 and 1974 when crop prices were at their peak.

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) estimates that 1978 farm earnings were up 40 per cent in the nation. Hasbargen expects Minnesota farm income to be up by even more than that figure.

The difference between the U.S. situation and Minnesota's is due to the relatively greater importance of dairy, hogs and beef as compared to most other states. Minnesota is third in dairy production, fifth in hogs and eighth in cattle feeding.

Cattle feeding farmers show sharply higher earnings in 1978 because many of them had losses from their feeding enterprises in 1977. Dairy and hog farmers also show substantial jumps in earnings due to higher milk and hog prices coupled with higher crop yields.

USDA farm income estimates show that average farm earnings declined between the high income year of 1973 and 1977. The peak income year, 1973, was the only year on record that the per capita income of farm people was higher than that of non-farmers. So, despite the 1978 jump in livestock prices and farm incomes, per capita income of farm families in the U.S. will likely still be below that of non-farm families.

In the 1930's, the per capita income of farmers from all sources was only 30-40 per cent of that of non-farmers. After peaking at 110 per cent in 1973, it dropped back to about 80 per cent of that of non-farmers.

Looking ahead to 1979, USDA is expecting farm income to remain near the 1978 level. Hasbargen expects Minnesota farm income could decline somewhat in 1979 unless there is a repeat of the record crop yields of 1978.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS

Viruses

Now is the time to be wary of the ABCs — influenza A, B and C, that is!

Influenza A is the only type that has caused worldwide epidemics, or pandemics. It is also the only type that undergoes extensive mutation.

The first appearance of each new type of A influenza has been followed by a pandemic—and, interestingly, the disappearance of the earlier strain.

Thus, influenza A is perhaps unique among human diseases in its capacity to change sufficiently and rapidly enough under natural conditions to make it almost impossible to assure long-term immunity.

Influenza B and C viruses have been associated chiefly with sporadic epidemics in children and young adults. Most adults carry antibodies to these viruses; there is no evidence that pandemics of influenza B and C have ever occurred.

The symptoms of the flu, unlike a cold, start abruptly. If you have a fever (from about 100 to 105) in conjunction with bodily aches and pains, a sore throat, headache, chest congestion, cough or a general rundown feeling, you probably have some type of flu. Depending on the severity of the infection, it may last from three to 10 days.

Antibiotics are relatively ineffective against flu. Physicians, however, may prescribe them when there is a danger from secondary complications of simple flu.

For many people nasal congestion is the most uncomfortable symptom. The topical nasal decongestant most recommended by pharmacists is Afrin nasal spray or nose drops.

It shrinks swollen nasal and sinus passages quickly to restore normal breathing. Twice-a-day usage can provide relief for up to 24 hours.

While there are no particular diet restrictions, flu patients should drink plenty of liquids and, perhaps, avoid high-fat foods.

Note Drawbacks Of Food, Drug Mixtures

by William Hoffman
U of M News

Who would claim that the human stomach can't take a punch? Figuratively speaking, it may take several a day — depending on what and how much you eat — and still hang in there. But an adverse food and drug combination can knock it for a loop.

Food and drugs don't always mix well in a digestive system. Usually the consequences of an unfavorable mixture are not serious — perhaps only mild discomfort or poor absorption of the food or drug. But a few drug-diet interactions can be fatal, and the increasing use of drug therapy makes it more likely that dangerous interactions will occur.

Joseph Cornell, temporary head of the drug information center at University of Minnesota hospitals, said the study of drug-diet interactions is now at the stage that the study of drug-drug interactions was at 10 years ago.

"We wish we knew more about the interactions between drugs and food," he said. "We don't fully understand what the reactions are, and neither the pharmacist nor the physician usually knows the dietary habits of the patient."

Dietitians are responsible for getting information on patients' eating habits in order to adapt their diets to the nature of the drugs they will be taking. But that poses problems of its own. According to Susan Marx, principal dietitian of University hospitals, dietitians must rely on a patient's candor and cooperation.

"When a doctor puts a patient on drug therapy, we are charged with the mundane task of finding out what the patient's diet is, whether he or she eats at home or someplace like a fast-food restaurant, and if the patient likes such things as candy and cookies," Marx said. "We have to rely on patients' telling us what they eat."

Cornell said that food sometimes interferes with the absorption or elimination of a drug, or vice versa. Pharmacological agents in foods, whether natural substances, food additives, or contaminants, may interfere with drug therapy. And drugs may inhibit appetite.

As a general rule, drugs are absorbed more slowly when taken with food, and many drugs lose their effectiveness when they must compete in the stomach with large amounts of food. Aspirin, for example, is poorly absorbed with food, and penicillin can be destroyed when the stomach's gastric juices are activated at mealtime, Cornell said. That kind of conflict can be prevented by careful timing of meals and medication.

Rate of absorption is more important for some drugs than for others. Some drugs will work even if they are absorbed slowly. But others, such as antibiotics, need clear sailing in order to reach effective concentrations in the blood. For them, food is an obstacle.

Certain foods may affect the total amount of a drug absorbed as well as the rate of absorption. In the case of the antibiotic tetracycline, this is important. Interaction with the calcium in dairy products can reduce the concentration of tetracycline in the blood almost to zero, Cornell said.

Some foods alter the effects of drugs by changing the body's acid-base balance. According to Cornell, many juices and other beverages contain citric acid, which changes the gastrointestinal pH balance. This may slow down the rate at which such drugs as aspirin are absorbed.

Some drugs are more or less effective depending on the nature of the patient's diet. Griseofulvin, an antifungal drug, develops a much higher concentration in the blood plasma when taken with a high-fat meal than with a high-protein meal or on an empty stomach.

Any drug may cause discomfort — dyspepsia, for example — but some drugs inhibit the function of the gastrointestinal tract and block the absorption of vitamins and nutrients, he said. Neomycin, an antimicrobial drug, damages the intestinal membrane and inhibits enzyme action on food. Cathartic drugs speed up the passage of food through the patient's system, reducing its nutritional value.

Birth control pills and Dilantin, an anticonvulsive drug, tend to deplete the levels of several important vitamins in the body. For example, they inhibit the normal production of folic acid, and people taking these pills may need to supplement their diets with folic acid tablets in order to prevent anemia, Cornell said.

Some diuretics tend to flush potassium from the system. Consumption of potassium-rich foods like bananas, grapefuit, oranges, dates, figs, raisins, and dried apricots can compensate for the action of the diuretic, but because of the high calorie content of these foods, patients may choose a potassium supplement instead.

Monosodium glutamate, a meat tenderizer commonly used in Chinese food, acts like a diuretic in that it tends to speed up the body's excretion of sodium. People with a low threshold for it may suffer "Chinese restaurant syndrome" — headaches and chest pain. Some pharmacists advise patients on diuretics against eating food with excessive amounts of monosodium glutamate, but Cornell believes the danger is exaggerated.

Licorice is a food to beware of, but only licorice that contains the natural extract and only if it is consumed in large amounts. It can cause hypokalemia, an abnormally low level of potassium in the blood, or salt and water retention, which may in turn result in high blood pressure. This can be particularly dangerous for patients who are taking digoxin for congestive heart failure. However, most American licorice is synthetic and poses no hazard, Cornell said.

Perhaps the most dangerous drug-diet interaction is the one that occurs between tyramine-containing foods and drugs known as MAO inhibitors. Monoamine exodase, or MAO, is an enzyme present in the liver and gastrointestinal tract that neutralizes tyramine and other toxic agents in food. The MAO inhibitors — often used to fight depression — can prevent it from doing its job.

Combining a MAO-inhibiting drug with cheese, chicken liver, pickled herring, beer or Chianti wine — all high in tyramine — can be lethal: the interaction can bring on a stroke.

"We dispense just a few MAO inhibitors," Cornell said. "Last year we filled such prescriptions for only 80 patients." All patients who receive MAO inhibitors are given instructions on how to use them and a specific list of foods to avoid, he said.

It is a good rule of thumb not to mix drugs and alcohol. This is especially important for people taking tranquilizers, sleeping pills and antidiabetic drugs, for their interaction with alcohol can be fatal. Use of alcohol with certain nonprescription drugs, particularly with cold and sinus medicines, can increase the sedation that is a normal side effect of these drugs.

"Some patients don't realize how important it is not to drink when they're taking certain drugs," Marx said. "Perhaps we should stress it more."

Cornell applauds the current effort of the food and drug administration to require drug manufacturers to spell out possible adverse drug-drug and drug-food interactions on package inserts for prescription drugs.

Despite the lack of information and research on the subject of drug-diet interactions, Cornell believes that pharmacists and dietitians are equipped to handle problems that arise. Marx agrees.

"More and more, pharmacists and nutritionists are working with physicians to prevent adverse drug reactions," she said.

"We have a good situation at University hospitals. New methods of treating patients are challenged here." But the public needs more information about drugs and their side effects, she said.

THE FASHION PLACE

By Elaine Monroe,
Fashion Director
Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Are you in the know about "retro"?

That's the fashion nickname for the "retrospective" look, meaning a nostalgic glance back at what was worn in the 40's and 50's. Think about "Grease," the late show on television, glamour girls and movie stars..and you'll have a picture of this new flashback fashion. It can be elegant and glamorous or, for the young generation, an exciting fun look.

Retro means shirtdresses, peplumns, polka dots in wrap dresses. Retro also means nostalgic looks in jewelry. For example, the photograph here shows chunky beads strung on silky cords..just the thing for filling in V and wrap necklines of '40's feeling dresses.

Earrings are also back in a big way, starring the long drop earrings. They be delicate or bold, worn with dressy or sportive outfits, and are a needed complement with new closer hairdos and small hats.

Try on some retro looks.. a peplum dress, a veiled hat, drop earrings. You may love the whole look or just settle for a part. Whichever, chances are you'll step out feeling a bit like a movie star yourself!

Mining Firms Look For Uranium In MN.

by Paul Schurke
University News

More than 100,000 acres in three east-central Minnesota counties have been leased for uranium prospecting by Colorado mining firms.

Nothing of significance has been found so far. But the firms, Rocky Mountain Energy Company, Energy Resources, and Martin-Trost Associates, are betting that large pockets of the ore—used to produce fuel for nuclear power plants—lie deep under Carlton, Pine and Aitkin counties.

Their intense interest stems from a 1976 survey by University of Minnesota geologist Richard Ojakangas that indicates the area is geologically similar to two of the world's richest uranium fields, which are in Australia and Saskatchewan.

"It's impossible to say for sure if there are large deposits of uranium in Minnesota," said Ojakangas, who heads the geology department at the University's Duluth campus. "But all the information I have collected so far points in that direction."

Uranium pockets usually occur in areas where solid bedrock containing dispersed particles of uranium is overlain with a soft permeable rock, like sandstone. Over thousands of years, the particles may be leached out of the bedrock by groundwater in the sandstone and redeposited in some common central area.

Ojakangas explained that areas of central Minnesota have all the geological components necessary for the formation of ore pockets. Geology of these areas includes a thick layer of sandstone overlying the Canadian Shield, a huge bedrock formation that stretches down from Canada.

After becoming interested in the area because of its geology, the mining companies began three years ago to survey the area by airplane and on foot with instruments that detect changes in the levels of radioactivity. They have recently begun drilling test holes, 500 to 600 feet deep, in spots found worthy of closer examination.

Because the firms are in competition with one another, they aren't disclosing their findings. But company spokesmen say that although no strikes have been made, enough encouraging signs have been found to keep them looking.

Ojakangas said rocks from an abandoned mine shaft near Mahtowa in Carlton county have provided some of the most promising findings so far. Radioactivity levels in the rocks, which are remnants of gold and graphite mining efforts in the 1930s, are 10 to 20 times greater than background levels. They pose no health problem, said Ojakangas, but they do offer the companies added incentive.

The prospecting activity is not unique to Minnesota. Skyrocketing ore prices after the Arab oil embargo have made the uranium industry a booming business. Mining companies, which are now mining uranium in six Rocky Mountain states, are looking for new pockets of ore in eight other states, including the Dakotas, Michigan and Wisconsin. However, one mining company official said the chances of finding major new pockets of ore are greatest in Minnesota.

Leases recorded for uranium prospecting in Carlton county now include about 70,000 acres. Total acreage leased in Pine and Aitkin counties is estimated at about half that amount.

Lease agreements vary, depending on the property and the company. Generally, landowners get $2 to $5 an acre for the first year of exploration and a smaller amount each year after that. If a strike is made, landowners will receive about five per cent of the value of the mined ore, which then must be enriched before sale.

At current prices, a small body of ore could net landowners several hundred thousand dollars. But company officials say that even if uranium is found, the mines would take many years to develop.

Much confusion among landowners has resulted from the differences in lease arrangements. Staff members at the U.S. bureau of mines office in St. Paul who are handling calls from confused landowners are encouraging them to consult with lawyers or geological engineers before signing leases.

Prospecting has spawned a great deal of excitement among area residents. Speculation on the likelihood of a strike "has nearly replaced talk about the weather," said Bob Eikum, a Carlton county resident.

It has also spawned some concern among state officials. "The state is unprepared to handle uranium mining," said Elwood Rafn, chief of the mineral division at the state department of natural resources. "State laws covering this activity are obsolete and inadequate."

Rafn said the Legislature is being asked to appropriate $25,000 for a one-year study on the impact of uranium exploration and mining. He said state officials are concerned that exploration and any future mining activities be properly regulated and monitored so that water supplies are not contaminated with radioactivity.

In the past, emissions from the tailings of uranium mines, which include radiation, radon gas and gamma rays, have been associated with increased incidences of lung cancer.

Minnesota pollution control agency is also becoming involved. A sub-committee of the PCA board of directors has been assigned to consider holding public hearings on the impact of uranium mining.

"There's a sense of urgency about this," said Dale McMichael, director of the PCA office of environmental analysis. "We don't have a good understanding about the ramifications of these activities. But we are trying to move ahead as quickly as possible."

THINK THIN!

Entertaining can be a mouth-watering, low-calorie affair with our zesty curry-flavored Indienne Tuna Dip. Serve it with crisp, flavorful Wheat Thins snack crackers.

Calling only for low-caloried ingredients, the dip totals about 16 calories per tablespoon. It combines water-packed tuna, lowfat yogurt and chicken-flavored broth with curry powder for a true Indian taste treat.

So, Think Thin! Serve easy-to-prepare Indienne Tuna Dip with the always popular Wheat Thins snack crackers.

INDIENNE TUNA DIP

1 (7-ounce) can tuna, packed in water
1/3 cup chopped tomato
1 (8-ounce) container plain lowfat yogurt
1/4 cup minced celery
1 envelope instant chicken flavored broth
2 teaspoons sweet pickle relish
1 teaspoon curry powder or to taste
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
Wheat Thins snack crackers

Drain and flake tuna. Reserve 1 tablespoon tomato; combine remaining tomato with tuna, and next seven ingredients until blended. Chill 1 hour, or until serving time. Garnish with reserved tomato. Serve with Wheat Thins snack crackers. Makes about 1-3/4 cups dip.

Children's Hospital Studies Child Abuse

by Debra Kelley Vaughn

Child abuse. Those words evoke feelings ranging from anger and outrage to sympathy and understanding. They raise questions like "How can anyone hurt a helpless little child?" and "What kinds of people do those things?" The answers may surprise you.

Parents from every social and economic level of society abuse their children. About 1.6 million children are abused each year and of those 2,000 to 5,000 die.

Because many of the details are so gruesome, people avoid the subject. Others "don't want to get involved." So child abuse and even more so, sexual abuse, isn't talked about. But not dealing with the problem only perpetuates it. St. Paul Children's hospital is dealing with it.

Dr. Carolyn Levitt, medical director, St. Paul Children's hospital clinic, is a forerunner in seeking ways to solve the problem — in the hospital and in the community. She has been a member of the Ramsy county child abuse team for seven years and also serves Dakota and Washington counties. She consults with the team on the medical aspect of child abuse, neglect and sexual abuse and also provides insight and instruction to other physicians, agencies, social workers and schools. Any professional who works with children is required by law to report suspected abuse cases to the police. But everyone in the community should be aware of the signs and symptoms of child abuse.

There are many forms of child abuse and sometimes "you just have to play your hunches" in detecting it, Dr. Levitt says. Many times multiple injuries and broken bones in various stages of healing are indications of abuse. So are injuries that a child could not possibly sustain on his or her own. When confronted, abusive parents often deny they've abused their child. But their stories just don't add up.

"Some injuries have to be caused by a severe blow," she says. "Injuries such as a ruptured pancreas or a bowel obstruction can't be caused by simply bumping into things." But an adult could inflict that type of injury by punching the child in the stomach.

Infected sores all over the child's body could be a sign of repeated biting from a frustrated parent. The key to identifying child abuse is suspecting it, according to Dr. Levitt.

In many cases, because of the severity of the injuries, the abusive parent is charged with assault and the child is removed from the home until it is determined safe for the child to return. "Once the truth is out, many abusive parents are able to deal with their actions," Dr. Levitt says. Through parent classes and mental health treatment, the parents often get the child back.

Most child abuse is not an intentional premeditated act of violence. Many acts of violence are performed when the parents's pressures get blown out of proportion or build up to a point of action — lashing out at the child. Those pressures are most often caused by financial problems, marriage problems, drinking problems, unemployement and poor self-esteem. Children are tormented in varying degrees and numerous ways.

"A large number of physical abuse cases are of tiny infants," Dr. Levitt says. "After parents have done everything there is to do for a baby and the baby keeps crying, the parents feel frustrated and hurt. So they throw the kid, pinch or bite him — they become mean and abusive," she explains.

But there are other forms of child abuse. Emotional abuse and neglect are two forms that aren't restricted to any age group; one or all children in a family can be victims.

In these cases the abusive parent fails to provide a loving environment in which the child can thrive, learn and develop. The parent may ignore, threaten, terrorize or blatantly reject the child. The effects of this psycho-social abuse include failure to thrive and various developmental and learning problems. "They look like wilted kids — they just don't develop," Dr. Levitt says.

But often in just a few weeks time in the hospital or a foster home with love and attention they start to develop rapidly — gain weight, talk, sit, crawl or walk and even become somewhat demanding. "All you do is feed and love these children and they thrive just beautifully," Dr. Levitt says.

Another form of abuse is sexual abuse, a problem far more common than ever before suspected.

Sexual abuse may or may not produce physical injury, but always causes severe emotional trauma, and a child who is chronically misused often develops severe sexuality problems later on, according to Dr. Levitt.

"To identify children or adolescents who have been sexually abused you have to pick up on subtle clues," Dr. Levitt says. Sometimes physicians may provide medical care for a family for years and not recognize that incest or other sexual abuse is occurring. She says that under-reporting of sexual abuse is common.

Children or teen-agers who have been sexually abused may be anxious, depressed and withdrawn. They may have problems with chemical abuse, truancy, poor self-image and sometimes run away from home. Incest and other sexual abuse may cause the victim to become seductive and at a young age they are often able to explain sexual intercourse and other sexual acts explicitly, Dr. Levitt says.

Victims of sexual abuse are of all ages and sexual abusers are most often a parent. But sexual abusers are also other family members, babysitters or others.

In many cases, young girls are sexually abused by fathers who are alcoholics. "If it's alcoholism, it's easier to treat," Dr. Levitt says. "But many sexual abusers aren't alcoholic, they are sexually deviant. There's a new push to get better treatment facilities for these people."

Preventing child abuse is the key. Dr. Levitt says, "At the clinic we have taken on an attitude of preventing child abuse." Children's hospital clinic staff is trained to detect abused children and potentially abusive parents.

They look for mothers who are ill-prepared for motherhood, parents undergoing a lot of stress, mothers who have trouble managing a fussy child, a child that needs special medical treatment, or parents who behave inappropriately when they bring a child in for treatment.

Prenatal discussions with prospective parents can also help discover those who are high risks to become child abusers.

Important questions in evaluating child abuse potentials are: Were the parents abused as children? Are the parents mentally and financially stable? Do the parents feel good about themselves, or do they have poor self-images? Are they overly concerned with the sex of the baby? Do they understand infant development or do they expect too much intellectual function from a baby?

To detect child abuse or neglect, according to Dr. Levitt, it is absolutely essential to suspect that any child could be a victim. "People tend to work intuitively with behavior. Abusive parents were usually abused children. If they were constantly harrassed, made to feel worthless and told they were rotten and no good, those are the ones who are going to abuse their own children, and the cycle continues."

Dr. Levitt says, "I can understand how child abuse happens. If you deal with both the parents and child, you understand what it's all about."

Talking and learning about child abuse is the only way to solve the problem. Many support services are available to abusive parents. Parents Anonymous chapters, that help parents get out of the child abuse cycle, are established country-wide. Children's hospital and other community agencies are forming another chapter.

For information on your nearest child abuse agency, call St. Paul Children's hospital at (612) 227-6521, ext. 429, or your local county welfare department.

Child abuse is not just "their problem;" it is everyone's problem. Learning and talking about child abuse are the first steps in controlling it.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Johnson brought birthday greetings to Teresa Johnson in Thief River Falls at the Lyle Johnson home Monday evening.

NEWS OF TRAVEL

Rediscover Normandy in 1979

THE MAGNIFICENCE OF MONT-SAINT-MICHEL rising from the sea is just one of the varied attractions of Normandy.

The site of the "longest day" of World War II, Normandy, is becoming for many Americans the spot for their greatest vacation. Thirty-five years after the largest combined military operation in history landed in Normandy, a number of Americans are visiting that now peaceful and very beautiful part of France for the first time as civilians—or for the first time at all.

For those who march to the beat of a different drummer than the military kind, Normandy's churches and abbeys are offering a splendid series of concerts and musical programs, ranging from Medieval-Renaissance to Romantic and contemporary works.

Normandy's wonders also include the tomb of William the Conqueror, the Bayeux Tapestry, Monet's house and gardens and numerous historic and lovely chateaus and religious buildings.

There, they can enjoy the great gourmet food of the region, including some of France's best-known cheeses—Camembert, Livarot, Pont l'Eveque; plus plump chickens, seafood prepared with subtle cream sauces, salt marsh-fatted lamb, omelettes, apples, cider and Calvados, a strong applejack aged like fine Cognac and served with after-dinner coffee.

Perhaps the most impressive sight in all of the region is Mont-Saint-Michel, "Marvel of the West," the ancient abbey perched on its rocky pinnacle in the sea.

The architecture, developed over the centuries, is phenomenal. Views are stupendous, and sunsets can be magnificent. It is a particularly pleasant place to be during the St. Michael Spring Festival, held the first Sunday in May or during the Feast of the Archangel Michael in late September.

Another spectacle is the flooding in of the particularly high tides at the new and full moons. Equally spectacular to many is the floodlighting of this magnificent edifice. Mont-Saint-Michel is illuminated every night from sunset until 11 p.m. Bus tours from Paris are available through American Express, Paris-Vision and Cityrama.

Normandy, the land of the rugged Northmen, also offers much to the rugged (or not-so-rugged) modern sportsman and woman. There's sailing, water sports, riding, golf, tennis, rambles, sea and river fishing, casinos, fairs, local fetes and other picturesque festivities, and bathing in many indoor and outdoor pools—plus along the Atlantic coast, often at the famous beaches on which the Allies landed in 1944.

For the first-time traveler and the nostalgic ex-soldier, Normandy can be a land of delights for all the senses.

Plan Center For Chinese Study And Exchanges

Even before any Chinese students are scheduled to attend the University of Minnesota, faculty members and administrators are making plans to develop a long-term relationship with the People's Republic of China.

About 40 faculty members, administrators and representatives of Twin Cities businesses met last weekend to work out ways in which the University and Minnesota industries could work together on Chinese exchanges.

Meeting was called to discuss a center for Chinese studies and educational exchanges at the University proposed by Fred Lukermann, dean of the college of liberal arts (CLA).

American business will be well established in China before academic exchanges begin, Lukermann said. "By the time you get to China, you're going to see the golden arches, stay at the Hilton and join the Pepsi Generation."

Lukermann said that, as a result, faculty members would be wise to establish alliances with Minnesota businesses in working out exchanges with China.

China center should involve Minnesota business people and scholars alike, he said. "I don't have any illusions about getting money from the legislature or the federal government," he said. "I do have illusions about getting it from Control Data and Honeywell."

N. L. Dickinson of Control Data Corporation and Jack Alt of Honeywell said that their companies could be training Chinese users of their equipment in the Twin Cities in the future, and that their companies might participate in such a center with the University as a result.

"We're going to do it with or without you," Dickinson told the University officials. "We already spend money for these activities outside the Twin Cities, and we would prefer to spend it here."

Moustafa Mosharrafa, a founder of Cardiac Pacemakers, Inc., said that he has already explored the possibility of joint ventures with the Chinese for the sale of pacemakers in China.

Chinese have already begun manufacturing pacemakers but, he said, they are receptive to joint ventures for profit which appeal to his company. Working with the pacemakers involves an extensive amount of training that could be done in the Twin Cities, he said.

Lukermann and Institute of technology dean Roger Staehle said they would seek support from major corporations, but said that the University will have to provide starting money for the center.

"If we're going to do things here at Minnesota, it's going to come out of our hides," Lukermann said. "We're going to have to work overtime."

Staehle said the University should combine its resources with money from local corporations, and then seek matching federal funds to pay for the China center. Chinese have thousands of years of cultural momentum in science and technology, and Minnesota businesses have much to gain by tapping that expertise, he said.

Lukermann suggested that a regular, intensive seminar on China for University officials begin immediately in preparation for whatever overtures University of Chinese educational officials make.

Three University of Minnesota representatives will make a presentation to the Chinese liaison office in Washington this week and will propose that a delegation of University people visit China to negotiate an exchange.

Among other possibilities, it has been suggested that the China center provide English language instruction and arrange for services such as housing for visiting scholars and technicians. Lukermann said the center should begin work immediately, despite internal University budget problems. "There are budget considerations, but that's no reason to drop anything," he said.

University geography professor Mei-ling Hsu proposed that a particular Chinese region be studied and that a sister relationship be developed with a Chinese university in the region.

Several speakers at the workshop described what such sister relationships mean, and described exchange programs that have already begun.

Give Advice For Safer Snowmobiling

Are you looking for a passenger to take along your next snowmobile ride? One that doesn't eat much, won't weigh down your machine, is good in an emergency and is packed full of common sense tips that just could save you from injury or death? Let safety ride along, suggests the Minnesota safety council.

Snowmobiles include more safety features in each new model, but the driver and passengers are responsible for a large share of snowmobile accidents. Significant factors to many of those accidents are excessive speed, drinking and driving, failure to compensate for nighttime driving conditions and lack of caution when travelling unfamiliar territory.

It's wise to travel only on established and marked trails or areas specifically marked for snowmobiles. Avoid travelling on frozen bodies of water — it's almost impossible to spot a weak patch of ice in time to prevent your machine breaking through. Watch pathways to avoid rocks, trees, fences, ditches and other obstacles.

Travel with a buddy so that you can get help or help each other in case of machine failure or an accident. Listen to weather forecasts before starting out to avoid being stranded in a blizzard, ice storm or in extremely cold weather.

Learn snowmobile traffic laws for the part of the state in which you'll be travelling. Rules governing operation of snowmobiles can vary from county to county.

Use the same good sense you exercise when driving your car — stop at railroad crossing, signal turns, avoid tailgating and remember to adjust speed according to the kind of terraine and conditions you encounter. Cross roadways at right angles to the road and remember that traffic always has the right of way.

Wear clothing that is designed for warmth and comfort. A one or two piece suit that is lightweight and well insulated with a waterproof covering is a good start. Add a safety helmet with a non-fogging visor or goggles, and warm gloves or mittens designed to allow your fingers freedom to operate the machine's controls. Remember not to wear long scarves or loose pieces of clothing that can become entangled in the moving parts of the machine.

Check your snowmobile each time before you use it. Make sure all parts are in good working order. Be familiar with the controls and know how to operate your machine. Check to see that the hood is fastened, remove built-up ice and snow from lights, windshield and running board before you start your machine. Test the throttle to be sure it turns freely to the idle position, and test the brakes as well. Be sure the handlebar turns freely. Try the headlights, tail lights and brake lights, and follow any other pre-operation procedures recommended in the owner's manual. These checks take only a few minutes of time, but could be real life-savers for you.

Learn trail signs and hand signals for safe driving.

Minnesota safety council has an excellent pamphlet on snowmobile safety. To obtain a copy without charge, write to 145 Hamm Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102, or the safety council's northern area service office at 318 Missabe Building, Duluth, Minnesota 55802.

Area School Enrollment In Period Of Decline

Thief River Falls is among 28 school districts in the area served by the Northwest Minnesota educational cooperative service unit (ECSU) which is expected to have an enrollment decline of five to 15 per cent during the period extending through the 1982-83 school year. Enrollment here has been in decline for several years, according to information compiled by Adeline Vollan, coordinator of the Northwest Minnesota educational planning task force at the ECSU office here.

Other communities in the ECSU area projected to have the five to 15 per cent loss in enrollment are Ada, Alvarado, Badger, Bemidji, Blackduck, Borup, Clearbrook, East Grand Forks, Fertile-Beltrami, Gary, Goodridge, Greenbush, Grygla-Gatzke, Humboldt, Kennedy, Lancaster, Mentor, Nevis, Newfolden, Park Rapids, Plummer, Red Lake Falls, Red Lake, Roseau, Stephen, Twin Valley and Waubun.

Projected to have 15.1 to 25 per cent enrollment declines are Crookston, Fisher, Fosston, Hallock, Halstad, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, McIntosh, Middle River, Oklee, Strandquist and Warren. Expected to have a drop of less than five per cent are Akeley, Argyle, Bagley, Climax, Erskine, Gonvick, Hendrum, Karlstad, Kelliher, Laporte, Oslo and Warroad.

From 1971 to 1976 the 12 northwest Minnesota counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Beltrami, Norman, Mahnomen and Hubbard have had an enrollment decline of only 3.1 per cent, Mrs. Vollan said. During the years from 1976 to 1982-83 this same area is expected to decline an additional 10.9 per cent in the number of students attending the public schools.

"The state-wide decline in enrollment will be more severe in the late seventies and early eighties than it was in the early seventies," she said. "The total state public school enrollment declined by 5.4 per cent from 1971 to 1976 and this total is expected to drop an additional 17.9 per cent from 1976 to 1982-83.

"Northwest counties which have experienced population loss from 1970 to 1977 include Red Lake and Norman, while Hubbard county has had rapid growth. These differences in population impact among the districts also increase the difficulty of projection and planning," Mrs. Vollan explained.

Planning legislation was passed by the 1977 legislature in an effort to address the increasingly serious financial difficulties faced by local school districts. Schools placed in the position of reduced annual revenue as a

Free Seed Test Deadline Will Be March 15th

Minnesota farmers are running out of time to use free state seed tests and could encounter a costly traffic jam this spring unless they resume submitting samples now, advises Will Dunn, acting chief of the agronomy seed laboratory, Minnesota department of agriculture.

March 15 is the cutoff date for the six free seed tests available to Minnesotans. After that date the prescribed state fees for the same germination and purity tests range upwards of $1.50 per sample per test.

With only 15 days of free testing remaining, Dunn reports the state laboratory has received only about 7,000 seed samples and processed about 8,500 tests for germination and purity. All seed offered for sale must be tested and labeled both for germination and purity.

That is less than half of the anticipated volume, based on past experience, that should be processed before spring field work to prepare seed beds for Minnesota's 1979 crops production.

Dunn expects at least 9,000 more samples to be submitted, and the late samples usually require a higher ratio of both tests, indicating over 11,000 tests to be performed.

Purity tests can be done in a day, but germination tests require from one to three weeks to perform. . .and that is under a normal sample flow. A flood of late samples could result in additional delays of two and even three weeks.

Laboratory technicians can complete 25 purity tests per day on oats seed, but mixed seed samples, particularly grasses, slow the process acutely. Grass seeds also require the longest germination tests, taking up to 28 days per sample to complete, depending upon the varieties.

Sampling instructions and mailing envelopes may be obtained at any County Agricultural Extension Office or at most country elevators from the County Agricultural inspector or on written request to the Agronomy Seed Laboratory, 644 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Census Bureau Wants All To Receive Forms

Farm or ranch operators who have not been counted yet in the 1978 census of agriculture still have an opportunity to be included, according to the bureau of the census, U.S. department of commerce.

Uncounted operators are urged to write for a farm census report form to (WYC), Bureau of the Census, 1201 East 10th Street, Jeffersonville, Ind. 47132. The census has been underway since January 1.

Bureau officials remind farmers and ranchers that the census will include producers of many commodities not often thought of as agricultural. Among these are rabbits, goats, honey and honey bees, fish in captivity, worms and ducks, pheasants, quail and pigeons or squab.

Greenhouse and such nursery products as sod, mushrooms, greenhouse vegetables, cut flowers, and bulbs are also on the list as farm and ranch products. Any commercial producer of these commodities should fill out a census report form.

Bureau officials also remind farm operators that the quicker report forms are returned to the bureau the less it will cost in follow-up work to complete collection of census data.

Home Building Seminar To Begin March 6

Planning to build a new home? Will it be a dream come true or a source of frustration and headaches?

Being an informed consumer can make home building a rewarding experience, and one way to begin informing one's self is by attending a University of Minnesota, Pennington county extension service short course, "Building, Buying, or Remodeling" to be offered on Tuesday evenings beginning March 6 at the Thief River Falls AVTI, room 103.

Deborah Matero, Pennington county course coordinator, stressed that the course, consisting of five two and one-half hour meetings, brings together experts with many perspectives on building, buying and remodeling. Teachers will include contractors, building inspectors, mortgage officers, attorneys, energy specialists and other experts.

Course is sponsored by the university's agricultural extension service, area vo-tech institute, University of Minn-Crookston and the Pennington county extension service.

Among the topics for the course will be legal and financial concerns, energy conservation, taxes, building codes, design and plan considerations, materials, heating and cooling.

The $21 fee covers all costs including over 50 home building publications printed by the University of Minnesota and other institutions.

Interested individuals should contact the AVTI, 681-5424, ext. 30 for enrollment information by February 28.

Name Reierson To Committee On FSLIC Law

Milton J. Reierson, president of Frist Federal Savings and Loan association, Thief River Falls has been appointed to the 1979 Committee on FSLIC Law and Regulations of the United States League of Savings Associations. Appointment was announced by Joseph T. Benedict of Worcester, Mass., president of the league.

HARD-EARNED TROPHY rested on a bench in the dressing room of Crookston Central high school Friday evening after the Lincoln high school Prowlers of Thief River Falls had claimed it with a 72-69 overtime over the host Pirates. The Prowlers had gained the championship game with a first round win over Bemidji. It was Thief River Falls' first boys' basketball championship in four years since Region 8AA was established. Their last previous title was in District 31 in 1975. Game story and photos inside today's Times.

MUSICAL COMEDY, "Damn Yankees," will be presented by Northland community college music and theatre departments February 28, March 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the college theatre. The former Broadway show traces a year in the life of a middle-aged baseball fan, Joe Boyd, who sells his soul for a chance to lead his favorite team in a victorious season. Applegate, devil figure who arranges the bargain, also employs seductress Lola, played by Dinne Mosbeck (left), to keep Steve Hjelle (right) as Boyd entranced and living up to his end of the bargain. Curtain time for the production, which is under the direction of Les Torgerson and Roger Vaughan, is 8 p.m. for all performances except the Sunday, March 4, afternoon performance which will begin at 3 p.m. Tickets can be reserved by calling 681-2181, ext. 31.

Lent Services At Trinity

Lent vesper services will begin Wednesday at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and continue each Wednesday through the Lenten season at 7:30 p.m., according to Rev. Berton Hushagen, pastor of the congregation.

Jon Larson Is Appointed To NFIB Council

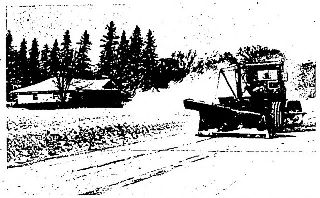
Jon Larson of Larson Music store of Thief River Falls has been appointed as an action council member to the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) in San Mateo, Calif., and Washington, D.C.

NFIB is a non-profit, nonpartisan organization representing the needs of small businesses across the country. Founded in 1943, it was designed to promote the concept of free enterprise and to give independent business a greater voice in shaping the laws which govern business and government.

Care Of Fruit Trees In North Topic Of Meet

An informational meeting on selection and care of fruit trees and bushes for northern Minnesota is being offered on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the court house meeting room in Thief River Falls. Sponsor is the Pennington county extension service.

Speaker for the program will be Leonard Hertz, extension horticulture specialist from the University of Minnesota. He will discuss selection of hardy varieties, insect and disease control and getting the most high quality fruit from the trees you already have.



SNOW REMOVAL CREWS were out in full force Friday after a brief blizzard on Thursday evening and Friday morning dropped several inches of new snow on the Thief River Falls area. Operators of snowplows have been kept busy this winter but have done a good job of keeping main routes open for traffic. Schools were dismissed at 1:30 p.m. in Thief River Falls Thursday and remained closed on Friday as drifting snow blocked roads and driveways in the area.

A STEADY STREAM of Thief River Falls street department trucks was involved in the snow removal project following Thursday night's and Friday morning's mini-blizzard. Snow is hauled to this site east of Pennington avenue and south of Nora street where it is dumped and later pushed into higher piles. This winter the snow removed from city streets has made quite a series of piles in the area.

PLENTY OF SNOW to blow was found by this Thief River Falls resident as he attempted to clear a route to the street. Snowblowers of every type and discription were in evidence Friday morning as the results of Thursday night's snow storm were removed from sidewalks, driveways and alleys.

Board Meets In Adjourned Session Thurs.

Among the items considered at a February 22 adjourned meeting of the Pennington county board were the proposed First St. Bridge projects and the re-windowing design for the courthouse. No action was taken on either agenda item however.

Extensive discussion was held on the possible widening of First St. and the First St. bridge and board members seemed to give more favorable consideration to the proposal than in the past. It was emphasized that while there are presently approximately $300,000 of state and federal funds that can be obtained for the widening, there is no guarantee that the monies will be available if the project is delayed. The board will not make a final decision on the matter until its regular meeting March 6.

Present at the adjourned meeting to answer questions regarding designs and cost estimates for a re-windowing project in the county court-house building was a representative of Foss Engelstad Foss architects. The board requested that additional estimates be prepared for the group's March 6 meeting with a design that would close up one third more of the present glass area for further energy savings.

A resolution was passed by the board supporting an escalating or indexing of the gas tax. The resolution advocates the raising of the gas tax (road user's contribution) as the price of gas rises.

Final payment was authorized for bituminous surfacing done on state aid road 17, funds previously budgeted for the juvenile training center in Bemidji and for the county Soil Consdrvation Service were ordered appropriated and plat approval was given for three lots in Myhrer's 1st addition.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

St. Patrick's Party Set by Bit And Bridle Club

"Everything Comes In Green," will be the theme of the Bit and Bridle saddle club St. Patrick's day party planned for members and guests. The event will be held March 17 at 8 p.m., at the Goodridge hall. It will conclude with a potluck supper with serving to begin at 11:30 p.m.

Plans for the party were made at the meeting of the club held recently at the Norman Stevik home with vice president Elvon Hamilton presiding. He appointed Norma Hanson to make the arrangements for the event.

Other business included reports by Marion Holte and Marlene Holte on the horse show to be held July 15 in Grygla. They stated that the Grygla Lions club will be sponsoring the show.

Members attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Elvon Hamilton, Scott and Evon, Marion Holte, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Prestebak, Marlene Holte, Norma Hanson and the host family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stenvik and sons.

Deer Park Club Receives Grant For Plantings

Deer Park garden club was notified recently by Glenn Ray, executive secretary of the Minnesota State Horticulture society that their application for $100 in matching funds has been approved for use in wood plantings.

One of the most tragic aspects of hearing loss is that many hearing impaired persons do not seek the help that is available because of the myth that a hearing loss is equivalent to old age or even senility.

Jewel Ann Marks Weds Richard Holen at Zion

Miss Jewel Ann Marks of this city and Richard Holen, rural Goodridge, exchanged marriage vows on Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Myrtle C. Marks, Riverview Mobile Home park, and the late John Marks. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Holen, Goodridge.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony, witnessed by approximately 250 relatives and friends, were Dr. Walter Pederson and Rev. Richard Larson. At the organ was Mrs. James Dalager, who played the traditional wedding marches. Steve Zachar was the soloist. Selections were "Evergreen," "Wedding Song," "Follow Me," and "Joy."

Forming the chancel setting were 18 branch-candelabra and decorated evergreen trees on either side of the altar graced with candles and two identical poinsettias. Red bows marked the pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Jerry G. Marks. She was attired in a gown of soft candlelight white sataglow styled with a high waistline and a V-neckline with stand-up collar. The fitted bodice featured full-length sleeves with inserts featuring three lace roses. Her flared skirt extended into a chapel-length train. Flowing softly over the gown was a chapel-length veil of bridal illusion trimmed with lace roses matching the inserts in her sleeves. Her veil was attached to a headpiece of Chantilly lace enhanced by iridescenent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses, accented with holly foliage and berries, babies' breath and red satin streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Patty Reed. Braidesmaids were Linda Mattson, Julie Hanson and Kathy Liden. All are friends of the bride, and all reside in this city. They wore light evergreen floor-length gowns with a softly gathered empire bodice styled with a high neckline and long puffed sleeves gathered into wide cuffs. Complementing the gowns were contrasting velvet green, detachable jackets with a button-on hood worn over the head. Like the bride, they carried red and white roses with holly, babies' breath and red satin ribbon streamers.

Debbie Wiskow was the bride's personal attendant.

Serving as flower girl was Heather Bauer, a niece of the groom. Her gown, fashioned of the same fabric as the bride's, was designed with a high neckline, long sleeves and a floor-length skirt trimmed with scattered lace roses. She carried a white petite basket filled with roses and holly.

Carrying the rings on a white satin pillow was Shane Chapman of Newfolden, a nephew of the bride. Like the groom, he wore a candlelight white tuxedo with a red rose boutonniere.
